There are printables for back to school, reading, math and so much more. Be sure to click on the name of each Pete the Cat freebie or idea to see where it came from and to access it. Jump to: Back to school printablesHere are the theme resources, printables and lesson plans to start the school year for kindergarten.source: inspiredbykindergarten.blogspot.comFirst day certificate, School Tour, Coloring Page - This school tour was featured in my first day of school setup snapshots and many asked where it came from. I like to take my class on a tour to keep wigglers under control and practice hall procedures on the first day of school. Pete the Cat Classroom Rules – Ahhh, how do you get what you get and you don't throw a fit has become a regular part of my teaching day. (wink)source: msliretteslearningdetectives.comClass Tour - Get your students to practice their hall procedures while learning the layout of their new school building with this class tour. Mrs. Lirette will have your class track Pete and the following clues to visit the library, office, lunchroom, music, art, and gym.source: firstklass-fever.blogspot.com It's All Good Posters and Playdough Sight Words – There are two freebie Pete the cat printable in this post. Students can make sight words using playdough (remember I'm a big of playdough) or be reminded that life isn't perfect with these It's All Good posters. First Day of School Lim Practice Teach students how to keep the glue bottle under control with this gluing exercise blade. Math resources and freebiesHere are the theme resources, printables and lesson plans for math. You'll find material for: bill and number recognition, subtraction, addition, skip counting, comparing numbers and data. ► Count and number of recognitionsource: littlemissyhypothesis.blogspot.comRoll and Cover – This simple reel and color sheet was an absolute favorite of my students in the practice math zone. We ended up putting one in a slip blade and made it a bump game with linking cubes. So versatile, simple and lovable! Matching buttons – Count 1:1 Mats – Give students the chance to practice their one-to-one counting skills using these counting cards. Pete has lots of colorful jackets to make each one different. Your students can also use playdough to make the right number of buttons! Counting and matching sets - Students can match item sets, numbers, or talord with these button cards. Can be a partner activity, a parent-helper activity or even a quick math center.source: mrsminersmonkeybusiness.comGroovy Ten Frame Mat – Get groovy with Pete as you work with numbers. This ten frame can be used for a variety of things. I love using ten frames during our calendar time, in math zones and making my own! Order 1-10 Pete Puzzles – Put the numbers 1-10 in order with the backgrounds of Pete the Cat to self-correct in these two 10-piece puzzles.source: kinderglynn.blogspot.comTeen Number Float Roll and Read – Get your kinders to identify their teen numbers as a warm-up in your guided math groups. These reel and read writable help make building fluency a little more fun! Clip Cards 1-20 Pete's Shoes – Count 1:1 to 20 and identify the correct number with these clip cards. Students use a clothesline to identify the number. Ten Frame Cards – Pop off Pete's groovy buttons from a ten frame as students practice Pete the Cat subtraction. These ten frame cards can be used for more things too!source: learningwithmrsparker.blogspot.comSubtraction Story Illustration – Have your students create a subtraction story with Pete buttons popping off. These will turn out so cute with your students' illustrations. It's a great way to get them to use images, words, and numbers to show their work. Pete the Cat Color After Pages – These pages would make a great addition to your sub folder because they would be ready in a pinch! Your students can color after speech words and practice writing color words.source: mrsriccaskindergarten.blogspot.comSubtraction Workmat – Students can practice their subtraction sentences along with the help of a workmat by Pete. Take a handful of buttons to make this manipulative and easily differentiated. Math Equation Spinner Game - This Pete the Cat Subtraction Game is awesome! Students draw cards to spaces along Pete's Groovy Buttons colored game board. Use unique giant buttons that play pieces.source: petersons-pad.blogspot.comGroovy Button Subtraction – You'll love having these spreadsheets on ready to practice subtraction or just use the stories throughout the group to practice problem solving. Pete is making everything more appealing. (wink) ► Additionsource: parents.comDoubles Addition Bump Game - What a fun way to practice what 2+2 or 3+3 does with this bump game.source: goldengangkindergarten.blogspot.comDecomposing the Number 4 – Students can use buttons to practice doing 4 in different ways. A little cutting and gluing can go a long way at the beginning of the school year in kindergarten. Additions to 12 Puzzle – Cut and reassemble this Pete the cat puzzle with add totals to 12. Perfect for first class! ► Skip countingPete the Cat Counting by Fives – A simple spreadsheet that can turn into dots of fun if you use bingo daubers to have students practice counting on fives. Perfect for first grade or later in kindergarten (or with more advanced students). Another option is to make blue thumbprints to make it fast! Count on 2's Cut and Paste Worksheet – Count from 2-20 of the deuces with this cut and paste number worksheet.Comparing numbers and dataGreater Even less than math center – Students can compare numbers 1-100 with these cards and equal scans with a little Pete's flavoring. This can be a partner activity, a parent help activity, or even a quick math center. Ask about the Day Graph - Ask the question of the day to generate data for discussion and to analyze as a class. An easy way to build in Pete the Cat Lesson Plans! Language art and reading freebiesHere are the theme resources, printables and lesson plans for teaching reading and linguistic skills. There are emerging readers, resources for teaching color words, sight words and names, phonics and word work, retelling and sequencing. ► Emergent readersPete's Shoes: Easy Reader Freebie – Kindergarten students will feel empowered to read this patterned book using the phrase, Oh no! I see (color)! I like my (color) shoes. Invite students to highlight the call see to help them improve their tracking skills. Emergent Reader – Your young readers will exude confidence with their own Pete book. Simply fold to make this one page booklet a hit with your class.source: plantspress.blogspot.comPete Loves Shoes Emergent Reader – This became one of my class's first favorite emergent reader books. They loved the opportunity to try their color skills because we don't really do too much color in kindergarten (well, I know *gasp*) and were excited to have their own Pete book to take home. Four Groovy Buttons Emergent Reader - Fill in the equations to show how Pete's buttons fell off from Pete the Cat's Groovy Buttons in Booklet. ► Callwords, color words, and nameColor Word Building Cards - Use these color word cards in a variety of ways. Students can place letter tiles on top to build or copy the color words. You can also laminate a tab over the top to make it a control card, or have students cover the letter tiles with scrabble plates instead!source: mrsbremerisk.blogspot.comPlaydough Sight Mats - Use playdough snakes rolled out to form sight words. These can last a long time as a center activity.source: www.creativitytakesflight.comPete BINGO Song – Take a familiar song like BINGO and teach kindergarten students how to spell Pete using this song as a shared reading poem. Create your own for free with sentence strips. Cool Cat Naming Writing - Recognize letters in student names and practice handwriting names with this editable worksheet. ► Phonics and the word workNonsense and Real Word Variety – Get your young readers to get Pete back in the classroom as they work on their beginning reader skills. Students can color the real words one color and nonsense the words another ... makes Pete's buttons very colorful. Letters, Words, Sentence Sort – Give students the chance to show that they understand the difference between a letter, word and sentence with this variety.source: firstgradealacarte.blogspot.comLetter or Sound Fluency Game – Your students will take turns racing to the top by naming letters or producing letter sounds when they draw a card. They can move up the ladder every time they are correct. Help Pete get his button! Beginning Sound Button Bingo - Snag a few buttons from your math manipulative and use them as bingo chips in this small group reading game. ► Retelling and sequencing source: thegroovyteacher.blogspot.jpFirst, Next, Then Sequencing – If you like to do a sequencing activity and want a follow-up sheet, or a sheet that students can use to follow along then this first, next, last worksheet may just be the ticket! Rockin' Buttons Retelling – Each of your students can wear a band of Velcro to have their own buttons while retelling the story. They're going to love it! ► Reading skillssource: theimaginationnook.blogspot.comDescribing Anchor Chart – Working on adjectives by describing the famous blue cat as a class makes your Pete the Cat lesson plans complete. Venn Diagram – Students can compare and contrast with the words the same and different in this simple venn chart. They could draw or use words to compare themselves to Pete the Cat.source: funforfirst.blogspot.comPete the Cat Activity Packet – Students can rewrite their favorite part of the story, do a word search (first/second grade), and practice using adjectives.source: doodlebugsteaching.blogspot.comLove My Shoes Book – Designed for first graders, students can get meaning writing practices in. Let them create a book or create their own text for more advanced writers and color your shoes to match their sentences. Predictably Cut and Paste - Get some practice or send this home as homework. Student cut and paste the predictable text, use a color word cue and illustrate. This would be perfect to introduce after teaching the guided drawing how to! Another idea is to use this for the cleanup of students in late autumn who need 1:1 practice and read left to right (or practice with words right up).source: littlemissyhypothesis.blogspot.comLabel Pete the Cat – Cut and paste the cat parts to tag Pete the cat with nose, ears, whiskers, paws and tail.source: 3teacherchicks.blogspot.comMaking Mental pictures - Here's a quick lesson you can do before you read any book! Have students create their own mental image of the character and compare it after reading. Craft activitiesCreate crafts and drawing activities to expand your favorite Pete the Cat book. Here are the favorites I've found. Pete Mask – Create DIY Pete the Cat masks. Draw a cat face shape free hand and add popsicle sticks with your eyes cut out. Pete the Cat Big Book for Kindergarten – Add your own class' photos to make a great book that your students will want to read again and again.source: Drawing Art Project – you'll find this easier than you thought and the results are so sweet. Construction Paper Headband – Simple shapes on royal blue construction paper make the cutest Pete cat headband. Rockin in My School Craftivity Shoes – You don't need a template for this one! Take some construction paper and model how to make a Pete the cat with shapes. Put the writing paper below to make it a craftivity display with writing.source: mrschmelzer.blogspot.comCool Cat Class Book – Oh, how I love making books with my entire class – especially at the beginning of the school year! This smart and cute class book will have your entire class involved writing what else Pete could have stepped in and read it over and over again. Wouldn't it be so cute to record your class singing this and putting it in your listening center? Complete with a front cover ready to print. (Inspired by originals from madefor1stgrade) Pin the Shoe - Do you need a quick activity or something fun to round out the day? Turn this simple pin shoe on Peter's activity into a sight word game. Type 6 sight words on shoe templates and print enough copies for each child in your class to get a shoe. Teams are formed by students with the same watch words and they can cheer on each other – the first team to get their watch word in the right place wins.source: aspoontuloflearning.blogspot.comPete the Cat Craft – With a few simple shapes and a few tennis shoes, your students can create their own blue cat. The template for cutting and pasting is included in this larremoreteachertips.blogspot.comPete the Cat Pattern – If your class is in Pete buttons, then this pattern can be a good fit for your students. It would look great accompanying a hall way display of writing. How to draw Pete the cat – Here are the steps to draw this famous cat.source: coynescrazyinclassroom.blogspot.comCut and Paste Pete – This is an ideal preschool cut and paste activity. This cat is a great 3D version which end up just being ultra smart. Can also be a good placard for a student's desk on a back to school evening. Teacher printablesHere are classroom printables to put in the classroom or round out your teacher stash of all-things-Pete.source: mrswardingham.blogspot.comCalendar Card – Want to change up your calendar a month to add some Pete flavor?
