Or buy a 13-inch MacBook Pro or MacBook Air, or perhaps a 16-inch MacBook Pro. No matter the Mac of choice, there are a few Mac apps out there They should be one of the first apps to download and install on your new computer right away and it's so good! Here are some of our favorites that we can't live without. Dropbox Source: iMore Dropbox is a cloud storage service that makes it easy to back up important documents, files, photos, videos, and other things. While it's in Dropbox, it can be accessed from other devices as long as you sign in to the same account. All changes to the file are automatically saved, but you can also check the Web interface for an earlier version if necessary. Everything you upload to Dropbox is encrypted and there's also the ability to collaborate to easily share files with other users. One thing I absolutely like about Dropbox is how I integrate with almost every other application I need, so my stuff can be accessed anywhere, anywhere. The free account gives you 2GB for free (and the opportunity to get more space with referrals), but they have plans to start at about $11.99 for 2TB. Online backup of all files that are integrated into almost any app. Source: iMore I'm on Twitter almost all day, every day. The app of my choice is tweetbot from Tapbots. The reason I use Tweetbot across all other Twitter applications is because I love the interface, because it's easy to use, it offers a lot of powerful features. You can quickly search for topics of interest, filter and mute hashtags, quickly search for annoying people temporarily (or permanently, depending on you), create lists, and support for multi-column views. I've used Tweetbot on my iOS and Mac devices for years - there are no other apps I would rather use. You also don't see promotional ads Tweets. Tweetbot has a lot of powerful features to create the best Twitter apps on your Mac. For my alternative, use Google Chrome. it syncs with your Google account, numerous plugins and extensions to enhance your browser experience, and it works better with certain Google apps than Safari, like Meet. Chrome is a good alternative browser that syncs with your Google account and has tons of plugins and extensions. Source: iMore I go a lot every day, so my schedule gets really busy at times. DaisyDisk makes it easy to visualize the contents of your hard drive and allows you to delete useless files directly through DaisyDisk's intuitive drag-and-drop interface. Bartender is an application that helps you clean up your menu bar by putting unwanted icons into some sort of sub-menubar. Bartender allows you to rearrange icons into more appropriate orders and choose what appears in the main menu bar and hide them in the secondary menu bar. Or, because it's an unnecessary item, you can completely hide some items. Organize the menu bar by reordering and hiding the app menu bar icon that you see fit.
