We are currently enrolled for our 2020-2021 Season! Give us a call and see what all we have to offer- 330-477-7171 * Time to be announced WHY CHOOSE CANDY APPLES DANCE CENTER: My daughter started dancing on Candy Apples at 3 years old. We didn't know anything about CADC or know anyone who danced there; we chose it simply because it was close to home & the class schedule worked for our excited little ballerina. We had no idea at the time what a big decision it would be or where it would lead our daughter. Nine years later, the small preschool is now 12 years old, taking nine classes a week and starting its fourth year on the competition team. She has discovered that dance is her passion and what she wants to do for a living. Candy Apples and the amazing teachers she's had there have ignited this passion and supported it & kept it going with every class, every recital, every contest. They push & encourage her, they have her best interests at heart and we couldn't ask for a better study or better teachers for her to spend so many hours with each week. We love that they have known her since she was so little, and seeing the progress she makes under their guidance from year to year is incredible. We feel so lucky that blindly choosing CADC all those years ago turned out to be one of the best decisions we could have made for her. ITS NEVER TOO LATE TO BE PART OF CADC-COME JOIN CANDY APPLES DANCE CENTER – WHERE SOMETHING FUN IS ALWAYS HAPPENING! We asked our Dance Mom's why they choose CADC year after year, here's what a few of them had to say! Lori Jones-Stokes 19 years ago we went into CADC and they met us with open arms and we have been family ever since. All five of my children danced at CADC at once. My eldest daughter Janae danced, competed and was a protester for 14 years before a knee injury didn't allow her to dance anymore. My youngest, Darius, at the age of 3, was just taking a class because he wanted to dance like his big sister. Now he is 16, still dancing while playing football and basketball and has many dance titles. I've never dreamed of being a dance mom for so long, but I have no regrets because at CADC everyone is really a family. Our children have made eternal friendships and the parents have everything for everything while teaching the art of dancing in the most amazing way. We support each other even without of dance. The tape created over the many years at CADC is forever unbreakable. Teresa Fox CADC is an award-winning study with caring and compassionate faculty that encourages students to succeed both on and off the dance floor. They recognize that each student is unique and focus on strengthening their individual talents, that when they are put together collectively create a beautiful mosaic. Jodi Mattocks Hoover We start our 6 years at CADC, and Aleigh time there under care instruction the faculty has taken her from a little dancer to a graceful young lady! She has made wonderful friendships, learned the value of hard work and dedication, and above all has gained poise and trust that will serve her well, no matter where life may take her. I am grateful to know that she is in good hands when she walks in this door every day and so excited to see what the new dance year brings on Candy Apples! Chella Ulrich Wherley Making the decision to come dancing at CADC was one of the best decisions we made. Eva has been in the competition team for 7 years now. The teachers have embraced Eva and have nurtured her love of dancing. Eva not only is learning dance, but has grown in her self-confidence and self-esteem. She's made some good friends, and we love our dance family. We live out of town and drive 30 minutes to get to dance, but seeing how far Eva has grown as a dancer makes it all worth it! ♥ *Do not copy any picture. Images are copied right images. Follow us on Twitter and Instagram @1CandyApples - Like us on Facebook! i: Dance Studio, Places, Places, Comments Part Candy Apples Dance Center is dance studio owned by Cathy Nesbitt-Stein in Canton, Ohio. Cathy used to compete a team of older girls against abby lee dance company after she leaves Abby's in Season 1, but started using an all-boys team in Season 3 with boys from different studios. Cathy switched to a co-ed team in the middle of season 3.5 and kept it through Season 5. In Season 5 Episode 11, she switches back to a girls' team. In Season 5 Episode 28, her competition team was effectively disbanded and its dancers were reformed into Jeanette's BDA team. Candy Apples later returned for the seventh season. In Dance Moms Cathy has taken many measures to get her apples winning. She used the same music as Chloe, the same theme as Chloe and usually has older girls entering her routines with Vivi-Anne and Justice McCort to reduce age. Candy Apples before the exterior painting in The Apple of Her Eye. Jill takes Kendall to this studio after she's tired of Kendall not getting the respect or attention she deserved from Abby. Leslie Ackerman is also taking her daughter Payton here after getting tired of Abby. Cathy is impressed with Payton, but when Payton says she wasn't sure about getting there, Cathy feels as if the two wasted their time. Cathy is capable of beating the ALDC in Abbygeddon by one point. But the ALDC continues to defeat them. Kendall is pulled from CADC by her mother after Cathy loses interest in her. At the beginning of the end, Cathy loses all of her remaining members of her competition team, most noticeably Justice. Cathy talks to Vivi about forming a new all-boys competition team, which Vivi accepts to, although she probably won't be in it. In Boys Are Cuties, Girls Have Cooties, Cathy loses to ALDC with a of a point, but she beats ALDC in Rotten to Core, Core, Your Back, Mack (with a perfect score), and the Candy Apple Showdown. For the rest of the season however, and for the entire season 4, the ALDC continually remains the victor. Cathy again, beats ALDC in Mackenzie's Time to Shine, and loses to ALDC by half a point in the Showdown in Pittsburgh, Part 2. Dancers in dance Moms Kerisa: Kerisa is one of the apples on the competition team. She hasn't had a solo on screen. She auditioned for Joffrey Ballet School just like the rest of the group and was called out for her Candy Apple's Dance Center dancers excessive make-up. Kerisa performed regularly in Season 2 CADC group dances; and like Taylor, she appeared in the background during a few scenes in Season 3 episode The Apple of Her Eye. Vivi-Anne: Vivi-Anne continues her education at her mother's dance studio. She is mainly used as a human prop to reduce the age of the group. She usually runs on and off stage, but she performed a duet with Justice back in Season 1 Episode 10, which went against Nia and Mackenzie, but they didn't win. Vivi-Anne is not part of her mother's new competition team, but still goes with her mother to competitions. In addition, there have been several dancers shown in the group routines. In 'A Funeral', there was an older girl and another girl about Vivi's age dancing. In 'Asian Empire' there was another boy who played one of the Ming Dynasty warriors with justice. Former Dancers Kendall: Kendall joined the group in Season 2 Episode 8. She appeared in three of the group tracks: Ode to a Clown, Almost Heaven and Asian Empire. Kendall also had three solos, I Think I Like You, for which she won first place; Lady of Hearts, whom she won in seventh place; and my dear friend who did not place. In Worst Birthday Party Ever!, Cathy revealed that Jill had decided to leave with Kendall. The couple then returned to the Abby Lee Dance Company. Sarah: Sarah was one of the members of the competition team. She first appeared in Season One, when Cathy picked which three of her apples she took to compete against Abby. She didn't have a solo on screen. Sometime in the summer of 2012 she switched studios and dances now at Center Stage Dance Studio. Justice: Justice was previously the only boy in Candy Apple's competition team. He performed the most solos on screen for the Candy Apples and had a duet with Vivi-Anne in Season 1. In Brooke's Turning Point, he was in line with Maddie and Chloe for the overall junior winners. He performed Keep the Faith at Company Dance and lost. At the competition in How Do You Like Them Apples?, Justice's solo Shipwrecked was not shown but finished fifth ahead of Chloe and Paige; The same dance was later re-performed and shown on Revenge of the Candy Apples, finishing first and again beating Chloe. His last solo was Never Surrender in the Nationals 90210, which finished third. Justice Candy Apple's Dance Center in August 2012 and is currently dancing elsewhere. Erika: Erika was one of Cathy's dancers. She performed all the group routines and competed in a solo against Brooke. But she was disqualified because Cathy put her in the wrong age division. At the Myrtle Beach Starbound competition, Erika's Palladio finished solo first, although this was not shown on the corresponding episode. Erika left Candy Apples recently and dances elsewhere. Taylor: Taylor was a dancer on the show's original team. She competed in a solo in Season 1 with the same competition music as Chloe, but she didn't place. In Season 2, she breaks her ankle on stage and was pulled from the rest of the season. She eventually returned in Episode 14, free of her injury. Taylor briefly appeared in the background during a pair of scenes in Season 3 episode The Apple of Her Eye. She appeared in rehearsals in On-Again, Off-Again Abby, and appeared in the group dance Phoenix Rising at the competition; The editing did not mention her name, however. Taylor left Cathy's studio sometime in 2013 and said they couldn't find a timetable. Guest Dancers/Apple Core Team Cathy began bringing in guest dancers in Season 2 when she brought in Drazen to dance with Justice. But in Season 3, Cathy made guest boys her primary team, but recently she changed the team up and added more girls. The team remained co-ed in Season 3 all the way up to CADC's first appearance in Season 5. But in their second appearance in Episode 11, CADC is now an all girl team. In Episode 28 of Season 5, her team joined JC's Broadway Academy, effectively leaving CADC. Candy Apples was later reformed in Season 7 after Cathy returned to the show.
