plays John Parrish in Mortal Kombat II, Mortal Kombat 3, Ultimate Mortal Kombat 3, Mortal Kombat Trilogy, Mortal Kombat Advance, Mortal Kombat 4, and Mortal Kombat Gold. Check out these sites to read more about Jax and other fighters from Mortal Kombat: Facebook Twitter's Pinterest Mortal Kombat's Goro Costume Goro is a four-handed Shokan warrior and he wants to be bald in the middle of his chest so that his hands can move freely and wears tight, black shorts under the red loin with a yin and yang symbol. His hair is styled in a long ponytail. Kenshi (Mortal Kombat) Costume Really Warrior, Kenshi dresses like one as well. He is wearing a black body suit with dark gray armor, a white bucket with a red bandanna and a blood-red cloth covering his eyes. He even has a deadly Sento hand. Mortal Kombat's Ermac Costume Ermac is a rather unique and complex character than any other in the series. No matter how convoluted his back story is, his origin series remains humble. Ermac started with the same ninja costume that characters like Scorpion and Sub Zero wore, but its color is red. Kung Lao of Mortal Kombat Costume comes from the Great Kung Lao and as a former Shaolin monk, kung lao outfit is very reminiscent of its Chinese origin. He is wearing a black Chinese vest, bright blue trousers and a deadly razor-trimmed hat. Shao Kahn of Mortal Kombat Costume's Ultimate Villain game, Shao Kahn even rivals the strength and powers of Raiden, Thunder God. Shao Kahn looks like a fierce warrior with his red back, barbed shoulder pads, barbed bodyguards of arms and legs and a skull mask. Cyrax from Mortal Kombat Costume Cyrax may have started from the wrong side, but he reformed and decided to sideways with the light. Cyrax looks like a robotic version of Scorpion with its enhanced ninja armor. One of the main differences, though, is his full helmet. Some links may be related.
