Publisher 2013 cannot save the file pdf

After updating your system for Windows 8, leave the Office 2010 publisher to save files such as THE PDFs and XPS. The message of the error was: Publishers cannot save the file or the publisher can't save the file in German from kanan. Save the same file on a different computer as THE PDF without any problems. How I fixed it: I found the right hints to solve this: I changed my default printer for a different one already and was reworking the PDF and XPS export in the publisher. Review: To clear this error at 11:02 on Wednesday, June 13, 2018, please do the following: Open the printer from the icon on your desktop. Click on Microsoft's PDF print. Select default printer as set. Usually right-click the printer that has your default printer. Select default printer as set. Start publisher Load the file to you and try saving as A DF. To save files as I create an A4 (297x210mm) document, add something to the page and then save the file, select SAVE as THE PDF type:. Press on the options button, then mark the print options and a customized paper size of 5cm large scale and allow crop marks and the following. It says the publisher cannot save the file, with further explanation. I've tried to save the file locally and on the server, no change. If I don't mark the crop, it works. When I do the same in Publisher 2010, I get a PDF with crop marks and the following. Not sure I'm wrong-I've tried to select a huge paper size but it doesn't matter. No one can help. I want to save as A DF instead of print. Because of the debate- The Starter • #2 • January 29, 2014 Re: Publisher 2013-Problems of getting PDFs with crop marks and no thoughts on it in blood? I felt I could work around the problem that does not mark the 'Crop Marks' check box. Paper size allows to include only 'Axl' and 3mm (1 .8) to work. This makes YOUR BODY 3mm MORE THAN THE SIZE OF THE PDF, THE EXTERNAL 3MM IN WHICH BLOOD WILL BE CLOSED AS. · Debate The • #4 29, 2014 Re: Publisher 2013-Problems to get PDFs with crop marks and blood masterchief. I looked around to solve this problem but didn't come into it. I have a 3rd party printer Although trying to avoid using it all changes to RGB and I need to be able to maintain The CMYK elements (which are saved as THE PDF). This is a bug, because publisher 2010 looks like it works fine in this regard. · • Debate -Starter • • January 29, 2014 Great idea. Unfortunately the publisher (or anything with the office) is nothing they are accepting of insects/suggestions. Unless I'm a wet, i'm not a man? · Look to be right. All well. He should correct it soon. · Discussion Starter • #8 • January 30, 2014 Let's hope. Thanks for your help.
