Tricks and tips to earn to die 2012: Part 2 in order to be a hero for this game, you must focus on some special and useful points. These points are the following: using the accelerometer constantly is crucial. When you slow down your car, you will have the risk of getting over the game. With acceleration, you can keep your car moving around the track. Remember that you can use the accelerometer by pressing an arrow up. As you can guess, driving over hills is not easy. Therefore, you should use the ability to push if you drive up a hill. You can also use this ability if you come across a bump by pressing either X or Ctrl keys. Keep in mind that at some point you will need a gun. Also, when you get the money, you should upgrade your gun and buy ammunition for it. Acceleration is important but not every time. You don't need to use accelerometer when racing down a hill. The reason for this is the physics game can carry you while racing down a hill. In order to get the best ride, you must have the best acceleration and speed. For all of these, you must upgrade your transmission and engine stats. Your focus should be driving much further rather than defeating more zombies. During each level, you will see lost barriers and obstacles. If you see a barrier, you should slow down a little bit. When you push through the barrier up to Har, you will face with the risk of getting over the game. In order to travel much further, you must constantly upgrade your fuel tank. →You may also love...
