We're not really sure when or how Black Friday became so popular here-it's an American tradition, after all-but we can tell you why: We Brits love a good deal, especially on the way to Christmas. And Black Friday is when retailers seemingly cut their prices and you get the things you've been yearning for (and things you didn't even know you needed) for the little change left at the bottom of your bank account. And he's finally here. But if the last couple of years are anything to go by, you can expect a lot of elbow battles to rival Monica's fuss about her wedding dress at Friends if you head to the store to shop. So if you want to get your hands on the latest cult eye shadow palettes and incredible skincare offerings, it's best to get clicked, and we're going to help you. It was Halloween once again my different costume parties to go to ... but some with the same crowds ... yes, I could wear the same suit at all events, but that's not my way. I came quickly with an idea to create a Frank the Bunny costume from the film Donnie Darko. I used the base mask of some old Easter bunny thing and molded some Crayola magic model over the top and used some old sunglasses lenses for the eyes... once it was dried I painted and shellacked the whole thing 2 times... proved amazing and was a hit. for the suit I turned one inside out that was all fur and quickly sewn a pair of fur pants from some old fur fabric lying around and used some werewolf gloves on the hands.... Everyone was dying for a picture with Frank the bunny! enjoy Looking for an adorable Easter boat? Help your child create adorable sock bunnies this holiday. This bunny sock boat is perfect for Easter. Gather the simple supplies, which you may already have at home, and gather the adorable creatures with your family. Your children can choose what socks they desire-and can complete the boat with a fluffy cotton ball tail! RELATED: 14 Easy Easter Crafts for Kids 1 sock Child-safe scissors 6' length of thread embroidery or yarn Thread needle 2 tube cleaners 1 bag cotton balls (or cotton or poly blow) Colored felt Hole punch Craft glue Permanent marker 12 strip ribbon (makes 1 bunny) 1. Put a sock out flat with the whole shake up. Using child safety scissors, help your child cut vertically down the middle of the sock from the toes to just above the beginning of the heel (the exact measurement depends on the size of the sock). Every half of the sock toe will become an ear. 2. Thread 2' of thread or embroidery thread in contrast color through a large thread needle, and tie the end in a knot. Carefully stitch the two seams of half of the sock toe together using a cloudy stitch (sew over the edge, making long, wide-angle stitches). RELATED: 12 Easter activities for kids to do at home 3. Ask your child to fold a pipe cleaner in half and twist the two strands together at the end. Then help your child insert the twisted tube cleaner into the rabbit's ear to give him shape and support. You will need to repeat steps 2 and 3 to make the other ear. 4. Next, ask your child to gently pull apart a large handful of cotton balls to create a fluffy stuffing material (you can also use cotton or multi blow). Help her fill the heel of the sock with cotton to form the rabbit's head. 5. Continue filling the rest of the sock for the body, and press some extra cotton on the bottom to create a wide base. This will allow the bunny to sit upright. Then tuck into the bottom of the sock cuff to keep the stuffing contained. You can also sew the bottom hole closed if desired. RELATED: 9 Fun Easter Bunny Ideas for Parents 6. Help your child cut small circles of colored felt for the rabbit's eyes, or use a piercing hole. Stick them on the front of the sock heel (now the bunny's face). Then cut and stick to a felt-triangle nose, and draw whiskers and a mouth with a marker. Or you can sew nose, mouth, and whiskers with thread needle and embroidery thread. 7. Have your child glue a cotton ball to the back of the bunny on the tail and tie a colorful ribbon around his neck. Then he can have fun with his new friend! Friend!
