How to have great sex yahoo answers

Die Frauen auf dieser Seite sind geile, fremdgehende Freundinnen und Singlem-tter, die die ganze Zeit ficken wollen. Es ist wahrscheinlich, dass of jemanden siehst, den den du kennst. Willigst du ein, ihre Identit-t geheim zu halten? I agree that your not yet ready for sexual activity ... I'm a virgin, but believe me, I know what you need to do before you even think about sex... First of all, if you have a relationship of any kind, you should ask yourself why you want to have sex. Are they hormones? Is that love? Or is it just that your curious what experience will be like? Do it first. Second, sex can be good in many ways! Sex can be very good physically, emotionally, mentally, creatively, psychologically, and it goes on and on... Although, as with anyone good for you, sex can also be very bad for you in many ways. If one person is ready, but the other is not only hurting emotionally, but it will also damage the relationship as a whole because sex is such a powerful activity. Remember, sex is a very memorable phase in life so the first experience with it will be either bad or good. Third, sex is mainly physical when you start because it's so thrilling, but the most important parts: 1. Foreplay-kisses, caresses, beautiful words of appreciation, hugging, etc. Try to be creative and maybe write a little poem before the physical aspects or something they really like. Maybe use some oil and massage each other, bathe together, and so many others... 2. Intimacy (by your definition)Finally, and above all, be patient and don't rush things! I'm sure many feel the adrenaline and won't resist the temptation to just please themselves, but nothing is a bigger turn-off than a selfish lover! It's common sense... So let's break it... There is no sexual guide that you could possibly use because everyone is different, so if you just follow the steps above, you will understand that you should just ask him to tell you somehow when you are doing it right. Even if you lose it before it does it's more time to please some of its needs. 100Join Yahoo Answers and get 100 points today. I recently had one of those nights when your brain decided to over-analyze every decision you made. Sleep eluded me, which was not new, and being the millennium that I am, I was internet browsing on my phone for hours. I checked my email (for the second time) and saw an answer to a question I had posted years ago on Yahoo! Answers. I remembered how entertaining the site was, so I started browsing. The screenshots below are from my late-night phone search in the category Singles and Dating: This is probably the least entertaining of the questions on this list, but every time I read I l l he likes sweet tarts, but... I'm cracking. Maybe it's my experience with guys or remembering how little problems with them are when you're 14, especially compared to now, but this issue is so naively sweet. Here's another girl... WHO WANTS TO GET PREGNANT?! I hadn't kissed anyone when I was her age and she wanted a baby? I read that question and thought, no no no no no no, which makes that answer even better. Especially because it didn't start by telling her how stupid she is, as I wanted. The second question about this screenshot did not surprise me; these are the details of the question that made me wonder if it was an Internet troll. First of all, congratulations to this girl's boyfriend for being one of the few guys on the planet who wants to use a condom. Second, how would the use of a condom count as a sin? The reason some religions do not justify the use of condoms is because it is essentially stopping a pregnancy. Third, she doesn't want to get pregnant. And, fourth, if you are not married and have sex, isn't that already a sin?! Yet another example of why I don't understand religion. I hope you will all understand why this question is hilarious because I still laugh about it. Has anyone else thought of this episode WorkAholics or was it just me? This douchey question really got under my skin. I don't agree at all that thinking a guy is hot means they're hotter than you, it makes no sense. This guy bases his argument on his own arrogant thoughts and if you haven't noticed, only look at him from a male perspective. There are all the different types of beauty and attractiveness; and yes, you have to be physically attracted to someone to have a good relationship, but people become more attractive when you like their personality. I bet most people don't try to find a partner who just thinks they're average, like this guy is arguing. If she's talking about the guy upstairs, then yes. Since we've been at university, I'm sure many of us can relate to his story. It is sad that this question had to be asked, but at least the person who asked this question knew that something was wrong with the habit they noticed. Can anyone please tell this girl that her boyfriend is a stoner? I read all the answers to his question and no one suggested it. You will all say I'm wrong, no, I shouldn't use it for sex. But that's life, everyone lives. Yes it's for many people unfortunately, but only because everyone continues to use others! Claps for the answer downstairs - Read the question, I first became sad and was ready to read a sad story and answer his question with support. Then I read the rest of the question and got angry. In my first year, I met a girl who accused a friend of rape just because he didn't love her on the same level as she did. And this seems to have the same thought process. You can't say, There's this guy I love and want to date. One night... I let him take me home and then say, If a guy doesn't get into a relationship after sleeping with me, isn't that rape? Also, isn't drunk sex always rape...? I feel bad for everyone involved in this story: this girl doesn't know the difference between sex and rape, and the fact that she had this idea from somewhere means that something is wrong with our culture. Not that some of the other issues on this list do not already represent it. Ending this list on a happier note, here's a question I really enjoyed. Part of me would like to be single so I can use some of them. My personal favorites are: I've got enough laundry to do, I'm waiting for your boyfriend/girlfriend to break up with you, and Name a superhero who's married. Exactly. In fact, this list proves that our young people need serious guidance. So the next time you get bored, can't sleep, or just try to procrastinate, go to Yahoo! Answers and give some good advice.
