The 71st Annual Emmy Awards will take place on Sunday, September 22, at the Microsoft Theater in Los Angeles, and last year's best tv show and performance ceremony will be broadcast on the Fox network. But what if you're not near the TV on the biggest night in the industry? Can you watch the 2019 Emmys online? Emmy Awards] Photograph: Kevork Djansezian/Getty Images) From the red carpet to parties, as they have done for more than two decades, E! The network will begin their 2019 Emmy coverage with their countdown to the red carpet show, which starts at 4:30 p.m. Eastern (3:30 p.m. Central, 1:30 p.m. on the West Coast). The entertainment cable network will also include interviews with the TV's biggest stars as they arrive at the Microsoft Theater starting at 6:00pm Eastern Standard Time (5:00pm Central, 3:00 pm Pacific) live from the red carpet. After the 2019 Emmys air on Fox, starting at 8pm Eastern (7pm Central, 5pm Pacific), Network After Party: The 2019 Emmy Awards will wrap up the evening at 11pm Eastern. If you can't watch all the stars walk the red carpet in their designer dresses and tuxedos on TV, then you can download E! app to see all their Emmy coverage with hosts Giuliana Rancic and Jason Kennedy. Nightly Pop hosts Morgan Stewart, Nina Parker, and Hunter March and Rundown host Erin Lim will host the after-party. For the actual Emmy broadcast, cable subscribers can watch the ceremony online through the Fox.com or on the fox NOW app. And, for those who've cut the cord, streaming services such as YouTube TV, Hulu with Live TV, DirecTV Now, FuboTV, SlingTV, and PlayStation Vue will also give you access to the live ceremony. Do you have a newsletter filled out? If you really want a geek out (like me) at all this year's Emmys, the best printed Emmy vote in the major categories comes from Vanity Fair. I've filled out two already - one for who I think should win, and one for who I believe will actually win. The 2019 Emmys may end up with a four-hour promotion for HBO programming, and one of the most hotly debated topics going into the ceremony is about the outstanding drama series category. While many believe that Game of Thrones is the lock to win the trophy in season eight and last, others think that a newcomer like the succession of HBO or BBC America's Murder Eve could spoil the parting of the HBO series. Or maybe AMC better call Saul, perhaps finally get the recognition she deserves. Game of Thrones has scored a whopping 32 nominations this year and it has already won 10 Emmys at the Creative Arts Emmys. The show is on track to batter a record 13 wins per show in one year, which is currently hosted by HBO's John In addition to GoT, HBO has two serious contenders in the standout comedy series series at the 2019 Emmys - Barry and Veep. In addition, it is expected that the premium cable channel will dominate the category of limited series with Chernobyl. The acting category is an extremely competitive absolute guarantee in most people's minds is that Julia Louis-Dreyfus will take home her seventh straight Emmy for the role of Selina Meyer in Veep. However, she has some serious competition in the category at the 2019 Emmys, including last year's winner Rachel Brosnahan of Marvelous Mrs. Maisel. Also nominated are comedy legend Katherine O'Hara from the cult comedy Scream Shitt, Natasha Lyonne from Russian Doll, Christina Applegate of Dead To Me and Phoebe Waller-Bridge of Fleabag. The main actress in the drama series category is loaded with talent - Sandra O (Killing Eve), Emilia Clarke (Game of Thrones), Viola Davis (How to Get Away with Murder), Jodie Comer (Murder Eve), Laura Linney (Ozark), Robin Wright (House of Cards), and Mandy Moore (This Is Us). The buzz is that the 2019 Emmy will go to Sandra O.I. If she wins, she will be the first Asian-American to win the category. On the men's side, this could finally be the year for better call Sol stars. Bob Odenkirk is the favorite in the outstanding lead actor in the drama series category for his work as Jimmy McGill, AKA Saul Goodman. And, in the Supporting Actor category, this will hopefully be the year of Jonathan Banks to win for the role of Mike Hermantraut. There are so many great races in different categories this year, it will be an amazing night for television. Catch the 2019 Emmys either online or on Fox. Source: Thinkstock You probably already know that DVDs and Blu-ray drives are slowly but surely going the way of VHS tapes as people increasingly switch to online services to buy, rent and watch movies. While some may mourn the loss of material in our daily lives, online movie viewing eliminates the problem of losing or damaging fragile discs and makes movies available on different platforms, so you can watch movies you have anywhere, anytime, without having to remember to grab your DVDs. Of course, illegal downloading and streaming are very popular, but it deprives many people who have worked to make the film the compensation they deserve for their blood, sweat and tears. Plus the available options can often be of poor quality and you run the risk of infecting your computer or mobile device with a virus if you don't know what you're doing. Here's a guide to various legal ways to watch movies online for those not familiar with the process who want to break out of the scratched-DVD hell. Yes, it will cost you a little money, but there are many advantages about traditional DVDs and illegal downloads. Streaming services There's a litany of options for viewing content online. One of the most Methods uses online streaming services like Netflix, Hulu Plus, or Amazon Prime Instant Video. These services charge either a monthly or annual fee and give you access to tons of content, although there is always a chance that the particular movie you are looking for will not be on any streaming service you have. The content of these services have access to always changes as they make new deals, so you're not stuck with the same options month after month. The aforementioned services are also excellently called for watching TV and have started doing their own original shows to compete in the television market. Many of these shows, like Netflix's House of Cards and Orange is the New Black, have received rave reviews. There are several limited options for online streaming that are legal and free. Crackle is a website that offers movies and TV shows for free streaming, but this ad is supported and you end up seeing about as many commercials as you would watch programming on cable. The amount of crackle content also offers a slim choice than subscription services, since the site doesn't have the financial muscle to make giant purchases of content like big sites, so it can be harder to find your favorite movie. The downside of an online streaming service is that you are at the mercy of the content that the company has to offer; You can't just choose any movie under the sun and are guaranteed to be able to watch it. You also don't own movies, so if Netflix gets rid of your favorite movie you'll find yourself unable to watch it. Download One of the ways to own movies and watch them online is to download them. Whether you're a fan of Google or Apple, iTunes and the Google Play store offer movies to purchase through those accounts that become your own. New releases cost about $20; At about the same price the DVD will cost, although a digital copy cannot be lost or damaged. Of course, buying individual titles to own is more expensive than paying a small fee for a streaming service and gaining access to piles of content. iTunes and Google Play also offer movies to rent at a lower price. Rent gives you the opportunity to watch the movie once in a 30-day period and 24 hours to finish it after you clicked to play. These options are also great for switching between devices, as iTunes and Google Play will remember where you are in the movie if you're interrupted and want to switch from YOUR TV to tablet or smartphone. Amazon offers movies to buy or rent at the same prices as Apple and Google, and you don't need a Prime membership to access this service. Whether you prefer to own or stream movies, watching movies online is the way to go if you're tired of dealing with DVDs and Blu-ray There are many safe, legal options that don't cost too much, and allow you to look at all your devices on your yours Check out the Entertainment Cheat sheet on Facebook! More from Entertainment Cheat Sheet: More people than ever today are cutting the cable cord thanks to the convenience of streaming services. But if you're a true bargain hunter, you don't want to pay those fast-growing fees either. Fortunately, there are many places to watch movies for free online. Unfortunately, not all of them are legal or safe. To help you stay up to the law and protect your privacy, we've compiled a list of some of the most trusted, legal websites that allow you to watch movies online without spending a dime. Here's our list of the best places to go for a free (and safe) streaming fix. Additional guides to Sony Crackle, Crackle, or Crackle Plus After being known simply as Crackle, this free streaming site has gone through almost as many name changes as Diddy. Originally controlled by Sony, it is now a joint venture between Sony and Chicken Soup for Soul Entertainment (CSS). This partnership created a new entity called Crackle Plus, and it was thought that it would also become the name of the streaming service too. However, one look at the site and it's clear that simplicity has won: It's just called Crackle. Whatever you call it, the service includes content from six ad-supported CSS streaming services (Popcornflix, Popcornflix Kids, Popcornflix Comedy, Frightpix, Espa'olflix and Truli), as well as some Sony movies and TV shows. You'll find both box office and critical hits such as The Big Short, True Grit, zodiac and Almost Famous, as well as some high-quality low-budget hits such as Election, Bernie, Coneheads and Train to Busan. In addition, there is a generous small number of obscure but interesting B-movies. Crackle is a great resource, although constant breaks from advertisers can age pretty quickly. The service is offered in 21 countries, but has closed its Canadian, Latin American and Australian offerings. IMDb TV New for this roundup is Amazon-owned IMDb TV (formerly known as Freedive). It has free, ad-supported TV shows and movies. In February 2020, the service acquired the rights to more than 20 Disney-owned TV series, including Lost, Desperate Housewives, Malcolm in the Middle and My So-Called Life. It is also the only site that lets you stream Lost and Malcolm in the middle for free. Other television shows in its relatively small library include Psycho, White Collar, 3rd Rock from the Sun, and Schitt's Creek. It has a number of hit films, including Big Fish, Hot Rod, Keith Ryder, Memento, The Illusionist, and many other award winners and cult classics. You can watch IMDb TV on the Internet, Amazon Fire Devices and Apple TV, and through the Amazon Prime app that you can find on many tablets and phones. IMDb TV is only for the US at the moment, although European expansion is in the works. Принадлежащий Walmart Walmart May be better known for its subscription streaming service, but the platform also has an impressive and free content section with ad support. Titles such as Goon, Teacher of the Year, and Boondock Saints are good examples of what you will find. Vudu also has a Theatre House option allowing you to watch new movies that are in theaters or have not yet arrived on DVD for the price. If you take a cruise through a selection of 4K/HDR site titles, there are even one or two free viewing options. You'll still need a Vudu account, but you can create it for free. The Vudu app is already supported by a variety of platforms including Roku, Apple TV, game consoles and more. In addition, there is an app for most mobile devices. Vudu is only available in the United States. How it's for a good thing: Sign up for a library card and get free downloads or movie streams, without advertising at all. It's a case of when you use Hoopla, a digital media streaming platform that has partnered with local libraries to allow members to access borrowed content online. It's similar to OverDrive, but with more than just e-books and audiobooks. Having any title will depend on your location and the number of copies available for download, but we found some surprisingly decent movies when we checked in January 2021. Streaming will work on any device with a browser, while downloads require a Hoopla app on a mobile device. Not every library currently supports Hoopla, so make sure you ask. Until now, libraries in the U.S. and Canada have access to Hoopla. YouTube This one is not the brain. Everyone knows YouTube is the largest video hosting online and you probably already use the site for silly cat videos and footage of people getting hit with exercise balls. But YouTube has a significant collection of feature films on its free level as well. Sure, most of them are B-movie novelties, but there are a few quality movies lurking out there. In addition to free, Google-curated movies, there are thousands of movies on the site that won't appear unless you're looking directly for them. If you're looking for a specific name, especially older, it's worth looking a quick look at YouTube to see if someone has posted it. They are not always downloaded by the film's rights holders, and many of them are divided into episodes and playlists, but as they say, beggars cannot be chosen. Finding free movies on YouTube has become more difficult recently, as more rights holders prefer to offer their movies for rent through the service, and YouTube also has subscription levels like YouTube Premium and its live TV streaming service, YouTube TV. However, you will find plenty to watch, especially if your standards too high in terms of flow quality. Vimeo YouTube may be the largest video hosting site, but Vimeo is probably likely Yes, these are battle words, but Vimeo has the strength to support them. The site has a clean layout, devoid of advertising and benefits from an active user community that is widely considered more professional and constructive than YouTube. There are many great original short and feature films coming out of this community. Vimeo also has an on-demand section where users can purchase feature films and TV shows. Most of them are independently produced by Vimeo users, but some offers are made by major studios as well. Either way, Vimeo is a great place to find free, high quality movies. The Roku Channel When Roku originally launched its free, ad-supported Roku channel, it wasn't technically eligible for this roundup because you had to have one of the company's media streaming devices to see it. Roku devices certainly won't break the bank, but they're not free. Now, however, the Roku channel is available to everyone, via the Internet as well as through the company's free apps for iOS and Android. The service boasts more than 10,000 titles to choose from, including old favourites such as Sisterhood Travel Pants and Donnie Darko, as well as a number of new and old TV series, from The Dick Van Dyke Show and The Enchanted to The Bachelor. You will need to create a free Roku account before you can watch, but it's a quick and painless process. If you ever decide to expand your choices, The Roku Channel is now home to several premium subscription options, including Showtime, Epix and Starz. The Roku channel is available in the United States and Canada. Plex Free Movies and TV shows Plex is best known as a versatile and easy way to manage and watch your private collection of movies, music, photos and other media. However, in 2019, the company launched its own free streaming service with advertising support with a collection of films and TV shows from such studios as MGM, Warner, Lionsgate and Legendary. It is available worldwide, although the choice of name will vary greatly depending on the region. You can access a collection of movies and shows from your browser, or on any of the huge number of devices that support Plex client software like Apple TV, Roku, smart TVs, etc. All you need is a free Plex account and you're good to go. For those who already use Plex as a media server, free ad-supported options can be added to existing server categories, making the process completely seamless. Pluto TV Although it may not be as well known as the above services, Pluto TV still deserves your attention. Not only is it hosting free movies on demand, but it's also a free live TV streaming service, content curated from all over the Internet. While the channels vary greatly, we focus here on the movies. Pluto TV currently has several live movie channels, perfect if you want to watch something but don't know that. There's the two shared film channels, and the rest focused on specific genres or categories, including Action Movies, Movie Fury, Horror 24/7, Classic Movies, Black Cinema, Gravitas Films, and Asylum. The service operates in the United States, as well as in many international locations. The Pluto TV on-demand film library is relatively small and often rotates, but offers the same variety as its live film channels. It is also available on a ton of devices in addition to your computer, including Apple TV, Amazon Fire TV, Roku devices and more. To learn more about Pluto TV, watch our full guide to service. Tubi TV Another up and wishing, Tubi is very similar to Sony Crackle, in that it offers both free movies and TV episodes. No matter what device you use, the odds are pretty good that you'll be able to watch Tubi as it's available on Android, iOS, Roku, Apple TV, Amazon Fire TV, Samsung Smart TVs, Sony Smart TVs, PlayStation 4, Xbox One, and online. As is the case with the vast majority of services on this list, you will need to watch a few commercials, but this is what keeps the service free. Tubi has content from over 200 partners, including NBCUniversal and Warner Bros., which brings with it nearly 400 classic titles such as Hell's Kitchen, Unsolved Mysteries, 3rd Rock from the Sun, and the real McCoy's, and the original version of 21 Jump Street. Hit movies like Starship Troopers and Grease are, as well as cult classics like Blue Streak, Once Upon a Time in Mexico, and Goon. If you use this service in addition to Netflix rather than replacing it, not on the Netflix section will help you find new and interesting movies to watch. Independent and documentaries Kanopy Just like Hoopla, Kanopy is not only free to use, but it is also commercially free if you have a library card. Originally founded in 2008 in Australia as an educational tool, Kanopy now offers a library of more than 30,000 films through its partnerships with more than 200 libraries. There is a lot of focus on independent free films and documentaries (the company even has access to many recent films from the A24 catalog), but you'll find all kinds of movies available, and even more are on the way thanks to a deal that will see director Fred Wiseman's entire catalog fit to serve. Kanopy is available internationally, but the content can vary depending on the location. Best Documentaries Love Documentaries? So are we. You know what they're saying, really weird than fiction. Aptytly titled Top Documentaries, Hands Down, the best site for documentaries. Not every choice of film is long, but a good documentary doesn't have to be long -- some of the best under the 60-minute mark. With a library of more than 3,000 movies, the site also has a simple and simple layout and categorizes all of its movies based on the subject, making it easy Find what you are interested in right away. Content is not hosted on the site, but rather curated and embedded from other sites such as YouTube, Vimeo, Daily Motion, etc. It is available internationally, but not all content will work in all locations. Sources for classic movies Archive.org chances you are reading this article because you are looking for a place to watch recently released movies online. While there is nothing wrong with that you definitely shouldn't ignore all the fantastic old movies the internet has to offer. Archive.org offers a real treasure trove of old movies that you've probably never heard of, as well as a handful of what you'll learn. The archive - which is also home to the famous Walkback machine, which shows you how the internet used to be - has dumb movies, black and white horror movies, obscure sci-fi movies, and an assortment of other movies. They may not have all the CGI fantasies we've all grown so accustomed to, but sometimes a throwback is a great way to mix things up. Open Culture Open Culture is designed for your one-stop shop for all things free and cultural. The site offers hundreds of free online classes for registration, thousands of free e-books to read, and hours on hours of lectures from prominent figures such as Carl Sagan and Leonard Bernstein. It also offers a ton of free movies. Here you'll find everything from silent movies and Hitchcock-helmet projects to westerns and movie noir. The site even houses some early shorts legends like quentin Tarantino and Stanley Kubrick. Open culture can be hard to navigate, but with over 1000 free movies available, it's definitely worth a slog. Retrovision Retrovision is another public domain site that features hundreds of classic movies from several different eras. The word classic may be for interpretation - there are some movies here that were made as recently as last year, and not all Retrovision movies are high-quality - but there are still plenty of good things here. Retrovision is also a well thought out site that allows users to filter through the genre. This is not limited to feature films, either, as there is a robust collection of classic TV shows to choose from. Shocker Internet Drive-In Shocker Internet Drive-In is a bit of a niche, and its website looks like it was made in the 90s, but it's a great resource. The site is updated weekly with featured horror classics, which are then available for free download as WMV files on the Snack Bar website. The site has a fun little bang from the past, with weekly screenings framed in a digital drive. Users can also purchase DVD copies of any movie on the website for as little as $3. If you miss the old days on the internet when it was more like the Wild West, and everything was less polished, it is for you. You. The downside of so many different services available is that if you have a movie in mind but don't know where to watch it, you have many different catalogs to wade through in the hope of finding it. Fortunately, as long as you have a smartphone, you probably have access to a tool that can help you. The Apple TV app, which is available on iOS as well as on several other platforms, including Apple TV, Roku, Amazon Fire TV, as well as LG and Samsung smart TVs, allows you to search in more than 50 different streaming services. For Android users, the Google Play Movies and TV app offers similar functionality, although the number of connected services is smaller. Roku devices now have a Featured Free section that offers a curated selection of the best free content on the platform, whether you have a specific channel or not. This is in addition to the existing cross-search service, although most of what you find will either be available for purchase or rent or will be on a service that requires a subscription. Either way, while these tools can't guarantee that you'll find a way to watch what you're looking for for free, they can be a good place to start. Editors' recommendations
