Celebrate recovery leadership guidelines

aperture line Celebrate the instructions of the recovery services team – Start with the basics: dash 1. Everyone on the worship team must know Christ as their personal Savior and have an active relationship with Him. 2. They shall have one year of verifiable sobriety. Serving on the worship team is a public service mission. If a person has not been sober for at least a year, he or she is not prepared to set an example for others – he or she must have this established experience. A person who wants to be on the worship team must be willing to let a CR pastor or group leader call their sponsor and make sure they actually walk a walk. 3. Members of the worship group shall, throughout the meeting of the large group. This isn't a gig where they can just come in, play their music and leave. At CR, we stand up for people who are many times at the lowest point of their lives, so it is important that we stand with them as brothers and sisters in Christ. As we all know, the more meetings a person goes through in a large group, the more they see themselves in the testimonies and lessons they hear every week. This allows them to do so much more compassionately, humbly and understandingly, realizing that they too have many of the same things. 4. Once the new Celebrate Recovery has started, it is sometimes impossible to start with people who have already experienced a one-year step study. However, the goal is to get members of the worship group to begin their CR Step Study as soon as possible and eventually so that all members have completed their step study. Many people find the new audition form very useful when going through this process. Our goal is to make this ministry safe and healthy for everyone. Subject: Live worship music or videos? Question or comment: I enjoy the songs that the CR band plays weekly. Are everyone on the list what they play, or are there also videos that are played? Answer: The CR band plays all the songs we use during the service. We don't use videos for worship, although many CR's use videos in their time of worship. If you want to know what songs we make every Friday, we have a Weekly Song List on our www.celebraterecoveryworship.com site that tells you the title of each song and which artist it originally recorded. This list can be found in the menu bar under the tab Worship Notes, just scroll down to Weekly Song List. In addition, if you go to our website, you can see what the band has really recorded and made available on CD and downloaded. Worship III – is the latest CD and our uploads are awesome. Subject: Use of musicians from church worship groups to increase the service. Question or comment: I was at the summit last year and I was so impressed with the things you had to say. I've been much more confident as a worship leader and been able to handle egos, etc. My question to you is this... I talked to the manager of my service about being the only musician on our worship team. (I play guitar). This has made things quite experimental in our rehearsals as we prepare to lead live worship later this month. Until now, the line taken by the head of the ministry has been that if you are not a member of the CR, after completing 12 steps, you cannot be on the worship team. I remember what you told me about bringing musicians from church worship teams, adding to the instrumentation. With the blessing of my service director, we ask for your help. I have five singers: two experienced, one who has been singing on the worship team for the past year and who is just learning harmony, and two beginners who can sing but are not musicians, and of course only me as a leader. If you were me, what would you do about adding your team? Looking for more musicians? And if so, especially what equipment I would look for. I need drums or rhythm, I'd like piano, bass and one more guitar. At this point we have an acoustic detached sound that is really nice, but it's hard to lead when my hands can't leave my guitar. I would also like to know what specific guidelines apply to them, namely participation in the CR, worship leaders in the Church already, etc. Answer: Thank you for the words associated with cr worship workshop. I am so glad that it has made it easier to deal with everything with more confidence! Praise God!... Sometimes it's half the battle. If you get the option to go www.celebraterecoveryworship.com and click the Help category on the menu bar, you'll find your answer. When John Baker started Celebrate Recovery, he started with musicians and singers, which he borrowed from Saddleback's usual worship team. This is allowed, but we insist that everyone sits throughout the meeting of a large group of CR (they can't just run the service and then leave – more information, read the Instructions section of the website). Then when they've been there for a while and they had a chance to learn what's going on ... and if it looks like it's a good service job (for example, they don't think they're better than anyone they care for, etc.), we ask them to take the next step and go through step research. When you go to www.celebraterecoveryworship.com instructions, you can download the CR Worship Team audition This form is great because it asks questions that need to be taken into account when putting someone in front of the CR. Go to the website and download the free audition form – it's so helpful! Our goal is to make this ministry safe and healthy for everyone. Subject: Former prisoners play on the worship team when they get out of prison. Question or comment: I have a couple of potential musicians who have been in prison and have now been released on HAT for eight weeks. I know we have a year's sobriety requirement, but how does it work with an ex-con because they were clearly not allowed to participate in the drug they wanted while in prison? Answer: So glad you asked about cr's one-year sobriety requirement for a person who has recently been released from prison. I talked to Hector about this, with cr's national representative in prisons and prisons, and we both agree that you're going to need another year's criminal record before you put someone in front of the ministry. You need to see how a person handles themselves now that they are outside and under pressure. How they react if and when things get tough – it's a real test that tells each of us where we really are in our sobriety. Hector and I believe it's important to see how he does the first few months when they're out. We both agreed that you can tell a lot about where a person's attitude is, because how well they deal with being told to wait a while before putting them in any position. Sometimes I suggest that a person can help you with graphics and PowerPoint presentations in meetings in a large group, or serve in other ways that aren't public while they wait a year to establish their sobriety register. The most important thing, however, is that it is the person from prison who would really be established in his recovery now that he or she is outside. Do they have a good support network that has been set up, i.e. a sustainability partner, sponsor and safe and supportive CR friends? If a person is too impatient, it's usually not a good sign. I hope this helps. I pray for you and our brothers and sisters in Christ as they establish a new life outside their lives. If you can, tell me how it goes and how it's going to go. God bless and guide you with his great wisdom. Subject: Song our God. Question or comment: I present Our God, cr at services this week, and wonder what you're accompanying instead of Water turned into wine (our God) I thought I'd use for the darkness you shine twice. Answer: You're right. When we introduced our Gods at the CR Summit (and, of course, at our regular weekly CR meetings), we used You're shining line twice. It works perfectly and it's such an encouraging song that I hated not using it just because it mentioned wine. 1. Keep sharing focused on your own thoughts and feelings. Limit sharing to 3-5 minutes. 2. There will be no crossword. Speaking with a cross-flag is when two people have a dialogue, with the exception of everyone else. Everyone can express their feelings uninterrupted. 3. We are here to support each other. We're not trying to fix the other one. 4. Anonymity and confidentiality are basic requirements. What is shared in the group stays in the group! 5. The offending language has no place in the Christ-centered group. Small groups can provide you with a safe place to share your experiences, strengths, and wishes with others who go through the principles of Christ-centered recovery. Offer you a leader who has experienced similar pain, a hung habit that makes the group easier as it focuses on a certain stage each week. The director also keeps celebrate recovery's FIVE RULES. Offer you the opportunity to find a responsible partner or sponsor. Encourage you to attend others during the week to lengthen recovery meetings if available. Small groups do not try to provide professional clinical advice. Our leaders are not advisors. We will provide you with a list of approved advice senders. Allow its members to try to repair each other. Another.
