Apex learning answers english 9

The English 9 course is an overview of examples of literary choices in fiction and fiction genres. Students read short stories, poems, a feature novel and shakespeare's full-length play, analysing the use of elements of literature in developing character, storyline and subject matter. For example, in selected stories, students compare the impact of tone setting and character development. Similarly, in the poetry unit, students analyze how artists and writers draw and interpret the source material. Each unit contains informational texts encouraging students to consider the historical, social, and literary context of the main texts they study. For example, in the first semester, the story of Nikolai Gogol, which is offered as an example of magical realism, is accompanied by learning about this species. The common content of the lesson and reading encourage students to demonstrate their understanding of magical realism by analysing its characteristics in literary text. Throughout the course, students respond to the claims of others and support their own claims in essays, discussions, and presentations, consistently using accurate text evidence. The series includes canonical authors such as William Shakespeare, Franz Kafka and Elie Wiesel, as well as writers from all walks of life, such as Alice Walker, Li-Young Lee and Robert Lake-Thom (Medicine Grizzlybear). Additional training materials may be needed. Consult your representative or school district.
