Praise for Clifton Chronicle 'The ability to tell a story is a great - and extraordinary - gift . . . [It] is not something that can be taught or purchased. Do you have it or you don't have... Jeffrey Archer is, first and foremost, a storyteller Erica Wagner, the Times'I was completely addicted. It was a fun read to the point of gabsord, Anthony Horowitz, The Daily Telegraph's cracker of reading. And quite undeniable... It's quite heartbreaking. . . . And just as you're sitting at the edge of your seat expecting all the loose ends to be tied to a neat little arch, Archer drops a bombshell in the final paragraph of the final episode, Jerry Hayes, Spector, touched me and became fascinated by this story... I'm not going to ruin it for you by uncovering any more. Or the commercial twist, which is the Daily Mail I enjoyed the book and admired both its rhythm and the imaginary ending of The Cliff Hanger, The Sunday Express is a fictional artist: its good characters are perfect, its evils have no redeeming qualities . Jeffrey Archer has the odd gift denied to many who think they're more serious writers. He can tell a story, and he does so with such conviction, Alan Massey, the Scot Jeffrey Archer, whose novels and short stories include Kane and Abel, a maternity prisoner and a cat or nine Topped bestseller lists worldwide, with sales of over 275 million copies.
