All rights reserved the first time I saw Boomwhackers was more than 20 years ago and I was immediately fascinated. They are colorful plastic tubes that can play paths of the C-scale. (and more if you buy chromatic sets) I bought them and then started experimenting with them, but wasn't quite sure what to do with them. You can play melodies, rhythms or chords with Boomwhackers. In our new Boomwhacker section on Musicplayonline, we've created a resource that you can use to teach your students melodies with chords - what a great way to introduce reading of places on your staff to your students. There is a menu above the top with tabs for each section: Word Highlights The words of the song are colored using Boomwhacker colors. This is a great reading and writing tool for K-1-2 for beginner readers. The front page tells the notes to be used. If you want to use 3 note songs and you have 24 students in the class, you must have 8 sets of diatonic Boomwhackers. (CDEFGABC set) 3 note, 4 note, 5 note, 6 note, 7 note and scale songs: The menu for each song provides the chords used, the rhythm pattern, the paths used and displays the options for projection. You can teach the song using video or use the slideshow option. Video 1 is Kidsnotes - the letter name is embedded in the note. Video 2 is colored Boomwhacker notation. Video 3 is the Note Highlight movie - the paths are highlighted when students play them. The slide show also has the Children Notes, Colored Notes option. The slideshows third option is regular notation. (Note highlighting is only possible in the video) The PDF can be downloaded and printed. Use this as a center! If you don't have 8 sets of boomwhackers, you can choose to use the 5-8 note songs, so fewer sets are needed. If you want each child to have a tube to play a 5-note song, and you 30 students in the class, class, need 6 sets of Boomwhackers. I would suggest teaching your classes staff lesson (in the Devices section, Theory category), and work with them on naming notes each class before you start playing Boomwhackers. They can practice naming notes on staff, on hand and on the floor staff. You can use note name flashcards or note name games to help them remember the letter names for the paths on the staff. Online, use Pop Quiz or Note Name Memory to practice letter names. Pop quizzes are available from all grades. I begin to teach the letter name of places in Gr. 3 or 4. Select the level of the Treble Clef Pop Quiz. Name Memory is one of the music games atwww.musicplayonline.com.It is very well designed and has two levels. You can select lines, spaces, or employees. Interactive Boomwhacker can be found in this section and is a useful way to show students how chords are built and how scales can be rising or descending. This is the chord demo in the Interactive Boomwhacker section - showing which tubes make a chord. This is the illustration of the notes used to make a chord in the Boomwhacker Notation section. This is the rising scale in the Boomwhacker Notation section. This is the descending scale in the Boomwhacker Notation section. Stick Games is fun to play with Boomwhackers for your upper elementary students. These are all games from Musicplay, and when you click on the link, you are taken to the song. You will have kids demo videos, and all song videos to learn the song to students. These are usually for students in gr. 3-6. But you can also use Boomwhackers to play hand clap games with younger students. Many teachers use music videos from YouTube with their students. We have provided links to these videos, along with information about pitches and rhythms used. This is fun, but since most of them use letter names instead of teaching children to read staff notation, save these for incentives or rewards. There are 24 five note songs, sequenced with simpler rhythms first. There are 22 six note songs, sequenced by rhythm. Our team has been working for months to organize, compile and create materials for the Boomwhacker section, and we hope you find it very useful when you start teaching notation to your students!!! We love knowing how to use our materials!!! Share how you've used the Boomwhacker section of the Musicplay Teachers group on Facebook! If you don't do Facebook, you can share in the forum on Musicplayonline. And of course, if you send us kids demos that we can use by your students using the Boomwhacker section - or any part of Musicplayonline, you will receive a month for free.
