Television DistributionReleaseOriginal networkAdult SwimOriginal release23 October 2016 (2016-10-23) –present Dream Corp LLC is an American black comedy television series created by Daniel Stessen for Adult Swim. Dream Corp LLC is an absurd workplace comedy set at a dilapidated dream therapy facility located in a dilapidated strip mall. In each episode, a new hopeless patient is recorded in his dreams, analyzed and, if necessary, set by Dr Roberts (Jon Gries) and his staff of misfits. The series is the first to use rotoscoping in Adult Swim. It premiered on October 23, 2016. Plot Dream Corp LLC is located in a dream therapy facility located in an abandoned shopping mall that operates on the frontiers of medical science and legality. [2] Desperate patients - all of which will be remembered only by number - have their dreams recorded and analysed by Dr Roberts and his staff. Roberts uses an unusual method: he adds himself into these surreal dreams to guide the patient to overcome their problem, being followed all the while and watched by colleagues including Randy, a claw-handed technician; Ahmed, a drug-smoking nurse; cynical robot T.E.R.R.Y.; Roberts' female psychology assistant (who changes every season); And an 88-year-old patient chose to work for Roberts as part of his treatment because he couldn't pay for it. [3] [4] Actor Jon Gries as Dr. Roberts Nick Rutherford as Patient 88 Ahmed Bharoocha, Randy Blink as Stephen Merchant as T.E.R.R.Y. Stephanie Alllynne as Joey (season 1) Megan Ferguson as Bea (season 2) Sunita Mani as Margot Daly (season 3) Production Dream Corp LLC is a black comedy created by Daniel Stessen,[3] a 2013 animated short film known for goldwriting and sparrowwing. Adult Swim commissioned a pilot episode based on Stessen's original idea for the series in May 2014[5] ahead of the network's pre-commercial meeting. [6] Bud Cort, Baron Vaughn and Moises Arias guest star in the pilot episode. Array Produced by Street. [7] [7] Corp LLC was ordered for a full season in November 2015[3] and the network mentioned the series in 2016. [8] The series is the first to use rotoscoping to obtain animation in Adult Swim; this technique requires drawing on live action images. [7] This process was used for stessen's short film Golden Sparrow and the pilot film of Dream Corp LLC. [9] [5] The reclusive animator and songwriter Chad VanGaal was taken on board to provide music for the show and designed the office robot T.E.R.R.Y. [10] The trailer for the series was released on October 5, 2016. [11] Animation episodes of the series are processed by two companies. BEMO provides visual effects and CG graphics, while Artbelly Productions provides character animation with a rotoscope using special rotoscoping software Rotobelly. [12] Live-action episodes of the show were produced by Caviar Content in season one, and Alive and Kicking, Inc. filmed live action in season two. Season 2 premiered on October 21, 2018. The secret preview of season 3 premiered as part of Adult Swim's annual April Fool's programming stunt. [13] The film premiered in the summer of 2020, but the launch date for late June 2020 was postponed. [14] On October 12, 2020, it announced that the third season would premiere on October 25, 2020. [15] The style has been described as the visual style of Dream Corp LLC Terry Gilliam in Brazil and a disimensed degraded retro-futurist look[?] Zero Theorem and science fiction exist in the realm of lo-fi realism, such as Michel Gondry's Eternal Sun Spotless Mind. [16] She worked on the original Artbelly rotocopers Waking Life (2001) and A Scanner Darkly (2006).
