South suburban parks and recreation colorado

The South Suburban Park and Recreation District is a parks and recreation district that contains 41 square miles on the southern edge of the Denver, Colorado Subway area. Established in 1959, the park serves about 155,000 people in six communities and three counties: Bow Mar, Columbine Valley, Littleton, Sheridan, Centenary west of 1-25, Lone Tree west of 1-25, and unincorporated portions of Douglas County, Jefferson County and Arapahoe County. [1] [2] There are more than 100 parks in the neighborhood, including 61 playgrounds and athletics fields. [3] The district includes several community recreation centers, swimming pools, ice arenas, nearly 50 tennis courts and an indoor tennis center, a BMX track, a miniature golf course and batting cages. There are several public golf courses and a disc golf course. There are over 3,000 acres of parks and greenways and nearly 100 miles of trails. Carson Nature Center in Littleton is located in South Platte Park, which includes 880 acres of open space along the South Platte River and the Mary Carter Greenway Trail. Fishing is allowed in the five lakes, and visitors can go by gentle water or by rapids in the river. There is a regional route for cycling and running, as well as miles of natural surface trails. The Carson Nature Center Museum includes live animals, exhibits about the riparian ecosystems and their inhabitants, the South Platte Flood of 1965, which led to the construction of the Chatfield reservoir, and the wildlife of the park. [4] The district manages and maintains the portion of the High Line Canal Trail within its borders. So South Suburban Parks and Recreation saw a way to help by expanding their summer camp program in the fall. I just saw the need and wanted to provide a service to the community that would be beneficial to everyone, said Jessica Skier, family service coordinator for South Suburban Parks and Recreation.School Dayz is currently offered at the Lone Tree Recreation Center. Most students are in the Douglas County School District, but South Suburban is ready to open the Goodson Recreation Center in The Centenary if other schools or districts in the area need to close. Most kids come two or three days a week, and they've let them get on their zoom calls and help with their paper homework, said Skiera.They also have backup equipment and computers, and counselors to help kids with their homework. Those days don't look like a regular school day for participants. First, ages range from kindergarten to seventh grade. At half-time, all the children gather for games on the playground. The little ones are very fun to play with and are very energetic, said Cresthill Middle School student Gavin Solkin.Most of the kids admitted they are eager to return to full-time school. Fifth grade Jake Brehmer said he misses his teacher, and his regular classmates. The skier says there are still vacancies for School Dayz.
