from one municipal hostel to another. • He also refused alcohol consumption and was a vegetarian. • In Vienna, where he began to think that Jews were different from Germans. Off to join the army • 1913 Hitler moved to Munich. In February 1914, he was classified as physically unfit for the Austrian military service. • The First World War began, which he volunteered for the German army. • Joined the 16th Bavarian Reserve Infantry Regiment. Sequel... • During the war he was on the front line as a staff runner • In December 1914 he was awarded the Iron Cross, the second class • In August 1918 he was awarded the Iron Cross, first class (a rare body decoration). Rise to power • Hitler began his political work in Munich between May and June 1919. As a political agent of the army, he joined the small German Workers' Party in Munich (September 1919). • In 1920, he was responsible for party propaganda • He left the army to dedicate his position in the party. • That year, the party was renamed the National Socialist German Workers' Party (Nazi). The continuation... • Outrage at the loss of World War I and the severity of the conditions of peace added to the economic problems and made people's lives miserable. • After World War I, the Imperial Government was replaced and became a Republic. • People were not satisfied with the Republic of Weimar. • There have been several attempts by different violent groups to take over Germany. • In the early 1920s, Hitler's Nazi party's ranks swelled with the Germans who had overcaused the party's bitter hatred of German democratic power, leftist politics and Jews • Left-wing politics as part of a political or social organisation that is in favour of a liberal or radical position. Beer Hall Putsch • In November 1923, after the German government resumed the payment of war damages to Great Britain and France, the Nazis launched The Putsch of the Beer Hall - their first attempt to force a suspension of the German government. • Hitler hoped that his nationalist revolution in Bavaria would spread to the disgruntled German army, which in turn would bring the government to Berlin. • The uprising was immediately suppressed, and Hitler was arrested and sentenced to five years in prison for gross treason. Imprisonment • He spent time dictating his autobiography, Mein Kampf (My Struggle) and working with his oratory skills. • After nine months in prison, pressure from sponsors The Nazi Party forced him to run. On the carpet... • Over the next few years, Hitler and other leading Nazis reorganized their party. • In 1932, they were able to gain a majority in the German Parliament - the Reichstag - by legal means. • As a result of the massive propaganda campaign, the Nazi Party won 37% of the Reichstag seats. Continued... • In the same year, President Paul von Hindenburg defeated Hitler's presidential bid • Hoping to appease him in January 1933. • In August 1934 Hitler declared the Third Reich Chancellor of the Holocaust began with World War II on HorizonSources • • • Luis Enrique Nuñez 2 years ago Slideshare uses cookies to improve functionality and performance, and provide you with appropriate advertising.
