University yearsTim Duncan university years have been filled with success in basketball. Just before joining Wake Forest University, the Demon Deacons had lost one of its key players, Rodney Rogers, to the NBA Draft. During the 1993-94 season, Tim Duncan's head coach, Odom, was forced to name him a key athlete after Makhtar N'Diaye's transfer to Michigan. In his first game with the Demonic Deacons, Theodore struggled a lot and did not score. He quickly adjusted and became an invaluable member of the Demon Deacons.Image: instagram.com, @timothyduncan_21Source: InstagramWhat made Tim Duncan so good? Well, he used a simple strategy that involved the combination of different low-post movements, robust defense, and mid-range banking shots. In 1994, he was so good that he was chosen to represent the United States of America at the Goodwill Games. He was a stoic athlete who was nicknamed Mr. Spock by his peers. Although he was very dedicated to this basketball team, Theodore also paid a lot of attention to his school work. He was determined to fulfill the promise he had made to his mother on his deathbed. During the 1994-95 NCAA season, he was named as one of the eligible candidates to join the NBS alongside Jerry Stackhouse, Joe Smith and Rasheed Wallace. Jerry West, then general manager of the Los Angeles Lakers, suggested Theodore as beck's pick for the 1995 NBA Draft. However, the athlete declined the offer, and categorically stated that he would not join the NBA before graduating from college as he promised his late mother. He spent a lot of money when he made that decision. He continued to play for the Demon Deacons and led his team to the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) championship game. The team faced North Carolina's Tar Heels, which was led by Rasheed Wallace. Demon Deacons won. The next game was against Oklahoma State, and the basketball player scored 12 points. He also had eight blocks and 22 rebounds. Nevertheless, his team lost 71-66. At the end of the season, he averaged 16.8 points and was named Defensive Player of the Year. It also received votes on the CCA's first team that year and over the next two years. During the 1995-96 NCAA season, Theodore became the team leader after Childress graduated the previous season. Under his leadership, the team has won all but four games throughout the ACC season. He then caught the flu, so that his team The Final Four. He averaged 19.1 points during the season and was named ACC Defensive Player of the Year and also won his first-ever ACC Player of the Year award. During the 1996-97 NCAA season, Loren Woods joined Demon Deacons and eased theodore's pressure on the team. The duo led the other members to all the wins in the first 13 games. Unfortunately, the team did not win the acc title. At the end of the season, Tim Duncan averaged 20.8 points, 3.2 assists and 14.7 rebounds per game, and was named Defensive Player of the Year for the third time. Overall, the athlete led his team to a 97-31 record in college careers. Image: facebook.com, @SkySportSource: FacebookProfessional CareerAfter graduating from college, the athlete was eligible for the 1997 NBA Draft. He won the NBA Rookie of the Year award after the San Antonio Spurs selected him as the first overall pick in the draft. The athlete joined the team after a 20-62 record in the 1996-97 season. Spurs best athlete David Robinson worked closely with Theodore, and the duo became known as Twin Towers, who were excellent defenders. In his second game, he faced and opposed multiple champion Dennis Rodman, and he made 22 rebounds. He was then elected to the 1998 NBA All-Star Game. In the next game of the group, he faced and pitted power forward Charles Barkley against the Houston Rockets, and Barkley later admitted that he was impressed by Theodore. In his rookie season, he played in 82 regular-season games and averaged 21.1 points, 2.7 assists, 11.9 rebounds and 2.5 blocks. These statistics earned him the honors all-NBA First Team, he became the NBA rookie of the year and was also elected to the NBA All-Defensive Second Team.The Spurs then lost to Utah Jazz in the 1998 NBA playoffs after Theodore had a tough start in tournaments. In the 1998-99 lockout-shortened season, the Twin Towers did their best and, in the end, the San Antonio Spurs ended the season with a 31-5 victory. In the 1999 NBA playoffs, the Spurs defeated the Minnesota Timberwolves, Portland Trail Blazers, Los Angeles Lakers and Cinderella Story Kicks. Their statistics have left many people impressed. In the following season, his performance was stellar. However, Theodore suffered a meniscus injury shortly thereafter, so he did not participate in the postseason tournaments. As a result, his team was eliminated from the NBA playoffs in 2000 after losing to the Phoenix Suns. He returned the following season with a ad ardent to success, and he was named to the All-NBA and All-Defensive First Teams. Unfortunately, the San Antonio Spurs lost to the Lakers in the 2001 NBA playoffs. After that loss, he worked hard to ensure that his team performed better in subsequent seasons. Leadership RoleRight prior to the start of the 2003-2004 season, Captain David David retired, and Theodore became the leader of the Spurs. He has worked well with other key people such as Rasho Nesterovic, Bruce Bowen and Gin-bili. At first he was reluctant to take over from Robinson, but he eventually became a strong and reliable leader. Image: instagram.com, @overtime_basketSource: InstagramIn the Western Conference semifinals, the San Antonio Spurs team beat the Lakers 4-2 after putting together a spirited fight. This defeat forced the captain and other team members to re-assert themselves for the 2004-2005 season. The Spurs have done much better this season and earned a spot in the 2005 NBA Finals against the Detroit Pistons. After a tough fight, the Spurs beat the Pistons, and the captain won the NBA Finals MVP Award for the third time. In the 2005-2006 season, Theodore performed poorly after suffering from plantar fasciitis. He, however, bounced back in the 2006 NBA playoffs against the Dallas Mavericks and set up a very tough fight. Despite his efforts, his team lost to the Mavericks. The following season, he averaged 20.0 points, 3.4 assists, 10.6 rebounds and 2.4 blocks per game. These statistics have generated a great deal of praise and respect for Theodore. He continued to play on the same team for many years to come. Over the years, there have been many victories and defeats. Fifth Championship On December 2, 2013, Theodore became the oldest athlete in NBA history to record a 20-20 game. He finished with 23 points and 21 rebounds in the game against the Atlanta Hawks. In the 2013-14 regular season, the Spurs recorded 62 wins. After the victory, he was named the second player in history to win a championship in three different decades. The other player to hold such a record is John Salley.An end of playing On June 23, 2014, Theodore decided to exercise his $10.3 million player option for next season. He scored his 25,000th point in a game against the Los Angeles Lakers in which the Spurs won. This milestone made him the 19th person in NBA history to achieve such a feat. He continued to set impressive records and played his 1330th game against the Phoenix Suns. On May 20 of the same year, he was named the second defensive team for the seventh time. On July 9, 2015, he signed a two-year contract with the Spurs. He continued to make impressive statistics in his games. In December of that year, he missed three games because of knee soreness. He returned on January 2, 2016 in a game against the Houston Rockets. It was the first time in his career not to score anything at the end of the game. Four more days He scored 18 points in a game against the Utah Jazz in which the Spurs won. Image: instagram.com, @3rquero_3sportivoSource: InstagramTheodore then missed eight games because of knee soreness, but returned to the basketball court on February 10. As before, he continued his fans and followers with an impressive personal performance. On June 28, 2016, he signed a $5.6 million contract for the 2016-17 season. However, he announced on July 11, 2016 that he would retire from the NBA after 19 years. On December 18, 2016, the San Antonio Spurs officially retired the No. 21 jersey in a game that took place after a game. He became the eighth Spurs member to retire his jersey. Did he play for the U.S. national team? In 1998, Theodore was selected to join the U.S. national team to represent the country at the World Basketball Championship. However, it wasn't because of the NBA lockout, so his team was replaced by another. In 1999, he was on the Olympic qualifying team's list. Although he qualified for the 2000 Sydney Olympics, a knee injury prevented him from playing. In 2003, he was part of the U.S. team at the 2004 Summer Olympics. The group lost three games and came home with a bronze medal. Coaching careerThe former basketball player is currently an assistant coach on the team for which he played.
