Please contact our dispatch department at 201-225-7500 x7071 to make the necessary arrangements. If you are an elderly person or someone with disabilities, you can enjoy greater travel freedom and lower prices. When you ride with a community coach, you can provide half the regular fare in one direction. Older persons or persons with disabilities must pay the full adult fare if they do not meet the provisions of the reduced rate program. Older persons over the age of 62 and persons with disabilities are entitled to use the reduced ticket at all times. The blue voucher issued by NJT, and a valid photo ID card are required to purchase a discounted fare ticket. New Jersey program is designed new jersey transit program to provide for horse riding point within New Jersey, or between points within New Jersey and neighboring states. The program is valid 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. However, the hours are restricted for senior citizens between the ages of 62 and 64. Travelers must submit both the appropriate id and The New Jersey Transit (Blue) discount fare voucher(s). Persons with disabilities and senior citizens aged 65 years or over are entitled to a reduced rate at all times, and for identification purposes, a reduced discounted fare card is issued unrestricted. The card contains a picture of a purple bus/train printed on her face. The Federal Medicare Card can be used as an alternative identification card. Seniors from 62 to 64 are eligible for a reduced fare, and for identification purposes, a reduced fare identification card is issued. The restricted card does not contain a bus/train image printed on its face, and includes reduced usage hours on the reverse side. The user is allowed to ride at the reduced rate on Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and peak hours: 9:30 am to 4:00 pm and from 7:00 pm to 6:00 a.m. on weekdays. Personal assistants ride free of charge, provided that the identity card of disabled passengers is stamped accordingly. You do not need to be a resident of New Jersey to be eligible for the program. How to apply for a reduced fare ID - elderly citizens and persons with disabilities can get a reduced fare ID as follows: Seniors - just fill out an application in most local banks, savings and loan associations or county offices on ageing. A social security card must be presented and proof of age (birth certificate or driver's license). Persons with disabilities - If you are a person with disabilities, you must have an application completed by a doctor or certification agency and the application is returned to NJ Transit. You can obtain an application by writing or contacting nj transit's reduced rank office or by contacting a licensed state, county, or local agency serving persons with disabilities if you need a personal assistant to ride with you, your doctor must certify that you need an assistant as well, so that the reduced fare ID card can be stamped accordingly. Persons with visual disabilities can also contact the New G Committee for the Blind and Visually Impaired at 1 (973) 648-3333. The representative of the Committee will fill out, approve and mail a request to NJ Transit. Eligible applicants will receive an identity card by mail approximately two weeks after the application has been submitted. If you lose your ID card or change your address, you can fill out an application for a duplicate card at a local bank, savings association, loan, government agency, or approved district. Or, just contact nj's reduced travel rates office. For additional information - For more information about the reduced rates program, contact or type to: NJ Reduced Price Office 180 Boyden Street Maplewood, NEW G 07040 1 (973) 378-6401 1 (973) 378-6327 Monday - Friday 8:45AM - 4:15PM New Kind of Low Fare Has Become a money-draining problem for NJ Transit, using a half-price ticket they are not entitled to, the president of the conductor union claims. The union president took the unusual step of requiring nj transit's board of directors to stop vending machine sales from seniors and discount tickets for disabled passengers. Stephen J. Birkert, general manager of Smart-Local Transport 60, says that sharply reduced tickets should only be sold by agents or conductors. Our crews said that 25 to 30 percent of all tickets collected were discounted tickets. I have people in 30 giving conductors top tickets and the disabled program is more abused by passengers. We are not allowed to request an ID card. This is a lot of money that has been tricked or stolen directly by passengers who know how to run the system simply using the ticket vending machine. However, NG Transit contradicted Birkert, saying that discounted tickets represented only 10 per cent of total prices. Train crews are allowed to check the identity of customers who offer a reduced fare ticket, said Lisa Turbeck, spokeswoman for NG Transit. Violators of the reduced price policy may be required to pay the appropriate fare. If they refuse to pay the higher wages, they have to get off the train at the next stop, Turbeck said. But Birkert claims that NJ Transit put out a special bulletin for crews about five years ago that we were stopped from requesting (for id). So no one gets out of the train at the next stop stop. Passengers using senior and disabled tickets can save big money, paying $7.65 instead of the regular $16.75 from New York to Trenton, Birkert said. The discount is available for seniors aged 62 and over, and for riders with disabilities. Passengers are supposed to offer a reduced NJ Transit fare card, driver's license or any other proof of age with the fare, according to the agency's website. A passenger applying for a reduced fare card for a disability must submit a medical proof from the doctor to qualify. NJ Transit also honors discounted fare cards issued by the Port Authority, MTA in New York, Medicaid cards and other documents showing the passenger's age.
