Sam Morgan learned turner was involved in the murder of two soldiers in Afghanistan, but Doyder believes she was framed. Moorecroft also revealed an old acquaintance of Rader's, Candice Dutton, had filed a paternity suit against him, claiming he was the biological father of her 15-year-old daughter Samantha. But she shunned him. Maorcroft was later killed by a killer known as the Hunter who framed Doyder for the murder. Turner is in custody. When two mercenaries arrive, Teder neutralizes them, then gets away with Turner. They went to Morgan's house after they found out he was involved in the conspiracy and again framed Reacher. Reacher and Turner reveal surveillance images of Samantha and suggest she is in danger as she arrives at her Find her parents dead and Samantha hiding. The three trips to Turner's old private school for protection, but discover that Samantha steals credit cards from one of the students. The trio went to New Orleans in search of Daniel Prudhomme, the only witness to the murders for which he was framed. In doing so, Raser admits to Samantha that he could be her father. And learn that Prudhomme is affiliated with Paraeed, a private military organization that is trying to cover up the killings. Ratter contacted Turner's friend, Capt. Anthony Esbin, to move Prudhomme into custody, but they were attacked by killers and Prudhomme was killed while Doyder rescued an injured Essin and discovered the killers were paralysed. Parays' chief executive, General James Harkness, sent Hunter to capture Samantha after he used a stolen credit card to buy food. Ratter, Turner and Espin, acting with information from Prudhomme, intercepted a shipment of weapons that would enter the country, where they confronted Harkness and his men and accused them of corruption. However, Espin found an anti-tank weapon, as announced on the flight list. Before Turner was arrested again, Raster opened one of the two soldiers who discovered harkness selling weapons to the rebels and then smuggling opium into the United States. Spitsin and his men arrested Harkness. The hunter and his men arrested Harkness. The hunter catches Samantha on the roof, but when Samantha arrives, she manages to escape. Reacher fights the Hunter and they have a vicious battle, ending with Reacher breaking the Hunter's arm, leg and neck before throwing his body off the roof. After Harkness's arrest, Turner was reinstated to her command. Sticker promises to stay in touch, then goes to meet Samantha at a diner. He tells Samantha he'il recognize his mother if he knows her, as every woman he's slept with remembers. Samantha reveals that the waitress who served him was actually her mother and that Rader could not be her father as she did not know each other. Then tread so far. Travers notes that Cruise is very different from the character in the books saying critics should outnest him, and says Cruz finds reacher's core in his eyes, with a haunted look that says this loner is still on a mission and still far from home. This is Doyder Lee Child, created in his books. And Cruise makes him proud. Plans for the third film include darker themes, with intentions for future films in the series at a later date, saying the franchise had moved... we're not.
