Fear of God is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding (Proverbs 9:10, NKJV). Think about the text above. It requires, really, two closely related concepts: fear, as in admiration, as in admiring the glory and power of God; and knowledge, as in learning the truth about the character of God. Therefore, wisdom, knowledge, and understanding are rooted in God Himself. This makes sense. After all, God is the source of all existence, the One Who creates and maintains all existence (John 1:1–3; Colonel 1:16, 17). Whatever we learn, whatever we know—caterpillars, caterpillars, supernovae, angels, demons,psek and power in the heavenly places of Ef. 3:10), all of them—they exist only because of God. Therefore, all true knowledge and wisdom and understanding ultimately have their source in the Lord Itself. The scriptures are clear: God is love (1 John 4:8), which explains this quote from Ellen G. White: Love, the foundation of creation and redemption, is the basis of true education. This is made clear in the law which Allah has given as a guidance on life. The first and great commandment is, 'Thou shalt desire your Lord wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and wholeheartedly, and with all your heart.' Luke 10:27. To love Him, the Infinite, the Most A great, with all power, and mind, and heart, means the highest development of every power. It means that overall—body, mind, and soul—the image of God is to be restored. — Education, p. 16. Because the Lord is the source of all true knowledge, all true education, all Christian education should direct our minds to Him and toward His own revelation of Himself. Through nature, through the Written Word, through the revelation of Christ in the Written Word, we have been given everything we need, and then some, to come to a saving relationship with our Lord and, indeed, to love Him with all our hearts and souls. Even nature, so tainted by thousands of years of sin, still speaks, even powerfully, about god's goodness and character when learned from the perspective given to us in the Bible. But the written Word, the Bible, is the perfect standard of truth, the greatest revelation we have about who God is and what He has done and done for humanity. The scriptures, and their message of creation and redemption, must be central to all Christian education. The Apostle John said that Jesus Christ is the Light, which enlightens everyone who comes to (John 1:9). In other words, just as only through Jesus does every human being have life, through Jesus every man receives some divine ray of light, some understanding of truth and transcendent goodness. Yet we are all in a struggle, a great controversy, in which the enemy of the soul works diligently to block us we receive this knowledge. Thus, whatever Christian education is required, it must obviously strive to help students better understand the light God offers us from heaven. If not, what? As Jesus said, What would it benefit a man for, if he would gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? (Mark 8:36). What god is a great education in science, or literature, or economics, or engineering if, in the end, you face a second death in the lake of fire? The answer is obvious, isn't it? Thus, the topic for our lessons this quarter, What does it mean to have a Christian education, and how can we as a church, one way or another, find a way that all of our members can get such an education?
