Comments Share More Vanilla WoW Wiki Iridescent Pearl is an unusual quality item in the WoW Classic. Can be used in any class. It can be obtained as a drip of 207 different NPC. The highest chance of a drop is from Tink Sprocketwhistle Engineering Supplies level of 24. See the full drop table below. This website has been designed and updated by enthusiasts. One of the two places in the game for you to be holding golden pearls is nagas Azshara. In the central part of Azshara you will find the ruins of Eldarath, which are infected with nails, as it is coastal just east of these ruins. Warning though, there is a large rock that separates these two sites so you won't be able to go there and back between them easily. Eldarath ruins are enemies that are much more together than coastal to the east. You'll also find more herbs/mines from the ruins of Eldarath camp because not so much spawns on the coast. Depending on your class and what you want, it will help you determine which of the two sites to hunt. Keep in mind that the nails themselves don't drop Golden Pearls, the precious pearl we're after has a slight chance of dropping out of the Big-Mouth clam that these Nagas drop. Every clam you open will have zesty clam meat in addition to having the chance to drop a Black Pearl, Iridescent Pearl, Small Lustrous Pearl and, of course, the Golden Pearl as a rare object. Aside from the Golden Pearl, there are not many values that you can find on this site. Nails don't drop Runecloth nor do they drop any other valuable items that can be sold aside from typical greens/grays and other junk. Your biggest smooth money maker while farming here will be gathering professions if you get them. Miners will find Rich Tory, Small Toium and Mithril Ore throughout the ruins of the Eldarath area. In my experience there are not many people holding Rich Tory Azshara so you have a pretty good chance of finding some here while you're farming! Herbalists will find Mountain Silversage, Sungrass, Purple Lotus and other high-level herbs here. For the most part, you won't have much money farming this place unless you are gathering professions or getting lucky enough to find a Golden Pearl.
