Search the history of your home in Andover, MA Search your home's history is like building a family genealogy. Start with what you know about your home from the time you buy it. Write any previous properties and related stories passed on to you by your realtor, your neighbor and their former occupant. Use these notes as a beginning reference as you explore main resource materials. The following lists are good places to find information about your home. Andover Assessment Office Andover - Memorial Hall Library - Andover Room, website, registry of Andover Center of History & Culture- former Andover Historical Society NoRthern Essex Registry of Zev in Lawrence Essex County Registry of Essex in retail, MA peabody - Essex Musex Research Library, Salem, Massachusetts State Archives of Boston Haverhill Public Library - Special Collection Journal; Andover Advertiser, Andover Townsman, Lawrence-Eagle Court Register National Building Inventory Local Cemetery Survey; Spring Grove, South Church Burying Ground, West Parish Garden Cemetery, Christ Church Burying Ground, Ground Burying Academy, Saint Augustine, Jenkins-Woodbridge family and the many Gould families. Ancestry.com; Genealogy, Vital Records, US Census 1790-1940, Veterans Record How to Start: Step One – Deed, Book – To get the age approximately the age of your home and past ownership you must do a research work in the records of the North Essex Registry of Deeds of Lawrence (Sept. 1869 to present) and the Essex County Registry profiles of Sale, MA. (1700 – 1870). If you have a copy of your original actions at the time of purchasing it will include the Book and Page number of your recorded works in Lawrence. Assessing offices at city hall also have two sets of books containing your books and page numbers, a list by property owners with a list by address. It's also a good time to request copies of your track plan by map number and lots of numbers (Parcel ID). This map will provide the dimensions to your property, square footage and abutter in the neighborhood. Help information is now available online via the city website andoverma.gov Open the City page click – Service and then evaluate Value in 2020 Properties Record – click Website Patriot Website owner to your street name in the box and hit go down to your address number click to open All your property information is on this page. ID records # Sold dates and Legal References which are your book # or a Certificate # if the landlord has gone to land court. Step Two – Registry of Zev – The Essex North Registry of His Works in Lawrence moved to a new location in November 2019. They are located in Union Street, suite #410, behind the Essex Art Center. All property works for Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover from September 1869 to the present date are recorded here and are from the books. The latest works are all on computer. Original book works were once all available on shelves but were staircase and they are all online. The works are registered by Grantor, (the seer) and agreement (the purchase). The aid provides the dimensions of the property, date of sale, all owners, buyers and spouses, sometimes selling prices and almost always the book and page numbers of the previous owner. Then Print All Grants and Grant The Names, Workbooks & Pages and Dates of Sale. Banks often keep the paper until the mortgage is paid but their names are granted still legal property. Sometimes the landlord will use his property as consequitable to get a loan from someone else and transfer the paper on it. It is then transferred back when the loan is paid back. Some actions may refer to an Outline number. Records this number information as it will also provide a map of your property or the former farm or real estate that the neighborhood development has created or sub-divided from. Online research at Northern Essex Registry Help; Open the Registry Page Click – Search Registry and then Search Folders Click Books and Pages and then enter the numbers into the boxes and open the malicious information you will appear on the Page Click the Book Icon below the green bar Click on all pg-view Images Online to view the original action Look if an I am Book Page - PL-# appears with your paper and file that number. Toggle back to the top of the page on the Rec Land Abstract tab in the Modified Search box, click and you return to the Books & Pages box to enter your new workbook with page number and hit Search Folder. (This can be a challenge for The First Time Researchers) What if a workbook with page reference is in the paper? If this happens during your search there are additional workbooks you can reference to continue in the wrong document. Two additional sets of Grantors file books and grant are separately in alphabetical order by the date of the transaction. Go through the Grantor books first as they cover a greater date reference (1869-1955) than the Grant books. Both workbooks list date, location and will provide the workbook with page numbers in the next workbook. Once you have reached your last research book in Lawrence, if your home is greater than 1869, the paper will reference a Book and Left number of the Essex County Registry of Zev in Salem, MA, the seat counts. Things keep in mind as you read in their actions. The action concerns the property transaction and is not necessarily your home. Pay close attention to big changes in many sizes. This could be a sign that the property has split off from a lot bigger or real estate. Most actions will state and buildings on it or a certain message of land meant with their building. If neither is mentioned, it doesn't mean there's no structure on the talking. He However, the property was sold and your home was then built sometimes later by the new owner. Houses also burned in soil, or battered and were rebuild. You can't assume that the structure mentioned in your actions is in fact your home. Construction materials and period styles help and date a home and make maps. If given a map to the paper, the number and ask to see the plan. Clearing them in the registry will guide you through the use of the computers if maps are added to the system. If not, they can provide you with a hard copy. Copies can be made and purchased for a small fee. Street names and numbering street systems and roads closed to the city or city center were often called early in the 19th century but as you travel away from the roads were often referenced as the way from Mr. John Smith to Sir James Abbot's road, each living in extreme ending the road. Andover finally adopted street names for all the way in 1905. Some road names have changed at that time, as Mineral St. became Red Spring Rd. and Green St. is now Morton St. Eds will reflect these changes by stating, formerly known as .... Street numbering systems were also adopted and the numbers increased as you travel away from the city center. Odd numbers have been assigned at home on the right and even numbers on the left in most cases but not all. In 1959 it was necessary to renumber most homes in the city as many began to subdivide especially in West Andover. Some changes have been dramatic #183 Argilla Rd is now #93. Don't assume the resident was moving, only the number had changed. What if my house moved out of the property? Works only follow the country and not the structure. The works do however mention land and buildings at the moment of sale. If your actions by state and building it are likely that your home was either built at that time or moved through the lot if the home is out of a wider period. Moving structure was a common practice in 18th and 19th centuries New England. Moving a bigger structure however would have been an event and possibly written about in a local newspaper. Often a brief line of state news, Mr. Smith bought the former James Abbot home and relocated to his new ones. Now you have the former property name. Maps and actions can reveal where Mr. James Abbot lived. Unit of measurement – Unit of measurement of land survey has changed over the years. Feet and inches are more common at the end of 19th and all 20th century works. Earlier the works used the British akay system using rods, poles, ties and chains. A stick equal to 16.5' with a link is 7.92%. Twenty five (25) links equal 1 barclay. 100 ties equal a dog that is 66'. A pole is 1 square cane copy of the first work you meet and changes to the measurement to use it as a reference as you continue your search. further back you go through the fewer years to rush their works to become. Reference points can be trees, rocks, fences, and buildings that have long since disappeared. Keep notes on behalf of the abutter with total careers included in your property to make sure you're continuing on the right property. Best tips, don't try to convert measurements to just familiarity yourself with them and keep an eye out for major disagreement. Essex County Registry of Deeds, Salem, MA: The Salem Registry of Zev has all works registered for towns in Essex County and is located at 45 Congress St., Salem, MA. All Probate records remain in the old court building. Their works from 1640 to 1869 to Andover are available and available online at the Salem, Southern Essex County website. The realize includes an extensive photographic collection of individual houses and streets in the city. A check of the files at the perfect last of the mall by street and house number could provide you with a period photo of your home. Be sure to check the files in the Village of Andover as well. Once you have the former property names look for individual family records of genealogy and photos. Memorial Hall Library Online Digital Collection has all the local newspapers available on their website. City directories, family genealogies, and city meeting records and school reports are numerical and within the volumes of volumes available at the referral office. Computer terminals are available to guide you through their local city websites and symmetry files. Dating your home. - Find the exact date that your home has built is perhaps the hardest fact to discover throughout the search. Works can lead to an approxuctive year but unless you discover a recorded contract between the building and the owner or a paper that specifically states when the house was built, use Circa prefix before the date. Periods and style in the house will give you a general cycle as the time frame. If you are lucky you have discovered a beam or with a date and name on it you will truly be a mistake owner. There is also a scientific approach called dendrochnology. Core samples from beam in your home are taken and sent to a lab for overhauling the growth rings. From a library of 350 years of growth rings accumulated to young girls' trees in the region, lab technicians can be calculated within a few years such as when the tree is cut off from the forest to build your house. This is however a costly method and cannot produce the desired date that was claimed to be the age of the house, but it is accurate. Create a story about the families who stayed at home. - Once you've completed the family property genealogy you now have a list of family-owned and most likely lived in your home. Homeowners have sometimes rented out or boards taken in for extra income so don't have to mess if their names don't match up with the owner. Write to the people when they may have family spouses. As you gather more information about each family, from the source listed above, a story will begin to emerge. Please substantiate your result with references and sources. Don't assume information in winter without the facts in his back. Family history and tradition but can be helpful tools, but they can also be filled with misinformation and myths that just aren't accurate. Stick to the proven facts. If you debunk a myth while doing the research, state the myths and the torment that discusses it. If you assume something to be true or false states your assumptions but let the reader know. Keep your work organized in a lithan for easy access. You now are the steenthing of your property. Most of all have fun while doing the research and don't forget to include a brief history of your family. If you made renovation explains what happened and when it ended so the next generations will understand the evolution of the house.
