What is a wildlife resource document

On page 27 of the annual I found this confusing statement, at least it's for me. Transferring Wildlife Resources A person may give, leave, receive or hold any kind of legally obtained wildlife resources, or part of the resource, required to have a label or permit attached or protected by a bag or holding limit. IF the wildlife resource is accompanied by a wildlife resource document (WRD) from the person who killed or caught the wildlife resource Then, the Note at the bottom - No wildlife resource document is required when the entire carcass of a deer or antelope is given, or transported by, another person, if the label from the hunter's license remains attached. I understand that if I had my buddy take a cape and head into town for me and kept the carcass, the carcass gets the label and the head needs a WRD since it is separated. But let's say my buddy got into a total doe for me, the first paragraph says a WRD is required, but the Note says NO WRD required? I understand the need for WRD with processors/cooling storage/taxi etc, but this I can't understand. I guess the easiest thing would be to just fill out a WRD, but I'm curious about what I'm missing? Page 2 09-09-2010, 12:20 pm #1 Ten Point Join Date: February 2010 Location: Princeton, TX Hunt In: where are the deer how Danners fit? I'll order a pair of Danner's horns online. I need to know how they fit. I normally where a size 11 shoe and fits well. I recently bought a pair of slip ariat on boots and had to buy size one size 10 to keep my heal from slipping. The pronghorns are lace up and familiar with I'm hesitant about the size i should buy. I go with the non-insulated kind so do I have to go with size 11, or run big? Maybe the size for thicker socks when the temperature drops. I'm just familiar with danner and I hate driving all the way to Bass pro just try them, but this might be my best option. anyone help? 09-09-2010, 12:22 pm #2 Eight Point Join Date: February 2010 Location: Tuscola Texas Hunt In: Buffalo Gap I Love Danner Boots. Both my husband and I wear them and I'm pretty sure they really fit the size. I can adjust the shoelaces when I'm wearing thicker socks. You're going to like them! 09-09-2010, 12:23 pm #3 Ten Point Join Date: Mar 2010 Location: Argyle Hunt In: Anywhere Like Glove ... very light. If you plan to hunt the mountains, they're the best!!! I took mine to B.C. last year. Loved em. Gander Mountain is closer, and they should have them in Sherman, Texas. I bought 10 1/2 that's it usually wear. 09-09-2010, 12:25 pm #4 Eight Point Join Date: June 2010 Location: Arlington, TX Hunt In: Benjamin, TX In my experience Danners run tight, even their ee boots are being narrowed down for me. He's hacking me because I want a pair of Ft. Lewis boots. 09-09-2010, 09-09-2010, PM #5 Ten Point Join Date: February 2010 Location: Princeton, TX Hunt In: where deer are thrx kids... 09-09-2010, 01:33 pm #6 Ten Point Join Date: June 2009 Location: Keller, TX Hunt In: Jacksboro That's all I wore in the army. I love them. I still have three pairs I'm still wearing. Sent from my iPhone using Tapatalk 09-09-2010, 01:45 pm #7 Pope & Young Join Date: Oct 2006 Location: Aledo Hunt In: Shackelford Co. I think they run a little big. For example, I wear a 10 1/2 in a running shoe – my 10 1/2 Pronghorns have plenty of room for a heavy sock and a thin liner sock. If I were to get an uns insulated Danner boot to wear with a thin sock in hot weather I think a 10 would suit me better. 09-09-2010, 2:01 pm #8 Pope & Young Join Date: Sep 2009 Hunt In: Kansas I have a couple for now. I usually wear 13 and order 13. They're a perfect match! 09-09-2010, 02:03 pm #9 Pope & Young Join Date: Sep 2009 Location: Georgetown Hunt In: Kimble County San Glove! They run tight though, I usually wear a b-c width and a D suits me great at Danners. I have 3 pairs and I can't say good enough about em! 09-09-2010, 02:08 pm #10 Ten Point Join Date: December 2009 Location: Atlanta, GA Hunt In: Montana, Wisconsin, Louisiana, SE Texas I think they're running pretty true, maybe a little big... you can wear media to heavy socks with easy... I have five pairs... and love them as much as my custom Russell Mocassin boots... for much less $09-09-2010, 3:58 pm #11 Eight Point Join Date: Jan 2009 Location: Groesbeck Hunt In: Abilene I wear too much an 11 on a tennis shoe and a 10 on a slip to boot. I bought my pronghorns in an 11 and fit great. 09-09-2010, 4:00 pm #12 Pope & Young Join Date: October 2006 Location: Lindale/Tyler Fit great and seems to be true to size. Once I bought mine, I had to get 1/2 size larger 09-09-2010, 4:32 pm #14 Pope & Young Join Date: Jan 2009 Location: Kings Creek Golf Club, Kemp TX Hunt In: USA, Concho County and S.E. Colorado I have the same size as everything else I wear. I think it's a very small size for thicker socks, but I really like them. 09-09-2010, 4:34 pm #15 Ten Point Join Date: February 2010 Location: Princeton, TX Hunt In: where deer are sweet, thanks for all the answers guys. I'll go with the 11, I hope they fit well. 09-09-2010, 4:51 pm #16 Pope & Young Join Date: June Location: Flower Bound, Tx Hunt In: Hill Country Check the cave chance in cabelas if you don't mind the old style (I like it better then the new one with all the plastic on them). I got mine for $110 acouple of weeks ago for 8 not insulated. 09-09-2010, 6:33 pm #17 Ten Point Join Date: Sep 2007 Location: Spring, TX Hunt In: Houston Co. About all I buy are Danner boots for work and hunting.
