Repeated practice really helps students understand how they work. -- Daniel A., Austin, TX, 02/07/12 Like these materials? Show your support by liking us on Facebook... Call us crazy (or just obsessed with English and logic), but we think sentence endings are just plain fun. What's more, they are a great way to expand your vocabulary and improve your skills logic. This is because sentence completions, like many of the standardized test style issues on this site (analogies, antonyms, reading understanding, etc.), are very similar to puzzles. There is an image of what the final product should look like, but it is still necessary to rearrange the pieces until they realize that the image. Hi! Check out this helpful teacher tip! Teachers can strengthen the role they play in sentences by showing students how they dictate the answer to certain questions. For example, look at the questions in the figure below. Look how the conjunction dictates the answer to every question. Notice that if the conjunction and the correct answer is love. This is because the connotation of the first clause continues. However, if the conjunction, but the correct answer is hatred. This is because the connotation of the first clause in the second sentence does not continue; it will be reversed due to the role played by the conjunction, however.
