Custom audio clips, images, videos and emojis can be sent through the messenger. There is also a feature that allows users to send money through the service it offers. This app has huge stickers that appear in the shapes of cute, tiny and high quality images. If you download the app just to experience the hyped fun, instead of the main messaging feature, you can make use of VoIP calls or video chat features. The voice call feature allows us to have the group conversation. In addition, Facebook has placed privacy as the top concerns. That's why developers have created Secret Talk mode to respect the privacy of their users. You can set the mode from the setting and choose a phone to be the default. This feature is called a secret conversation because it is end-to-end encrypted. That is, users can only read on the device they have chosen to send and receive messages. Either Facebook or legitimate authorities are not able to send messages. Secret modes are activated because they are encrypted using the open source signal protocol. This is what makes messages only read by recipients when using the secret conversation atmosphere. In normal messaging mode, it is encrypted to avoid interception with the This feature is also available in the Whatsapp app which is also developed by Facebook. That said, messages can still be read by Facebook or legitimate authorities with a court order. Here are the pros and cons of this app. Pros: He He a free app. Your privacy is secure. Fun app. Cons: There are many additional trivial applications built in. How to use it does not require many procedures and explanations to get started. You don't need to do and have a Facebook account to use this messenger. Basically, it just takes your cell phone numbers. When it comes to setup, you'll be asked to enter your cell phone numbers and give permission to access your contacts. The configuration does not take that long. If you already have a Facebook account, just start the setup by signing in to your existing account. When the required process is done, you are already logged into the application and ready to use it. All messages and contacts will be automatically transferred after confirmation.
