

I'm not robot

Continue

Warriors riverclan names

Wikipedia lists articles For characters in american crime-related media franchises, see List of The Warriors characters. This article has a wide range of issues. Please help improve it or discuss these issues on the discussion page. (Learn how and when to remove this template message) This article may be too long to read and navigate comfortably. Please consider dividing the content into sub-articles, luring them, or adding subchemets. (May 2015) This article may contain excessive amounts of complicated details that may be of interest to only a particular audience. Please help by spinning or transferring any relevant information, and removing excessive details that may be contrary to wikipedia entry policies. (October 2019) (Learn how and when to remove this template message) (Learn how and when to remove this template message) The Warriors novel series is written by Erin Hunter. Due to the large number of characters found in the novel series, this list is divided by Clan, for instance, all the characters in ThunderClan (as far as Thaw Silent) are included together in the loyalty list. The naming conventions at ThunderClan, RiverClan, WindClan, ShadowClan, and SkyClan, each cat name has a preliminary (Dawn, Bramble, Lion, Cage, etc.). As kits they will have -kits at the end of their name. For example Dawnkit, Bramblekit, Lionkit, Crowkit. When they are apprentice-paw will be at the end of their name (Dawn, Bramblepaw, Lionpaw, Crowpaw, etc.). When the cat is turned into a hero or medical cat, the suffix to their name will be changed (Dawn, Brambleclaw, Lionblaze, Crowfeather, etc.). If cats are ever a leader, they will be given enough stars at the end of their name. (Dawnstar, Bramblestar, Lionstar, Crowstar, etc.). In the Water Rush Quarter, the cat's name has no preliminary or prescribed suffixes. A kitten mother will name her kittens after the unforgettable first thing the mother sees after giving birth (for example, Brook Where Little Fish Swims and The Night No Stars). ThunderClan ThunderClan is named after the leader and founder of his first, Thunder. In the Warriors series (except for sub-series Subwn of the Clans), most of the protagonists are ThunderClan cats. During the original series, ThunderClan lived in the woods, sandwiches between RiverClan and shadowClan province. Thus, the usual ThunderClan cat chases through the thick toothbrush of the forest. [1] ThunderClan, along with other tribes, underwent a dramatic shift in the province during the arc of The New Prophecy. At the time Brambleclaw, Squirrelpaw, and their companions were on their way to find Midnight badger, most of ThunderClan province as humans continue to deforestation in the area. [2]:320 Finally, ThunderClan and other tribes moved to the lake territory, where the ThunderClan camp was located in an abandoned quarry. Left. Camps are covered by high stone walls, but the surrounding regions are similar to the previously inhabited forests of ThunderClan. [3] Bluestar's Prophecy Pinestar Tom brown red with green eyes, Pinestar was the leader of ThunderClan when Bluestar was born. His hero's name is Pineheart.His father is Oakstar. When he had only one of his nine lives left, he decided to step down as leader and become a kittypet, having become frustrated by the violence and frustration of Clan's life. Despite leaving the Tribes, he was accepted by StarClan when he finally lost his last life. He is a Leopardfoot couple, Father of Tigerstar, grandfather of Tawnypelt, Brambleclaw, Hawkfrost, and Mothwing, Grandfather to Flametail, Dawnpelt, Tigerheart, Sparkpelt, Alderheart, Juniperkit, Dandelionkit, Jayfeather, Hollyleaf, and Lionblaze, and great-grandfather to Sleekwhisker, Juniperclaw, Strikestone, Shadowsight, Pouncestep, and Lightle Sunstar Sunstar, a bright ginger tom with green eyes and yellow salutes, are leaders His heroic name is Sunfall. He mentored Bluepaw after his first mentor, Stonepelt, retired early to den the elderly as a result of injuries that did not heal properly. Sunstar became the leader of ThunderClan when Pinestar stepped down to leave the Tribes and become a kittypet. However, as Pinestar still had one of his nine lives when Sunstar became leader, StarClan gave him just eight lives instead of the usual nine, a secret he kept from the Tribe because of his fears they would feel he did not fully have StarClan's support. When Sunstar's first deputy, Tawnyspots, retired early due to illness, Sunstar chose Bluefur to become a deputy rather than an ambitious Thistleclaw, fearing Thistleclaw's violent tendencies and was impressed by Bluefur's disappointment in the face of various personal losses. Sunstar eventually died when he was unable to isolate the dog, having been undermined by the disease. His brother was Featherwhisker, a ThunderClan medical cat before Spottedleaf. [4] Moonflower Moonflower is the queen of silver grey salutes with pale yellow eyes, mother of Bluestar and Snowfur. The beginning of Bluestar's life, Moonflower and other ThunderClan warriors took part in an attack on the WindClan camp, where Moonflower was killed by drug cat WindClan Hawkheart when he attacked their drug supplies. [4] Moonflower's partner was Stormtail, and he sistered to Goosefeather. He is also the grandmother of Stonefur, Mistystar, and Mosskit. Snowfur Snowfur is a snowy white queen with blue eyes and black ear tips. She is the sister of Bluestar. He and Bluestar have a strong sibling bond that by the events when Snowfur fell in love with Thistleclaw and Bluefur disapproved as shown in the Bluestar Prophecy. He has one kit with Thistleclaw, Whitekit. Snowfur finally dies while chasing ShadowClan ShadowClan invader Thunderpath, and run by the Dualeg monster, caused Bluefur to go to another cycle of grief. Snowfur also tells his own story of what happened to Mosskit in the Secrets of the Tribes. [5] He is the daughter of Moonflower and Stormtail. Snowfur also gave Rosetail his name (when he was a kit) because of his orange pink tail. At the Bluestar leader's ceremony, he gave his gift of pride, so that he knew his own values and his Tribal values. He gave Bluestar's ninth life to him. [4] Snowfur, while alive, teased Bluefur about loved Oakheart, the RiverClan hero. Thistleclaw Thistleclaw is a big, gray and white tom with amber eyes. Bluestar suggested his name because of his spicy fur when they were both kits in the nursery. He is hot and aggressive, making his relationship with the more preserved Bluestar quite difficult. He is also a Bluestar sister couple, Snowfur, and father of Whitestorm, Bluestar's nephew. He is also a Tigerpaw mentor and one of Tigerstar's causes of nasty and ambitious motives. Thistleclaw initially seemed just arrogant and uninterested in the long run of things, but then, it was shown that he was paranoid and bloody, and wanted to keep other Tribes out of ThunderClan province by marking the boundary with blood. In the Crookedstar Promise, Crookedjaw witnessed his training in the Dark Forest. He was characterized as very violent, shown when he ordered his apprentice, Tigerpaw, to attack the young Tiny (then Scourge), who had walked to ThunderClan, not knowing about the Tribes, as described in the Manga Revival of Scourge and the Super Bluestar's Prophecy edition. [6] Goosefeather had a vision with Bluefur and saw thistleclaw pet dripping in the blood, symbolizing the traces of death that would leave if he had ever risen to the leader. When Thistleclaw died, he was discovered with unhealthy claws, lips in snarl, and lying in a bunch of blood himself, just as Bluestar and Goosefeather looked in their shared vision. At Night Whispers, he was shown to be managing training sessions in the Dark Forest. As a Moon Sign, he killed an Antpelt live cat during training. Goosefeather Goosefeather is a grey tom who shirts with pale blue eyes and brother to Moonflower. He was a ThunderClan medical cat when Bluestar was born and interpreted a piece of victim (a vole with his fur bends like a wind-blown forest) as a warning from StarClan that WindClan would destroy ThunderClan. He suggested that the only way to stop this was by destroying WindClan's drug supplies; in subsequent battles, her sister was murdered and many cats with Stonepelt's injury forcing him to retire early. Several cats, including a nice Bluestar, blame it for the battle decision. He was the mentor of Featherwhisker, a medicinal cat before Spottedleaf. He interprets burning burning as an omen that Bluestar fires and will burn through the ranks of ThunderClan, but will be destroyed by water. Afterwards, Goosefeather seemed insane. He sees Tigerkit as a dangerous monster (ironically, although no cat believes him, this is proven to be true), and that Thistleclaw will bring ThunderClan to the blood path if he becomes leader. While many cats think Goosefeather is insane, some of his omens and prophecies are true. He also told Bluefur that he needed to release his kit to save ThunderClan, which he refused to do so. At the Bluestar leader's ceremony, he gave him patience gifts. Featherwhisker Featherwhisker is a pale silver tom with amber eyes, long whiskers, and sweeping plummy tails. He was Goosefeather's apprentice when Bluekit was born and became a Spottedleaf mentor. He is more reliable in ThunderClan than his mentor Goosefeather, who is seen as eccentric, and is often asked to help with the tasks that Goosefeather should help otherwise. She worked hard to treat her Friends during the greencough epidemic and eventually died of greencough herself. After his death, Spottedleaf became a ThunderClan medical cat. Featherwhisker is the Sunstar brother. [5] Leopardfoot Leopardfoot is a sleek black queen with green eyes. She was sisters to Patchpelt, Redtail, Willowpelt, and Spottedleaf, a Pinestar couple, and the mother of Mistkit and Nightkit (both died shortly after birth), and Tigerkit, later known as Tigerstar. He was introduced in Prophecy Bluestar as a five-month-old kit. He then had his kit early and was weak. He gave Tigerkit his tough name because he was the weakest rubbish. His parents were Adderfang and Swiftbreeze. [4] His partner was Pinestar, who left Clan to become Kitypet shortly before Mistkit and Nightkit's death. Swiftbreeze Swiftbreeze is a salute and white queen with yellow eyes. She was introduced in Prophecy Bluestar as the queen who liked to chat about her kit, commenting, for example, that her kit opened their eyes ahead of Bluekit. She is the mother of Leopardfoot, Patchpelt, Willowpelt, Spottedleaf, and Redtail, a couple to Adderfang, a grandmother of Tigerstar, and grandmothers to Bramblestar, Hawkfrost, Mothwing, and Tawnypelt. Thrushpelt Thrushpelt is a grey sandy tom with a white blink in his chest and green eyes. He was a newly appointed warrior when Bluestar was a kit. He had smashed Bluestar and everyone took notice, leading Clan to believe he was the father of Stonefur, Mistystar, and Mosskit. Thrushpelt knows that the kit is not her secret, but keeps Bluestar secrets up although he never knew who their real father was. Bluestar told him that he knew he would be happy with it. [4] Mosskit Mosskit was a pale-grey and white cat with blue eyes. He is the sister of Mistystar and Stonefur, and the Bluestar and Oakheart kits. In Bluestar's Bluestar's Mosk it freezes to death on its way to RiverClan. Bluefur burns him in dirt under the snow so that Mosskit is not eaten by foxes when melted winter. In Prophecy Bluestar, she gave her mother life as she became leader of ThunderClan after Sunstar. [4] He also appeared in the Secrets of the Tribes and Last Hope. The Original Series of Original series covers the events in the story from Into the Wild to the Darkest Hours. Many of the characters mentioned here are introduced in the original series, but many of them play small or significant roles in the New Prophecy and Power Of Three series as well. The characters listed in other series may have been introduced in the original series, but played a bigger role in the series they listed. Firestar Firestar, a handsome fire-colored tom with green eyes,[7] is the protagonist of the original series. Initially a kitypet named Rusty, she often dreams of hunting her own victims in the woods outside her owner's home (thus making her venture into the jungle outside her fence and orchard). Rusty joined ThunderClan after confronting Graypaw, when he was caught actually trying to hunt down the victim in ThunderClan province, and was initially established as an apprentice, renamed Firepaw for a fire-colored mat animal. Throughout the series, Firepaw earned the honor in Clan and eventually received the name of the Fireheart warrior at the end of Wild Nature, along with his best friend, Graypaw, renamed Graystripe. At the end of the Secret Forest, he became deputy, and eventually, became thunderClan leader, Firestar at the beginning of darkest Hour, when Bluestar died from saving Clan and Fireheart at the end of the Dangerous Route from the dog pack used by Tigerstar to try to destroy ThunderClan. Before Bluestar died, he finally told Fireheart that he was right about him, and that he was a fire in prophecy. Fire alone could save Clan, whom he heard before he even joined ThunderClan. Firestar was guided by Bluestar (and, for a short time, Lionheart and Tigerclaw), and had mentored three apprentices himself: Cinderpelt, who later became a drug cat apprentice for Yellowfang because of his accident at Thunderpath (which was, in fact, was established by Tigerstar as a trap actually intended for Bluestar) which was actually Cloderpath and Brambleclaw (star). Cloudtail was the first birth child of her kitypet sister, Princess. Fireheart met the Princess when she was pregnant in Fire and Ice. When her kitten was born, she let Firestar had her first kit to be raised as a hero with her to ThunderClan, where Bluestar named her Cloudkit. Firestar does not have any significant character vulnerabilities and to the warrior code. Only occasionally he would bend the rules to help his Tribe. Firestar is very loyal not only to his Tribe, but also to many of his friends and allies who are meet along the way, regardless of their affiliation. He respects the rules of his upper people, but also has the vision of looking beyond them to properly assess the circumstances in question. As a result, he often breaks the traditional Tribal rules (a trend initiated by his entry into the Tribe, becoming a home cat, or kitypet origin) to help his colleagues or correct the situation he believes is right. He was primarily in charge, along with his colleague Graystripe, for some performances that have ensured the well-being of all tribes, such as regaining WindClan after they were mobilized out of their camps in Fire and Ice.[8] and hunting prey for RiverClan when they broke down and had to move out of their territory in floods. In the Dangerous Trail, she adorns her old love for Sandstorm, who is revealed to love her back. [9] He struggled with feelings for Spottedleaf, who died in the Wild. As a warrior, Fireheart gained Bluestar's disillusionment for often helping other tribes. He led the four entitlements against the BloodClan line-up as LionClan in the Darkest Hour. He killed their leader, Scourge, [10] Erin Hunter also revealed that Firestar was Scourge's half brother through their father, Jake. He appointed Graystripe as deputy after his battle against BloodClan in the Darkest Hours after Whitestorm, a former deputy, was killed by Bones, BloodClan's deputy. Firestar maintains a significant and often very important presence in the next series, The New Prophecy, Power of Three, and Omen of the Stars as the ever-present leader of thunderClan. In addition, between the original series and The New Prophecy, she travelled north with her partner, Sandstorm, to reunite the missing and scattered SkyClan descendants at Firestar's Quest. [11] Also, he starred in the story for the Ultimate Leader's competition, when he again united the Tribes, with heavy support from his spouse, Sandstorm. Sandstorm didn't like him when he first joined ThunderClan and grew jealous when he received his hero's name in front of him. Firestar also saved Sandstorm from falling over the powder during a border battle with RiverClan in Fire and Ice. He has two daughters with his beloved and old couple, Sandstorm: Leafpool and Squirrelflight. Both have leading roles in the New Prophecy series and side parts in the Power of Three and Omen Star series. Firestar's father was a plump ginger tom called Jake, who is also the father of the Princess, Luna, Tommy, Filou, Ruby, Socks, and Scourge. Jake's other couple, Quince, are mothers to Scourge, Ruby, and Firestar's mother is a salute and white she's a cat named Nutmeg. It is said on the Warriors app on iPhones and iPods that before his kit was born, Nutmeg dreamed that one of them, a ginger tom, stood on a large rock out of his reach. He called for him to go down, but he did it doing it seems to listen. The Princess is Firestar's sister, and her son, Cloudtail is Firestar's nephew. Whitewing (daughter of Cloudtail), and Dovewing and Ivypool (Whitewing's daughter) her grandchildren. Whitewing, daughter of Cloudtail, has two kits: Ivypool and Dovewing. Dovewing was one of three, and completed the trio. Ivypool is trained with dark Forest, although he does not want to. He served as a spy for Three. He is the grandfather of Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, and Jayfeather (Leafpool and Crowfeather's ban kit) and Alderheart, Sparkpelt, Juniperkit, and Dandelionkit (Squirrelflight and Bramblestar kit). He is also a great grandfather of the Lionblaze, Hollytuff, Sorrelstripe, and Fernsong kits. In Last Hope, Spottedleaf told Jayfeather that the fourth cat in the star's Final prophecy drew close. Three must be four to beat the darkness that lasts forever is Firestar. At the clx of the novel, Firestar lost his last life after defeating the spirit of Tigerstar, having suffered numerous injuries in the battle. Bluestar Bluestar is big, lithe, blue-grey pale he cats with eye-glowing eyes, blue ice and nozzles and silver tail. He was the leader of ThunderClan when Firestar (then known as Firepaw) first came to the forest during most of the original series. He is responsible for bringing Firestar to ThunderClan, a decision prompted by a very low number of apprentices in his Klan, and fire prophecy alone can save our Clan. Bluestar served as a Firestar mentor during his apprenticeship following a short time when Firestar was guided by senior warriors,[1] and eventually appointed him as his deputy after Tigerstar's exile. He is known to be a strong, discreet and calm leader. Bluestar fell in love with Oakheart, the RiverClan warrior and brother of Crookedstar, in his days as a warrior (when he was named Bluefur, as seen in the Rise of Torment and The Bluestar Prophecy). Currently another ThunderClan warrior (Thrushpelt, as seen in The Prophecy Bluestar) is beginning to show interest in him. He blew up three Oakheart kits, but let Clan believe Thrushpelt was the father, and Thrushpelt was good enough to pretend for him. From his concerns to the Tribe, he decided to be Clan's deputy rather than the violent Thistleclaw, but because he knew Clan would not receive a queen nursing kit for a deputy, he secretly gave his kit to Oakheart to be raised in RiverClan. Only Mistykit and Stonekit are made to RiverClan; Mosskit did not survive on the way because of the cold. After he gave them and returned to the camp, he scratched behind the nursery wall, go back to its nest, and then scream my kit away!, so that the rest of the Tribe would think that her kit was stolen by a starving fox or badger. Bluestar was able to suppress his feelings about his decision Firestar, seeking to dismantle the truth about Tigerclaw's fraud, caused the issue to reopen. His feelings of regret, combined with surprise discovered his deputy's plans he believed to kill him, caused Bluestar to sink into manic depression. He remained in this situation throughout the Rise Storm and Dangerous Paths, which worsened as forest fires destroyed the ThunderClan camp. He refused to believe any of his heroes except Fireheart and Whitestorm, and declared war on StarClan for doing so Clan, saying that StarClan had said the fire would save the Tribe, and instead the fire had destroyed it. His faith was restored in the final moments of the Dangerous Trail, when in the dramatic scene he crashed into the leader of a dog wrap, causing them to fall by the powd and into the river. He died shortly after seizing in Fireheart that he really was the fire that saved the Tribe. Before he died, his kit forgives him for handing it over to RiverClan. Bluestar maintained an authoritative role in StarClan during the events of The New Prophecy and Power of Three series. He chose the one selected from ThunderClan (Brambleclaw). He also refused to tell Firestar about SkyClan in firestar Efforts. Bluestar has two kits, Mistystar and Stonefur, in RiverClan, and is mentioned in tribal Secrets as having a third, Mosskit, who died young while travelling to RiverClan with his trash due to extreme cold. Currently Mistystar is the leader of RiverClan, while Stonefur, a previous deputy, was killed in the Darkest Hour by Blackfoot and on Tigerstar's direction, as he was half Clan. He also has a sister named Snowfur. Whitestorm is Snowfur's son, thus making him a Bluestar nephew. His uncle was Goosefeather, a drug cat before Featherwhisker. Goosefeather gives to Bluestar prophecy on your own, Like a fire you will blame through the woods, but be careful even the strongest of fires can be destroyed by water. Prophecy means that Bluestar's life will be destroyed by the pain of releasing a RiverClan half kit and it could also mean that he died from drowning in the river. Although Bluestar initially thought the prophecy Goosefeather he was on fire and defeated by water became nonsense, Bluestar was indeed killed by water. Bluestar was first killed by Stonepelt, but after he was forced to retire because of an injury he got from a battle against WindClan, Sunfall took over his training. After Yellowfang's arrest, he mentored Firestar. He has also mentored Runningwind and Frostfur. Her sister was named Snowfur, her mother was named Moonflower, and her father Stormtail. Graystripe Graystripe is a long-haired grey tom with dark grey paths along his back, and yellow eyes. She has also been mentioned with amber eye color, and green. He is Firestar's first and best friend in the He met Rusty in the woods close to Rusty's kitypet home and kept attacking him as if he were another intruder. When Rusty joined ThunderClan as Firepaw, both became great friends and often trained and dined together. Graypaw's mentor was Lionheart, who was killed in the Wild. He became a warrior shortly after his battle with ShadowClan to save his ThunderClan kit with Firepaw at the end of Wild Nature. Shortly after being promoted to full hero (he was named Graystripe because there was a grey strip that ran to his darker back than the other grey feathers), Graystripe fell in love with RiverClan she-paint, Silverstream, after he saved him from drowning, and began sneaking out of the camp to meet him. His friendship with Fireheart was tense because of Fireheart's need to close him while he was away, which included apprentice mentor Graystripe Brackenpaw in his place, and for a short time both quarreled each other. Eventually Graystripe was able to resolve his issues with Fireheart, and their friendship continued. Graystripe eventually left ThunderClan to stay at RiverClan after Silverstream died, but returned when Bluestar led the dog that Tigerstar set on a faction off the poultry. [12] At the end of the original series, he became ThunderClan's deputy, for whitestorm's death,[10] but was replaced by Brambleclaw when he was arrested at Dawn. [13] Graystripe is a friendly and healthy character, serving as a comic relief character for several degrees. He often makes quips or jokes to provide relief to tense conditions, but is able to focus on himself during the battle and concentrate on the objectives at hand. He had nothing qualms about killing Tribal hated enemies, and was responsible for Darkstripe's death and even Whiteclaw's accidental death, which fell from a powd, Graystripe could not save him. Graystripe has lived in more locations than other cats in the series. When Silverstream died bearing his kit, Feathertail and Stormfur, Graystripe went to stay with them in RiverClan temporarily. [12] He returned to ThunderClan on the Dangerous Route when Leopardstar tried to kill Firestar and Graystripe attacked him and saved him, where Leopardstar removed him from RiverClan. [9] At the dawn of the New Prophecy series, Graystripe was captured by man, or Twolegs and lived as a kitypet for a time, described in detail in the manga series The Lost Warrior. While living as a kitypet, Graystripe met Millie, another kitypet, who helped her escape. After a long journey, finally return to the Lap that lives in the lake. He returned to ThunderClan in The Sight of the Power of Three series, along with Millie as his new partner. He is now an ordinary hero, for Firestar allowed Brambleclaw to retain his position as deputy. Graystripe is sometimes a deputy replacement when when travelling. He has two kits with Silverstream, Feathertail and Stormfur that went on to live in RiverClan. They temporarily fled to ThunderClan, along with feathertail mentors (then Featherpaw and Stormpaw), Mistystar (then Mistyfoot), to escape Tigerstar's reign at RiverClan. His father was Patchpelt and his mother Willowpelt. Feathers were killed in Moonrise. Graystripe's couple, Millie, gave birth to three kits of her own, Briarlight, Bumblestripe, and Blossomfall in Eclipse. Graystripe has two grandkits, Pine that Clings to Rock and Lark that Sings in Dawn from Stormfur and his partner, Brook Where Little Fish Swims. Graystripe is now an elderly person. Sandstorm Sandstorm is the pale ginger he cats with green eyes. Sandpaw was an apprentice when Firestar first joined Clan, and didn't like Firepaw for formerly being a kitypet. [1] Eventually, he warmed up to Fireheart, a process initiated by Fireheart preventing him from falling over the cliffs during clashes in Fire and Ice, thus saving his life. [8] When Fireheart was forced to take the Sandpaw on a patrol mission, he began warming up to him, and unexpectedly friendly and cheerful towards him. Throughout the series, it became clear that Sandstorm had fallen in love with Fireheart (revealed in the Rising Storm by his cousin Cinderpelt),[14] and by The Darkest Hour both had been teammates. [10] Sandstorm is known for having an intense personality and getting irritable, but is also capable of being soft, however, as seen by his interactions with Firestar, his children, Squirrelflight and Leafpool, and his grandchildren, Lionblaze, Hollyleaf, and Jayfeather. He was touted as the best hunter and one of the fastest runners-up at ThunderClan, and also an excellent fighter, caused him to appear in many major battles. He is also one of the cats that Firestar chose to be baiting for a pack of dogs thanks to his speed. Specifics about his ongoing firestar relationship with his aunt Spottedleaf, his first love, is shown in Firestar Search where he again plays a major role, and where Firestar confirms that he loves Sandstorm above all, and will be 'for all the coming months'. Also, in the Tribal Cats, Rock noted that Sandstorm knows Firestar better than he realizes, and better even than Spottedleaf, for all the dreams they share. He has two daughters, Leafpool and Squirrelflight, as well as three grandchildren, Jayfeather, Hollyleaf and Lionblaze. He is the grandmother of the Lionblaze and Cinderheart kits, Hollytuff, Sorrelstripe, and Fernsong. They are Leafpool kits Crowfeather as confirmed in Triple Power. He was guided by Whitestorm and mentors Sorreltail and Honeyfern. At the end of the Bramblestar Storm, he retired to be the elderly. He died of infected wounds in The Apprentice's Quest. Redtail is his father's father Brindleface was her mother. Ashfur and Ferncloud are his brothers and sisters. She's the grandson of Adderfang and Swiftbreeze (Redtail's parents) and Fuzzypelt and Robinwing (Brindleface siblings) and Leopardfoot, Spottedleaf, Willowpelt, and Patchpelt (Redtail's sisters). He is a cousin of Tigerstar, Mistkit, and Nightkit (Leopardfoot kit), Graystripe and Longtail (sons patchpelt), Sorreltail, Sootfur, Rainwhisker (Kit Willowpelt) and Cinderpelt, Brackenfur, Thornclaw, and Brightheart (Frostfur kit) and Cinderpelt, Willowpelt, Thornclaw, and Brightheart (Frostfur kit). Tigerstar Tigerstar, large, tom tabby dark brown muscles with an incredible long amber eye and front nail, is the main antagonist of the original series and haunts many of the cat's dreams in the New Prophecy and The Power of the Three series. He also played a leading role in the Omen of the Stars series, leading the Dark Forest to train the Clan cats and bring them into the fight against StarClan and four Tribes, and he threatened them to do so, if they returned to the bottom. His heroic name was Tigerclaw, and he was a senior warrior among the ThunderClan lineup when Firepaw was brought into the woods. Both never mingle, and Tigerclaw's hostility towards Fireheart became even higher when Fireheart discovered his plans to take over Clan. Tigerclaw was a master of fraud and manipulation, and was able to get through with the death of his uncle, Redtail, (an act he himself committed) as emerging as Oakheart's work from RiverClan. In doing so, he plans to become a deputy, but Bluestar appoints Lionheart, the older and more experienced, as his deputy. However, when Lionheart later died from the wounds he suffered in the ShadowClan attack into the Wild, Tigerclaw became deputy, ensuring his final place as leader. When he eventually became a deputy, he secretly plotted with Brokenkail and his roaque gang banned for killing Bluestar, while making the rest of the scene look like an attack that he couldn't defend against and roaque killing Bluestar. The show almost succeeded, but Fireheart stopped him in the final moments, and as a result, Tigerclaw was eliminated from Clan. As rooting, Tigerclaw gathered allied groups (including ShadowClan warriors Nightwhisper and Blackfoot) and killed Mousefur's brother, Runningwind. Tigerclaw then persuaded ShadowClan to accept it as their leader and became Tigerstar, the rank he worked hard to achieve. [14] From his new position of power, he was able to expand his true nature of other tribes, and secretly lured a pack of wild dogs to ThunderClan province get revenge on his former colleagues while saving only his kit, Bramblekit and Tawnykit. He plans only to save his kit, but not his partner, Goldenflower. To fix the final step of his plan, he killed Brindleface, which happened to be of Redtail, whom he killed as well, to give the dog a taste for cat blood when they entered the Thunderclan camp. [9] When the plan, too, was piled up by Firestar and the others, Tigerstar hatched plans to rule the entire jungle while using the brutal BloodClan service to intimidate other tribes into submission. Just as he has betrayed all his other former allies, he intends to betray BloodClan once he has united all the tribes under his rule. However, Tigerstar underestimated Scourge's power, the understated black tom who led BloodClan. When Scourge refused to comply with Tigerstar's orders to fight the Tribes, The Tigerstar angrily attacked him, but Scourge worries him easily by slicing him open from chin to tail with his dog's reinforced nails. This terrible blow drains all nine Tigerstar lives at once, causing him to die nine times more, one life after another. In the New Prophecy series, Tigerstar visits his children Brambleclaw and Hawkfrost in their dreams, preparing them to take over the Tribes for him. It was revealed that because of his evil actions he was denied access to StarClan, and was eliminated with Darkstripe into a dark forest and a shadow known as the Dark Forest (also called No Star Place). [15] He visited his two sons, Brambleclaw and Hawkfrost, in their dreams and taught them combat skills and leadership tactics. While Brambleclaw hesitated to be influenced by his father, Hawkfrost welcomed his advice and plot to control the Tribes in the same way as his father did. Brambleclaw killed Hawkfrost in Sunset. [13] Tigerstar also played a role in the Power of Three series as a battle mentor to Lionblaze, along with his dead son Hawkfrost. The consequences of his actions do not appear to cause any harm to the tribes; Lionblaze became a master fighter under The Tigerstar's influence and excelled in combat skills far beyond other apprentices. Whether Lionblaze is part of another plan hatched by Tigerstar from the shadows remains to be seen, although it seems unlikely. He was able to communicate with live cats; However, StarClan has said that he cannot. [citation required] The Lionblaze rebellion against Tigerstar in Sunrise after learning that Tigerstar was always known that Squirrelflight was not Jayfeather, Hollyleaf, and Lionblaze's mother. Lionblaze was able to defeat him, but refused to kill him and Tigerstar remained in the Dark Forest. In Last Hope, Tigerstar leads another Dark Forest cat in attacks against tribes, and Hawkfrost, Darkstripe, and Brokenstar were killed for the second time, he stepped forward, stating that the battle had only begun. [16] After a long duel, Tigerstar was killed by his longtime rival Firestar, fading indefinitely. Tigerclaw was guided by Thistleclaw, an ambitious and aggressive cat (this only enlarged Tigerstar himself personality). [4] Tigerclaw took Ravenpaw as an apprentice for a short time before Firepaw and Greypaw sent him to live with Barley. [1] He took two teammates, Goldenflower and Sasha. He has five live kits: Tawnypelt and Brambleclaw from Goldenflower, and Mothwing, Hawkfrost, and Tadpole from Sasha. Tadpole is not shown in the story as she drowns as a kit. [17] It was revealed in Firestar's efforts that Tigerstar was a direct descendant of the Birdflight kit, a SkyClan she-paint that was a Clouddstar couple, the leader of SkyClan, and he was sheltering at ThunderClan during skyClan exile, with two kits, Spottedpelt and Gorseclaw, who at the time, were too young to travel. This made him part of SkyClan, along with his aunt Spottedleaf. [11] It was also revealed in the Tribal Code and then Bluestar's Prophecy that Tigerstar was the son of Pinestar, the longtime Leader of ThunderClan who left his Tribe to become a kitypet while in his last life. Her mother was Leopardfoot, who was Patchpelt's, Willowpelt's, sister Spottedleaf and Redtail, and her sisters were Nightkit and Mistkit, both kits, who died shortly after birth. He was the last born, and the weakest of his rubbish. [4] He is also a cousin of Sorreltail, Sootfur and Rainwhisker (Willowpelt kit), Longtail and Graystripe (Patchpelt kit) and Sandstorm (Redtail kit). Grandcousin to Poppyfrost, Cinderheart, Molepaw, Honeyfern, Seedkit, and Llykit (Sorreltail kit), Stormfur, Feathertail, Briarlight, Bumblestripe, and Blossomfall (Greystripe kit) and Squirrelflight and Lepostor Grandcousin is great to Jayfeather, Hollyleaf and Lionblaze (Leafpool kit) Cherrykit and Molekit (Poppyfrost kit) and Lark That Sings At Dawn (Lark) and Pine That Clings To Rock (Pine) (Stormfur kit). His grandchildren are Flametail and Tigerheart, and his grandchildren are Dawn (Tawnypelt kit). Cinderpelt Cinderpelt, a dark grey cat with blue eyes, is a ThunderClan medicinal cat starting in the original series, and continues for most of the New Prophecy series. He originally trained to become an apprentice as an apprentice under Fireheart's mentor, but he was critically injured and therefore crashed by a monster when he stumbled upon a trap put by Tigerclaw to Bluestar, he permanently injured his leg and could not be a warrior. [8] Shortly after he began training as a medical cat apprentice under Yellowfang, he received the title of full medical cat in the Secret Forest (although he was still called Cinderpaw until the start of the Storm Rising). [12] Cinderpelt was one of Firestar's closest friends throughout the series, and remained a trusted adviser when he needed Spiritual. Initially excessive and bouncy, he often overwhelmed Firestar as an apprentice and often hits himself. After he started training as a medical cat, his personality personality mature and she appears to have older cat wisdom. He was in love with Firestar and he never stopped loving him, although Firestar himself never realized this and Cinderpelt never told him. Although he always wanted to be a warrior, he received new destiny and dedicated his life to becoming a legendary medical cat. Cinderpelt tried to save Silverstream while he gave birth to a Graystripe kit. He lost Silverstream, but if not for her, the kit (Stormkit and Featherkit, then Stormfur and Feathertail) would have died. However, Cinderpelt blamed himself for Silverstream's death. Cinderpelt was killed in the Twilight New Prophecy series while defending Sorreltail and a newborn baby kit at a nursery from a marauding badger. StarClan had originally destined Cinderpelt to be a warrior, and they did not plan to be caught in the Tigerstar trap at Thunderpath. As his loyalty test, StarClan told Cinderpelt his death that would take place in Twilight before it happened, a secret that Cinderpelt kept hidden despite his apprentice, Leafpool, plying to leave Clan. As a reward, Cinderpelt was redefined after his death into one of his defended kits, Cinderheart in the Power Of Three series. Cinderheart himself was unaware of this consciously, however he sometimes exhibited knowledge that he could not explain from his previous life, and knew the reinsurance in a dream. The implications of this second life, as well as the real destiny of Cinderpelt, have become aware when Jayfeather reveals it in a dream. Before the battle in Last Hope, Cinderheart chose to become a couple of warriors and Lionblaze, and Cinderpelt left Cinderheart's body, whispering, Thank you. Cinderpelt was guided by Yellowfang, and mentored his cousin Sandstorm's daughter Leafpool as his successor. Her mother was Frostfur, who made Thornclaw and Brightheart her siblings. His brother, Brackenfur, was the father of Cinderheart, a slightly confusing situation given Cinderpelt's retraction. This would imagine, then, that Cinderpelt's brother is now his father, although the new Cinderheart is still very much an individual cat in his own right. Given that Cinderpelt has a reincarnation, Cinderheart is bluestar-related since Sorreltail's father was Whitestorm, who is Bluestar's nephew. Spottedleaf Spottedleaf is beautiful, she-cat dark tortocks, with amber eyes, white nozzles, white legs, white chest, black tail bound, and black belts, chocolate, and dappled amber. His eyes have dark feather circles around them, and one is darker than the other. He also has a tail gold and black. He has played several small and slightly major roles in the series so far despite his early death in the Wild, after which he appeared in Firestar's dreams. Originally Spottedleaf was a ThunderClan drug cat at the start of the start Wild and beyond the prophecy of the original series Fire alone can save our Clan. Firestar, when first introduced into the camp, immediately took a desire to him and it was said that he began to restore his feelings. Unfortunately, he was killed by ShadowClan in an attempt to protect the kit in an unfair fight with Clawface and Brokenstar during a raid by ShadowClan near the end into the Wild. [1] Spottedleaf is probably the most prominent member of StarClan, often serving as a spiritual guide to the main characters of each series, especially Firestar, whom he fell in love with throughout his adventures in the original series. He is often seen as a source of comfort, and presents cryptic warnings and messages to cats informing them of future events. Being dead, he can't serve any more prominent role in the life of the cat he watches, a fact that is often a source of frustration to him about Firestar's budding relationship with his nice sandstorm. It was revealed that he indeed hoped things differ between them, and continued to love Firestar despite their existential differences. He accepted his position, however, and admitted Sandstorm in his own dreams to convince the live cat of Firestar's loyalty. [11] Having not found an apprentice at the time of his death, Yellowfang was a new drug cat when he joined ThunderClan. [1] It was revealed in Quest Firestar that Spottedleaf was a direct descendant of the Birdflight kit, SkyClan she-paint remaining with ThunderClan during SkyClan's exile. Therefore, he is part of SkyClan and is allowed to walk in the sky of SkyClan and StarClan. The same cat that lived with ThunderClan after SkyClan left also had tigerstar line-up descendants, make Spottedleaf related to Tigerstar, Brambleclaw, Mothwing, Hawkfrost, Tadpole, Tawnypelt, and kit Tawnypelt Flametail, Dawnpelt, and Tigerheart [11] Spottedleaf guided by Featherwhisker, the drug in front of him. [4] He walked in the dreams of Firestar, Leafpool, and Jayfeather. After Spottedleaf died, Yellowfang became a medicinal cat, taking Cinderpelt as an apprentice following his accident. Her parents were Adderfang and Swiftbreeze, turning her sister to Patchpelt, Leopardfoot, Willowpelt, and Redtail. She's also an aunt to Mistkit, Nightkit and Tigerstar (Leopardfoot kit), Sorreltail, Rainwhisker and Sootfur (Kit Willowpelt), and Sandstorm (Daughter of Redtail), and great aunts to Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, Hawkfrost, Mothwing and Tadpole (Tigerstar kit), Poppyfrost, Cinderheart, Honeyfern, and Molepaw (Sorreltail kit), and Leafpool and Squirrelflight (Sandstorm kit). She is a great aunt for Tigerheart, Flametail, and Dawn (Tawnypelt kit), Lionblaze, and Jayfeather (Leafpool kit), and Cherryfall and Molewhisker Molewhisker (Star kit). In Last Hope, he and StarClan fought alongside ancient, midnight badgers, and living tribes. During the battle, he saved Sandstorm from Mapleshade, but killed himself in the process. As a StarClan cat, this led to its spirit of permanently fading. But he knew this had to happen, one last gift to his beloved Firestar. Cloudtail Cloudtail, a long-pitched white tom with round blue eyes, is a ThunderClan hero first introduced as a kit, Cloudkit, in Fire and Ice. He is the son of Princess, sister kitypet Firestar, and Oliver and therefore is Firestar's nephew. He has four rubbish, Zack, Taylor, Nami, and Livy. Having learned that her kit would be given by her Twoleg owner, the Princess gave her her eldest kit to Firestar, because she wanted her to be a hero, like Firestar. Initially, Cloudkit was rejected by many ThunderClan members, including Bluestar himself, for Clan's refusal to admit another kitypet into his ranks. Cloudtail grew up as a disrespectful, annoying, strong-mouthed apprentice who often refuses to hear his mentor, Firestar. He is quite slow to understand the code of warriors and often takes selfish action that benefits himself rather than the Tribe. His loyalty to Clan was eventually established when, after sneaking to get food from Twolegs, he was arrested and taken to the suburb on the other side of WindClan province near barley farms. Firestar and Sandstorm saved him with the help of Ravenpaw. On his return to ThunderClan, he was peeled with questions and he referred to his time with Twolegs as 'catching up' and greatly exaggerating his story. The event serves to strengthen Cloudtail's place in the Tribe, and he behaves in a more mature way against his Tribe afterwards. Despite being a loyal warrior, Cloudtail has maintained many of his attitudes and is one of the most aggressive cats in the Klan; she is famous for her sharp tongue and is often one of the first cats to jump on the prospect of a fight. Cloudtail did not believe in StarClan in the first series, making him one of Clan's two cats in the series to do so (the other was Mothwing, the RiverClan medical cat). He showed a far softer side when dealing with his partner, Brightheart, however. Cloudtail is primarily responsible for coaching Brightheart to be able to fight effectively despite his injuries. His personality aside, Cloudtail was friendly to most cats (provided they were not from other Tribes). He is one of the best climbers and has the best tracking capabilities in the Klan. [11] Cloudtail two daughters, and two sons. She first had a daughter with Brightheart, Whitewing. Then in Last Hope, he and Brightheart had another daughter, Amberkit, and two sons, Dewkit and Snowkit (Now Ambermoon, Dawnose, and Snowbush). He is the grandfather of kit Lilyheart and Snowbush, Honeypaw, Honeypaw, and Larkpaw. As Firestar's nephew, he also shared relatives with all of Firestar's direct lines, including Leafpool, Squirrelflight, and Jayfeather, Hollyleaf, and Lionblaze. During the second half of the New Prophecy series, he showed interest in Daisy, a horse cat. He didn't realize the fact that Daisy was in love with him, but when he realised he hurt his partner Brightheart, he resolved to stay with Brightheart, and rekindled his relationship with him. [13] Cloudtail had mentored Cinderheart, Rainwhisker, and Toadstep as well as temporarily trained Flamepaw of ShadowClan when Tawnypelt and his kit briefly left ShadowClan for ThunderClan in Long Shadows. He's grandfather to Dovewing and Ivypool. Brightheart Brightheart, a white she-paint cat with ginger patches along his back, a ginger tail, one lost eye and an undeterred ear, is a ThunderClan warrior introduced in the Secret Forest. Brightpaw, along with fellow apprentices Cloudpaw, Thornpaw, and Swiftpaw, remained apprentices for an extraordinary period of time due to bluestar betrayal following Tigerclaw's betrayal. [12] Brightpaw developed a strong friendship with Cloudpaw and was the first apprentice to congratulate him after his promotion to heroic status, while other apprentices were jealous and angry that they were not promoted as well. In the Dangerous Trail, Brightpaw joined an unauthorized expedition led by Swiftpaw into a dog pack lair in an attempt to prove themselves worthy of being a warrior. However, the mission is a failure: Swiftpaw was killed, and Brightpaw was seriously injured by a pack of dogs. Brightheart's half-face was unhappy because of his injuries, including a lost eye and a scarred ear that led Bluestar to give his hero's name Lostface. Firestar then turned this to Brightheart when he became leader. Although initially not praised by his injuries, Brightheart could soon develop, with the help of Cloudtail, a battle system that uses the sight of one side, making it effective to fight as any other hero. [9] He reprises from sight of his own face and occasionally flashes when other cats are afraid of his scarred face. However, Brightheart is warm and kind to many warriors in the Tribe. He adopted an unofficial medical cat duty during the semi-finals of the New Prophecy series, becoming the jealous owner of Leafpool, but quickly returned to hero after Leafpool became ThunderClan's main medical cat. In Twilight, Brightheart holds grudges for Daisy, who often flirts and spends time with her partner, Cloudtail. [18] However after Leafpool pointed out to Cloudtail that he hurt Brightheart, Daisy told Brightheart that Cloudtail loved Brightheart. Brightheart is guided by Whitestorm, who is also mentoring his cousin Sandstorm, and has since taken Sandstorm's grandson, Jayfeather as an apprentice, an apprentice, this was only temporary because Jayfeather then took on the role of a medical cat. He appears to have been hurt by this, perhaps due to him desperate to prove to himself and the Tribe that he can still function as well as the usual warriors. Despite Jaypaw's attitude towards him during his apprenticeship, he was able to taste his feelings and sympathize warmer towards him when becoming a medicinal cat. [19] His mother was Frostfur, who made him the brothers Thornclaw, Cinderpelt, and Brackenfur. She and her partner, Cloudtail, now have two daughters and two sons. Whitewing is their oldest daughter, born ahead of her siblings. Then, Brightheart and Cloudtail had another daughter, Amberkit, and two sons, Snowkit and Dewkit, during the Last Hope. She's also an aunt to Poppyfrost, Honeyfern, Cinderheart, and Molepaw (Brackenfur kit) grandchildren to Cherrykit and Molekit (Poppyfrost kit), and grandmother to Dovewing, Ivypool (Whitewing kit), Leafpaw, Larkpaw, and Honeypaw (Snowbush and Lilyart Brackenfur Brackenfur, tom tabby golden brown muscles, are ThunderClan warriors first introduced in Fire and Ice as an apprentice, Brackenpaw. He is the son of Frostfur and rubbish Cinderpelt, Brightheart, and Thornclaw, and he trained as an apprentice under Firestar and Graystripe. [8] Firestar, he was a Fireheart at the time, often taking over his training when Graystripe left the camp to meet Silverstream despite meeting cats outside his own Tribe opposite the warrior code, when he became a hero in the Secret Forest. [12] He was considered by Firestar to be ThunderClan's deputy in Sunset, but was not selected after Leafpool received a sign from StarClan that he interpreted as an indication of choosing Brambleclaw instead. [13] In the New Prophecy series, Brackenfur took Sorreltail as a couple, and had six kits with him: Molepaw (who died of illness between The New Prophecy and Power of Three series).[19] Poppyfrost, Honeyfern (who later died in Sunrise by being bitten by a snake),[20] Cinderheart, was later revealed to be a re-explanation of Cinderpelt, his sister, as well as Llykit and Seedkit, who were born in the Omen Star series. [21] He is the grandfather of Cherrykit and Molepaw (Poppyfrost kit). Brackenfur doesn't have an apprentice at the moment but has been Tawnypelt's mentor (before he left ThunderClan to go to ShadowClan), Whitewing, and Hollyleaf. He also coached the Tigerpaw of ShadowClan for a while when Tawnypelt and his kit left ShadowClan for ThunderClan in Long Shadows. [22] Ravenpaw Ravenpaw, a sleek, almost all black person (except the tip of his tail and a little handsome in his chest, white) tom with green eyes, is the current loner, first introduced as thunderclan device into the wild. After Firepaw was accepted into the forest, he trained together with Graypaw and Firepaw Firepaw all three became good friends. Ravenpaw was nervous and embarrassed around his colleagues, mostly due to the fact that his mentor, Tigerclaw, treated him hard and often muted in front of other warriors. Part of this is because Ravenpaw saw the murder of Tigerclaw Redtail, ThunderClan's deputy. Eventually Tigerclaw decided that Ravenpaw's storytelling abilities were too dangerous, and a plot to kill him to keep his secrets safe. Firepaw discovered this, and along with Graypaw, showed Ravenpaw across the WindClan border to shelter in barn Barley, while telling the rest of the Tribe that he was dead. [1] Firepaw brought Ravenpaw to the barn, and he seemed to enjoy his life with Barley. He lost his old nervousness and became more confident and (Snowfur, parents), great-grandchildren of Goosefeather (Moonflower's brother), cousins to Tigerstar , Mistkit and Nightkit (Leopardfoot kit), Sandstorm (Redtail's daughter) , grandcousin to Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, Tadpole, Mothwing and Hawkfrost (Tigerstar kit) and similar to Mistyfoot, Stonefur, Mosskit (Bluestar kit), and Reedhyfur Sorreltail Sorreltail, the tortoise and white he cats with amber eyes, is the ThunderClan warrior, the only daughter of Willowpelt and Whitestorm and only sisters Sootfur and Rainwhisker. Introduced in The Darkest Hour as Sorrelkit, a challenging young kit, he followed his half-brother Darkstripe and caught him talking to Blackfoot, a ShadowClan deputy, in ThunderClan province during the book's events. He was spotted by Darkstripe, who then tricked him into eating death to keep him quiet about his treacherous. After recovering, he told Firestar what Darkstripe did to him, bringing his exile from ThunderClan. [10] He was an apprentice, of Sorrelpaw, in Firestar's Quest, guided by his cousin Sandstorm, although due to Sandstorm being away from ThunderClan on his way to find SkyClan during the book events, Sorrelpaw was temporarily guided by Dustpelt. [11] Between Firestar's Quest and Midnight, Sorrelpaw was attacked by a monster, injuring his shoulder. Sorrelpaw eventually recovered under Cinderpelt's care, but had to train longer than a regular apprentice. At midnight, Sorrelpaw eventually received his hero's name, Sorreltail, and became a good friend with Leafpool. Whenever Leafpool needs to go out, he ask Sorreltail to go with him. [27] When the four entitlements reached their new lakehouse, Sorreltail fell in love with Brackenfur and they were Friend. Sorreltail gave birth to his kit in Twilight during the unexpected badger attack, but was rescued by Cinderpelt, who died trying to defend Sorreltail and his kit. In the end, she gave birth to four kits, Molepaw (dead), Poppyfrost, Honeyfern (dead), and Cinderheart, named in honor of Cinderpelt, who was ironic because Cinderheart was a redefined form of Cinderpelt - although Cinderheart did not know itself. [13] Later in The Forgotten Warrior, Sorreltail and Brackenfur announced that he was carrying the kit again, and in the book's final chapter, Sorreltail gave birth to two kits, which he named Seedkit and Lilykit. After 'Last Hope', Sorreltail died of his wounds. Sorreltail is also great for Patchpelt, Leopardfoot, Spottedleaf and Redtail (siblings Willowpelt), grandsons to Swiftbreeze and Aderdfang (Parents of Willowpelt) and Snowfur and Thistleclaw (parents of Whitestorm), grandchildren of Rosetail, Sweetpaw (sisters Thistleclaw) and Bluestar (Snowfur sisters), grandchildren of Windflight and Poppydawn (parents of Thistleclaw) and Moonflower and Stormtail (Snowfur's parents), great enough to Goosefeather (Moonflower's brother), and Pinestar , cousin to Tigerstar, Mistkit and Nightkit (Leopardfoot kit) , Longtail (Son of Patchpelt), and Sandstorm (daughters Redtail), second cousins to Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, Tadpole, Mothwing and Hawkfrost (Tigerstar kit), Squirrelflight and Leafpool (daughters Sandstorm), and Hawkfrost Stonefur, Mosskit (Bluestar kit), Greymist, Reedwhisker (Mistyfoot kit), Mallownose and Sneezejaw (Greymist kit), and Jayfeather, Hollyleaf and Lionblaze (Leafpool kit). She is half-sister to Greystripe, making her aunt to Stormfur, Feathertail, Briarlight, Blossomfall, and Bumblestripe. The Power of Three Series of Power Three series includes events in the story from The Sight to Sunrise. The series is centered on children Brambleclaw and Squirrelflight, Lionblaze, Hollyleaf, and Jayfeather, and prophecy made about them. Berrynose Berrynose is a cream-colored Tom, the son of Daisy and Smoky, a liar of Mousewhisker and Hazeltail, and half brothers Rosepetal and Toadstep. He was first introduced as a young kit named Berry in Twilight. Her mother, Daisy, took her and her rubbish away from the horse where they were born so that Twolegs inhaled it wouldn't take them away. After ThunderClan's patrols found them, they joined ThunderClan and Berry was named Clan berrykit. [18] He was the most challenging of his rubbish, and he accidentally ventured into a fox trap while sneaking out of a camp exploring in Sunset and losing half his tail. [13] The event caused him paranoid about his hero's name, afraid Firestar would give him a ridiculous name, "Berrystumpytail". He is introduced as an apprentice, Berrypaw, in The Sight, guided by Brambleclaw. [19] He was shown to be an arrogant and disrespectful cat similar to Darkstripe, especially after he was made a hero at Outcast. [31] He criticised despite minor errors made by apprentices and refused to hear any criticism directed at him. It was revealed that Honeyfern had a crush on him. In Sunrise they are both seen getting better and considered love given that they suggest that they will have a kit together. He grieved when he died from a snake bite. [20] At the Omen of the Stars series, Berrynose is the father of Cherryfall and Molewhisker by Poppyfrost. Honeyfern's sister. Poppyfrost was very worried because she thought Berrynose was still in love with Honeyfern, but it was revealed that Berrynose loved her as much, more and only anxious to keep her safe. [28] Blossomfall A tortoise with white spots on his pelt, Blossomfall is the daughter of Greystripe and Millie and trash bumblestripe and Briarlight as well as half-sisters To Feathertail and Stormfur. He was first introduced at Eclipse, along with his garbage. [32] He joined the Dark Forest to become a better warrior, but later discovered that the Dark Forest would kill Toadstep His Mentor was Hazeltail. He also developed ruin on Toadstep. As a Moon Sign, Ivypool found that Blossomfall is being trained in the Dark Forest. He became very jealous of Briarlight as Millie acted as if Briarlight was her only kit. She also has Thornclaw as her partner. Birchfall Tom tabby chocolate light, Birchfall is Birchkit and Birchpaw in the New Prophecy series, and was first seen as a hero at The Sight. [19] Birchfall was the son of Ferncloud and Dustpelt, and was therefore the brother of Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Icecloud, Foxleap, Hollykit, and Larchkit, who were then two were rubbish. During the destruction of the forest in The New Prophecy, her litter, Hollykit and Larchkit, died of starvation, while her brother Shrewpaw died when a tree cutter walked over him. As a Birchkit, he made the Great Journey across the mountains with tribes to their new home, and became the first apprentice, Birchpaw, in the new Camp ThunderClan. [23] He was assassinated by Ashfur. Birchfall's current couple, Whitewing, stayed apprentice waiting for Birchfall to be able to get his hero's name with him. Birchfall is also the nephew of Ashfur (Ferncloud's brother), and Sandstorm (half-sister Ferncloud), grandson of Brindleface (Ferncloud's mother), grandson of Robinwing and Fuzzypelt (Brindleface's parents), grandchildren of Frostfur (sister Brindleface), and similar to Cinpelder Thornclaw, Brightheart, (Frostfur kit), Whitewing (Brightheart daughter), Poppyfrost, Honeyfern, Cinderheart and Molepaw (Brackenfur kit). Burung Kedia Kedia Dovewing and Ivypool with his partner, Whitewing. Birchfall is seen undergoing training in the Dark Forest by his daughter, Ivypool. Briarlight A dark chocolate she-cat, Briarlight is the daughters of Greystripe and Millie and rubbish Bumblestripe and Blossomfall, as well as half-sisters to Feathertail and Stormfur. He was first introduced in Eclipse, along with his garbage. [32] He fell ill with greencough when his mother, Millie, fell ill, but was in good health by Sunrise. He was almost bitten by a snake in Sunrise, but was rescued by his cousin Honeyfern, who died. [20] In the Fourth Apprentice he was guided by Thornclaw. [28] He became a hero at fading Echoes after being injured by a tree falling on his hind legs, permanently weakening them. [25] He felt very guilty, for not being able to hunt, or patrol for his Tribe (because of his broken spine). As a result, he wouldn't eat anything Millie brought it. Jayfeather's solution is for Briarlight to help him in his den (clean the herbs, make a ball of disquitos, and check the rats for bits of wood, dirt, and thorns). He also found a small scrap of Hollyleaf feathers at The Forgotten Warrior. Pale Tom's Bumblestripe with dark black stripes, Bumblestripe is the son of Greystripe and Millie and rubbish Blossomfall and Briarlight, as well as half brothers Feathertail and Stormfur. He is said to be the biggest kit on his trash and named for the stripes behind him, making him look like a bumblebee. He was first introduced at Eclipse, along with his garbage. [32] In the Fourth Apprentice, he was guided by Mousewhisker. [28] It was envisioned by Blossomfall that Bumblestripe was in love with Dovewing in the Moon Marks. [33] At The Forgotten Warrior, he was seen spending a lot of time with Dovewing and at the end of the book, he confessed to dovewing that he wanted to be more than friends. Following The Last Hope, Dovewing began a relationship with Bumblestripe, but at the Bramblestar Storm, their relationship ended. Cinderheart Cinderheart, a she-paint grey tabby with blue eyes, was the ThunderClan warrior first mentioned at the end of Twilight[18] and was officially introduced at The Sight. [19] He was initially revealed to be the retraction of Cinderpelt, a former ThunderClan medical cat. This fact became apparent to Leafpool in Sunset when Spottedleaf told him where to find Cinderpelt and show his Cinderkit. Cinderheart was not aware of his condition and very much his own character, despite his personality similar to Cinderpelt before he was injured: [13] Jayfeather's attempt to run in his dreams caused the original Cinderpelt personality to reveal himself at the former ThunderClan camp in the jungle, which implies that the spirit of Cinderpelt does indeed live under Cinderheart's consciousness. Leafpool and Jayfeather are the only realizing cats identity, although Leafpool wants to keep the secret from Cinderheart indefinitely, Jayfeather would like to reveal the truth to him, there thus adding heat to the indifference that is already clear of these two cats (as far as The Night Whispers, Jayfeather does not disclose the truth to Cinderheart or anyone else). He and Lionblaze seem to be teammates between the Fade Echoes, and the Night Whispers. She and Lionblaze seemed very in love, but Cinderheart broke the relationship when Lionblaze told her that she was part of the prophecy. He told him they couldn't be teammates, and as a result, he broke Lionblaze's heart. In The Forgotten Warrior, Jayfeather convinced him that he and Lionblaze could be teammates. Cinderheart is StarClan's answer to Cinderpelt's dream of becoming a warrior. He became an apprentice under Cloudtail along with Jayfeather, Lionblaze and Hollyleaf, his best friend, etc. However, in an ironic twist of fate, he fell out of the tree branch on the Dark River and injured his leg, in fact the same leg that Cinderpelt was injured. [34] He was able to recover in part, but introduced him during his assessment in Eclipse and thrown into a state of depression (Cinderpaw's desire to become a warrior was as strong as Cinderpelt's, although it is not known whether Cinderpelt himself influenced this personality). Jayfeather taught him to swim to stretch and build muscle without holding them, and at the end of Eclipse, Cinderpaw was able to walk and walk normally and receive his hero's name. [32] Cinderpelt's original destiny was met, it is not known whether Cinderheart's reincarnation would contribute to future events. At the end of Eclipse, when he was given his hero's name, Firestar named Cinderheart... to honor those warriors who have gone before. [32] It is unclear whether Firestar referenced Cinderpelt or not. Although Cinderheart is the reincarnation of Cinderpelt, in this new life she is the daughter of Sorreltail and Brackenfur and sister Molepaw, who died from an illness that did not respond to Leafpool's herbs. Poppyfrost and Honeyfern are also his siblings. Brackenfur and Cinderpelt are siblings so Cinderpelt and his retraction is actually related, Cinderheart becomes his nephew. During the Sunrise, Honeyfern died, and Cinderheart was grief. He told Hollyleaf he shouldn't have said anything at the Assembly. In the Omen of the Stars, Cinderheart is an Ivypaw mentor. [28] Cinderheart and Cinderpelt both fell in love with similar tom cats, as Lionblaze was firestar's heir, which may also be part Cinderheart's destiny. In Last Hope, he still can't decide whether to stay hero or to be a medicinal cat as in his past life. Lionblaze confronted him and told him that he had destiny, but he could choose. When he chose to become a warrior and chose to become a Lionblaze couple, the spirit of Cinderpelt Cinderpelt out of his body and mouth Thanks to Lionblaze before he travels to StarClan. In the Bramblestar Storm, he had three kits with Lionblaze: Hollykit, Fernkit, and Sorrelkit, then Hollytuft, Fernsong, and Sorrelstripe. Foxleap Tom's reddish salute, Foxleap was first introduced as a kit, Foxkit, on The Sight. [19] He is the son of Ferncloud and Dustpelt and Icecloud garbage as well as brothers to Shrewpaw, Hollykit, Larchkit, Spiderleg, and Birchfall. He became an apprentice, Foxpaw, at Outcast, and was guided by his cousin Squirrelflight, but due to the temporary departure of Squirrelflight to the Rush Water Tribe during the book, he was guided by his cousin Sandstorm Sorreltail for a while. [31] His aunt Sandstorm also took over as his mentor for Squirrelflight when he became a kit at Long Shadows. [26] It is said that he would like his heroic name to be Foxcatcher. Foxleap is the nephew of Ashfur's granddaughter (Ferncloud's brother) to Brindleface (Ferncloud's mother), heir to Cinderpelt, Thornclaw, Brackenfur, Brightheart (Frostfur kit), Honeyfern, Poppyfrost, Molepaw, Cinderheart (Kit Brackenfur) and Whitehe She's also uncle to Dovewing, Ivypool (daughters Birchfall), Rosepetal and Toadstep (Spiderleg kit). In the Bramblestar Storm, Foxleap is said to have died of his wounds shortly after a dark battle. This is confirmed in Dovewing Silence. Hazeltail Hazeltail is a gray-and-white she-cat, daughters Daisy and Smoky, rubbish Berrynose and Mousewhisker, and half-sisters Rosepetal and Toadstep. She was first introduced as a kit named Hazel in Twilight, when her mother Daisy took it and her rubbish was far from the horse where they were born so Twolegs there wouldn't take them away. After ThunderClan's patrols found them, they joined ThunderClan and Hazel was named Clan Hazelkit. [18] In Sunset, Spottedleaf visited the nursery and showed him and Mousewhisker (later Mousekit) butterflies, which he said they could catch, leading Leafpool to find out the truth about RiverClan's medical cat, Mothwing. [13] He was introduced as an apprentice, Hazelpaw, at The Sight, guided by Dustpelt,[19] and continued this apprenticeship until he became a hero, Hazeltail, in Outcast, along with his garbage. [31] In Sunrise, he met his father, Smoky, and Floss for the first time. Smoky looked proud of him and Floss was worried when he mentioned that Berrynose lost half his tail in a fox trap. [20] He is a Blossomfall mentor. In the Bramblestar Storm, he is said to be killed by greencough. Hollyleaf Hollyleaf, a slender black cat with green eyes, is a ThunderClan kit, an apprentice and warrior introduced The Sight. [19] He is one of the protagonists of the Power of Three series with brothers ThunderClan, Jayfeather and Lionblaze, and is in Sunrise. Initially, Hollyleaf chose to be a drug cat as a result of the respect she saw another cat giving Leafpool, the current medicinal cat, and wanted to be considered very important to her Tribe. He left this option after a short time, because he could not remember herbs well and easily disgusted when dealing with wounds and injuries. He developed an affinity for combat training and realized that he would serve his best as a warrior, and start training under Brackenfur. Hollyleaf studied under his mentor to be very loyal and devoted to following the warrior code. [19] As a result, Hollyleaf strongly disapproved of his brother Lionblaze's affinity for Heathertail, windClan she-paint. Hollyleaf is considered the most cunning and tied to the three-sibling warrior code, exposed to strategy thinking carefully rather than blindly rushing. He's not one of three in prophecy, despite both of his brothers. As a result, he has no power. He is devoted to the code of warriors and regards it as the basis of Clan's life, and is afraid to think of Clan operating without him. He has aspirations of becoming the leader of Clan, a function he feels best will serve his Tribe. His ideology is different from his brothers in this, as he always tries to figure out what will benefit all cats and not just himself. Hollyleaf seems extremely burdened with responsibility when learning prophecy concerning himself and his siblings. It was revealed in Long Shadows that Squirrelflight was not his mother. The parents were actually Leafpool and Crowfeather. In Long Shadows, Hollyleaf became so washed up with the code, he scared Jayfeather at some point. At the end of the book, she killed Ashfur to prevent her from telling the tribes that Squirrelflight was not her mother. [26] In Sunrise, she went crazy to have a daughter of a medical cat and a WindClan warrior thus broke the hero code. Finally, in the Assembly, she reveals to every cat that Squirrelflight and Brambleclaw are not parents of her and Lionblaze and Jayfeather, but it is Leafpool and Crowfeather. Later, he walked into a tunnel that collapsed on him, bringing most of the cat to believe he was dead. He also tried to kill Leafpool by asking him to eat death, but allowed him to go when Leafpool indicated that it would be more painful for him to live than to death. Hollyleaf's extreme delegation to the warrior code eventually led to his downing. While most think that Hollyleaf is part of Three, he really isn't. Instead, all three were related to Jayfeather, Lionblaze, Dovewing. He was shown to be alive in The Forgotten Warrior and he returned to ThunderClan. He is killed by dark forest hero Hawkfrost while helping kill Hawkfrost with Ivypool, who takes Hollyleaf back to ThunderClan in Last Hope and is seen walking out the rest of StarClan's spirit when they took Firestar to go to StarClan. She is the grandson of Jake and Nutmeg (Firestar's parents), and Redtail and Brindleface (Sandstorm's parents), she is half-sisters to Breezepelt (Nightcloud and Crowfeather parents), grandchildren of Firestar and Sandstorm (leafpool parents) and Ashfoot, WindClan's deputy (and mother of Crowfeather), great for Eaglekit (Crowfeather's brother) and Squirrelflight (sister Leafpool), grandson of the Princess (Sister Firestar), semi-grand-niece to Scourge , Ruby and Socks (half-firestar siblings) and heirs to Cloudtail (Firestar's nephew) , Whitewing (daughters Cloudtail), Dovepaw and Ivypaw (Whitewing's daughters). As his father, Crowfeather, was of direct descendants to Windstar and Gorsestar (WindClan's first and second leaders), Hollyleaf was their descendants as well. He's half WindClan, almost a quarter of ThunderClan, a one-quarter kittypet, and part SkyClan, because Spottedleaf is a Sandstorm aunt. Since Spottedleaf is directly related to the Birdflight kit (the Cloudstar pair), and Sandstorm is Hollyleaf's grandmother. Honeyfern Honeyfern is the light chocolate tabby she cats with blue eyes and daughters Brackenfur and Sorreltail. She is sister of Cinderheart, Poppyfrost, and Molepaw. He was first introduced as a kit, Honeykit, near the end of Twilight, and as an apprentice.[13] Honeypaw, on The Sight. She was dttored by Sandstorm, who also mentored her mother, Sorreltail. [19] He continued his apprenticeship for another series until he received his hero's name, Honeyfern, in Eclipse. [32] It was revealed that he had destroyed Berrynose. At Sunrise Berrynose began to restore affection. Soon after, he died bitten off a snake while saving the Briarkit, however. [20] In the Fourth Apprentice, Honeyfern saved Jayfeather from Breezepelt when Breezepelt attacked a ThunderClan drug cat in Moonpool. [28] Icecloud Icecloud was a white cat with bright blue eyes, first introduced as a kit, Icekit, in The Sight. [19] He was the daughter of Ferncloud and Dustpelt and trash Foxleap, as well as sisters Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Birchfall, Hollykit (who died before Great Journey) and Larchkit. Icepaw and Foxpaw shared compactly with Lionblaze, Jayfeather, and Hollyleaf before all three later became apprentices. He became an apprentice at Outcast, guided by Whitewing. [31] It is said that he would like his hero's name to be Icestorm. Icecloud is the nephew of Ashfur (Ferncloud's brother), grandson of Brindleface (Ferncloud's mother), grandson of Robinwing and Fuzzypelt (Brindleface parents), grandson of Frostfur (sister Brindleface), kin Cinder Thornclaw, Brackenfur, Brightheart (Frostfur kit), Honeyfern, Poppyfrost, Cinderheart (Brackenfur kit) and Whitewing (daughters Brightheart). She's also an aunt for Ivypaw (daughters Birchfall), Rosepetal and Toadstep (Kit Spiderleg). In the Bramblestar Storm, he is said to be killed by greencough. Jayfeather Jayfeather is a grey tabby tom with blue eyes, and he's blind. [19] He is the brother of Hollyleaf and Lionblaze as well as a half-brother of Breezepelt, and one of the three-series power protagonists with his siblings. Jayfeather is currently a full medical cat at ThunderClan. Initially, Jayfeather wanted to be a warrior, as he desired to be just as important as his litter to the Tribe and felt that the task of medical cats did not matter compared to the glory the warriors could experience. He started training heroes under his grandmother's cousin Brightheart, but soon exhausted. He did not receive much training and barely explored ThunderClan province. In the act of rebellion, Jayfeather decided to explore himself. This caused him to walk on a cliff in the middle of WindClan province and fall into the lake. Luckily, WindClan's patrol consisting of Crowfeather, Heatherpaw, Breezepaw, and Whitetail was nearby, but because of this, Jayfeather was scared of water after his father, Crowfeather, pulled him out. Later, Spottedleaf persuaded him to become a medicinal cat. Jayfeather was very aware of his situation and emphatically refused to be treated differently because of that, because he hated the thought of being cemented. [19] Despite his inability to see, the senses of other jayfeather were enormous and he was often able to navigate just like any other cat. His superior sense of smell allowed him to diagnose medical diseases immediately and from great distances, a clearly suitable nature for a medicinal cat. Jayfeather was able to hear and smell the cat approaching from a great distance, well before another cat nearby. In addition to the highest senses, Jayfeather was born with an extraordinary form of perception that allowed him to read the minds of other cats, as well as entering other cat dreams and listening to their conversations with StarClan members. It is reflected in Outcast that this ability to cover cats that do not fall under StarClan's jurisdiction, such as the Rush Water Tribe cat. [31] Jayfeather's mind-reading abilities could be blocked, however, if the intended target was aware of his intentions; Leafpool realized her son's ability and consciously would undermine his mind every time he didn't want him on his head. Jayfeather also couldn't read Sol's mind because his thoughts were so quick and much that he couldn't focus on him. [26] Jayfeather's personality was quite comparable to Yellowfang because he was usually grumpy and irritable. Jayfeather was the first to learn prophecy about himself and his siblings, and took meaning imagine that they are more important than any other cat and as it does most comply with their rules. He has stumbled upon a seemingly insignificant wood that inevitably removes the thoughts and feelings of past members of the Ancient Tribes, which used to live by the lake long ago. [32] Many fans had claimed that he had an affair with him[35] until he broke it deliberately in the Fourth Apprentice, after learning that Rock had twitched him. [28] Jayfeather felt he was on the verge of great discovery, his implications of having greater importance than StarClan. He was also aware of Cinderheart's re-convict. Despite this knowledge, Jayfeather seemed to care about his Clanmates and did quite as good as a medicine cat. Jayfeather has the abilities that other medicinal cats do not, such as walking in other cat dreams. One of the first times he did this was when he followed Leafpool to Moonpool and overheard his dreams. Throughout the series he has become more tolerant of the Clanmates and is less angry, mainly because of the liberal use of reading minds and being able to sympathize with their thoughts. It was revealed in Long Shadows that Squirrelflight was not his mother. [26] Prior to Sunrise's release, it was rumoured Leafpool and Crowfeather were his parents for their attitude and coloring. This was found to be true that led to Hollyleaf's death and during his naming ceremony, Leafpool felt a feeling of love for him, and, in the New Prophecy series, Leafpool and Crowfeather were alone together at some point when they ran out. He saved Firestar after he was struck by a fox in the Fourth Apprentice, although it was too late and he lost another life. She followed Poppyfrost (much pregnant with Berrynose, Cherrypaw and Molepaw kits) to Moonpool when she wanted to see Honeyfern again, and was attacked by Breezepelt, but Honeyfern drove her and another cat from the Dark Forest (Brokenstar) away. He was the first of three to learn about the battle between StarClan and dark Forest. [28] Jayfeather was Jay's Wing re-tracking, which was an ancient cat. [32] In Long Shadows, he met his beloved cat, Half Moon, who later became the first Teller of Mata Stone. Half Moon's golden reappeared in The Forget Warriors and said that he waited forever. He is the granddaughter of Jake and Nutmeg, Firestar's parents. He was also related to the leaders of BloodClan, Scourge, because Firestar and Scourge were half brothers. Lionblaze Lionblaze, tom tabby's golden brown muscles with amber eyes and thick fur around her neck, is the Protagonist of Power Three series with her sisters Jayfeather and Hollyleaf and is a half-breezepelt brother, a WindClan warrior. Him Secrets are taught by the spirit of Tigerstar and Hawkfrost about different fighting movements on the Dark River. A young WindClan apprentice named Heatherpaw convinced him to form a so-called playing clan in an underground tunnel, with the leader heatherpaw and his deputy was Lionblaze, under the assumed names Heatherstar and Lionclaw. Unknown Lionblaze falls in love with her, and she falls in love with her. Hollyleaf and Cinderheart learned about the meeting, and Hollyleaf threatened to tell. Lionblaze hated her nose. He enjoyed a secret night meeting very much, but fell behind in his training. One night, Lionblaze taught Heatherpaw a few steps Tigerstar and Hawkfrost was angry, then reprimanded him to teach combat techniques to the enemy. He told Lionblaze that Heatherpaw would probably use them against him in combat. Lionblaze disintegrated, and told Heatherpaw that she would never see it again. He was very hurt, but Lionblaze remained true to his words. [34] Soon his battle and hunting skills improved further and his mentor, Ashfur, was delighted. No one noticed his haunting visit with his explicit grandfather and uncle, and Hollyleaf noticed that his fighting skills outweighed levels for regular apprentices, and Brambleclaw recognized his father's struggle moves. He and other apprentices awful as Ashfur and Lionblaze embark on a dangerous kind of play-flight, where they act as if the others were enemies. Hollyleaf noted that Ashfur looked as though he hated Lionblaze with all his heart during the fight, but afterwards praised him and acted proudly. [19] [31] [32] Its power was the ability to remain disoriented during the fighting. [31] At the end of Eclipse, Lionblaze had arguments with Tigerstar and Hawkfrost. [32] This may be because of Tigerstar's teaching methods and his ongoing bullying if Lionblaze doesn't train the way Tigerstar wants him or if Lionblaze tries to talk to Tigerstar and Hawkfrost about the prophecy. He was selected for the Dovepaw mentor, the last of three in the Fourth Apprentice. He was chosen to find out what caused the water not to flow along with Dovepaw, Tigerheart and Toadfoot of ShadowClan, Petalfur and Rippletail of RiverClan, and Sedgewhisker and Whitetail of WindClan. [28] Since the start of the Omen Stars series, Lionblaze is getting closer to Cinderheart. In the Night Whispers, he asked Cinderheart if they became more than friends and he agreed that they were. However, she later learned that Lionblaze was part of the prophecy and claimed that, because StarClan had chosen her to be someone with greater destiny, she could not be her partner. He grew further when his life as Cinderpelt's reinvigoration was revealed. In Last Hope, however, he faces Cinderheart about destiny and they became teammates, while the spirit of Cinderpelt eventually joined StarClan. [36] Before Sunrise's release, it was speculated that Leafpool and Crowfeather were his parents. Also, in the latest New Warrior Email, it mentions certain trio parents Cats as well as shocking rumours about who might be really their mother, hints that the rumours may be true. It was revealed in Long Shadows that Squirrelflight was not his mother, and in Sunrise that Leafpool and Crowfeather were his real parents. Lionblaze is also half brother of Breezepelt (another Crowfeather son), grandson of Firestar and Sandstorm (Leafpool's parents) and Ashfoot, former deputy WindClan (and mother of Crowfeather), nephew of Eaglekit (Crowfeather's brother) and Squirrelflight (sister Leafpool), grandson of the Princess (sister Firestar), grandson of Jake and Nutmeg (Firestar's parents), half-grandson of Sc Ruby, and Socks (half brothers Firestar) and Ashfur and Ferncloud (half-siblings Sandstorm) and similar to Cloudtail (Firestar nephew) , Whitewing (daughters Cloudtail), Dovewing and Ivypool (daughter Whitewing). He is also a kin to Tigerstar, Nightkit and Mistkit (Sandstorm's cousin). He is the father of Hollytuft, Sorrelstripe, and Fernsong (Cinderheart kit). As his father, Crowfeather, was of direct descent to wind and Gorsestar (windClan's first and second leader), Lionblaze was their descendant, too. He's half WindClan, a ThunderClan quarterback, a quarterback kittypet and part of SkyClan, because Sandstorm's aunt is Spottedleaf. He was the reinsurance of the Lions Row, the Ancient Tribal Cat. Mousewhisker Mousewhisker is a grey and white Tom, the son of Daisy and Smoky, brother of Berrynose and Hazeltail, and half brothers Rosepetal and Toadstep. She was first introduced as a kit named Mouse in Twilight, when her mother Daisy took her and her rubbish away from the horse spot where they were born so that Twolegs there wouldn't take them away. After ThunderClan's patrols found them, they joined ThunderClan and Mouse was named Clan Mousekit. [18] In Sunset, Spottedleaf visited the nursery and showed him and Hazelkit butterflies, which he said they could hunt, leading Leafpool to know the truth about RiverClan's medical cat, Mothwing. [13] He later an apprentice, Mousepaw, at The Sight, guided by Spiderleg,[19] and became a hero, Mousewhisker, in Outcast. [31] In the battle at Eclipse he injured his eyes so that Hollypaw guided him out of the battle. [32] He is a Bumblestripe mentor. He also practiced in the Dark Forest. Millie Millie is a she-paint silver tabby, a former kittypet. She was first officially introduced at The Sight (the first book in the Power of Three series), when she and her partner Greystripe appeared on the island used by Clan cats for the Assembly. While all the cats in each Clan are happy to see Greystripe alive, they are worried about his kittypet mate. [19] He have three kits: Bumblestripe, Briarlight and Blossomfall. In Long Shadows, Millie was infected with greencough. Silver Watches on him, as Greystripe does not deserve to have his heart broken because Greystripe went into the cycle of grief after the dead Silverstream had his kit. [26] In Sunrise, Honeyfern died rescuing Briarkit from being bitten by a venomous snake. [20] In the Fourth Apprentice, his kit is seen as an apprentice. [28] In the Fading Echoes his kit received their heroic names, Briarlight, Blossomfall, and Bumblestripe. [25] In the Search for Apprentices, he was an elderly person. Poppyfrost Poppyfrost is a tortoise and white she-cat and daughters Brackenfur and Sorreltail. He is also sister of Cinderheart, Honeyfern, and Molepaw. He was first introduced as a kit, Poppykit, near the end of Twilight,[13] and as an apprentice, Popppypaw, in The Sight, guided by his uncle, Thornclaw. In The Sight, Popppypaw came close to dying due to extreme green cases, but Jayfeather cursed him by entering his dreams and leading him from StarClan, and he recovered. [19] He continued his apprenticeship until Eclipse, when he received his heroic name, Poppyfrost, along with his sister Honeyfern. [32] At the end of the Fourth Apprentice, he gave birth to two unnamed kits, with Berrynose becoming the father. [28] Later in the Fading Echoes, they were called Cherykit and Moleciti (in honor of his deceased brother Molepaw). [25] In the Fourth Apprentice, he told Jayfeather that he always loved Berrynose, even when Honeyfern was alive. He's great for Rainwhisker, Sootfur (Sorreltail brothers), Brightheart, Thornclaw and Cinderpelt (Brackenfur sisters), grandchildren of Willowpelt and Whitestorm (parents of Sorreltail) and Frostfur (Brackenfur mother), grandniece to Patchpelt, Leopardfoot (willowpelt siblings) and Brindleface, Dustpelt and Ravenpaw (Frostfur siblings), grandchildren of Snowfur and Thistleclaw (Whitestorm Parents), Swiftbreeze and Aderdfang (Parents of Willowpelt) and Robinwing and Fuzzypelt (parents), Rosetail (Thistleclaw's sisters) and Bluestar (Snowfur's sister), great-great-granddaughter to Windflight and Poppydawn (Thistleclaw's parents), Stormtail and Moonflower (Snowfur's parents), great-great-grandniece to Goosefeather (Moonflower's brother), cousin to Whitewing (Brightheart's daughter), grandcousin to Dovewing and Ivypool (Whitewing's daughters) and kin to Ferncloud, Ashfur (Brindleface's kits), Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Larchkit, Hollykit, Birchfall, Foxleap, Icecloud (Ferncloud's kits), Toadstep, Rosepetal (Spiderleg's kits), Tigerstar, Mistkit, Nightkit (Leopardfoot's kits) , Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, Hawkfrost, Mothwing, Tadpole (Tigerstar kit), Tigerheart, Dawnpelt, Flametail (Tawnypelt kit), Stonefur, Mistyfoot, Mosskit (Bluestar kit). Poppyfrost also related to SkyClan by Swiftbreeze became a direct descendant of Daughter Spottedpelt, Cloudstar and sister to Gorseclaw, whose direct descendants are Sweettribar, Sweettribar, to Pinestar, the former ThunderClan leader. Whitewing Whitewing is a white she-paint cat with green eyes. He was first introduced as a kit, Whitekit, in the Firestar's Quest epilogue although he was almost an apprentice already,[11] and as an apprentice, Whitepaw, throughout the New Prophecy series. He is one of Cloudtail and Brightheart's two daughters. Between Sunset and The Sight, he became a warrior, Whitewing. He was appointed later than he might be because he himself had wanted to remain behind so Birchpaw wouldn't be the only apprentice. This was later confirmed when Birchfall complained about him getting an apprentice, with Sandstorm reminding him that Whitewing asked to stay the apprentice. [19] He was guided by his uncle Brackenfur and received his first apprentice, Icepaw, in Outcast. [31] It was confirmed at the end of Long Shadows that he was carrying a Birchfall kit, so therefore his status is now the queen. [26] In Sunrise he gave birth to two kits, Dovewing and Ivypool, where Dovewing would be the last cat in the prophecy of the Power of Three, but as revealed in Last Hope, Dovewing was, in fact, the third cat, with Firestar being the last and fourth. [28] Whitewing is also the grandson of the Princess (mother of Cloudtail) and Frostfur (Brightheart's mother), great for Firestar (Sisters), Brindleface, Longtail, Dustpelt and Ravenpaw (Frostfur sisters), grandchildren to Fuzzypelt and nice Robinwing (Frostourfur's parents), Ruby and Socks (half-Princess siblings), great for Cinderpelt, nice for Cinderpelt, Thornclaw and Brackenfur (Brightheart siblings), cousins to Honeyfern, Molepaw, Poppyfrost and Cinderheart (Brackenfur kit) and similar to Leafpool , Squirrelflight (daughter of Firestar) , Jayfeather, Lionblaze, Hollyleaf (Leafpool kit), Sandstorm, Ferncloud and Ashfur (Brindleface kit), Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Hollykit, Larchkit, Birchfall, Icecloud and Foxleap (Ferncloud kit) and Toadstep and Rosepetal (kit Spiclegle) Rosepetal Rosepetal is a dark cream he-cat was first introduced at Outcast. [31] It was revealed he had smashed tom ThunderClan, Foxleap. She is the daughter of Daisy and Spiderleg, trash Toadstep, and half-sisters Mousewhisker, Berrynose, and Hazeltail. He and Toadstep made the hero in the Fourth Apprentice. His hero's name is Rosepetal, his mentor is Squirrelflight. Rosepetal is also great for Shrewpaw, Larchkit, Hollykit, Birchfall, Icecloud and Foxleap (sisters Spiderleg), cousins to Ivypool and Dovewing (daughters of Birchfall), grandchildren of Ferncloud and Dustpelt (parents of Spiderleg), grandson of Ashfur (Brothers Ferncloud), grandson of Brindleface (Mother of Ferncloud), great grandchildren of Robinwing and Fuzzypelt (parents to Frostfur (Brindleface's sister) and heir to the Thornclaw, Brightheart, Brackenfur (Frostfur kit), Honeyfern, Molepaw, Poppyfrost, Cinderheart, Lilyheart, and Seedpaw (Brackenfur kit), Cherrypaw and Molepaw (Poppyfrost kit), Dewnose, Ambermoon, Whitewing, and Snowbush (kithyfur). Also related to firestars, Jayfeather, Lionblaze, and Hollyleaf. Toadstep Toadstep is a black-and-white tom, first introduced at Outcast, along with her sister Rosepetal. [31] He is the son of Daisy and Spiderleg, and a half-brother of Mousewhisker, Berrynose, and Hazeltail. In the Fourth Apprentice, Toadstep was given his hero's name. [28] He was captured by Cloudtail. Toadstep is also a nephew of Shrewpaw, Larchkit, Hollykit, Birchfall, Icecloud and Foxleap (sisters Spiderleg), cousins to Ivypool and Dovewing (daughters birchfall), grandchildren of Ferncloud and Dustpelt (parents of Spiderleg), grandson of Ashfur (Fernclou Sisters, grandchildren to Brindleface (Ferncloud's mother), great grandchildren of Robinwing and Fuzzypelt (Brindleface parents), grandchildren of Frostfur (Brindleface sister) and similar to Cinderpelt, Thornclaw, Brightheart , Brackenfur (Frostfur kit), Honeyfern, Molepaw, Poppyfrost, Cinderheart, Lilykit, Seedkit (Brackenfur kit), Cherrypaw and Molepaw (Kit Poppyfrost) and Whitewing (daughters Brightheart). In the Bramblestar Storm, he is said to have died of greencough. Omen of the Stars Series Omen of the Stars is the fourth series at the Warriors. The titles of all six books were revealed: The Fourth Apprentice and Fading Echoes. The title of the third book is the Night Whispers. A fourth book has also come out, called the Moon Marks, which came out in April 2011. The fifth book is called The Forgotten Warrior. The last book in the series is titled The Last Hope. The four series centered on two brothers, Dovewing and Ivypool, and for which one of them was the third cat in prophecy, as well as around Lionblaze and Jayfeather, two more cats ahead. Dovewing Dovewing is a grey-haired pale she-cat whose eye color has been described as green, blue, and gold. She is whitewing daughter and Birchfall, and sister to Ivypool. She was born at the end of Sunrise and mentioned that either she or her sister were the third cat from prophecy, because Hollyleaf wasn't really part of the prophecy. [20] His mentor was Lionblaze. In the Fourth Apprentice, it is revealed that its power is the ability to listen and see things very far. Dovepaw was later found to be the third cat prophecy. While Dovepaw is excited about being the third cat in prophecy, he hates to hide secrets from his friends. [28] In the Night Whispers, Dovepaw finally told ivypaw why he had a good sense; Ivypaw forgives it for not for a long time. When he asked Jayfeather why he needed to keep secret from every cat, he asked him if he was want to be special. He says yes, even if he doesn't. During his heroic assessment, when he decided to turn off his power because other cats could hunt without special power, he admitted in his thoughts that Ivypool deserved to be a warrior more than he did as he peeked for Thunderclan in the Dark Forest every night. It is also rumoured that Dovepaw may have been ruined on Tigerheart from ShadowClan. This was confirmed in the Night Whispers, when both of them acknowledged their feelings to each other. They began meeting at the ShadowClan-ThunderClan border at night, and at one point Dovepaw mentioned to Tigerheart that ThunderClan had some catmint, a herb that could cure a sick shadow drug cat Littlecloud, but that should be a secret. Tigerheart told ShadowClan this information, and Ivypaw was arrested and traded for catmint. [36] In the books afterwards, Tigerheart seemed to want to stay away from Dovewing to avoid talking to him, although he did not believe that Jayfeather killed his brother Flametail, unlike dawnpelt their garbage. In the Moon Mark, Dovepaw got his hero's name: Dovewing. In The Forgotten Warrior, she falls in love with her bumblestripe counterpart. Dovewing is also the grandson of Cloudtail and Brightheart (Whitewing parents) and Dustpelt and Ferncloud (Birchfall's parents), grandchildren of the Princess (Cloud mother), Frostfur (Brightheart mother), Brindleface (mother of Ferncloud) and kinpo Squirrelflight (daughter of Firestar), Jayfea Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, Sorreltail, Honeyfern, Molepaw, Cinderheart and Poppyfrost. During his heroic assessment, Icecloud fell through a tunnel purportedly buried Hollyleaf. Dovewing then saved him. Jayfeather and Lionblaze then investigated the tunnel for themselves, and concluded that their sister Hollyleaf might not die, as previously thought. Ivypool Ivypool, a tabby-and-white she-cat silver with dark blue eyes, is Whitewing's daughter and Birchfall, and sister dovewing. She was born at the end of Sunrise and mentioned that either she or her sister were the third cat from prophecy, because Hollyleaf wasn't really part of the prophecy. [20] When revealed by Vicky Holmes that Dovepaw would become the Fourth Apprentice, she also stated that Ivypaw would not be happy about her sister's new discovered powers. Ivypaw's mentor is Cinderheart. In the Fourth Apprentice, Ivypaw became jealous of Dovepaw as he was able to continue his journey upwards to find a source of drying lake problems (which was later exposed to fans). At the end of the book when Lionblaze and Dovepaw recover, he seemed to overcome his jealousy. [28] But in Fading Ivypaw became jealous of her sister again (this is after Firestar found that Jayfeather, Lionblaze and Dovepaw are Three). Then he started starting trained in his dreams by Hawkfrost, thinking he's a StarClan hero. Ivypaw then began to feel special because Dovepaw was never visited by a StarClan warrior, he would tell me. Initially Ivypaw seemed happy to inform his sister that she was visited by a StarClan cat in her dreams, but decided against her later than jealousy. He's doing this as well because he wants to have a secret as well. [25] In the Night Whispers, he was kidnapped by ShadowClan and traded for catmint because Littlecloud was sick with greencough. He continued to visit dark Forests in the Night Whispers, but noticed their malicious intentions towards the end of the book and decided to continue going to the Dark Forest to spy on them for Dovepaw, Jayfeather, and Lionblaze. While there, Brokenstar told him to kill the dead Flametail, to keep him from helping ShadowClan. He agreed to gain Brokenstar's trust, but was stopped by Tigerheart. [36] In the Moon Mark, he got his hero Ivypool's name. Ivypaw is also great for Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Icecloud, Foxleap, Hollykit, and Larchkit (Birchfall siblings), cousins to Rosepetal and Toadstep (Spiderleg kit), grandchildren of Cloudtail and Brightheart (Whitewing parents) and Dustpelt and Ferncloud (Birchfall's mother fathers), greets for Thornclaw, Cinderpelt, and Brackenfur (Brightheart siblings), Frostfur, Brindleface, and Ravenpaw (Sisters Dustpelt) and Ashfur (Brothers Ferncloud), nice half for Sandstorm (half-sisters Ferncloud) and Longtail (half brother Dustpelt) , grandson of the Princess (mother of Cloudtail) , Frostfur (Brightheart mother) and Brindleface (Ferncloud's mother), great for Firestar (Princess brother), and kin to Leafpool, Squirrelflight, Jayfeather, Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, Honeyfern, Molepaw, Cinderheart and Poppy Mapleshade Mapleshade are large, especially ginger, tortoise and white she cats with amber and long, thick, hairy eyes, white tails. He was a Dark Forest warrior who was originally a ThunderClan warrior. However, he eventually fell in love with a RiverClan tom called Appledusk and they had a kit together. When ThunderClan discovered this, Mapleshade and his kit were gathered as traitors. While fleeing ThunderClan to RiverClan along with his three kits to be with his partner, the Mapleshade kit was drifted and drowned in a raging river. Appledusk blamed Mapleshade for the kit's death, and he found himself unassailable in RiverClan as well. Heartbroken and angry, Mapleshade swore regular grudges on tribes. He killed Ravenwing, a ThunderClan medical cat who had revealed his secret and then Frecklewish, the daughter of a ThunderClan leader who had watched her kit drown and not steps to help. Finally, when Appledusk takes another cat as his partner, after promising to love Mapleshade forever, he kills Appledusk. Appledusk. At the time, Appledusk's new couple were already expecting a kit. Mapleshade knew Appledusk would live in this kit and so swore revenge on his former partner's descendants. Because of the murders he committed, Mapleshade's spirit was denied entry to StarClan and instead sent to the Dark Forest. Mapleshade visited Crookedkit (then Crookedstar) RiverClan in a dream and vision began before his apprenticeship, coaching him in exchange for his promise that he would put loyalty to his Tribe above all other concerns. Initially Crookedkit believed Mapleshade was one of StarClan. His anger at his attachment to Clanmates individuals misled him. He obediently told him when a dog attacked the RiverClan camp, chased the dog and protected Clan rather than tending to the fatal injuries conveyed to his mother, Rainflower. Crookedstar suspect Mapleshade was responsible for sending a crooked squirrel sign convincing Hailstar to make Crookedjaw his deputy after Shellheart retired to the elderly den. When Hailstar was injured on his last life, he led Crookedjaw while he was trying to save Hailstar's life. Ultimately, Mapleshade admitted to Crookedstar that he was not a starClan but from the Dark Forest, and explained his evil actions and scams before explaining his tragic past. Lastly Mapleshade revealed that Shellheart, Crookedstar's father, was the granddaughter of his ex-partner, and that he felt his own descendants were supposed to achieve Crookedstar's destiny. Crookedstar blamed Mapleshade for the illness and death of his partner Willowbreeze and their two newborn kits, Willowkit and Minnowkit, in addition to the early deaths of Rainflower and Hailstar. He was responsible for killing Spottedleaf a second time. Cheryfall Cherryfall is the daughter of Berrynose and Poppyfrost, sister of Molewhisker. Cheryfall is a she-paint ginger. When she was born, Jayfeather saw that the Dark Forest cat was watching her and her brother (Molewhisker). [28] At The Forgotten Warrior, Cherykit and Molekit received their apprentice names Cheryrpaw and Molepaw. In The Forgotten Warrior, she eats four voles and takes herbs wrong, along with Mousewhisker. Cinderheart and Leafpool had to help them. In the Bramblestar Storm the name of his hero, Cheryfall, was revealed. Molewhisker Molewhisker is the son of Berrynose and Poppyfrost, brother of Cheryfall. Named after Poppyfrost's brother, Molepaw, who died young. Molewhisker is a tom of chocolate and cream. [28] In The Forgotten Warrior, he and Cherykit received their apprentice names. In the Bramblestar Storm, he had his heroic name, Molewhisker. Seedpaw Seedpaw is the daughter and Sorreltail, and sister to Lilykit. Seedkit is also sisters to Poppyfrost and Cinderheart, and aunts to Cheryfall and Molewhisker. He was born in the woods, where Sorreltail had been walking around and to feel pain. [37] At the Bramblestar Storm, he was an apprentice, Seedpaw, and guided by Bumblestripe. However, Seedpaw died in an attempt to regain the trunks of warriors missing from the big battles when it was washed up by floods. Lilyheart Lilyheart is the daughter of Brackenfur and Sorreltail, sister of Seedkit. Lilykit is a she-paint tortogue. He and Seedkit are not pronounced very much in the Forgotten Warriors. At the end of The Forgotten Warrior, the kit was about two months old. They are the fifth and sixth child of Brackenfur and Sorreltail. In the Bramblestar Storm, he was Lylpaw and guided by Poppyfrost. He's got his hero's name, Lilyheart at the end of the book. In the Warriors: A Shadow Vision: The Search for Apprentice, he and Snowbush (formerly Snowkit, son of Cloudtail and Brightheart) have had kits together, named Leafkit, Larkkit, and Honeykit. ThunderClan's Little Characters Here are ThunderClan characters introduced or appear in a series of Warriors novels, have small, less significant examples, and/or single in the story. It was revealed in Erin Hunter Chat that the hero family tree from the official warrior site was made by fans with too active imaginations, so most of the descendants of the site were false. [38] Small characters in ThunderClan Name Pelt Description Brindleface Dappled's grey tabby Warrior/queen introduced into the Wild. [1] Acted as the adoptive mother of Cloudtail after she was brought into the Tribe by Fireheart. [8] Killed by Tigerstar in the Dangerous Path to present the cat's taste to the dog pack. [9] Back in the Darkest Hours during the Firestar leader's ceremony to give him one of his nine lives. [10] He is the mother of Sandstorm, Ashfur and Ferncloud. Her parents were robbingun and Fuzzypelt, and her sister was Frostfur. His colleagues are Redtail (Sandstorm) and Whitestorm (Ferncloud, Ashfur). Daisyheart and white Ginger Mentioned in Tribal Code. ThunderClan's deputy when the tenth code was added. Fights in Fourtrees opposed ShadowClan until Ripplestar died and Finchstar declared the tenth code. Dappletail Dappled tomatomic and White Elder was introduced into the Wild. [1] Generally the elderly are gentle and the best. After pouring into crazy due to a lack of food at the Moonrise of the New Prophecy series, she died from eating poisoned rabbits. [2] He is a Windflight apprentice and his best friend is One eye. He was an apprentice when Bluestar was born. In the Tribal Code, it is said he and white eyes tried to catch fish in the river and fell. Owlfur saved him. Finchstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. ThunderClan leaders when the tenth code was established. ShadowClan attacks three other deeds night Gathering. Ripplestar and he fought in great Rock until StarClan killed Ripplestar by causing him to fall from the Great Great Finchstar declared the tenth code. Frostfur White Warrior/queen/elder was introduced into the Wild. [1] Choosing to remain in the old forest when tribes began their journey to the lake territory at dawn of the New Prophecy series; [23] may die sometime afterwards. Mother of Cinderpelt, Brackenfur, Thornclaw, and Brightheart. Frostfur easily poses and greatly protects his kit. He was tricked into believing that Ravenpaw had tried to harm his kit by Tigerstar, who had wanted to throw Ravenpaw because he knew the secret that about Redtail's death. Ditored by Bluestar. She's an aunt to Sandstorm, Ashfur and Ferncloud, as their mother, Brindleface, is her sister. Frostfur is also Fuzzypelt and daughter Robinwing. Spottedleaf was killed so Brokenstar could steal a Frostfur kit. Goldenflower Pale Ginger Warrior/Queen is introduced in Into the Wild. [1] Mate of Tigerstar, having given birth to Brambleclaw and Tawnypelt during the Secret Forest. [12] It is very defensive about his association with Tigerstar after his exile. Dying of old age is sometimes between the Sunset and Sight Three series. She is the daughter of Smallear and Speckletail, sisters Snowkit and lionheart and mother of Swiftpaw. Grey Greeneyes Mentioned in Tribal Code. ThunderClan's deputy when the eleventh code was established. Found Poppycloud and Mottlepaw on their border with Oatwhisker and helped the Lionstar on his visit to SkyClan. Halftail Big, tom Elder's dark chocolate tabby introduced in the Wild. He later appeared in the Prophecy Prequel Bluestar as a mentor to Snowpaw (then Snowfur), sister of Bluepaw (then Bluestar). He was one of the few cats that expressed dissatisfaction when Pinestar decided to retire to be a kittypet, but later was one of the few cats that welcomed Firepaw (then Firestar) when he joined ThunderClan. Its name was changed after part of its tail was bitten by a badger. [1] He perished during a forest fire in the Rising Storm, when he was trapped in a ThunderClan camp. [14] He is the father of Mousefur and Runningwind and the pair to one eye. [4] In addition to Snowfur's mentor, he also mentored Redtail. Hollykit Brown tabby Kit was first mentioned at midnight. [27] Died of starvation at Dawn. He is Ferncloud's second dead kit. [23] His siblings were Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Birchfall, Larchkit, Foxleap, and Icecloud. Parents are Dustpelt and Ferncloud. Larchkit and Birchfall trash. Kestrelwing Grey-chocolate with medical cats splotched white ThunderClan when SkyClan left the jungle. He welcomed Brightflight and his kit to the ThunderClan because they could not make a long journey to find New. [11] Larchkit Light chocolate tabby Kit was first mentioned at midnight. [27] Died of famine in Moonrise. He was Ferncloud's first dead kit. [23] His siblings were Spiderleg, Shrewpaw, Birchfall, Hollykit, Foxleap, and Icecloud. Parents Dustpelt and Ferncloud. Lionheart Golden tabby senior warrior. The current Greystripe Mentor Into the Wild and a close friend to Bluestar. Appointed as new deputy after Redtail's death. Killed during a raid by ShadowClan shortly after it was also revealed Brokenstar killed him. [1] Gave Firestar the first of his nine lives during his leader's ceremony at The Darkest Hour. [10] Speaking to Leafpool with Bluestar and Spottedleaf several times throughout the series The New Prophecy, and was seen at StarClan in the Omen Stars series. He is the son of Speckletail and Smallear and brothers Snowkit and Goldenflower. Uncle to Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, and Swiftpaw, who are Goldenflower kits. The Dark Lionstar of Chocolate Is Mentioned in Tribal Code. ThunderClan leaders when the eleventh code was established. When he went to the SkyClan camp and asked about border patrols, the SkyClan Poppycloud cat indicated that there should be codes about marking the boundaries every day. His proposal became an eleventh code. Molepaw Dark grey Kit/Apprentice was first mentioned in Twilight when he was born during a badger attack. [13] He died between Sunset and The Sight. [19] He is the brother of Cinderheart, Honeyfern, Poppyfrost, and his parents are Brackenfur and Sorreltail. Nettleclaw Grey/dark strip Warriors when SkyClan leaves the jungle. He is only mentioned in loyalty. [11] Oatwhisker Brown Mentioned in tribal Code. ThunderClan warriors when the eleventh code was established. Found Poppycloud and Mottlepaw on their border with the Greeneyes. One-eye Pale Grey Elder was introduced in Wild and described as the oldest cat at ThunderClan, though, in Prophecy Bluestar, Smallear and Speckletail were already warriors when he was an apprentice, revealing that he was not the oldest. Blindness in one eye, resulting in a modification of his hero's name. Also almost deafening. [1] It was said in Erin Chat she died gracefully in her sleep between Firestar's Quest and Midnight (The New Prophecy). [39] It was revealed in the Tribal Code that the hero's original name was White Eye and that he lost his eyes because of the badger attack as an apprentice. [29] He is the mother of Mousefur and Runningwind, and the halftail couple. His best friend was Dappletail and he was an apprentice when Bluestar was born. In tribal Code, it is said he wants to catch fish in the river with Dappletail. They fell and Hailstar saved him. Patchpelt Black/white Elder was introduced in Wild. [1] Died in the Storm Rising from smoke inhalation from forest fires. [14] His siblings were Leopardfoot, Willowpelt, Spottedleaf and Redtail. [4] He is the father of Greystripe's spouse as Willowpelt and the father of a robinwing Longtail couple. Redstar Dark Ginger Leader when SkyClan leaves the jungle. Redstar is the one who told SkyClan to leave the jungle. He was later seen at leastar Leafstar leader He and four other leaders came to apologise to Cloudstar for sending him and his Tribe away from the jungle. He then gave Leafstar a life of wisdom to use when he had difficult decisions. As the ceremony ended, he thanked Firestar for rebuilding SkyClan and the wrong rights he and other leaders had done to SkyClan. [11] Redtail Tortoiseshell with his distinctive deputy ThunderClan's ginger tail before the events into the Wild. Killed by Tigerstar in an attempt to succeed him during his battle with RiverClan. Dustpelt's mentor before his death. [1] Reappeared during the Firestar leader's ceremony at The Darkest Hour to give him one of his nine lives, while thanking him for exposing Tigerstar's treacherousness. [10] He brothers with Patchpelt, Leopardfoot, Willowpelt and Spottedleaf. Her partner is Brindleface and her daughter is Sandstorm. Runningwind Tabby Warrior was introduced into the Wild. [1] Friendly, loyal to his Tribe and fierce fighters. Help Fireheart out with Cinderpaw and Brackenpaw training in the absence of Greystripe. [12] Assisting Cloudpaw training as well. [9] Killed by Tigerstar and his pedestrian group in the Rising Storm. [14] Reappeared during the Firestar leader's ceremony at The Darkest Hour to give him one of his nine lives. [10] Ditored by Bluestar. He is the son of One eye and Halftail, and brother Mousefur. Rosetail Light ginger with elderly pink ginger tail mentioned in Wild. Killed by Blackfoot while defending a nursery from the ShadowClan attack. [1] The daughters of Poppydawn and Windflight, sisters to Sweetpaw and Thistleclaw, aunts to Whitestorm, big aunts to Sorreltail, Sootfur and Rainwhisker, great aunts to Honeyfern, Molepaw, Poppyfrost and Cinderheart and great aunts for Cheryk He was born when Bluestar was still a kit, but Rosetail was younger than him. Snowfur, sister of Bluestar, named it because of his tail. He is mentioned in Prophecy Bluestar. [4] Seedpelt Grey/dark flecks Deputy ThunderClan when SkyClan left the jungle. He is only mentioned in loyalty. [11] Shrewpaw Dark chocolate Son Ferncloud and Dustpelt. Brothers Spiderleg, Larchkit, Hollykit, Birchfall, Foxleap, and Icecloud. Seen in the Firestar Search as Shrewkit,[11] and as an apprentice, Shrewpaw, guided by Thornclaw, at midnight. [27] Run by monster and died during a pheasant chase at Dawn. [23] Smallear Grey Elder was introduced in the Wild. [1] Often grumpy and complaining often. Fireheart took him across the river in the Rising Storm for refusing to enter the river. [14] Tawnypaw's Taunts about his father, causing him to Tribe. Died due to unknown reasons between the Darkest Hours and the Search for Firestar. Were Speckletail's partner and father Goldenflower, Lionheart, and Snowkit. Snowkit White Kit was introduced on the Dangerous Path. Play fights with Bramblekit but pinned to the soil hurts. Taken by Brackenfur to Cinderpelt, who realized he was deaf. Soon after it was taken by a hawk and never seen again. [9] The son of Speckletail and Smallear. Brothers Lionheart and Goldenflower. Uncle to Brambleclaw, Tawnypelt, and Swiftpaw. Speckletail Pale tabby Queen/Elder was introduced into the Wild. [1] Intense, nervous, and still capable of fighting. His kit, Snowkit, was deaf and carried away by a hawk on the Dangerous Trail. [9] Choosing to remain in the old forest when tribes began their journey to the lake territory at dawn of the New Prophecy series; [23] may die sometime afterwards. He is the mother of Snowkit, Goldenflower, and Lionheart. Sweetpaw White with totooton spots Kit/Apprentice introduced in Prophecy Bluestar. She is the daughter of Poppydawn and Windflight, sisters to Rosetail and Thistleclaw, aunts to Whitestorm, great aunts to Sorreltail, Sootfur and Rainwhisker, great aunts to Cinderheart, Poppyfrost (names of her mother Poppydawn), Honeyfern and Molepaw and great aunts for Cherykit and Molekit. He is kind, caring, and loyal. Died after sharing a bad mouse with Bluestar and her sister Rosetail. [4] He was named after Sweetbriar, Pinestar's mother. Swiftpaw Black/white Apprentice was introduced in Fire and Ice. [8] Apprentice to Longtail. Leading an expedition with Brightheart into a dog pack lair hiding within ThunderClan's border during the Dangerous Path in an attempt to prove himself to his upper man; killed in the process. [9] Return during the Firestar leader's ceremony at The Darkest Hour to give him one of his nine lives. [10] He is the son of Goldenflower, half brother of Bramblestar and Tawnypelt. Vlnestar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. ThunderClan leaders when thirteen codes were established. ThunderClan has three new garbage kits and four new warriors so leaders of SkyClan Darkstar gave him some SkyClan province. After SkyClan's deputies challenged Darkstar, Darkstar created a thirteenth code. White Pronounced in Tribal Code. ThunderClan leaders when the first code was established. Agree with other leaders on the second code after Brindlestar and he argued about patrol hunting. Willowpelt Very Pale Grey Warrior/Queen is introduced in Into the Wild. [1] Calm, fair-minded, and friendly. Greystripe's mother became Patchpelt, and the mother of Sorreltail, Rainwhisker, and Sootfur her partner became Whitestorm. Dead defend Sootpaw of the badger attack in Firestar's Quest. [11] At the end of Twilight, however, Sootfur was killed by a badger. [13] His siblings were Leopardfoot, Patchpelt, Redtail and Spottedleaf. WindClan WindClan cats live in province located on an open moor in the north of the forest. Thus, WindClan cats are known for their speed and resilience, an important skill for hunting down their main source of prey, them, WindClan was mobilised their territory by ShadowClan by the time Firepaw entered the jungle, but was soon brought back with the help of Fireheart and Graystripe. [8] WindClan had to deal with attacks from ShadowClan and RiverClan throughout the series, as they were seen as the weakest Clan. As a result, WindClan is often his ally with ThunderClan, a recurring relationship that has further recovery in later series. WindClan, along with other tribes, underwent a dramatic shift in the province during the New Prophecy series. At the time Crowpaw and the others were on their way, most of WindClan province was destroyed as Kaki Two continued their deforestation in the area. [2] Finally, WindClan and other tribes were able to move to the lake territory, the WindClan camp which is an area that greatly reunites their old territory: hills and wide open moors. Their territory is between ThunderClan and RiverClan. The Twoley horse spot (horse farm) is nearby, and sometimes dogs living there are set loose and chasing WindClan's cats. Open hills give the largest views of the surrounding area, and WindClan's cats are usually placed on one of them as scrutiny, being able to detect threats faster than in the woods. WindClan underwent a somewhat stressful period in the leadership when Tallstar, their wise leader, died of old age and transformed his successor from Mudclaw to Onewhisiker in the final moments. [3] By the time of Power Three series, WindClan had decided to become more hostile to ThunderClan as a result of them being seen as ThunderClan puppets in the past. Onestar, once firestar's warm and discreet friend, has completely withdrawn his previous relationship with the ThunderClan leader. The WindClan cat often hunts nearby victims and on the ThunderClan border, saying that ThunderClan is stretched too thin to defend itself. This attitude culcavated in the Eclipse, when the entire WindClan sneaked into the ThunderClan camp to begin the biggest battle ever isolated in the history of the series. [40:]336 Heatherstar Heatherstar is a pink grey she-cat with blue eyes. He was the leader when ThunderClan attacked WindClan and accused ThunderClan of undermining acts. He chose Talltail as WindClan's deputy, who soon became Tallstar. [4:]544 Near the end of Tallstar Revenge, he died in greencough, a respiratory infection. Hawkheart Hawkheart is a mottled dark brown tom with yellow eyes. He used to be a WindClan warrior who had little patience for the kit, but StarClan then chose him to become a medical cat. He killed Moonflower, Bluestar's mother. Moonflower tried to destroy WindClan's herbs and threatened Bluepaw when he was in the camp. [4:]544 Warriors (Original Series) The original series covered events in a story from Into the Wild for Darkest hours. Many of the characters mentioned here are introduced in the original series, but play a small or significant role in the New Prophecy and Power Three series as well. Onestar Onestar, a small, brown-coloured Tom tabby with amber eyes, is windClan's leader for the last two books of the second series, the entire third and fourth series, and the first three books of the fifth series. When Fireheart and Greystripe brought WindClan home in Fire and Ice, Onewhisiker became close friends with Fireheart and still maintained this friendship despite WindClan angry with ThunderClan to shelter Brokenkit. [8] In the Darkest Hours, in a battle with BloodClan, Onewhisiker was almost killed by the leader of BloodClan, Scourge, if not for Firestar to save him. [10] Later, in Starlight, Tallstar appointed Onewhisiker's deputy on the brink of death, meaning that Onestar was now the leader of WindClan, although Tallstar did not use the correct word to appoint a deputy. [3] Initially Onestar was very embarrassed about his new position, but after he received nine lives and his name from StarClan, he became more confident and concluded that there was no more friendship between WindClan and ThunderClan, and WindClan must prove himself capable of keeping himself without help than anyone else. He later considered a more like-like attitude of the leader and left his friendship with Firestar. Rock stated in the Tribal Cats that Onestar knew more than any other cat thui in the Tribes about the lonely brought power and that he really missed Firestar. [41] Throughout the arc Power of the Three story, Onestar became increasingly hostile towards Firestar and ThunderClan, sometimes ordering his warriors to hunt for both near and on their borders. He claimed ThunderClan thought it was better than other tribes and ignored the warrior code by taking a non-Clan born cat. In Eclipse's book, he decided to teach Firestar a lesson and launch an attack with the rest of WindClan at ThunderClan through the tunnel. This led to all four factions fighting, with ShadowClan parting ways with ThunderClan and RiverClan parting with WindClan. The battle was only stopped by the eclipse. Throughout the next story of arc Omen of the Stars, Onestar remained hostile to ThunderClan, even accusing them of plotting aggression against WindClan at The Forgotten Warrior, though, as it turned out, he had no evidence for his false accusations. However, in the final book, The Last Hope, he is united with other tribes to beat the Dark Forest cats. In the Bramblestar Storm super edition, however, Onestar resumes attitude against ThunderClan, which is now led by Bramblestar. During the flooding, he ordered his hero to divert the border between WindClan and ThunderClan without talking to them so WindClan could have water on the stream all to themselves, as it was their only source. Their. Bramblestar and his warriors later returned to the border back to its original surroundings after chasing windClan warriors who invaded and ignored the fallen tree trunks they had used to cross the flow. At the end of the super edition, Onestar agreed with Bramblestar's proposal to add new legislation to the warrior code still reluctantly. By the time of the fourth series, Vision Shadows, Onestar was now very old and had a grey nozzle. In the second book Thunder and Shadow, Onestar lost life to the alternate cat Darktail. This incident caused him to go a bit crazy, punishing his colleagues for breaking the hero code a little bit. He held the ShadowClan responsible for the assassins because they did not drive them earlier and refused to give them special herbs that could cure diseases spreading through their Tribes. After several failed attempts to reason with Onestar, ShadowClan held Twiggpaw, a ThunderClan apprentice, hostage in return for ThunderClan giving them an herb. However, Onestar realized what Jayfeather and Alderpaw tried to do, and refused to give ThunderClan a herb. Kestrelflight and Harespring had to go behind her to bring the herb to ShadowClan, outraging Onestar. However, many cats, including some from the Tribe himself, saw him accuse when Rowanstar blamed Onestar. However, Onestar refused to accept his mistake, calling ShadowClan a bunch of assassians. In the next book, Shattered Sky, it was revealed that Darktail was actually onestar's son. Onestar revealed that when he was still known as Onewhisiker, he fell in love with a kittypet called Smoke. He refused to let him join WindClan when he revealed he was expecting his kit, in part because it wasn't a life for him and partly because he feared what would happen to him if Clan found out he would mate with a kittypet. Their only rubbish for survival was Darktail, which Onewhisiker turned for the same reason as his mother. This rejection caused Smoke to raise Darktail to hate his father, their tribes and way of life. Because he had made many mistakes that led to terrible consequences, Onestar feared that he would be sent to the Dark Forest when he died. Kestrelflight insists that dark Forest is for a genuine cat and reassures Onestar that he is never evil. Onestar acknowledged that his fear of being selfish and apologizing for his actions (according to the author, this included his hostility to Firestar, which he secretly always felt bad about). Onestar rights wrong when he faces Darktail, and involves him in which resulted in both cats drowning each other. Tallstar Tallstar, a black and white tom with amber eyes and a very long tail, was the leader of WindClan before Onestar. Tallstar and Puaknya were pursued from their territory by ShadowClan under Brokenstar's rule so that and Greystripe brought them back. WindClan began a friendship with ThunderClan afterwards as a result of this, although it was shaky when Tallstar became angry with ThunderClan to shelter Brokenkit, a cat who drove them out of their territory. When Bluestar suspected WindClan allegedly stole the victim, Fireheart sought Tallstar to discuss with Bluestar peacefully. In The Darkest Hour, when Tigerstar announced joining all four Tribes and territories into an alliance, Tallstar and Firestar both rejected its offer. After the BloodClan attacks, Tallstar and Firestar agreed to fight them with other tribes in a temporary alliance, called LionClan. [10] Tallstar lost his last life at Starlight with Onewhisiker and Firestar on his side, making him the only cat to have served as Clan leader throughout the original series. He shifted deputies from Mudclaw to Onewhisiker at his death, fearing that Mudclaw was not the right cat to lead WindClan after his death because, in the end, he wanted to keep a friendship with ThunderClan. He feared that Mudclaw would do harm to ThunderClan because he had shown signs of blood. [3] He mentored Morningflower and Deadfoot. His heroic name is Talltail. She was born Talkit, but another kit, a tom named Shrewkit, called her Wormkit because of her destiny that was expected to dig the tunnel. Both his mother and father (Palebird and Sandgorse) want him to be tunneler, but Talkit would like to be a moor runner, free to run and catch the victim in an open moor. Heatherstar, the WindClan leader in the Talkit age, admitted his nerve to run and apprentice he became a moor runner. Sandgorse was very displeased, and he described Talkit as he revealed his true wishes. When Sandgorse died in a collapsed tunnel apparently due to the actions of a locker named Sparrow, a fellow Palebird with another tunnel named Woolytail and gave birth to his siblings. Tallpaw took the blame that his own mother had not grieved for Sandgorse and instead married another cat and said that her kit was another reason to stay in the nursery because Palebird had been in the nursery since she was born and when her garbage, Finchkit died shortly after birth. Tallpaw swore a grudge on Sparrow. After completing training, he left the faction to chase Sparrow, and, after a few days of travel, he found out where Sparrow and his travelling colleagues made the camp. Talltail plans to attack Sparrow at night, but after Talltail had a discussion with Sparrow, the night he should have killed Sparrow, loner revealed that Sandgorse was actually so he can escape. Talltail had mixed emotions that night, and the next day, he decided to return to WindClan in peace. When Talltail returned, Heatherstar revealed that he knew this was going to happen and when he got 9 lives, StarClan warned him that cats need to be far to realize where destiny actually lies and that the cat of the heroic leader is he is not a kittypet. Deadfoot Deadfoot, a black cat with a crooked front claw, was WindClan's former deputy under Tallstar, and deputies when ShadowClan chased them out of their territory. Like Onewhisiker, Deadfoot became friends with Fireheart when he and Graystripe brought windClan home. Deadfoot is not seen alive after darkest Hours. She appeared on StarClan as the cat who chose Crowpaw (her son) (then Crowfeather) to go on her way to the sunset spot. Victoria Holmes confirmed she died in her battle with BloodClan. He is an Ashfoot couple and is the father of Crowfeather and Eaglekit. He was originally a Meadowslip kit named Hopkit, but he twisted his legs and when he was praised, Heatherstar named him Deadpaw. Meadowslip was horrified, and noted that Heatherstar could not change the name Hopkit because of the way he looked, but Deadpaw says it's fine. The New Prophecy Series New Prophecy series covers events in stories from Midnight to Sunset. Many of the characters here are first mentioned in the original series, but have small or insessant roles. In addition, like the original series, most of the characters listed here play a small or important role in the following series, Triple Power, too. Crowfeather Crowfeather is a muscular grey tom, smoking with blue eyes.[38] first introduced in Midnight as an apprentice, Crowpaw. He was elected representative of WindClan on his way to the sunset spot. Loyal to his Tribe and sharp swelling, he finds it difficult to befriend other cats on the way. Amazingly, he got along the best with Feathertail, and they both grew to love each other along the way. [27] However, he died killing a mountain lion (puma, cougar, etc.) Sharptooth to save his life and the Water Insistence Tribe. [2] This only increased his hostility towards other cats and made him feel very alone. He chose his hero's name based on him to honor his memory. Shortly after they reached their new home, she fell in love with Leafpaw (then Leafpool), a ThunderClan drug cat. He revealed his affection at Starlight, when he saved Leafpaw from falling over his death. [3] It was revealed that his relationship with Feathertail was more like a highschool romance, and that his relationship with Leafpaw was a real thing. He restored his feelings and both decided to meet at the border between their tribes, where the flow walked through. Finally mentor Leafpool, Cinderpelt, find, and leave their tribes to get together. However, they were not far away long before they returned and broke their connection, as Midnight had told them about the plot his heirs had made to destroy the Tribes. Crowfeather moves to marry a cat named Nightcloud and has a son, Breezepelt. Breezepelt. is Jayfeather's father, Lionblaze, and Hollyleaf, with Leafpool being a mother. Crowfeather showed little affection for Nightcloud and even lacked paternal love for his son, because of fears he would lose him. Nightcloud loved Crowfeather, but he never returned his love, making them a terrible couple. However, in The Sight, den collapsed in Breezepelt and Lionblaze, and Crowfeather was worried for his son's life. [42] Crowfeather even stated that Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, and Jayfeather did not mean anything to him in Sunrise. [20] When his son Lionblaze was seen to be killed by Breezepelt, Crowfeather was timely opposed to the Breezepelt attack. He stated that he had no regrets having a kit with Leafpool. When he saw the remains of Hollyleaf lay on the floor he smashed Breezepelt and said that Lionblaze, Jayfeather, and Hollyleaf were his kit. Crowfeather had also appeared on The Outcast, when he and his son joined the cats from a drowning sun-place trip to help the Water Rush quarterback in defence against the intruders. [43] Crowfeather is the son of Deadfoot and Ashfoot, and brother of Eaglekit (as revealed in Tribal Secrets). [5] He had mentored Heathertail, and was killed by Mudclaw. He has fathered 6 kits: Breezepelt, (WindClan) two unnamed kits,[44] Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, and Jayfeather (ThunderClan). In the Tribal Secrets, it was revealed that Crowfeather was kin WindClan's first two leaders, Windstar and Gorsestar. [5] Mudclaw Mudclaw, a mottled dark chocolate tom, was a WindClan warrior introduced in the Fire and Ice of the original series, [8] and was WindClan's deputy from Firestar's Quest[11] to Starlight. [3] Typically, he is hostile and irritable. He routinely attacks the cat he finds in WindClan province without asking for an explanation first. Mudclaw was a patrol leader who prevented Bluestar from reaching Highstones in the Rising Storm,[45] resulting in him releasing trust and declaring war on StarClan. Loyal to WindClan and very aggressive to all other cats, Mudclaw was appointed WindClan's deputy after Deadfoot's death. As the New Prophecy series continues, Tallstar continues to grow more ill and Mudclaw takes over many of his tasks, often acting as a secondary leader. It also implies that he even occasionally steals victims from other tribes without the knowledge of his leader. When Tallstar was going to die, he suddenly replaced Mudclaw with Onewhisiker as deputy, theresiently effectively overturning Mudclaw's right to become leader. His reasons for doing so involved the demeanour of Mudclaw's hostility, which he feared would WindClan is into a mess. Mudclaw was angry with this and conspired with the Hawkfrost of RiverClan to overthrow Onewhisiker and take back the position he believed was exactly him. Before his plans could succeed, however, Brambleclaw and some thunderClan cats were disturbing, causing Mudclaw to be crushed by Tree. The tree now serves as a bridge to an island where tribes now have Assembly. Mudclaw doesn't live in the Dark Forest/No Star Place with Tigerstar, Darkstripe, and Hawkfrost as a result of his rebellion, because he really feels he's doing the right thing. The Power of Three Series of Power Three series includes events in the story from The Sight to Sunrise. Heathertail A enough, good brown light tabby WindClan she-cat with stunning weather-coloured eyes, Heathertail developed a close friendship with Lionblaze during The Sight and Dark River. [46] Heathertail discovered a series of secret tunnels connecting windClan and ThunderClan provinces and sharing this knowledge with Lionblaze. The two then began meeting each other at night in the tunnel, pretending to be a member of the fictional DarkClan, where Heathertail was leader and Lionblaze was deputy. The meeting eventually took its toll on the everyday life of both cats, and Heathertail was hurt when Lionblaze decided they must put their respective Tribes first and their relationship could no longer continue. Heathertail's relationship with Lionblaze was more tense in the Eclipse when lionblaze, in blood caused from the Klan-wide battle began by WindClan, in which he accused him of betraying the tunnel secrets to his Klanmates. [40] Heathertail denied this, but Lionblaze did not trust him and swore forever to be his enemy, thereby haunting their friendship. Lionblaze may have noticed what he had done, but when he tried to speak to Heathertail and perhaps saying he was sorry, he acted as if he didn't want to be near him. In Wands and World chats, it was revealed that he felt no affection for Breezepelt, and still loved Lionblaze. In Long Shadows' power three series, Lionblaze takes catmint from WindClan province to treat large refugees greencough. Heathertail contended with him, reminding him not to be bullying like Tigerstar's kin. Breezepelt Tom is black with amber eyes, Breezepelt, son of Crowfeather and Nightcloud, is a head WindClan warrior first introduced as an apprentice, Breezepaw, at The Sight. [42] He often makes tactical statements and is not afraid to voice his negative opinions. He was shown panicking during the crisis, and quickly argued. Despite its grape demeanour, Breezepelt has been known to cooperate on several occasions, losing his hostile attitude almost entirely in fake of the task at hand. At Outcast, he joined his father and other Clan cats on his way to the Water Insistence Tribe to help them in beating a group [31] It was revealed that many of Breezepelt's default behaviour stemmed from his father's lack of support. Crowfeather, who showed little respect for his well-being. Crowfeather's reasoning for dismissing his son is most likely due to his past (and still still love interest in Leafpool. He's also half brothers to Hollyleaf, Jayfeather and Lionblaze, because they all have the same father: Crowfeather. Ditored by Whitetail. When it was revealed, he took the fact that his father had three kits in another Clan very badly. In the Fourth Apprentice, he followed Poppyfrost to Moonpool. [28] He threatened to kill him when Jayfeather appeared, stating that he hated the half brothers and would not forgive them for what their mother did. Ignoring Jayfeather's excitement, he attacked two ThunderClan cats. Poppyfrost, who was pregnant, couldn't fight him, so Jayfeather had to fight his own brother, along with Honeyfern, who helped Jayfeather, and Brokenstar, who helped Breezepelt. It was revealed that he was being trained by the Dark Forest, and was part of the battle between StarClan and dark Forest. During the Great Battle, his father, Crowfeather prevented him from killing Lionblaze. On the Crowfeather Trail, Breezepelt reconciles with the estried Father and Lionblaze. Nightcloud A black she-paint, Nightcloud was introduced at The Sight as a Crowfeather couple and mother of their son, Breezepelt. [42] His relationship with Crowfeather was described as quite distant, as Crowfeather seemed to have no genuine affection for him. Nightcloud is clearly aware of Crowfeather's past relationship with Leafpool and hates Leafpool for the constant Crowfeather affection for him, although Leafpool is a drug cat from other Tribes and he can't love it. This suggests that Crowfeather takes On Nightcloud as a couple only out of necessity in an attempt to either move, or, as the state of Rock in the Tribal Cats, to prove his loyalty to WindClan. [41] Nightcloud appreciated his son, Breezepelt, and was shown to be angry with Crowfeather's lack of affection for him. Later in Sunrise, he became angry when Hollyleaf said Crowfeather was also friends with Leafpool. Crowfeather's ability to love Nightcloud causes them to break. However they reconcile on the Crowfeather Trail even though they have never been friends again. The Little WindClan Characters Here are WindClan characters introduced or appear in a series of Warriors novels, have small, less significant, and/or single incidents in the story. Small characters in WindClan Name Pelt Color Description Acorntail? Referred to in the Tribal Code. He was named deputy after his former deputy pebblefur died of lumps in his chest. Pebblefur also mentored him. Acorntail led a hunting patrol with Morningcloud and Quickpaw and found dead rabbits that had smelled ThunderClan. He ordered an attack but he telling them the rabbits are already on the border. Acorntail thought he wasn't good enough to be a deputy because he didn't have an apprentice and there was no way of telling another cat what to do. Featherstar decided to add a seventh code even though he was to take care of him deputies. He asked to mentor Pricklekit to study the authorities. Alderpaw? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Practice battle skills with Specklepaw before his battle with ShadowClan. He was more than six months old when the fifth code was established. Antpelt Brown with one black ear of the Warriors mentioned in Eclipse. [40] He underwent training in the Dark Forest before dying from wounds molested by Thistleclaw, becoming a permanent member of the Dark Forest. He was later assassinated again by Ivypool as a show of loyalty. She is a Swallowtail couple. Ashfoot Grey Queen was introduced in Fire and Ice. [8] Returned to WindClan and remained the queen throughout the first series. Become a deputy after Onestar became leader of WindClan. The mother of Crowfeather and Eaglekit (as revealed in Tribal Secrets), and grandmothers Lionblaze, Hollyleaf, Jayfeather, and Breezepelt. [5] In the Bramblestar Storm, he is said to have died. Medical Cat Barkface Brown was first introduced in Fire and Ice. [8] Predicted Whiteclaw's death when WindClan returned to their territory. Retained his job as a medical cat throughout the first three series. One of three medical cats from the first book that lived up to the second series (the others were Mudfur and Running Nose). Due to his advanced age, Barkface died in his sleep between Sunrise and the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Kestrelflight Mentor. Birchstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. WindClan leaders when thirteen codes were established. There are also Birchstar in RiverClan and Birchstar on SkyClan. Boulderpaw apprentice Pale Grey mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Guided by Breezepelt. Buzzardkit? The kit mentions at The Sight when a dog attacks WindClan. [42] He never spoke but his unfamiliar mother told him to hush. Cheryfyeather? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Queen when the seventh code is added. Mother Prickle Kit. Dark Chocolate Cloversplash with cloverleaf-shaped white flashes on his nose Mentioned in Tribal Code. Warriors when the seventh code is added. Crowfur Black Elder is mentioned in the Secret Forest. [12] Shown at the Assembly who complained about how hard his life as a hero compared to today's cats. Heavyweight Firepaw for defending himself. Patchpelt convinced Firepaw, saying Crowfur would seek fault with StarClan if he could. It was not confirmed how Crowfur died, but he is thought to have died during the original series. Daisytail ginger and white Are mentioned in the Tribal Code. Indicates that kits cannot be apprentices until they are six months old when ShadowClan and WindClan will struggle. Her son is Specklepaw. Hazelstar and Blizzardstar agreed. This is the fifth code in the warrior code. White Tom with Elder's brown legs mentions when Leafpool came to give him herbs and Morningflower. Dewspots Spotted Grey Tabby Warrior is mentioned in Eclipse. [40] Mentor Mentor Dovestar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. WindClan leaders when the tenth code is added. Fights against ShadowClan until Ripplestar dies and Finchstar declares the tenth code. Dust? Referred to in the Tribal Code. WindClan leaders when the first code was established. All other leaders agree that cats may have friends in other Tribes, but their loyalty must remain to their Tribe. Eaglekit Grey Eaglekit is the brother of Crowfeather and the son of Ashfoot as revealed in the Secrets of the Tribes. [5] Emberfoot Grey with two Paws of the Dark Warriors mentioned in Eclipse. [40] Sunstrike Mentor. Fallowstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. WindClan leaders when the twelfth code is added. Just mentioned in the Greywing dream. Featherstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. WindClan leaders when the seventh code is added. He wants Acorntrail to be a deputy. When he asked, after the ThunderClan incident, for the apprentice, he said he would give him one if he remained a deputy. Furzepelt Grey and White Apprentice are mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Ditored by Heathertail. He is seen training in the Dark Forest as a Moon Sign. [33] In the Bramblestar Storm, he suggested that ThunderClan take the house cat to replace Firestar. Killed by a Darktail peddling in the Thunder and Shadow. Gorseclaw? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Warriors when the seventh code is added. There is also Gorseclaw on SkyClan. Gorsepaw Ginger/White Kit/apprentice was first mentioned in Fire and Ice as a son of Morningflower. [8] Gorsekit was too young to make a long journey back to WindClan province, so Fireheart took him most of the way. She became an apprentice to Onewhisker and was told about firestar's virtues by her mother. Killed by Tigerstar in the Darkest Hours for example to WindClan for not handing over to him. [10] Onewhisker was crushed on his death and confessed to Firestar that he was disappointed that he was not up to Gorsepaw's mentor until he was a hero. Then reappear at StarClan. Morningflower intensely in troublesome his death fights BloodClan. Gorsetail Pale Grey/White Warrior/queen whose kits, Sedgokit, Thistlekit, and Swallowkit, strayed in a tunnel linking ThunderClan and WindClan during the Dark River clive, almost sparked the clan battle. [46] Gorsetail Tawny Tom mentioned at Dawn. [23] Arrested by Twolegs while chased by Mistyfoot. Harespring Brown and white First mentioned in The Sight as a Tornear apprentice, Haepaw. [42] In the Bramblestar Storm, he succeeded Ashfoot as deputy after his death. Dark Chocolate Hawkfoot mentioned in tribal Code. Tell Daisytail not to worry about Specklepaw, but then stands Daisytail before the battle between ShadowClan and WindClan. Both leaders agreed to the fifth code. Hawkfur? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Cloudberry attacks during clashes with RiverClan. Hazelstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Tribes. WindClan when the fifth code was established. Agree with Daisytail that the kit should be six months before it can train as an apprentice. Kestrelflight Mottled Grey Mentored by Barkface and the latest medical cat for WindClan after Barkface's death. First mentioned in The Sight. [42] He was unable to attend the session in Moonpool, which was the first jayfeather, because he was sick. Later in the story he and Weaselfur came to ThunderClan asking for catmint. Since ThunderClan had nothing, he and Leafpool had to go to RiverClan. Leafail Dark Tabby Warrior is mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Thistlepaw Mentor. In the Fading Echoes, Breezepelt mentions that he can beat both Leafail and Harespring in training. [25] Morningcloud Dark grey Mentioned in Tribal Code. Expected windClan deputies when Pebblefur died but Acorntrail became deputy instead. He is a mentor to Quickpaw. Go patrol with Acorntrail and Quickpaw and find the rabbit dead with a ThunderClan smell on it. Acorntrail ordered an attack before he could explain about the rabbit. Even with the seventh code made, he still did not become WindClan's deputy. Morningflower Tortoiseshell Warrior/queen/elder introduced in Fire and Ice. [8] Developing a bond with Firestar when he helped bring his kit, Gorsekit, during WindClan's return to their territory. Refused to attack Firestar during the battle. Angry when Gorsepaw was killed, and used his anger to fight BloodClan during the finale of The Darkest Hour. [10] Became elderly people after the tribes reached the lake territory during the semi-finals of the New Prophecy series. Was ditored by Tallstar. Mudpuddle Brown and white Mentioned in Tribal Code. WindClan's deputy when the second code was added. Oatwhisker Creamy Brown Tabby Elder is pronounced at dawn. [23] Owlwhisker Light Brown Mentor by Tornear. Whiskernose Mentor. Pebblefur Grey Mentioned in Tribal Code. WindClan's former deputy. Acorntrail is his apprentice and replaces it. Now at StarClan. Pricklekit? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Cherryfeather's son. Kit when the seventh code is added. Will be an Acorntrail apprentice. Ginger Quickpaw Pale Mentioned in Tribal Code. Apprentice to Morningcloud. He wanted Morningcloud to be a deputy but Acorntrail instead. He was scored to Acorntrail despite Acorntrail directing attacks on the ThunderClan patrol. Reedfeather Light Brown Tabby Deputy WindClan in Prophecy Bluestar. [4] He was introduced in the Battle of tribes. [47] He was revealed as the father of Greypool and Willowbreeze, a couple to Fallowtail and grandfather of Silverstream (daughter Willowbreeze). Robbing Brown Light Pronounced at Dawn. [23] Thistlepaw Mentor. Rushtail Light Brown Elder is mentioned in Starlight. Runningbrook Grey tabby Mentored by Tornear. Being a hero in the Storm Rising. [45] Runningkit Brown Mentioned in tribal Code. Kit at StarClan when twelve code added. Died from falling into the poultry. Going to Greywing in a dream as Runningstorm (his hero's name if he is saved) told him that the kit was valuable to all Tribes and that he should have let Brindleclaw save them. This condition leads to the creation of a twelfth code. Ryewhisker? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Fall in love with Cloudberry from RiverClan. When WindClan and RiverClan were battling, his Clanmate Hawkfur attacked Cloudberry. He was later killed by a RiverClan warrior. The leaders of both Factions decided to add code to the warrior code. This becomes the first code. Sedgewhisker Light Brown Tabby Kit who ran into the tunnel almost sparked the Clan battle. The mother is Gorsetail and siblings to Thistlekit and Swallowkit. Ditored by Dewspots. Sheep? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Warriors when the seventh code is added. The apprentice is Thistlepaw. Slatepelt? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Was Specklepaw's mentor before the fifth code was established. Small Black and white Pronounced in Tribal Code. The kit at StarClan when the twelfth code is added. Died from falling into the poultry. Going to Greywing in a dream as Smallstar (his leader's name if he was saved) told him that the kit was valuable to all Tribes and that he should have let Brindleclaw save them. This condition leads to the creation of a twelfth code. Specklepaw? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Daisytail's son. He is too young to be an apprentice and therefore too young to fight. Daisytail's concern for him led to the fifth code. Stonestar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Is battling RiverClan as Stonetail. It is not said if he is deputy, but in the next story of the book, the leader is Stonestar. Stonestar agreed with other leaders on the second code. Sunstrike Tortoiseshell with a large white mark on the Forehead Warrior/Apprentice mentioned in Eclipse. [40] Guided by Emberfoot. He is seen training in the Dark Forest as a Moon Sign. [33] Swallowtail Dark Grey Kit who ran into the tunnel almost sparked the Battle of the Tribe. The mother was Gorsetail and siblings to Thistlekit and Sedgokit. Ditored by Willowclaw. Tawnyfur Golden Brown Mentor by Tornear. Thistlepaw? Ditored by Robinwing. Mentioned at Dawn. [23] Thistlepaw White Kit that ran into the tunnel almost sparked the Battle of the Tribe. The mother is Gorsetail and siblings to Sedgokit and Swallowkit. Ditored by Leafail. Thistlepaw? Referred to in the Tribal Code. The apprentice when the seventh code is added. Sheeptail is his mentor. Tornear Tabby Warrior was introduced in the Rising Storm. [45] Often shown during patrols with Mudclaw, and also attacks all cats available in WindClan province without hesitation. Aggressive to all non-WindClan cats (especially ThunderClan cats). Part of a patrol that prevented the Bluestar from reaching Highstones in the Rising Storm, causing him to fail in and declared war on StarClan. [45] Mentioning to Firestar that he thought he would make a good leader even though he was younger in the Darkest Hours, despite never really liked it. [10] Mentored Runningbrook, Tawnyfur, Owlwhisker, and Harespring. Weaselfur ginger with White legs Guided by Webfoot. At Sight he and Kestrelpaw came to ThunderClan for catmint. [42] Webfoot Dark Grey Tabby Warrior/Elder was first introduced in Rising Storm. [45] Often indicated during patrols with Mudclaw and Tornear, starting as a Mudclaw apprentice, Webpaw. The same goes for attacking all the cats found in WindClan province without hesitation because of his chosen mentoring attitude. Aggressive to all non-WindClan cats. Part of a patrol that prevented the Bluestar from reaching Highstones in the Rising Storm, led him to release his faith and declare war on StarClan. [45] It was also one of the cats to work with Mudclaw to kill Onestar, who failed and eventually killed Mudclaw. Weaselfur Mentor. Become the elderly between the Sunset and Vision. [42] The Whiskernose Light Brown Apprentice mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Ditored by Owlwhisker. Become a hero in the Moon Marks. [33] Whitetail's small white she-paint is pronounced in Fire and Ice as Onewhisker apprentice, and in the following books. Whitetail serves as a Kestrelflight assistant, taking care of herbs while she disappears, for example Breezepelt Mentor. In the Search for Apprentice, he is an elderly person. Willowclaw Grey Warrior is mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] MentorEdlowtail. Gray Elegant Wolfkit Mentioned in Tribal Code. The kit at StarClan when the twelfth code is added. Died from falling into the poultry. Going to Greywing in a dream as Wolfheart (his hero's name if he was saved) told him that the kit was valuable to all Clans and that he should have let Brindleclaw save them. This condition leads to the creation of a twelfth code. ShadowClan ShadowClan province is primarily in a giant collection of swamps and bogs and thick wet grass covered with thick pine trees, giving the area a dark and bleak feel. [5] ShadowClan cats are skilled at hunting and navigating in near-complete darkness, as the night was when their victims' main sources were active. [1] Along with lizards, frogs, and small forest animals, such as voles, ShadowClan also occasionally catches rats living in nearby Carrionplace (garbage pile); However, they must be careful when eating these rats because they sometimes carry dangerous diseases. ShadowClan is often described as the main antagonist of the series, and therefore many of their individual members are rough and hostile. However, many ShadowClan cats are entirely devoted to their leaders; Since some ShadowClan leaders are really villains, the actions of their followers have been expected to follow suit. Some cats say that ShadowClan cats are so meaningful because the cold winds on their territory are supposedly their hearts. ShadowClan, along with other tribes, underwent a dramatic shift in the province during the New Prophecy series. At the time Tawnypelt and the others were on their way, most of the ShadowClan province was destroyed as Twolegs continued their deforestation in the area. [2] Eventually ShadowClan and other tribes were able to move to the lake territory, the ShadowClan camp located in a dense pine forest. Although not the same as the marshes they use to inhabit, the thickness of the forest often shrinks territory in glory and darkness, perfectly suited to the greatness of Stealth ShadowClan. The area is not very suitable for victims, however, resulting in ShadowClan inhabing the least desirable territory again. Despite their bad luck, they managed to feed themselves well enough (proof of the perseverance of shadowClan warriors). The main danger of the forest is the toweleg house on the northern edge of the ShadowClan province, home to two violent kittypets who often attack stray Clan cats too close and call their Twolegs to fight patrols. ThunderClan helped in telling these two cats to leave Clan's only cat in Twilight. [18]:352 Warriors (original series) The original series covered events in stories from Wild to The Darkest Hour. Many of the characters mentioned here are introduced in the original series, but may play a small or significant role in the New Prophecy and Power Three series as well. Boulder Boulder, a skinny silver tabby tom with ragged ears and bright eyes, is a former Member of BloodClan and a ShadowClan member. In the Book of Tribal Cats, she was actually invited to join ShadowClan, inspired by patrols and hunting battles, she decided to leave BloodClan and join ShadowClan. [48] He was one of several cats pursued out of ThunderClan province by Firepaw and Yellowfang. When Tigerclaw became leader, Boulder and Blackfoot returned to ShadowClan. In the Darkest Hours, Boulder brought Tigerstar to BloodClan to meet his leader Scourge. [10] Boulder revealed to Firestar that after Tigerstar was assassinated, BloodClan attacked their Tribe and several ShadowClan warriors had joined them. In the end, Boulder fought alongside LionClan to beat BloodClan. After the battle, Boulder lived in ShadowClan as an elderly throughout the second series and died of greencough sometime between Sunset and The Sight. [42] Blackstar Blackstar, a large white tom with black legs and amber eyes, was ShadowClan's deputy, Blackfoot, when Brokenstar was leader and replaced by Rowanstar. He was first introduced into the Wild. [1] He was one of Brokenstar's followers and killed one of ThunderClan's senior citizens, in an attempt to steal their kit, but was championed by Yellowfang. Blackfoot, along with Brokenstar, Clawface and Boulder, was chased out their territory. Blackfoot lived as a ringleaker with Brokenstar and attacked the ThunderClan camp under his command. When Tigerstar became shadowClan leader, Blackfoot was appointed deputy again. At TigerClan, Blackfoot helped Darkstripe kill Stonefur because he was a half Tribal cat, causing Firestar to see him as unreliable, although he agreed to fight on their side with the LionClan. After a battle with BloodClan, he announced that he would be preparing for his trip to Highstones to receive nine lives and his new name, as he is now shadowClan leader due to tigerstar's death. He was introduced as a leader in Firestar's Quest. [11] At Outcast, Blackstar seemed to lose some hostility towards ThunderClan, as he deaned Firestar about the forest long after two ThunderClan warriors were found in ShadowClan province. [43] Blackstar began losing faith in StarClan in Eclipse, however, after a strange cat named Sol came to life with ShadowClan and questioned the existence and power of StarClan, which led Blackstar to lose faith in them, to the point of changing his name back to Blackfoot. [40] This change in Long Shadows, however, when Hollyleaf, Lionblaze, Jayfeather, and three shadowClan apprentices signed from StarClan to restore Blackstar's faith in his hero's ancestors. [26] The Real StarClan Warriors (Raggedstar and Runningnose) appeared to complete the mark, and Blackstar and ShadowClan began to believe in StarClan again, then drove Sol out of Clan. Blackstar has mentored Talpopy. During the battle in Last Hope, Blackstar killed Redwillow for training in the Dark Forest and then lost his life as a result of the attack on the ShadowClan camp, but quickly recovered and thanked Firestar for his help in the backup hero. In the Bramblestar Storm, he died of flooding, making the Rowanclaw leader. Clawface Clawface is a warrior. In The Wild he stole a ThunderClan kit and killed Spottedleaf. In Fire and Clawface Ice was seriously injured by Fireheart and killed by Graystripe. However, Clawface is untenable in the rage of the Tigerclaw novella, which occurred after he was killed by Graystripe. Implied Clawface is in the Dark Forest. Brokenstar Brokenstar is a large, dark brown tabby tom with bright amber eyes, torn ears, wide, flat faces, smelling nozzle battles, and bending tails in the middle like broken branches. He was a former ShadowClan leader before Nightstar and was described quite as the main antagonist into the Wild. [1] He was a cruel cat that turned the kit into a three-month apprentice for too long, which lead to their deaths. She is the son of Raggedstar and Yellowfang, but does not know that the latter is her mother, who bombarded her and two she-kits (who died) in secret. He was given to an ambitious queen named Lizardstripe to be beaten instead. Lizardstripe won't accept Brokentail Brokentail den when he was a kit, simply because he had a crooked tail. [48] Brokentail grew into a great warrior and eventually became a deputy, but he killed his own father, Raggedstar, so that he could become leader and dismiss Yellowfang from ShadowClan, falsely accusing him of killing two apprentices that he himself killed by unplugging them into warrior training for too long. This dump led to Yellowfang's acceptance into ThunderClan. In The Wild, when Brokenstar was first introduced, Yellowfang and Firepaw drove Brokenstar and his supporters out of ShadowClan in the upbringing. [1] Brokentail lived as a rovel in Fire and Ice, and attacked the ThunderClan camp in an attempt to kill Fireheart but was blinded by Yellowfang. [8] He was later taken prisoner and stripped of his leadership status, renamed by the name of his old hero Brokentail. He plotted with Tigerclaw in the Secret Forest to attack ThunderClan along with his opponent's allies, although the attack failed. [12] When the torn-torn was chased and Tigerclaw was buried, Yellowfang decided to end Brokentail's life by feeding him death, also revealing to him that he was truly his mother. Then, in Sunset, he was implicated to be in the Dark Forest/No Star Spot with Tigerstar, Hawkfrost, and Darkstripe after the last aroma he was. [13] Brokenstar mentors Moss paw and Volepaw (who both died before becoming warriors) even though they were just three months old. Brokentail may have made an appearance in the Rise of Azab, when Scourge aroma of a jungle cat, believing that he was Tigerstar. [6] Instead, tom with a crooked tail and two friends were found, with the latter calling him a boss. After one was killed, tom with a bending tail stating, I was filling this place. It's time to get back to the woods... where we belong. He has also made an appearance in the Fourth Apprentice in which he attacked Jayfeather along with Breezepelt as a ghost cat. [28] They were both driven by Honeyfern before they could kill him or Poppypfrost. He, along with Tigerstar and Hawkfrost, watched the greedy Poppypfrost kit at the end of the book. He also made Ivypelt attempts to kill Flametail, before Tigerheart stopped him and Tigerstar agreed with Tigerheart. She appeared again in the Last Hope where she and other Dark Forest cats intruded on the ThunderClan camp. During the battle he killed Ferncloud who was keeping the nursery before being killed by Yellowfang a second time caused him to die and fade indefinitely. Nightstar Nightstar, lean, but fragile, black tom with amber eyes and long tail, is the ShadowClan leader before After Brokenstar was propelled out of ShadowClan into Wild, Nightpelt, one of Clan's senior warriors, offered to take the helm of ShadowClan and appoint Cinderfur as his deputy. [1] However, in Rising Storm, he became violently ill due to illness from Carrionplace Carrionplace went through the ShadowClan camp at the time and died, although he apparently had nine lives to spare. [45] Runningnose, a ShadowClan drug cat at the time, later told Fireheart that Nightstar never really received nine of his lives when he first went to Moonstone, probably due to the fact that Brokentail, the former ShadowClan leader, was alive and remained a ShadowClan leader in the eye of StarClan. Following Brokentail's death, Nightstar was too weak to return to Moonstone and died sometimes at the Rising Storm, thus allowing Tigerclaw to control ShadowClan. Nightpelt has mentored Dawncloud. [45] Tigerstar Tigerstar (born Tigerkit) is a huge dark chocolate tabby tom with amber eyes and an unusually long front nail. He was born in ThunderClan, the son of Pinestar and Leopardfoot, but was relegated for attempting to kill Bluestar, the former ThunderClan leader. He was guided by Thistleclaw, and because of his father, Pinestar, left Clan to be a kittypet, and he tried to prove he would not leave ThunderClan as his father did, but Tigerclaw was angry with the fact that tribes himself did not trust him. Before he was relegated, he accused his apprentice, Ravenpaw, traitors, and friends with Goldenflower, a thunderClan she-paint. They have two kits, Tawnykit (then Tawnypelt) and Bramblekit (then Bramblestar). He then backtracked with a swearing grudge at ThunderClan. He reappeared in ShadowClan as Tigerstar. Back then, ShadowClan needed a strong leader; they are in a mess because of The Nightstar's sudden death, a leader who has never received nine traditional lives from StarClan. Tigerstars are more than willing to lead them. He brought a sieve to the Tribe, and when his cats questioned his leadership, Tigerstar met him with violence and violence. He spent the rest of his life plotting against Fireheart, and one of his plans included leading a stray dog straight to the ThunderClan camp. Bluestar was killed during the rescue of Firestar. Since he became a deputy before he died, he became Firestar, the leader of ThunderClan. Before Tigerstar died in scourge nails, violent cats and BloodClan leaders, he became a teammate with a loner named Sasha. They had three kits, Tadpole, Hawk (then Hawkkit, then Hawkfrost), and Moth (then Mothkit, then Mothwing). Tadpole died, drowning in underground flooding. Instead of going to StarClan, Tigerstar is sent to No Star Places, or Dark Forests. There he is still planning revenge in Firestar. In the end, in Last Hope, his spirit eventually and remains destroyed by Firestar. Shadows Appearing in the Dawn of the Tribal series, Tall Shadow is the black night he cats with dark green eyes. The only known family is his brother, Moon Shadow, and nephew, Sun Shadow. Born in the mountains, he left with a fraction of the Tribe to find a new home. After the group leader, Shaded Moss, died, he up to the leadership post. He set up a camp in the moor. [49] He eventually stepped down and became co-leader of the Gray Wing after Moon Shadow died. [50] Eventually, he left the moor and set up a new camp in marsh. He appointed Deputy Sun Shadow and medicinal cat Pebble Heart. [51] He subsequently received nine of his lives and was renamed Shadowstar. He was the first leader to lose their nine lives. [5] The New Prophecy Series Of New Prophecy series covers events in stories from Midnight to Sunset. Many of the characters here are first mentioned in the original series, but have small or incessant roles. In addition, like the original series, most of the characters listed here play a small or important role in the following series, Triple Power, too. Tawnypelt A blender, mottled, calico she-paint with good green eyes and shoulders -muscles (even as a kit he listed as a gold tabby), Tawnypelt is the daughter of Goldenflower and Tigerstar, as well as Brambleclaw's trash and half-sister to Hawkfrost, Mothwing, Tadpole and Swiftpaw When he lives in ThunderClan as an apprentice, Tawny paw, most of his colleagues don't trust him because his father is Tigerstar, so instead of putting up with their suspicions , he left ThunderClan to join ShadowClan, then part of an alliance under a Tigerstar rule called TigerClan, in The Darkest Hour. [10] He became a loyal ShadowClan warrior, although some of his colleagues still doubted his loyalty as he was born in ThunderClan. His full warrior's name is revealed in Firestar's Quest. [11] At midnight, he was elected representative of ShadowClan in an attempt to find a new home for the Tribes. [52] Coincidentally, his brother, Brambleclaw, was also elected, as a Representative of ThunderClan. Tigerstar offered the same power plan offered to his brothers, Hawkfrost and Brambleclaw, to make his leader ShadowClan, but he rejected it, saying that if he had ever been a leader, it would go through honesty and loyalty. In Power Three series, he befriends Rowanclaw to have three kits: Dawnkit, Tigerkit and Flamekit. He went with his brother, Brambleclaw, Squirrelflight, Stormfur, Brook, Crowfeather and his son Breezepaw, Hollypaw, Jaypaw, and Lionpaw in Outcast to help the Rushing Water Tribe deal with a group of sieges who have attacked their territory. [31] In Long Shadows, Tawnypelt and his kit left ShadowClan temporarily and went to ThunderClan after Blackstar lost faith and denounced StarClan. [26] Tawnypelt was tough and stood up for anything from nobody, but had a loving side that came when his colleagues needed it. [53] [54] [52] [56] The Power of The Three Powers of Three series includes events in the story from The Sight to Sunrise. Tigerheart Kids Tawnypelt and Rowanclaw and brother to Dawnpelt and Flametail, Tigerheart is a glassy, graceful dark dark tabby tom with amber and straight eyes, thick whiskers. He is the grandson of Tigerstar, named after him. While hating the latter, he was very cheerful and kind. He was first introduced as a kit, Tigerkit, on the Dark River and later as an apprentice in Long Shadows. He is the best hunter of his siblings. In Long Shadows, Tigerheart, along with his siblings and Tawnypelt, left ShadowClan temporarily for ThunderClan after ShadowClan lost his faith in StarClan. He also helped Lionblaze, Hollyleaf and Jayfeather to convince Blackstar to believe that StarClan were still watching them by creating fake StarClan signings. Tigerheart had the same mentor that his mother Tawnypelt did, both when he was at ThunderClan and ShadowClan. He was temporarily ditored by Brackenfur, while living in ThunderClan and was conquered by Oakfur when he returned to ShadowClan. In the Fourth Apprentice, there was a clue about him having ruins on Dovepaw, a Lionblaze apprentice. This was confirmed in the Night Whispers, when both of them acknowledged their feelings to each other. As Moon Mark and Forgotten Warrior, Tigerheart's relationship with Dovewing broke down after Dovewing's sister, Ivypaw, was arrested and traded for catmint, as a result of Tigerheart telling heran about herbs. Flametail Second Child Tawnypelt and Rowanclaw, and brothers Dawnpelt and Tigerheart, Flametail have bright ginger wheat animals such as his father and puddled light green eyes, thick fur, bushy tail, and short legs, pudgy. He dreamed of becoming a drug cat under Littlecloud rather than a hero, perhaps based on his bond with Jayfeather and curiosity. He was first introduced as a kit, Flamekit, in Outcast.[31] and as an apprentice in Long Shadows. [26] In Long Shadows he left ShadowClan for ThunderClan with his siblings and Tawnypelt after ShadowClan lost faith in StarClan, and also helped create a fake StarClan sign. [26] He was temporarily tendered by Cloudtail while living in ThunderClan, and is being trained to become a medical cat in Sunrise by Littlecloud. Flametail died when he drowned in a frozen lake in the Night Whispers. [36] His sister Dawn thought that Jayfeather was the one who curved her, but it was because of Rock, an ancient cat, that Jayfeather could not save Flametail. Dawnpelt The only daughters Tawnypelt and Rowanclaw and sisters flametail and Tigerheart, Dawnpelt have creamy pole animals and fiery personalities like her mother, and seems closer to Hollyleaf than her other cousins, Lionblaze and Jayfeather, and are the best fighters than her sisters He was first introduced as a kit, Dawnkit, in Outcast,[31] and as an apprentice in Long Shadows. [26] He left ShadowClan for ThunderClan with his mother and trash after he lost faith in StarClan, and helped create a fake StarClan sign. He was temporarily ousted by when he lived in ThunderClan. His mentor was revealed in Sunrise as Ivytail. In The Forgotten Warrior, he blames Jayfeather for Flametail's death. [20] At the Thunder and Shadow, A Vision of Shadows' second book, Dawn was one of many ShadowClan cats who chose to desert Rowanstar and joined the roots of Darktail. He did this mainly because his rebel kit had joined the asylum and he didn't want to leave them or his home. In the next book, Shattered Sky, Dawnpelt, along with most desserts, grows to regret his results after seeing how cruel and unhappy Darktail and his assalant really are. She decided to leave along with her children Strikestone and Juniperclaw, but not her daughter Sleekwhisker, who was implicated to crush Darktail. However, just as Dawn left, he was caught by Darktail and disappeared after a quarrel with him. It is not known what happened to him, but it was very implied that Darktail took him to the lake and drowned it, along with several other ShadowClan cats trying to leave. Dawnpelt was confirmed deceased on Darkest Night, when he appeared among the spirits of the cat who died during Darktail's reign. She was shown to deeply regret her decision to leave the Tribes and the fact that she gave up her life trying to make it right. He then gave his brother Tigerstar, one of his nine lives. Shadows Needletail A silver-grey vision she cats with white chest and bold green eyes, Needletail is the daughter of Berryheart and Sparrowtail. In The Apprentice's Quest and Thunder and Shadow, he is a rebellious and disrespectful apprentice, who, along with many others feels that ShadowClan needs to be dreaded again. He was angry when Rowanstar turned rooter Darktail. Needlepaw publicly criticized Rowanstar, and he was sentenced for speech against his leader. His words later sparked controversy in ShadowClan. When Darktail asked again to join ShadowClan, Rowanstar denied them, and Needlepaw led an apprentice revolt against Rowanstar, claiming he, along with other apprentices did not want to live like a Clan cat and left to join the rogue. Needlepaw, Juniperpaw, and Sleekpaw holidays, and Needlepaw take young Violetkit with him. While their fellow apprentices Yarrowpaw, Beepaw, and Strikepaw decided to stay in ShadowClan, Cloverfoot and Berryheart followed in suit. When he joined the rogue, Needlepaw gave himself his heroic name, Needletail, along with Sleekpaw and Juniperpaw, who became and Juniperclaw. She kind of was kind of like a Violetpaw sister. In the Thunder and Shadow Barnes & Noble Exclusive Chapter, Needletail, then Needlepaw, is shown training with Tawnypelt. One bird took it and no patrol was sent to find it. He met a shovel named Tree, and he took him back to ShadowClan. Needlepaw is hurt and disappointed that his Clanmates thought he was dead, sending him on the street of the insurgency. At Shattered Sky, Needletail is shown to have been one of Darktail's most loyal followers, and the perfect content when Darktail made them into Kin and left the weaker cats to move for themselves. Needletail became violetpaw's only friend during the reign and believed Darktail became the real leader of the ShadowClan necessity. However, along with the majority of shadowClan cats, he grew up to regret his betrayal after realizing that Darktail was a cruel tyrant who wanted nothing more than to infringe harm to other cats. He became part of the plot to get rid of it, but this backfires when Sleekwhisker noticed Violetpaw put a poppy seed in the Darktail victim. Darktail decided to punish Violetpaw by killing one thing he had left, Needletail. Needletail sacrificed himself to allow Violetpaw to flee to ThunderClan, and consequently drowned by Darktail, Sleekwhisker, and Roach. Needletail's actions were remembered by Violetpaw, and needletail's parents, Berryheart and Sparrowtail, deeply missed their daughter and distraught to learn that she, at the time, was one of Darktail's most dear followers. In darkest Nights, it was revealed that along with all the other cats drowned by Darktail, Needletail was not granted entry to StarClan, nor No Star Place. Instead, he was sent to an unnamed residence where he got in touch with Tree, who he admitted he was wrong to believe darktail, and then his childhood friend, Alderheart, gave him a prophecy not to get rid of the incoming shadow. When doing so, Needletail and other cats are allowed into StarClan. In the River of Fire, Needletail, despite previously acknowledging his mistake, continues to blame Rowanstar for the fall of ShadowClan for being a weak leader. Shadowstar rebuked his statement, saying there was more to it, and Needletail seemed to accept his point. On Kate's Blog, Kate Cary states that she has sympathy for Needletail, but she can't understand why she's so cob. The Little ShadowClan Characters Here are shadowClan characters introduced or appear in a series of Warriors novels, have small, less significant, and/or single incidents in the story. Small Characters in ShadowClan style=background:#001010; color:red name| style=background:#001010; color:white| Pelt Color | style=background:#001010; color:white| Applefur Mottled Brown Kit's description mentioned in The New Prophecy. Be friends with Birchkit during Great She Is the trash of Toadfoot and Marshkit and talpopy's daughter. He went missing together with Marshkit after the Great Journey, although on the Fourth Devicce there was a hero named Applefur. [28] He was seen training in the Dark Forest as a Sign of the Moon. [33] Died in the Great Battle. Archeye? Archeye? in tribal Code. ShadowClan Warriors. He was hunting with Brackenfoot and Hollyflower when they saw the fox trying to attack the ThunderClan kit. Patrol fights from foxes and thanked by kit, Tigerkit. Ashfur Grey Warrior/Elder was introduced in Wild as a Yellowfang ally. [1] Assisted in driving Brokenstar along with other ShadowClan cats and ThunderClan patrols. May die sometime between Fire and Ice and The Secret Forest, as he never mentioned again after Fire and Ice. Black and white Badgerfang Mentioned in tribal Code. He was only four months old when he started his apprenticeship because of Brokenstar. Flintfang is his mentor. Right before WindClan left their territory for exile, Badgerpaw was killed by WindClan warriors. Flintfang watched him die, but before he could Flintfang tell him how proud he was to be on Badgerpaw. Badgerpaw told him that he wanted his hero's name to be Badgerfang, in honor of Flintfang, when he joined StarClan. White Blizzardstar Mentioned in Tribal Code. Agreeing with ShadowClan and WindClan could leave the queen before a fight could erupt. ShadowClan leaders when the fifth code was established. Brackenfoot? Referred to in the Tribal Code. ShadowClan Warriors. He was hunting with Archeye and Hollyflower when they saw the fox trying to attack the ThunderClan kit. Patrol fights from foxes and thanked by kit, Tigerkit. Brackenfoot is also Yellowfang's father. Brightwhisker Brown and white Pronounced in Tribal Code. Deputies at StarClan when the ninth code was added. He will be the leader after Snowstar's death but he caught the greencough case and died before he received his nine lives. Snowstar allows Redscar, a medicinal cat, to choose Flowers. Brownpaw Brown Tom The Apprentice mentioned in Wild. [1] Perhaps dead in a rat infection in the Rising Storm, as he was never seen, heard or quoted after the Storm Rose. Black Brightflower/White Queen mentioned in Wild. [1] The second litter of the kit was appointed by Brokenstar three months too early, and killed by him. May die sometime between Into the Wild and The Fire and Ice, as he was not mentioned after Fire and Ice. She is Yellowfang's mother. Brindlestar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. He, Whitestar, Emberstar, Birchstar, and Stonestar agreed that no cats were allowed to encroach on other Clan territory. The five leaders agreed to a second code. Cedarheart Dark/Grey Tom who fights kittypets living in ShadowClan, and wins thanks to help from ThunderClan. Become an elderly person between Birchstar and The Sight. [42] Ditored by Russetfur. Become an apprentice around the same time as Rowanclaw. He died in the Great Battle. Nipis Grey Tom Warrior is mentioned in Wild. [1] Helps guide Brokenstar. Becoming A deputies after Nightpelt took over the Tribe. Is one of the first cats to die from illnesses caused by infected mice in the Rising Storm. He is Clawface and a Rowanberry kit. Clawface Brown with Warriors battle scars was introduced into the Wild. [1] Kill Spottedleaf and stole a Frostfur kit during a raid on ThunderClan. He was later killed by Greystripe during clashes in Fire and Ice. [8] Littlecloud's mentor who later became a medical cat. Was ditored by Raggedstar. Clawface Tribal Secrets are revealed to be in the Dark Forest. Crowfoot Black and White Warrior are mentioned in Eclipse. [40] Olivenose Mentor. Darkklover Black Queen mentioned in Fire and Ice. [8] Returning to his life as a warrior around the same time that Cedarheart and Rowanclaw were apprentices. Die between dangerous trails and darkest Hours. [10] Dawncloud Tabby Warrior/queen is mentioned in wild. [1] His three kits died when Brokenstar ordered an attack on WindClan to drive them out. Helped drive Brokenstar out of the camp. May die in rat infection in Rising Storm. Driftkit? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Splashnose's son and brother of Fallowkit. Fallowkit and he took the last piece of fresh murder and played with him. Sunnytail, Splashnose and Lylystar met them with him. StarClan sends birds to pick it up and Lylystar says that there needs to be code about respecting food. This became the fourth code. Fallowkit Light chocolate Mentioned in Tribal Code. Splashnose's daughter and sister to Driftkit. Driftkit and he took the last piece of fresh murder and played with him. Sunnytail, Splashnose and Lylystar met them with him. StarClan sends a mark. Rules about respecting victims become the fourth code. Ferretclaw Cream and Grey Apprentice were first mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Ditored by Oakfur. The name of the hero given in the Last Hope. Flintfang? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Was the mentor to Badgerpaw when Brokenstar led ShadowClan. When WindClan stalled out, Badgerpaw was killed because he was too young. Flintfang vowed to never mentor too young kits. Floral and white Ginger Is Mentioned in the Tribal Code. The ShadowClan Warriors when the ninth code was added. Her sister is Mossfire. After Snowstar and Brightwhisker died, her sister Mossfire and another warrior, Jumpfoot, fought over leadership and died. Redscar received a dream from StarClan that he should be a leader. Hollyflower? Referred to in the Tribal Code. ShadowClan Warriors. He was hunting with Archeye and Brackenfoot when they saw foxes trying to attack thunderClan kits. Patrol fights from foxes and thanked by kit, Tigerkit. Hollystar? Mentioned Tribal Code. ShadowClan leaders when the first code was established. Black Ivytail, white, and First tortodes are touted as apprentices in The Sight. [42] Guided by Rowanclaw. Mentor Mentor Jaggedtooth Ginger Tabby Rogue/Warrior introduced in the Secret Forest. [12] It was one of brokentail's recruited to attack ThunderClan in collaboration with Tigerclaw. Joined ShadowClan after Tigerclaw became a leader and became one of his most trusted and rescue followers. Joined BloodClan over Tigerstar's death. Almost killed Bramblepaw during the battle but was chased by apprentices. He was not heard afterwards. Rowanclaw Mentor. Jumpfoot Black Mentioned in Tribal Code. The Warriors in StarClan when the ninth code was set up. After Snowstar and Brightwhisker died, Redscar asked volunteers to take their place. Jumpfoot volunteers but Mossfire, too. They decided to champion the leadership. They ended up killing each other instead. Flowers become leaders. Kinkfur Brown Tabby She-paints with feathers attached to all angles as listed in allergies. Warriors mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] At Night Whispers, he became the mother of Dewkit, Sparrowkit, and Mistkit. [36] Lakesorm? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Deputy ShadowClan. Disagree with the second code until StarClan sends the mark. Cat drugs Littlecloud Small Brown's Current Tabby. Formerly a warrior introduced in the Rising Storm. [45] Came to ThunderClan with Whitethroat for help due to illness in ShadowClan. Choose the passage of a medicinal cat after Runningnose retires. Was ditored by Clawface as a warrior. Mentored Flametail. The grey Pale Circuit is mentioned in tribal Code. The ShadowClan leader and decided to add a fourth code to the warrior code. Marshkit? Kit mentioned in New Prophecy. Be friends with Birchkit during the Great Journey. He is a rubbish of Applefur and Toadfoot and the son of Talpopy. After The New Prophecy he never mentioned again. He may have died sometime after the New Prophecy. Marshscar Grey Mentioned in Tribal Code. Deputy ShadowClan when the tenth code is added. The Ripplestar watchdog fell from the Great Stone and wanted to troubleshoel his death by killing Finchstar. It turned out StarClan killed him. Finchstar declared the tenth code. Mossfire Tortoiseshell Mentioned in Tribal Code. The Warriors in ShadowClan when the ninth code was added. Her sister is Flowers. After Snowstar and Brightwhisker died, Redscar asked volunteers to take their place. Jumpfoot volunteers but Mossfire, too. They decided to champion the leadership. They ended up killing each other instead. Flowers become leaders. The black She-paint night mentioned at dawn during the Great Journey. [53] He was angry that they came to the mountains when his son, Smokepaw, fell off the cliff. Blackstar convinced him that he would never be forgotten. do not mentioned after it happens. Oakfur Brown Mentor Tawnypelt, Smokepaw, Ferretpaw and Tigerheart. Guided by Wetfoot. Oakleaf? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Agree with Daisytail and that kit should be six months before he becomes an apprentice before the clashes between ShadowClan and WindClan can erupt. This is when the fifth code is established. Olivenose Tortoiseshell Was first mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Guided by Crowfoot. Also seen in the Battle of the Tribes as an apprentice who has training sessions with Tigerheart and other apprentices. [47] Owlclaw Light Brown was first referred to as an apprentice at The Sight. [42] Guided by Smokefoot. Pinenose Black Apprentice mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Ditored by Ratscar. Raggedstar Dark Brown Tabby Leader was first mentioned in the Wild. [1] Was the former ShadowClan leader before his own son Brokenstar killed him. Did Couple Yellowfang, and accordingly Brokenstar's father. Clawface mentor and Brokenstar. Ratscar Brown Warrior is mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Shrewfoot Mentor. Having a long scar behind him gives his name. Pinepaw mentor. He is seen training in the Dark Forest as a Moon Sign. Allegedly as rubbish with Snowbird in The Last Hope. [33] Redscar Long jagged scars across the face mentioned in the Tribal Code. ShadowClan medical cats when the ninth code is added. After the former Snowstar leader died, Brightwhisker will take his place. Before Brightwhisker went to Moonstone, he went down with the greencough. Redscar thinks it is whitecough but he dies before he can appoint a deputy. She received a dream from StarClan telling her that Flowers should be the leader since she watched her sister, Mossfire, die in front of her. Redwillow Mottled Ginger Was first referred to as an apprentice in Eclipse. [40] Ditored by Whitewater. He was seen practicing in the Dark Forest as a Moon Mark and later killed in Last Hope by Blackstar because of his treacherousness. [33] Ripplestar Black and orange Mentioned in the Tribal Code. A leader in StarClan when the tenth code is added. Launching attacks at the Assembly. Fights with Finchstar in the Great Rock but were killed by StarClan for attacking tribes by falling from the Great Stone. Finchstar declared the tenth code. Ginger Rowanstar Was introduced as an apprentice in the original series. Became an apprentice around the same time that Darkflower returned to his life as a warrior and that Cedarheart was an apprentice. In the first three books of the New Prophecy series, she was a cat but then, due to mistakes, she was a tom all over the book. Became a Tawnypelt couple and father of three kits, Tigerheart, Flametail and Dawn. Have a close confrontation with Brambleclaw over the territory in Starlight. [55] An Apprentice by Jaggedtooth and a Talonpaw mentor, who later died after being attacked by hostility kittypets in the nearby Twoleg nest, and Iyvait. It is shown in the Tribes that he was a new deputy after Russetfur's death. [47] In the Bramblestar Story, Rowanclaw became due to Blackstar's death. Runningnose Grey and the white ShadowClan medical cat during the original series. Ironically always had a cold nose and running, hedes the name. Died due to unknown reasons between Starlight and Twilight. [55] He also appeared alongside Raggedstar when Jayfeather, Lionblaze, and Tigerheart turned the StarClan sign. Was tendered by Yellowfang and mentored Littlecloud. Russetfur Dark Ginger Rogue/Warrior introduced in the Secret Forest. [12] Formerly ShadowClan's deputy. It was one of the perverters who joined ShadowClan after Tigerstar became leader. Helped in the final battle against BloodClan and became deputy after Blackstar became leader. Accidentally killed by Lionblaze during clashes with ThunderClan in Fading Echoes. [25] He was said to be one of the ousters that Tigerstar recruited after he had a pedestal pursuit of the ShadowClan. However, in the Battle of the Tribes he was in battle with ThunderClan alongside Blackfoot and Stumpytail. Since Stumpytail died before Tigerstar and a rovel returned to ShadowClan, this indication that he was Clanborn, was chased out of ShadowClan into the wild by ThunderClan's hero, and was the fourth hero alongside Brokenstar when he attacked the ThunderClan camp in fire and ice. In Yellowfang Secrets, he is revealed to have lived as a loner in the human city under the red name before joining ShadowClan. He is also Raggedstar's sister, as shared by the same father, Hal. As an apprentice at ShadowClan, he was guided by Featherstorm, although at Fading Echoes, Fernshade mistakenly said to be his mentor. He rose through the ShadowClan lineup, eventually becoming a deputy under Blackstar's leadership. He was deputy until his death. The Scorchfur Dark Gray Apprentice mentioned in Eclipse. [40] Ditored by Snaketail. Gray Shrewfoot with Black paws Apprentice mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Ditored by Ratscar. Smokefoot Black Warrior was first mentioned in The Sight. [42] It is believed that Smokepaw, an apprentice who fell off the cliff at Dawn, and Smokefoot were the same cats, but in the 7th Erin Hunter Chat, Vicky confirmed that Smokepaw and Smokefoot were not the same cats. [57] The apprentice is Owlcaw. Smoke? Apprentices mentioned at Dawn. Son of the Night. Died when he dropped off a cliff. [53] Snaketail Dark Brown with a salute striped tail. Warriors mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Scorchfur Mentor. Snowbird White Warrior is mentioned in The Sight. Allegedly as rubbish with Ratscar in The Last Hope. [42] Snowstar Grey Is Mentioned in Tribal Code. Leaders in StarClan when the ninth code is added. Dead and Brightwhisker until he dies of a greencough case. Sending Redscar a dream that Flowers should be a leader. Splashnose Dusty is brown with a white stream on his nozzle Mentioned in Tribal Code. Mother of Driftkit and Fallowkit. Try defending his kit when Sunnytail Sunnytail Their. The accident led to the establishment of a fourth code. Starlingwing Ginger Apprentice is mentioned in the Fourth Apprentice. [28] Ditored by Tawnypelt. Stumpytail Brown tabby Warrior mentioned in Wild. [1] Brownpaw Mentor. May die in rat infaction in Rising Storm. Sunnytail Ginger and white with bright orange tails mentioned in tribal Code. Deputy ShadowClan. Find Driftkit and Fallowkit play with the last piece of fresh murder and sold them. Agree on the fourth code. Tallpopy Light Brown Queen/Elder and mothers Applefur, Marshkit, and Toadfoot. He joined the elders between Sunset and The Sight. [42] Became friends with Ferncloud during the Great Journey. Talonpaw? Apprentice in the New Prophecy series. Guided by Rowanclaw. Was killed by two hostile kittypets. Toadfoot Dark Brown Warrior is mentioned in the New Prophecy. Brothers Marshkit and Applefur and son tallpoppy. He befriended Birchkit during the Great Journey. Back as a hero at Outcast. [31] He was one of the warriors on his way to break the dam at the Omen of the Stars. First Wetfoot Grey Tabby is touted as a Boulder apprentice into the Wild. [1] He and Littlecloud became warriors after Brokenstar, Blackfoot, Clawface and Boulder were driven out of ShadowClan. Oakfur Mentor. May die of disease caused by infected mice in the Rising Storm. Whitewater White, blind in one Warriors/Elder eye mentioned in the Eclipse. [40] Redwillow Mentor. Whitethroat Black with white chest was first mentioned in Rising Storm when he and Littlecloud came to ThunderClan because their Clan was very ill and so did they were. [45] Cinderpelt secretly healed them in a tree near the edge of ThunderClan province. Later in the story Fireheart chased him out of ThunderClan province when he was beaten by a Dualeg monster and died. Wildfur? Mentioned in Fade Echoes by Littlecloud. [25] When Littlecloud was a drug cat apprentice, Wildfur's legs were crushed by collapsed nests. They were just bruises, but his spine broke. She would die of coughing in her chest for living in a den remedey cat and not getting enough exercise. Yellowstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. ShadowClan leaders when thirteen codes were established. SkyClan SkyClan is the fifth Clan of the original forest territory, a fact unknown to all cats except Firestar, Sandstorm, Graystripe, Cinderpelt, Bramblestar, Squirrelflight, Alderheart, new SkyClan, and StarClan. Their camp is located where Twolegplace where Barley farms now sit and they have a unique ability to jump very highy, a technique that has been passed on to some kittypets and rogues in a cobble canyon. SkyClan camp also spread to Firestar's friend, Snudge, lives. They were driven out when their forest parts were excavated to create Homeless and starving, SkyClan appealed to other tribes for help, but none of them wanted to ease their territory and therefore SkyClan had to leave the jungle. They travelled north along the river before eventually settle in a cobble canyon. However, before long, hordes of clever and malicious mice attacked and killed most of the Tribes, unplugging drugs to scatter across nearby forests and Dualegplaces. [58] Modern SkyClan was renewed when Firestar, with the help of Sandstorm, set out to reunite the missing Klan descendants throughout the nearby area. Then, after rebuilding the missing Clan, SkyClan was able to beat the rat pack and live in peace for the month to come under the leadership of Leafstar. SkyClan is still trying to make their faction bigger since at the moment it is very small. SkyClan had a warrior who was in the powder in the morning but slept with their human owners at night. These cats are called daytime Warriors, but the warriors in the tribe sometimes call them the Kitty Warriors. They were eventually deterred by The Kin who claimed Gorge as their own. During their exile, SkyClan was discovered by a ThunderClan apprentice named Twigpaw (then Twigbranch) who was revealed to be Hawking's daughter shortly afterwards. Twigpaw brought his heirs back to lake Territory where he introduced Hawking to his sister Violetpaw (then Violetshine). With all five entlements together, Darktail and his rogues were defeated. During SkyClan Leafstar Leafstar, a chocolate tabby and she-paint cream with amber eyes, was a proact named Leaf before he came to SkyClan. After he joined, Firestar gave the hero name Leafdapple, and he mentored Sparrowpelt. StarClan then chose Leafdapple to become leader because of his thoughtful personality and an understanding of the warrior code. Firestar initially didn't feel comfortable with him being a leader, but he realized how presumed he was when he told him that he knew his first loyalty was to Tribe himself at home. During his leader's ceremony, the ancient leaders of the four entrants came together to give four of his nine lives as an apology to SkyClan for driving them out. Leafstar is also in love with Bilylstorm, daytime warriors, and they become teammates. They have Firekit (named after Firestar), Stormkit (named after Sandstorm), and Haryrkit (named after Sol's home cat, Harry). Sharpclaw Tom tabby dark ginger with wide shoulders and green eyes, Sharpclaw was first a dear named Scratch. After joining SkyClan he received a name Sharpclaw. He is the mentor to Cherrytail and is now SkyClan's deputy. He tends to have a fast and sharp tongue. In the SkyClan manga, it was revealed that he had a crush on Cherrytail. He was killed by rouge leader Darktail. Hawking, his son, replaced him as a deputy. Echosong A grey silver tabby she-paint with dark gray and white green eyes and white chest and furry tails, Echosong was a former kittypet named Echo, but was given the role of SkyClan medical cat after she began to have dreams from ancient SkyClan and StarClan. At first he was unsure to interpret the dream from his hero, but later expanded into his role as a medical cat. Later, Fawnstep, SkyClan's medical cat at his exile time, said he would share a dream with him, implying that Fawnstep would be the mentor of Echosong, in a way that Leafpool was a Willowshine mentor when Mothwing couldn't teach him about StarClan. [11] He received a vision that made the leafstar leader. Skywatcher A scar, very old, dark grey tom with matted fur and pale blue eyes, Skywatcher is also known as Moony. Skywatcher was an old cat who was SkyClan's last real warrior, named Sky, until Firestar and Sandstorm rebuilt SkyClan. He was the one who showed them around SkyClan province. He died in his sleep, but Firestar believes he wanted to live to see SkyClan rebuild. He returned to give Leafstar one of his nine lives and he was also a cat to inform Firestar of three prophecy powers: There will be three, your kin heirsch, who holds the power of the stars in their feet. [11] Cherrytail Tortoadle small and white she-paint, Cherrytail was a former kittypet named Cherry, and teased Skywatcher for his strange behaviour, but later learned he was a SkyClan cat and became Cherrypaw, diored by Sharpclaw. At the end of Firestar's Quest he received his heroic name, and rockshade mentor. She is the sister of Sparrowpelt. He was very brave, excited, and lively. He was also mating with Sharpclaw, giving birth to Hawkkit, Cloudkit, and Blossomkit. The names of the three cat heroes are Hawking, Cloudmist, and Blossomheart. Petalnose A grey pale he cats with blue eyes, Petalnose is a former kittypet named Petal rescued by Firestar, Sandstorm, and SkyClan from abusive Dualeg. His partner was Rainfur, who died in his battle with the rat, and his two kits were Mintfur and Sagenose. After he was rescued he decided to stay on SkyClan with his partner and served as a warrior once his kit was ready for the apprentice. [11] Patchfoot Tom is black and white with green eyes, Patchfoot was formerly a shovel named Patch. As a result of a rat attack, his shoulder was injured. When he recovered, thanks to Spottedleaf showing Sandstorm and Firestar how to treat rat bites with burdock roots, Patchfoot joined the fight against rats. At the end of Firestar's Quest, he mentored Bouncepaw, who later turned into a Bouncefire. [11] In Destiny Clovertail expects his kit. [60] Sparrowpelt Tom's dark chocolate salute with yellow eyes, Sparrowpelt was formerly a kittypet named Boris. She and her sister Cherrytail teased Skywatcher for her strange behaviour. Then, however, he learned he was a SkyClan cat and an Sparrowpaw and guided by Leafdapple. In the end, he received the name of the hero and his mentor Tyncycloud. [11] Rainfur Tom was light grey with dark grey ticks, Rainfur was formerly a pedestrian. Initially, he did not want to join SkyClan but later had to ask Clan's help to save his partner, Petal (then Petalnose), from his cruel owner Twoleg. In the end, he decided to join SkyClan but was killed in the battle against rats. He appeared in the Leafstar leader's ceremony to convince Firestar that his death was not his fault. He is also the father of Mintfur and Sagenose. [11] Clovertail A she-paint brown light with a white stomach and legs and green eyes, Clovertail was formerly a loner named Clover. He first met Firestar and Sandstorm while defending his kit against foxes. After that, he joined SkyClan, but was initially only for protection. In the end, his loyalty for SkyClan was evident when he fought in the battle against rats. Apparently, he partially came from RiverClan, given that he was an admirable swimmir and the fact that Firestar saw that Birchstar and Heavystep looked very much like Clovertail at the Leafstar leader's ceremony. She is the mother of Rockshade, Bouncefire, and Tyncycloud. He has three kits with Patchfoot: Birdpaw, Honeypaw, and Sandypaw. [11] Rockshade Tom is black with tom ears, Rockshade is one of three Clovertail garbage kits, formerly a loner named Rock. His mentor was Cherrytail. His heroic name is revealed as Rockshade in SkyClan's Destiny. [60] Tyncycloud A white cat with deep blue eyes, Tyncycloud was one of three Clovertail garbage kits, formerly a loner named Tiny. His mentor was Sparrowpelt. His heroic name, Tyncycloud, is revealed in SkyClan Destiny. [60] When he was named his hero, he did not approve of it. He says he is no longer small and should be named differently. Later, he changed his mind, knowing that it was part of the warrior naming ceremony. Bouncefire Tom gingerly, Bouncefire was one of three Clovertail garbage kits, formerly a loner named Bounce, he was later named Bouncefire by Leafstar. Is rubbish to Tyncycloud and Rockshade. Sagenose Sagenose is a pale grey tom named after a sage in his former Twoleg garden. He was one of two Petalnose and Rainfur kits, formerly a kittypet named Sage. Her sister is Mintfur. Erin Hunter said that Sagenose had been a warrior after SkyClan Destiny, but they forgot what his hero's name was. He is revealed to be a Petalnose apprentice in SkyClan Destiny. [60] Mintfur Mintfur is a grey tabby named after mint in the former park He was one of two Petalnose and Rainfur kits, formerly a kittypet named Mint. His brother was Sagepaw. His hero's name is revealed to be Mintfur. He was Waspwhisker's apprentice at the time of SkyClan's Destiny. [60] Lichenfur Lichenfur was a former loner who refused to join in Firestar's Quest.[11] but join sometimes between the book and SkyClan's Destiny. [60] In Firestar's Quest, the name is Lichen. [11] He is described as a mottled grey cat with amber eyes. Tangle Tangle is a bad plumage coming to SkyClan province sometimes to shelter on SkyClan's Destiny. [60] He refused to hear Firestar's bid to join SkyClan in Firestar's Quest. [11] But a little later, he decided to join SkyClan as an elderly person. She is described as a large salute tom with ragged fur and amber eyes. Egg eggs are long-footed, sleek, cream-colored toms with blue eyes and minced earrings. He joined SkyClan after Sharpclaw told him that the fox that had encroached on his home lived there for good. His mentor was Sharpclaw. Waspwhisker Waspwhisker is a grey and white tom with scars wrapping around his stomach to his tail. Formerly the kittypet disappeared until SkyClan discovered it. His partners are Fallowfern and his kits are Nettlesplash, Plumwillow, Rabbitleap, and Creekfeather. In SkyClan's destiny, he mistakenly called Hunchfoot because his name was changed at the last minute. Shrewtooth Tom is skinny black, Shrewtooth is from the same Twoleg house as Petalnose and his kit. He never told anyone where he was from and was nervous very often. Later, Clan attacked his former Twoleg owner. At the end of SkyClan's Destiny, Leafstar said that Shrewtooth had gone from being very nervous to one of his best warriors. [60] Ebonyclaw Ebonyclaw is an attractive black cat. He put a rat ward between his neck and his kittypet collar, to keep it from making sounds while hunting. He was a daytime warrior. He was also Frecklepaw's original mentor. Ebonyclaw also mentors Hawking, a Cherrytail kit. When SkyClan moved a long way to find the rest of the tribes, he decided to stay with his Twolegs, not to mention the SkyClan warrior. Bilylstorm Bilylstorm is a ginger and white tom with green eyes, and he is a daytime warrior. He was in love with Leafstar and eventually became his partner. He also has 3 kits with Leafstar: Firefern, Stormheart and Harrybrook. Firefern and Stormheart are both dead, as shown in the Hawking Journey. Harveymoon Harveymoon is a white tom with a wide back, and daylight warriors. He was banned from the tribe for one month along with Macgyver for debating Sharpclaw, saying that because they would not sleep in a cave, they decided to have to clean it. He returned a better warrior, along with Macgyver. In the exclusive SkyClan Manga, he chased 2 dogs with Macgyver, showing their true loyalty. Macgyver is a black-and-white tom, and daytime warrior. It is said that he never took the name of the hero. Frecklewish Frecklewish is a mottled light chocolate tabby she-cat with seen legs, and daytime warriors. He was originally an Ebonyclaw apprentice, but converted to Echosong apprenticeship, for training as a medical cat. He was initially unacceptable to be a medicinal cat apprentice, because he was a daylight warrior and there was no half-time. In a manga at the end of SkyClan Destiny it shows the name of his full medicine cat, Frecklewish. [60] Fallowfern Fallowfern was a brown pale he cat with blue eyes. She is the mother of the Waspwhisker kit: Rabbitkit, Creekit, Nettlekit, and Plumkit. In the manga at the end of SkyClan Destiny it skips forward and shows the kit getting their hero's name: Nettlesplash, Creekfeather, Plumwillow, and Rabbitleap. [60] Birdwing Birdwing is a black cat with green eyes. He is shown bright and cheerful. She is the daughter of Clovertail and Patchfoot and sisters to Honeytail and Sandynose. He was one of the group of young warriors and apprentices who ate housecat food, and humans put the drug on him then injured the eye to help heal, which it did. He was revealed to have a kit by Hawking's Journey. Honeytail Honeytail is a pale cat. She is sister to Birdwing and Sandynose and daughters Clovertail and Patchfoot. Sandynose Sandynose is a grey cat with darker legs and grey ears, their gender unknown but suspected by most fans to be tom. This was later confirmed to be true on the Hawking journey. [61] He is the siblings of Birdwing and Honeytail and sons Clovertail and Patchfoot. His partner is Plumwillow who bears him Reedclaw, Finleap and Dewspring. [62] A former SkyClan Cat member who was at one time was part of SkyClan then left. Shortwhisker Tom tabby brown with amber eyes, Shortwhisker formerly kittypet named Hutch. During his time on SkyClan, Shortwhisker was nervous around another cat, just like Ravenpaw at ThunderClan. He overcame his fears and fought in the battle against rats. After the battle, he realized that Clan's life was unsuitable for him, a decision that Firestar and Leafstar respected, and returned to Hutch. Hutch also promised to spread the word to another cat about SkyClan. [11] Snookthorn Snookthorn is a black-and-white tom and a former daytime warrior. He left to become a home cat after he saw the look of hatred in the human eye when SkyClan tried to help children, because he says that humans are not his enemies. He left right after he got his hero's name. Also of SkyClan's descendants. Snookthorn always admired Bouncefire, who died to darktail treachery. Sticking a brown tom with yellow eyes and tom earrings, Stick joined SkyClan but when it came time for his heroic naming, he decided to keep his name. He lives in after a battle with Dodge. Father of the Reds and former couple Velvet. Woods was a bit hostile to Leafstar because he refused to kill Dodge in SkyClan's Destiny. Shorty Brown tom with a stub for amber's tail and eyes, Shorty joins SkyClan but when it's time for his hero's naming, he's to take care of his name, just like what Stick did. He lived in his city after a battle with Dodge. Black coal tom with amber eyes and long coats, Coal joined SkyClan but when it came time for her hero's naming, she decided to keep her name. He lived in his city after a battle with Dodge. Cora Black she-paints with ripped ears, Cora joins SkyClan but when it's time for her hero's naming, she keeps her own name. He lived in his city after a battle with Dodge. He took the pair with Shorty, as shown on the Hawking Journey. Curlypaw Pale Gray she-paint. Curlypaw trained under Hawking before leaving SkyClan to become Kittypet. Ancient SkyClan cats Are not much known about the ancient SkyClan cats, which are driven out of the woods by Twolegs, because there aren't many details added. There are more cats, but some of their names aren't mentioned in the book. Skystar Formerly a mountain cat, Skystar was SkyClan's first leader. His parents were Quiet Rain and Dewy Leaf and his brother was Gray Wing. First called Clear Sky, she left her son Thunder, then became the first leader of the ThunderClan. Cloudstar Tom is small and light grey with white patches such as clouds, large spring water, sharp thorny claw tips, and neat, well-shaped heads, Cloudstar are SkyClan leaders when they are driven from the woods. Cloudstar and his tribes used to live in what is now Twolegplace and had to leave the jungle due to human development in the area, despite asking other tribes for help. The Cloudstar couple, Birdflight stayed behind with ThunderClan because of his kit. Cloudstar came into Firestar's dream of appealing for help and told him that he must rebuild SkyClan, and also visited the dream of longtime friend Firestar Smudge, whose house lies above the place where the SkyClan camp used to be. In the end, SkyClan rebuilt and Cloudstar came to give Leafstar one of nine lives and reunited with Birdflight, as well as their kit, Spottedpelt and Gorseclaw. Because of the attractive spottedleaf and Tigerclaw equations to Spottedpelt and Gorseclaw, it is believed that they are descendants from SkyClan. [41]:91[11] Deputy Buzzardstar Cloudstar, a ginger tom with green eyes. His heroic name is Buzzardtail. He became leader after Cloudstar, according to SkyClan Destiny. [60] Medical cat Fawnstep SkyClan when SkyClan was driven out of the woods, a small light chocolate tabby she-paint with white chest and legs. He is believed to be walking in Echosong's dreams, and he taught Echosong, looking because there was no official medical cat to train him when he joined. Birdflight is a gorgeous light brown tabby and her long cat with amber eyes. Birdflight is Cloudstar's partner, and lives behind at ThunderClan to save his kit, Spottedpelt and Gorseclaw. Fernpelt Fernpelt is a dark brown tabby she-paint. In one of Firestar's dreams, he squirrel to join Firestar that he should find a cat that has jumping skills as a SkyClan descendant. Mousefang Mousefang is a sand-colored cat with green eyes. Nightfur Nightfur is a black tom with a grey nozzle. Grey Oakstep Tom tabby, the name of the warrior revealed was Oakstep in SkyClan Destiny. [60] Spottedpelt Spottedpelt is a she-paint scratch tortois. She is Gorseclaw's sister. Living in ThunderClan when SkyClan left the jungle since they were a small kit, unable to make any trips. Allegedly bear a very strong resemblance to Spottedleaf, and is suspected of being related to Spottedleaf and Tigerstar. Gorseclaw Gorseclaw is a dark chocolate salute tom with amber eyes. He is Spottedpelt's brother. He lived in ThunderClan when SkyClan left the jungle since they were a small kit, unable to make any trips. Allegedly bear a very strong resemblance to Tigerstar, and is suspected of being related to both Tigerstar and Spottedleaf. Spiderstar The Last Leader of the Ancient SkyClan. Spiderstar is a dark chocolate tabby tom. Honeyleaf Last deputy ancient SkyClan, Honeyleaf is the ginger tabby he cats with green eyes. The Last Brackenheart of SkyClan's Ancient medical cat, Brackenheart is a tom of young chocolate salutes. The characters of SkyClan's Little Here are the characters on SkyClan that have a small part in the Warriors series. Small characters in SkyClan Name Pelt Color Description Beechstar Brown tabby Mentioned in Tribal Code. Former SkyClan leader. Mothpelt is his son. Although Maplewhisker was deputy, he wanted Mothpelt to be leader. He wants Mothpelt to take revenge on RiverClan. Now a StarClan member. Birchstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. SkyClan leaders when the first code was established. Also agree to the second code. Darkstar Darkstar Chocolate with soft, thick wool underlaid with black Mentioned in Tribal Code. SkyClan leaders when thirteen codes were established. He was in his last life when he decided to give Vinstar part of SkyClan province because ThunderClan had a new kit. Raincloud jumped on the Great Rock and challenged him but lost. After their argument, Darkstar declared that the leader's words were a hero code. Hawkstar? Referred to in the Tribal Code. SkyClan leaders when the tenth code is added. Reedstar and he ignored each other on the eve of the tenth code rally added. Fights against ShadowClan until Ripplestar dies and Finchstar declares the tenth code. Lowbranch? Skywatcher's mother. Ginger Maplestar Referred to in the Tribal Code. He was SkyClan's deputy as Maplewhisker but did not become leader because Beechstar wanted Mothpelt to be leader. After Mothpelt needs saving, Robinwing and SkyClan believes he should be the leader, Maplestar. Black and brown mothpelts mentioned in tribal Code. His father was Beechstar. He was not a deputy when Beechstar died but Beechstar told to lead SkyClan and attack RiverClan for Beechstar's death. Robinwing tried to stop him but he wanted to troublesuit his father's death. Because of this, he needs to be saved. Maplewhisker took the helm because he was deputy. Black and white Mottlepaw Mentioned in Tribal Code. SkyClan apprentice when the eleventh code is added. Apprentice and son of Poppycloud. He accidentally crossed the ThunderClan border because he couldn't smell it. The Lionstar, the ThunderClan leader, came to speak to Rowanstar about it. Poppycloud suggests that there should be code about marking boundaries every day. His proposal became an eleventh code. Nightmask? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Deputy SkyClan when the eleventh code is added. Tabby Oddfoot Brown with one of his legs swirls forward Mentioned in tribal Code. The Warriors of SkyClan when the eleventh code was established. Poppycloud Tortoiseshell Mentioned in Tribal Code. The SkyClan warrior when the eleventh code is added. Mentor and mother of Mottlepaw. Mottlepaw accidentally crossed the ThunderClan border because he could smell it. The Lionstar, the ThunderClan leader, came to speak to Rowanstar about it. Poppycloud suggests that there should be code about marking boundaries every day. His proposal became an eleventh code. Pricklenose? A friend of Lowbranch. Rain? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Deputy SkyClan when the thirteenth code was added. At the Assembly, Darkstar told Vinstar he gave part of the territory to ThunderClan. Raincloud challenged his leader in the Great Rock, seeing if he was sure. When Raincloud lost the argument, Darkstar created the thirteenth code. The grey Rainsplash Speckled is mentioned in tribal Code. SkyClan's deputy when the second code is added to the warrior code. Robinwing? Referred to in the Tribal Code. The SkyClan Warriors when the eighth code was added. He believes that SkyClan shouldn't fight RiverClan because they can't lose more cats. When Mothpelt fell in the river, he needed austerity. He, with the rest of SkyClan, believes Maplewhisker should be a leader because he is a deputy. He wants the eighth code. Rowanstar Black and chocolate Mentioned in Tribal Code. SkyClan leaders when the eleventh code is added. When the Lionstar got into the camp and asked about the border, Poppycloud suggested that there should be code about marking the border every day. His proposal became an eleventh code. Rubblepaw? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Apprentice when Maplewhisker became leader and Robinwing declared the eighth code. Helped pull the SkyClan cat out of the river with the help of its mentor Spiderpelt, Maplewhisker, and Robinwing. Spider? Referred to in the Tribal Code. Warriors when Maplewhisker became leader Robinwing declared the eighth code. Helped pull the SkyClan cat out of the river with the help of her apprentice Rubblepaw, Rubblepaw, and Robinwing. Red chocolate squirogo mentioned in tribal Code. The Warriors when Maplewhisker became leader and Robinwing declared the eighth code. Almost drowned in the river but he was pulled out by Robinwing. Twig? Skywatcher's brother, but he went to live with Twolegs and has not been seen since. Twigtail? Referred to in the Tribal Code. SkyClan medical cats when thirteen codes are established. He was at the Assembly but did not speak. SkyClan eventually moved the territory in Squirrelflight Hope and settled there. BloodClan BloodClan is a group of former kittypets, rogues, and loners (cats that are not kittypets or part of the Tribe) living in large parts of the human suburbs (Dualegplace) located outside the woods, distinguished by the fact that they wear collars laden with teeth. BloodClan does not have a hero code, does not believe in StarClan, and does not have an organizational structure found in other Tribes. As a result, BloodClan is operated in a dictatorial style, and a cat that either violates the rules or the desire to come out is maximized or killed. [63] Bone bones are large, muscular, tom tightened battle, black and white with green eyes. He served as BloodClan's unofficial deputy, and was Scourge's main enforcer, doing his dirty work. She also wore a collar around her neck similar to Scourge's. Said the collar has the same dog and cat teeth. He killed Whitestorm during the final clash at the Darkest Hour before being struck and killed by a group of apprentices: Bramblepaw, Tawnypaw, Ashpaw, Featherpaw, and Stormpaw. Scourge Scourge (Small at birth), a small black tom with ice blue eyes and a single white draw, BloodClan rules through the most appropriate fear and mentality, and refuses to prepare for any cat that cannot support it- or himself. She allowed fellow cat nursing kits to hunt their friends purely out of pragmatism, so that tribes did not stop existing when all old cats died and there were no young cats to replace them. Despite his small size, he is a very capable and dangerous fighter, and not any kind of code of heroic ethics or compassionate impulses prevents him in combat; he was cruel and cruel (Rock said in the Tribe Cat that he did not have any sense of right or wrong). [41]:91[10] To demonstrate his ability to kill, he wore a collar studied with teeth and nails from the dogs and cats he killed, and his nails were reinforced with dog teeth. The color of his collar has not been mentioned in the book, but is purple in the Rise of Punishment. His weaknesses were revealed to be his skeptic against StarClan, meaning he did not have Life. It was confirmed by the author that Firestar was a half-brother of Scourge (Azab and Firestar shared the same father).[64] as implicated in the Rise of Azab when Quince wondered about why the garbage did not share his father's ginger making Firestar also half brothers Socks and Ruby, Scourge's trash. Scourge then relates to Clouddait, Leapool, Princess, Squirrelflight, Whitewing, Whitewing Doveving kit and Iyvpool, Lionblaze, Hollyleaf, and Jayfeather. The evil nature of Scourge is described in the Rise of Azab. It was revealed that she was originally known as Tiny and from a young age, her brother Socks and sister Ruby treated her very badly, bullying her about her size and mocking her. Her mother told them not to pick her, but never really defended her the way she wanted her. When Ruby knocked her out that she was going to drown in the river because no humans wanted to practice her. Smalling run away by herself. He strolled into forest territory and was attacked by Tigerpaw who was patrolling the thunderClan province's borders with Bluefur and his mentor, Thistleclaw. Tigerpaw wanted to kill him, but was stopped in the final moments by Bluefur. Smalling developed a lifelong grudge against Tigerpaw for this unfair fight. Afraid to go home and be afraid to get into the woods and face more abuse from cats like Tigerpaw, Smalling soon moves into the town lanes, where she finds the old dog. One of his teeth fell and he tried to use it to cut his collar, but eventually stuck. He found a bunch of thin cats that were eating a small piece of chicken from human litter. To convince them to share their food, he made a story about killing a dog and teeth ripping off his skull as a kind of trophy. Despite the doubts, the cat let him bite. The next day, however, a group of cats, led by two cats called Bones and Bricks, have heard of his story. They asked him to kill the dog behind the deli who stole their food. Fearing the dog, but realized he would be revealed as a liar and driven if he refused to fight the dog, Smalling approached the dog. With sheer luck, the dog was scared of Tiny's shadow, which appeared about three times as small as Tiny really, and escaped. Small enough to convince other cats he scares the dog. Other perstable cats were impressed and treated him almost like a god. This is the point at which he decided to change his name; Other cats have never asked for his name before, so instead of telling them his name is Small, he forms the name of the new and more frightening Scourge. He became a leader by default, and the cat began to seek his advice and help. A group of ruggers from the jungle travelled in and began to kill and abuse local cats, which turned to their leader, Scourge, for protection. Torment cannot bluff this is because he created on the dog, and the forest faction openly mocked and threatened him. Unwilling to retreat from his power position, Scourge killed one of them in cold blood, scared another forest proponent and reinforced his hold on an alley cat. Later, Socks and Ruby strolled into its territory; They Are Them as a house cat, but then becomes lost and forgotten when the owner moves; as animals rely on, they never learn to hunt down their own food. They asked Azab for help, but he snarls at them, asking why he should help them after everything they did to him. Ruby then asked if blood meant nothing to her, for which Scourge countered that it was everything to her and how her enemy's blood soaked into her fur. He later said that he was the leader of BloodClan, who surprised his siblings. The Torment eventually allowed them to eat some of his food until they were full, but after they finished, Scourge permanently removed him from his territory, complementing his transformation into a cold-blooded villain. Torment forms an alley cat into BloodClan. They copy his ways, even making a collar for themselves out of the dog teeth they have described and their cats have been killed. Scourge appointed Bones, a scary black-and-white cat, as his second command. Tigerstar is led by Boulder, a former Scourge follower, to Scourge province in a maze-like lane. Tigerstar, who at this point the ShadowClan leader, was slightly amused by the small leader, but after seeing the number of his followers and their collars, decided to ask Scourge to join him in the battle against Thunderclan and WindClan, promising him their share of land. He never intended to keep his words out, thinking that when he had all the forest factions united under his rule, he would easily be able to get rid of Scourge, whom he underestimated badly because of Scourge's small size and arrogant Tigerstar himself. Tigerstar clearly doesn't remember a time when he nearly killed a little black cat as a kitten, although Scourge certainly remembers and describes it, although he deliberately says nothing about their past confrontations. When WindClan and ThunderClan still refused to bow to Tigerstar, he shouted at BloodClan to attack, but Scourge's followers refused to fight without Scourge's orders, energized Tigerstar. When Scourge refused to order BloodClan to attack, Tigerstar attacked Scourge, who proved more terrible than Tigerstar had ever expected. Azab took his grudge by killing Tigerstar, cutting him open from chin to tail, and watching it happily because all nine of his lives were stripped of it. Then, during the battle with LionClan (all the warrior tribes combined together), Scourge took one of Firestar's lives, but was killed later by the ThunderClan leader. [65] It is not known where the spirit of Scourge went after Ais Ais (born Jumper) was one of barley's brothers who accompanied BloodClan and became one of Scourge's followers, like the Serpent. He almost killed his own sister, Violet. The sawa snake (born Hoot) was one of Barley's brothers who accompanied BloodClan. He, too, is responsible for almost killing Violet, and the first to tell Barley their main change. Brick brick is a rumor rumor tom, a friend of Bones and Torment, but also a Small/Torment supporter even before BloodClan was formed. The brick asks Tiny/Scourge to fight one of the dogs in the city keeping them from a pile full of food. Snipe Snipe is a black tom with green eyes and orange spots on her fur. He is a member of BloodClan. Gremlin Gremlin is a patchy black tortoise with green eyes. He made a deal with the Graystripe of ThunderClan to protect himself and an unborn kit from being killed in combat. Scraps Scraps are a tom of black-and-white tortoon patchy. He was Gremlin's brother and was murdered in a battle with ThunderClan. Fury Fury is a long, tabby she-paint feather with one working eye. Others have scars across it, from when it may be scratched in combat. He became the leader of BloodClan after Scourge died and sought revenge on tribal cats. StarClan After death, most of Clan's cat spirit combines with StarClan. StarClan is said to be represented by Silverpelt (Milky Way), and each individual star represents one dead hero. Once the cat dies, she joins StarClan in shape where she is most comfortable. For example, blindness and deafness will heal, unless the cat has been happier to be deaf or blind. StarClan Province is a forest that is always in warm, comfortable and summer-like conditions. There is no conflict (usually) nor any disease available. The StarClan cats are not permanently at StarClan. Instead, they were eventually forgotten by their life and passion at StarClan fading slowly, as mentioned in the Echoes Fade. [66] The StarClan Warriors continue to watch over the Tribes, usually watching their own Clan. They guide tribes, often in dreams and other signs and omens. StarClan usually visits medical leaders and cats. Often, this happens with a drug cat either Moonstone revealed into the Wild or newer in Moonpool revealed in Starlight. StarClan cannot or do not choose to influence events in the real world. However, in Firestar's Quest, Spottedleaf visited both Firestar and Sandstorm, and treated the injured warriors, indicating that StarClan does indeed have some degree of impact on the real world. [58] The fact that Cinderpelt has been redefined as Cinderheart is in conflict with starClan it cannot influence the real world, although they may have chosen to do so. No Star/Dark Forest Place No Star, also known as Dark Forest, is where the spirit of cats that have caused great pain and suffering in other people's lives goes or is banned. In this place, no sun, moon, or any star, the whole forest is bathed in a sick light. There are no prey and cats don't feel starving. Cats know to walk from the Dark Forest inside Thistleclaw, Tigerstar, Hawkfrost, Brokentail, Darkstripe, Clawface, Mapleshade, Mapleshade, and Snowtuff. [66] Victoria Holmes revealed on the website about the authors of the Wands and World fantasy that StarClan and the Dark Forest existed on different aircraft; However, there is a clear boundary between the provinces, which are marked by fog walls. Many Of Clan's cats in the Omen series Stars visited there for training for the clash against the Tribes. However, many of them are clear to the fact that Dark Forest warriors actually train them to destroy the Tribes, including StarClan, in their upcoming battles. Instead, they told Clan's cats that they did this to be better warriors. In No Star Place, cats that want to go out are killed. Cats in training are ordered to war with their nails unhealthy, which causes wounds in the wake world. Some Dark Forest warriors show what they will practice by using other Dark Forest warriors as dummies. During numerous demonstrations 'dummies' maximized or killed. At the Omen of the Stars, Iyvpool trained there, but when he realized that it wasn't right, Jayfeather, Lionblaze, and Dovewing asked him to spy on dark forests, as there was a battle between them, StarClan, and the Tribes had not yet come. In the Great Battle, the souls of dark Forest attacked the Clans. Some cats have escaped, such as Mapleshade. Quarter of Insistence Water Insistence Is a group of small cats living in the northern caves of the mountain that divide much of the land between the old forest territory and the lake territory. Tribal cats do not believe in StarClan; Instead, they have their own spiritual equivalent, the Endless Hunting Tribe. In Tribe, there are no medical cats or deputies: the leader, always known as the Teller of the Pointed Stones, or Healer, serves both tasks in addition to the leader. [2] At Tribal, tribal cats were named by their mother for the first thing they saw (which, incidentally, is usually not the Floor/Roof/Cave/Wall or a few minutes, as described by Rock in tribal Cats). Finally, the Tribal Cat trains as a-to-be (apprentice). They can be either cave guards or victim hunters, based on their physical appearance, and this future role is determined at birth. Strong and solid cats are chosen to be cave guards, whose job is to defend the Tribal camp against intruders as well as providing protection for victim hunters during hunting. Prey hunters, who are chosen to slim them, agility bodies, are suitably hunted in large mountain areas and can jump high enough to catch large birds. Kits of mothers take care of the kit. [41] Tribal cats often cover themselves in mud for more with their surroundings, allowing them to capture larger, more exotic victims such as hawks and eagles. It also protects them from cold mountain winds. [43]:317 Tribes usually have no enemies, which leave them unprepared for attacks by other large predates, others, become Sharpooth. Another example is another group of cats trying to take their territory. [2] They have a rooted tradition, and therefore do not welcome the beliefs of other cats, a theme that never come back and that if she does, she will kill herself. Sol is also a leading role in SkyClan and the Manga series Stranger, which lasted long before its debut. He joined SkyClan, revealing that Sol didn't know the Tribes just because Midnight told him about them. Although he was desperate to be a warrior and tried to fit in with his new Klanmates, Sol quickly proved himself self-centered, lazy when carrying out his duties and was completely uncertain about the potential consequences of his actions. This was shown when he stole food from several foxes living nearby, accidentally taking them to the Clan camp, which made Leafstar, the SkyClan leader, angry with him. In an attempt to impress him, Sol stole three very young Leafstar kits and hid them away from the powds so he could play a hero's role in finding them. However, his plot was discovered and, in anger, Leafstar exiles Sol from SkyClan, telling him that he could not be a true warrior because he was selfish and had no understanding of the warrior code at all. Sol condemn the Tribes for their stupidity. A huge silver tabby tom strip with dark stripes and amber eyes, stripes are intruding on the territory of the Water Rush Quarter in Outcast. [31] He was shown as a mocking, cruel and amoral cat, leading an intruder without another code of honor life or death policy similar to BloodClan. At the end of the book, he and other intruders were defeated in the battle by Tribal and Tribal cats, and surrendered, promising to leave the Tribe alone and respect their boundaries. Twist A young tortoise he cats with white stripes on his face, Twist is one of the intruders that encroaches on the Territory of the Water Rush Quarter in Outcast. [31] It was observed by Hollypaw that he was the age of the apprentice, and if he had become a Tribal cat, they might have befriended. On a side note, during the Wands and Worlds chat, one fan asked if Twist would make another appearance. [64] This was followed by Erin Hunter asking who Twist was. Therefore, it is assumed that Twist will never appear again. Jingo Tabby's dark chocolate she-paint with his tail tip disappeared, Jingo was the leader trying to keep the Twolegplace cat band together after Sol's dark leadership, introduced in Sunrise. [20] When a stray dog chased a ThunderClan cat, he found them and took them to safety in an abandoned Twoleg nest, and he took them back to Purdy's life. Sol convinced Jingo to leave his home and join his new Twolegplace Clan, and he decided that it sounded interesting, and he told his neighbor, Flowers, about this as well. Unfortunately, Flowers was killed by a stray dog while on a hunting mission. When Sol was the leader of the Twolegplace cat, he acted like their king, always asking them to bring him food, but never hunted himself. After Flowers was killed, he devised plans to show dogs whose nest territory was. He made it sound as if there were no other options, and Pepper, Jester, and Frosty were killed as a result of his bad judgment, and all cats had wounds, except Sol, because he didn't raise a leg to help his own cat. After the battle, Sol refused to take responsibility for his mistake and Jingo asked him out. Jingo was clearly a very strong emotional character, as he had to deal with his guilt from inviting Flowers to join Sol, only for him to be killed. He also needs to keep groups shattered together, and Lionblaze and Brambleclaw are impressed by this personality trait. Brambleclaw, as he will return to the abandoned Twoleg nest, says it is too soft for him to hear. Goodbye, Jingostar. May StarClan light up your route. This suggests that he thinks that he is noble as leader of Clan. Hussar tom was grey wide, Hussar had a long scar on his side from the fight with a stray dog. He joined Twolegplace Clan with Jingo, so they might be excellent friends. Hussar is probably the strongest of the group and therefore he acts as deputy to Jingo. He was relatively calm, despite his size and strength, but showed erratic resentment to Sol. Speckle A coated chocolate she-paint, Speckle nursed four kits, one of which was named Frisk. His partner left when a stray dog began terrorizing A lone cat in an abandoned Twoleg nest, but she is now in love with Sol, because she says she wants them [the kit] to be Sol and she will be very happy to see it. He also defended Sol's reputation when they discussed it with Clan's cat. He seemed very protective of his kit and was very suspicious of Clan's cats, perhaps because he knew they were looking for Sol, and when they discovered he wouldn't be for a friendly tour. Fritz Fritz is a small black and white tom with torn earrings from a dog fight. He is a very jumping, softly spoken cat. He was obviously friends with Jingo, or perhaps friends, because he calmed him down when the subject of Flowers appeared, and vice versa when Fritz was afraid. He was the first to meet the ThunderClan cat, near the edge of Dualegplace, and tied them up that Sol was nearby when he said, obviously afraid for the death of Clan's cat, that's what he said! And see what happens! They assumed that he spoke about Sol. In a battle with the so-called BloodClan, Fritz was kidnapped by the BloodClan attacks and ThunderClan BloodClan to stop BloodClan from launching raids and stealing fresh murders from ThunderClan after Mitzl, Fritz's mother asked for them. Pod A tom chocolate that twists with a fantastic grey nozzle. Pod is quite skitish, but he is very talking and is not afraid to speak his mind, as opposed to Fritz. He complained quite a lot, and often insulted the things he hated, like a dog or Sol. It seemed he had a grudge against Sol for acting as a leader among twolegplace cats, while he and his Clanmates were hungry and had to train without prompts to combat dogs. Pod was one of the first to come to Sol's abandoned Twoleg nest, along with Fritz and Speckle. Merry & Chirp Merry are ginger and white she-paint with green eyes, while Chirp is a pale grey tabby tom. They are the last of the Twolegplace cats to meet ThunderClan's patrol. Their appearance sparked all twolegplace cats into hiding, thinking they were dogs. When they arrived, Merry leaves shortly afterwards, muttering, these Cats just as Sol. This signals he might not like strangers, like everyone else in the Twoleg nest left after the leadership of Sol. But Chirp remains near the door. As he heard the discussion, he gave cats Clan a very valuable information: there were rumours that Sol was back, and he was living with Purdy. Flowers are beautiful young him cats killed by stray dogs. He is a former kittypet, and is a neighbor of Jingo. Jingo to come with him to twoleg's abandoned lair. His death led Sol to create a plan to fight stray dogs, leading to more deaths. Jingo misses Flowers and feels guilty about bringing him here for his death. Pepper & Jet Jet is a long black tom, and Lada is the garbage. Pepper chosen by Sol to lead dog to disused giant But he never made it; the dogs overcame him and killed him, then played with his body. After the battle, Sol walks in and asks Jet to bring him some food, and Jet will kill Sol if the Hussar doesn't hold him back. Jet walks while Clan's cat and Dualegplace's cat are talking to Sol, and he shows extreme anger towards Sol, telling Jingo, Never why. He's not going to be okay. I don't want to think about that cat ever again! Jester & Frosty Jester and Frosty are two cats who died as a result of Sol's design to fight dogs. Jester is a tom who is so badly injured, he dies from his injuries in twoleg's abandoned lair. Frosty is a cat that is cated to pieces by dogs. Oscar Oscar is a kittypet that Firestar meets while looking for a cat capable of joining the new SkyClan. He was very dashing and thought that everything Firestar told him was complete, and refused to participate. He is described as a muscular black tom with green eyes. Stick, Cora, Charcoal, Snow, and Pendeky These five cats met Firestar while he was on his way to rebuild SkyClan, and were separated from Sandstorm. Wood is a brown tom with yellow eyes and torn ears, Cora is a black cat with smudgated ears, Charcoal stone is a black tom with amber eyes and a long kot, Snowy is a pretty white cat with bright blue eyes, and Shorty is a brown tabic tom with a stew for tail and amber eyes. Shorty saves Sandstorm from some Twoleg kit, and then shows Firestar the way he goes. At Dawn, there is a cat called Charcoal stone in a two-necked nest,[23] which may be the same stone charcoal mentioned in Firestar's Quest. They are also seen in SkyClan Destiny where they accompany SkyClan for a while. [60] They left after SkyClan helped them in battle with Dodge, Stick's greatest enemy. During this battle, Stick Red's daughter was killed. Red's mother is Velvet, Stick's former partner. Darktail Darktail Shadows Series vision, big, muscular, flashy white tom with blue eyes, black spots, and a long black tail, therefore the name, is the main antagonist of the first three books of the story arc A Vision of Shadows, as well as the super edition of Hawkwing's Journey. Darktail later became the biological son of Onestar, the leader of WindClan. According to Onestar, Darktail was born as a result of his forbidden relationship with Asap, a beautiful kittypet and pampered while he was still known as Onewhisker returning to the old forest area of Clans. Although still heavily pregnant, Asap wants to join WindClan so that her kitten can be raised as a hero (Onewhisker never stronger side in the life of the Warriors). Onewhisker refused, in part because it wasn't a life for him and partly because he knew the fact that he was going mating with a kittypet would ruin his reputation. His only rubbish to survive was Darktail, and Onewhisker refused to let in join WindClan for the same reason as his mother. Angry at this double rejection, Smoke vowed to Onewhisker that he would raise their son to hate his father, tribes and their way of life. What happened to Darktail afterwards was unknown, as a very long period of time (some years at least) passed between his father's rejection and when he reappeared next. However, apparently his father's rejection and mother's teachings had a sharp negative effect on his personality; she grew up being a cold and bitter cat with cruelty and grudges. By the time darktail resurfaces, he had become the leader of a large group of rotator cats trying to copy the Tribal way of life, but without honour, compassion or compassion. He sought to hunt down the Warrior tribes and destroyed them for pushing him all those years ago. He and his group joined SkyClan, the fifth Clan who had long gone, but then betrayed them and drove them. Shortly afterwards, Alderpaw and his colleagues came searching for SkyClan, but came across Darktail and his group instead. They were fooled into believing Darktail and his torn was SkyClan, but they eventually found out the truth and escaped. Darktail and his group secretly followed them into Clans province. Darktail and his group eventually managed to take over the ShadowClan province, with many of his cats choosing to join their group, as they were fed up with Rowanstar for being a weak leader. Darktail called his band 'The Kin, although the title has no real meaning to him. He stupars any cat trying to leave the group. At one point, Onewhisker, now Onestar and leader WindClan and with other races launched a full-scale attack on Darktail and his assails. During the battle, Onestar personally battled Darktail and came very close to killing him, but before he could do so, whisking Darktail in his ear that sure the cat that refused and then killed his own son would end up in the Dark Forest. Fearing this, Onestar ordered his Tribe to retreat. This cost the Tribes a battle and led to the deaths of several cats, and many others seriously injured. Soon after, Darktail took over the RiverClan province. When the fighting ended, Darktail declined to allow RiverClan to take their injured Clanmates to treatment or take their dead for the funeral, instead taking injured as prisoners and leaving dead in the carrion-like sunshine. Darktail tortured RiverClan prisoners with their starvation and left their wounds to fester, and humiliated by humiliating them to swear allegy to Kin. However, the captured cat eventually broke free and many former ShadowClan warrior rebels, who asked Kin to escape the RiverClan camp. Later, SkyClan reappeared and all five of Clans took the Darktail group. Most of Darktail's assail escapes and onestar is now fully determined to take his evil son. evil. Eventually drove Darktail into the lake, where their battle brought them further and further until the two of them sank below and were not resurface. Nettle A tom tabby brown with long, spicy feathers, Nettle is a very cruel and sadistic member of the Darktail group. She is the closest prevergor to a medicinal cat, but only knows some herbs. He tried them all on sick cats, but nothing makes them better. He is also a violent fighter. Sometime after Darktail's death, Nettle stole two kits given birth by his former partner Yarrowleaf, who was born in ShadowClan, as part of a Sleekwhisker plot to kill Rowanclaw. He was stopped and killed by Rowanclaw, even though he later died in the process. Raven Raven is a blurry long, black cat and a senior member of the Darktail group. He believes strongly in the cruel way of Darktail. He helped the rebelling drowning cat against Darktail. Big rain, long grey toms with single green eyes and bushy tails, Rain was originally a temporary member of SkyClan, but then betrayed them and joined the Darktail group. He acted as the second command of sorts to Darktail, but later grew frustrated with his leader and tried to kill him, but Darktail killed him. Sleekwhisker A sleek, gold-yellow she-cat with green eyes, Sleekwhisker is the daughter of Dawn and Crowfrost from ShadowClan, and sisters to Juniperclaw and Strikestone, also making her grandchildren Rowanclaw and Tawnypelt. He was guided by his uncle, Tigerheart, and it was clear that he did not believe in StarClan when he was observed by Alderheart, then Alderpaw, at the Assembly when he first met him and Needlepaw. Sleekwhisker follows Needlepaw, Juniperpaw, and Violetkit to join Darktail and his torn, leaving his parents and other relatives strikepaw in ShadowClan. He has given himself the name of the warrior, Sleekwhisker. He twoons Needletail to train Violetpaw and says that they are a pyropower now, not Clan's cat, and that he can learn to hunt and fight himself like a faction do. It became clear he didn't like it or favor Violetpaw. This shows more as Darktail favors Violetpaw more. Once Darktail and his rogue went to ShadowClan and forced Rowanstar out of leadership, he followed suites such as Needletail, Juniperclaw, and several other ShadowClan cats like Spikefur and Mistcloud. She asked Dawnpelt, her mother, if she was happy to see her and Juniperclaw as herself, Juniperclaw, and Strikestone since Crowfrost, her father, had died of Yellowcough. Dawnpelt refused to agree with him, saying that can't leave each of his kits, and ShadowClan is the only home he ever knew and couldn't leave. Sleekwhisker, satisfied with the answer, lives in the newly formed Kin. Sleekwhisker was noted to be one of Darktail's most loyal followers after he took over ShadowClan and combined the remainder of the ShadowClan cat and his forest and formed what he was called Kin. He supports every decision he has made and is very suspicious of Violetpaw. He began to become suspicious of Needletail as well, after Rain had died in a Darktail nail for betraying him. When Dawnpelt realized it was a mistake to stay with Kin, he told Violetpaw that he would leave and already sent Juniperclaw and Strikestone to find ThunderClan. Dawn told Violetpaw that Sleekwhisker would not want to leave Kin and never asked him about leaving. When the mysterious Dawnpelt disappeared, Sleekwhisker showed no emotion about his mother's absence and apparently didn't care about him either, unlike his brothers who showed extreme concern over their missing mother. While the former ShadowClan cat soon realized that Darktail was a cruel and unhappy cat, Sleekwhisker still remained on his edge and agreed with almost every word he said. She told Darktail that she is Kin now, through and through, and does not consider herself a ShadowClan cat in a long time. He showed no remorse when Violetpaw's plans to feed Darktail and his followers of poppy seeds had failed, and Violetpaw would have been punished. The penalty is for Darktail to drown out Needletail, to show Violetpaw what it's like for the only cat he cares about going. Once Needletail was weak and starved turned on Darktail, himself, Roach, and Raven, he attacked Needletail along with Roach and Darktail. Sleekwhisker helped drown Needletail in the end by the lake and showed no remorse in killing his childhood friend, showing his complete devotion to Darktail. Once Kin was driven by other tribes, he runs away with what's up to Kin; Yarrowleaf and Spikefur by summons. It was noted by Rowanstar that Sleekwhisker ran with Kin, and he declared he and other traitors. He was missed by Juniperclaw and Strikestone, who wondered where he had gone. The spirit of the drowning cats on the lake revealed that Sleekwhisker, along with a ShadowClan cat who has not yet returned, may still be alive. Sleekwhisker and the very pregnant Yarrowleaf then lived in the former ShadowClan camp. Violetshine, Tree, and Sandynose discovered them, and were shocked and angry to see them. Violetshine noted that Sleekwhisker helped kill Needletail, and that Yarrowleaf did not show any remorse in attacking his former colleagues. Sleekwhisker told them that Spikefur had died of illness because they could not find herbs proper to treat it with, and no one else helps. Upon arrival, Strikestone and Juniperclaw warmed up, and Sleekwhisker and Yarrowleaf bag Leafstar for them to join SkyClan and look sad as soon as they learned that ShadowClan is no longer. They turned, however, on their past criminal accounts, but were hidden by Whorlpaw, Juniperclaw, Strikestone, Snowbird, and Scorchfur. Once Tree has found a solution to let them stay, stay, finally agree, even reluctantly. Tawnypelt also showed resentment for them, calling them traitors; instead, Rowanstar, now Rowanclaw, forgives them. Juniperclaw supports her sister, claiming that many former ShadowClan cats follow Darktail, herself being one, and asking whether Leafstar doesn't believe cats can change. Now an apprentice again in SkyClan, Sleekwhisker was later revealed to have betrayed his brothers, who went behind Leafstar to secure his residence, as well as Yarrowleaf, who relied on Sleekwhisker during his pregnancy and had thought the two were cats were friends. He secretly collaborated with two troublesome kittypets, Susan and Jacques, to help with plans to get revenge on Rowanclaw, blaming him for everything wrong in his life. Drug sleekwhisker Yarrowleaf with poppy seeds and steals his kit, Hopkit and Flaxkit, for use as a hostage. He also collaborated with Nettle and Raven to catch Tawnypelt, intending to kill his rights in front of Rowanclaw, because he is the cat he most likes and the one thing he has left. However, Rowanclaw, Macgyver, Yarrowleaf, and Violetshine managed to save Tawnypelt, get stolen kits and beat Sleekwhisker and the others. He and Nettle took Rowanclaw fatally injuring him, although Rowanclaw managed to kill Nettle in the process. Violetshine and others helped drive Sleekwhisker and the torn and other kittypets away, telling them to never return, as they had betrayed the Tribes too many times. Smoke Smoke is a kittypet that never appears, but is otherwise pronounced and illustrated. She is a former lover and couple Onestar, and mother of Darktail. She is described by Onestar as a beautiful cat with soft grey feathers, and brilliant blue eyes like pure water pools. According to Onestar, he and Smoke met and fell in love in two places when he was known as Onewhisker back in the old territory of Clans. Onewhisker won Smoke's affection by telling the exaggerated stories of Clan's life (leaving harsher aspects), while Smoke's unique beauty won onewhisker's affection. Eventually, Smoke became pregnant with a Onewhisker kit, and went looking for it in WindClan province, fortunately coming across from her while she was out hunting alone. He asked to join WindClan, so that his kit could be a warrior. Onewhisker denied the smoke demands, in part because life in the wild is not for him (because he is soft and delicate) and partly because he knows he will be in terrible trouble for mating with a kittypet, mating with non-Tribal Cats is prohibited by the Warrior Code. Smoke argued with Onewhisker for a while, but was eventually abandoned. However, while he was still on his way home, he went into labour, and because he had no help, only one of his kits survived. The kit was Darktail. Smoke and her son then returned to the smoke owner, but only for a while. As a given that Darktail was old enough to leave him, Smoke took him to his father, begging him to let his son join WindClan, while he was still young enough to learn about the Warrior Code. Onewhisker, however, dismissed his son for the same reason he would refuse Smoke; partly because he knows the fact that he will sire the kit with a kittypet would damage his reputation and partly because he feared Darktail would not be able to survive as a Clan cat. Smoke was infused by this double rejection and turned on Onewhisker, raging that he would raise their only child and teach him to hate those Tribes who rejected him. Smoke is evident through this, as Darktail develops into cold and cruel cats with a single purpose: to destroy the Warrior Tribes. The rise of Scourge Socks Brothers Scourge and Ruby and son Quince. The Socks are black toms with white nozzle, tail ends, and legs. He, along with Ruby, tortured their sister Tiny to run away from home in the Rise of Torment. [6] However, she seemed to have a less violent personality than her sister. Later in the book, Socks and Ruby appeared in front of Tiny, now Scourge, abandoned by their Twolegs and desperate for food and shelter. After a revenge speech in which Scourge stated that he no longer thought of them as a family, and indeed, not thinking about the family at all, he allowed them to eat, but afterwards, he exiled them both. It was revealed in Wands and Worlds chats with Erin Hunter on August 16, 2008,[64] that Socks and Ruby were alive. Ruby Scourge's sister, Ruby, along with her brother Socks, tainted and scared their brother Tiny enough so he escaped from his Twoleg nest, saying that Small would be thrown in the river because he didn't want to. He and socks were later adopted by the housefolk, but were abandoned when they moved away. They came to Tiny (now Scourge), begging for help, but soon turned away. It was revealed in Wands and Worlds chats with Erin Hunter that they were alive. [64] He is described as a light grey cat. Quince Scourge's mother Quince has one rubbish: Ruby, Socks, and Tiny (then Scourge). It was revealed in Wands and Worlds chats with Erin Hunter that she was alive, but rather old. [64] He married Firestar's father, although he was not his mother. She is described as a dark grey she-paint with a red collar and amber eyes. Graystripe's Adventure Trilogy Diesel Tom tabby brown lightly with black zig-zag strips and white chest, legs, and nozzle, Diesel befriended Graystripe and Millie at a truck stop at the Warrior Return. [67] When he met the duo, he they are food and shelter. Millie accepted, while Greystripe refused but had to accept the offer when shortly thereaf afterwards, Greystripe was hit by a car. Diesel suggested they get to the drowning sun spot by hitting the ride with a truck. Diesel is a very intelligent cat, but it wasn't always like that Duke A was a big, black and white tom with a colar and nicks in his ear, duke was first introduced in The Lost Warrior. [68] One of the house cats around Twolegplace where Greystripe lived instantly with the Twoleg family, he was the leader of a small gang of hostile kittypets. It is said that no one defeated duke, because he was a ferocious warrior. Graystripe, weakened from his stay with Twolegs, was defeated by him once, but then Duke and two of his cronies were defeated through graystripe's confirmed combined effort and the newly trained Millie. Ironically, like the embarrassing Duke leaves, he hypocritically calls Graystripe 'saving', but Graystripe, remembering what he meant to be a hero, doesn't hear it, and walks proudly with his 'device'. Millie. A long-haired dark grey Tom husker with lighter grey hoods and lighter grey fur tufts on the top of his head, Husker is the patriarch of the Graystripe and Millie kennel cat family found in The Hero's Escape. [67] He was moss and Birdy's father, Pad, Raindrop, and Little Mew. He offered shelter to Millie and Graystripe after Millie's eye was injured in the corn near the cage where she and her family lived. He explained that he and his family had lived with a type of family, the golden citizens of Twolegs, but when they died, the Twoleg family only moved in and chased the cats. He was seen playing with the Twolegs after Graystripe and Millie got twolegs for rescuing one of the Twoleg kits and taking them to the cage to meet the cage cat. It is considered husker to be one of the Kittypets Twolegs afterwards, as well as the whole family. Moss A black slender she-cat, Moss is husker's partner and Splash's older brother, as well as mother to Bird, Raindrop, Pad, and Little Mew. He was first introduced, along with other cage cats, in the Warrior Escape, and convinced huskers to let Graystripe and Millie take shelter in the cage after Millie's eye injury from the cornfield. [67] As Graystripe and Millie rescue one of Twoleg's kits, Moss and the rest of her family are accepted by Two Legs at the end of the novel, and it is thought that they have become their new kittypets. A splash of light black and white tom, Splash is a brother to Moss and is one of the cage cats in Warrior Escape. [67] He retained a small role throughout the novel, and was eventually accepted by twolegs who had previously been hostile to them. It is thought that she and the entire cat enclosure have become their new kittypets. Tigerstar and Sasha's Trilogy Patch Patch Patch is a black and white kitten that was first introduced in Escape From the [69] He would have limped in the river had it not been for Sasha to warn the captain of the boat on the river at the time. From time to time, the captain began to grow fond of Patch. Patch. Frozen river, the captain is loading a truck, but Sasha won't come in, saying that she has to stay and tell Patch to take care of the captain. The captain says goodbye to Sasha, understands she is a wanderer, and is left with Patch. Paine A battle grated, pale tom with dark markings walking across his back, Pine is a loner out of the woods and be friends with Sasha in her early days as a loner. He was introduced to Woods, the first novel in the Tigerstar and Sasha trilogy. [70] Tadpole Tadpole was a black tomkit, the son of Tigerstar and Sasha, and brother to Mothwing and Hawkfrost. He limped in dualeg den at a young age. Ravenpaw's Path Violet Violet is Barley's older brother, a cat originally referred to in The Secrets of Puak. In the field guide, Violet is almost killed by Barley (and therefore also herself) the brothers Ais and snakes (born Jumper and Hoot), but Barley takes her to live with Fuzz, the kittypet. Violet is described as a small cat, a pale orange with a darker oren path as well as with white legs. [5]:138 Reference ^ ag ai aj ak al am ao ap Hunter, Erin (2003). Into the Wild. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-000002-8. ↑ a b e e i j Hunter, Erin (2 August 2005). Moonrise. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-074452-6. ↑ a b c e e hijklm Hunter, Erin. Starlight. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-082762-5. ↑ a b c e e hijklm m orr Hunter, Erin (2009-07-28). Prophecy Bluestar. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-158247-9. ↑ a b e e i j k Hunter, Erin (2007-05-29). Medan Pahlawan Guide: The Secrets of Puak-puak. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-123903-8. ↑ b Hunter, Erin (Jun 24, 2008). The Resurrection of Doom. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-147867-3. ↑ ^ a b liijim m lqs Hunter, Erin (Jun 2004). Bomba and Ais. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-052559-0. ↑ a b c e hiklm p Hunter, Erin (Jun 2004). Dangerous Path. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-000006-6. ↑ a b c d e fghijklm n op q r s t u v w x y z aa Hunter, Erin (4 October 2005). Darkest Hour. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-052585-9. ↑ a b c e e ijiklm o a rrs uvyz aa b ae af aj ak al Hunter, Erin. Firestar search. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-113164-6. ↑ a b c e hijklmn Hunter, Erin (2003). Secret Forest. HarperCollins. ISBN 978-0-06-052561-3. ↑ a b c e e ijklm m orrs uvw Hunter, Erin (October 13, 2009). Sunset. HarperCollins. ISBN