We've got a lowdown on how to (legally) watch movies online for free. The streaming market has exploded in India in recent years. There are now plenty of options in terms of watching movies online, with some sites allowing users free access or offering generous free trials. From the look of it, movie fans are embracing this particular promotion, taking full advantage of the free trial and removing apps from their smartphones once they no longer find it useful. It makes sense - there are so many services just a few clicks away, so it's good to try everything to decide which one suits you best. Unlimited instant streaming of 1000s of exclusive Movies and TV + Bollywood shows and regional blockbusters like Sultan and Kabali. Plus FREE 2 day shipping on millions of items. Amazon and the Amazon logo are trademarks of Amazon.com, Inc. or its affiliates. Look at the details With Bollywood releasing a lot of content every year, piracy remains a big problem in India. However, while relying on torrents may seem like an easy way to get an overhaul of your entertainment, illegally downloading content can attract penalties or make you vulnerable to malware attacks. It's best to turn your attention to (many) other ways you can enjoy watching movies for free. We've put together the most popular movie streaming platforms below – they all offer free access (with ads) or come up with a long free trial that will allow you to sample whether or not you'll enjoy a paid subscription. Plus, they can be accessed both through the web and mobile apps, so you can catch up with your movie queue at any time. HotstarIndia's most popular streaming platform offers a mix of free and premium content, with a free tier more than worth your time. While some movies are only available to users with a Premium subscription, there are plenty of titles you can stream completely for free, from drama to thrillers to biopics to children's movies. The service is also TV shows and live streaming of sports, for a complete entertainment experience, making it difficult to run out of content to watch, even with a free account. However, Hotstar Premium subscriptions come with access to the latest English and Hindi TV shows and movies and and Release. If you're serious about following the world of cinema perema, INR199/month shouldn't break the bank. The Premium subscription comes with a seven-day free trial. Hotstar will charge the full cost of your card but will offer a refund if you cancel before your free Premium week runs out.NetflixNetflix may rule the streaming market at a global level, but the service has not fared very well in India. The cheapest subscription plan costs INR500/month, which is much more expensive than competition. However, the platform invests heavily in original content and has an extensive film catalog available in India, so it's probably worth a try. Rome, however, brought Netflix its first Oscar nomination for Best Picture, so the future looks bright. Netflix India is free to try for a whole month. Amazon Prime VideoAccess to Prime Video is free with an Amazon Prime subscription, priced at INR129/month or INR999/year. You get a month-long free trial, so you can see a generous catalog of Prime Video content - which includes popular regional movies and Hollywood blockbusters. In addition, Amazon Prime gives you free and fast delivery on eligible items and additional per amenities such as ad-free music streaming. If you shop a lot online, get access to the entire library of movies and TV shows as a bonus of making a Prime subscription worth the investment. JioCinemaJioCinema features many movies across all genres, including content from Disney India – meaning you can stream as many Marvel blockbusters as possible and Disney classics that you can handle. Even better, JioCinema is completely free to use – the only catch is that it's only available to Jio customers. You'll be prompted to sign in with your Jio credentials (phone number or Jio ID) to be able to stream content. However, if you already have Jio, getting access to hundreds of movies available for free is a good advantage. HOOQHOOQ advertises as your gateway to the world of unlimited entertainment, and its catalog backs up claims. The service, which comes with a month-long free trial, lets you stream a variety of movies and TV series, including Hollywood hits. After your free trial ends, your HOOQ subscription will return INR89/month. The platform also allows you to rent the latest new releases from the cinema, generally for each INR59. VootVoot is a free on-demand streaming service, offering movies in multiple languages (Hindi, Kannada, Bengali and more), with special categories for children. You can also stream TV shows, music videos, or various clips, so you'll never run out to watch with this one. You can sign up for an account to better track what you're watching, but it's entirely up to you. The only drawback is that you have to bear the ads, but that is a small price to pay to get access to free content. Sony LivSimilar to other platforms on the list, Sony Liv hosts a mix of free and premium content, but many movies are available for streaming at no cost. However, if you are looking for a Hollywood release, you should get a Premium subscription, which costs INR99/month. You can browse the platform and watch without creating an account, but signing up with the service opens additional features like adding videos you're interested in to Watch later. BigFlixBigFlix comes with a one-month free trial, which is more than enough time to marathon some of the titles in the platform catalog. Movies are available in several languages, which is a huge plus. You can create a free account, but it only allows you to check the trailer. If you sign up for a Premium subscription, you get a full month free and you can cancel at any time. After that, if you decide to maintain the service, you will pay INR50/month or INR500/year. Zee5Zee5 offers a wide range of content, from movies to TV shows, original productions, and news. A lot of it is free (with ads), so you can stream movies without paying anything (you don't even have to sign up for an account). If you are interested in some of the platform's Premium offers, you will have to pay INR99/month. SpuulSpuul offers more than 10,000 hours of Bollywood movies, and some are available completely free of charge. Content for users without an account is limited, but will help you decide if a Spuul subscription, priced at INR 99/month, is worth the investment. To get started, all you need to do is navigate to Browse, and then click Free Movies. You'll need to log in via Facebook or create an account by signing up with your email to watch. ViuWith Viu, you get access to a limited amount of free content, including a large number of movies. You can stream without creating an account and the interface is user-friendly, making it easy to see what's on offer and settled on the title. If you want a Premium subscription, it costs INR99/two months. Tubi TVTubi TV allows you to watch free movies and TV shows without subscribing, selflessly. You can browse through several categories, including Family Movies, Romance, Horror, and more. The service is completely free - you don't even have to sign up for an account if you don't feel that way. TV shows are also available on the platform. MUBIMUBI prides itself on offering truly great cinema, which translates into cult, classic, independent and award-winning films from around the world. The subscription costs INR500/month and gives you access to 30 movies, which are newly added every day. You get a seven-day free trial, so you have a week to watch some and decide if they're in your alley. HungamaAlthough is primarily a music streaming service, Hungama also offers movies and TV shows nowadays, so so can enjoy a variety of content, many for free. Just browse the movie section, finish the title for free and you're ready to go. Alternatively, you can purchase a subscription, which comes with unlimited access to the platform catalog. HoichoiHoichoi offers an impressive collection of Bengali movies, but most of them are only available if you get a subscription. However, a small selection of titles is available for free – just browse the Movies category until you find the Free Movies section. If you enjoy this service, inr399/year subscription fee. MuvizzMuvizz specializes in cult, classic, and independent films. Some titles are available for free, while others require a subscription, at inr80/month prices. You can browse the platform library to see what's available and decide if premium titles are worth your cash. YouTubeSince YouTube mainly specializes in short videos (er) and original content created by the community, if you are patient enough, you can also find movies. Some are available on YouTube legally, others ... not so much. It may also be difficult to see fakes and such; plus, there's nothing more annoying than realizing that you don't have access to the entire movie once you start watching. We'll remission not to include YouTube, but we strongly recommend you give other platforms on the list of opportunities as well. Good.
