Uranus. They will be very interesting people who are very open to new opportunities. The native with this board could be one of those attitudes of I am a great mom/dad towards her upbringing. They will be good friends with their children, but when it comes to father at least their partner has to be more disciplined. X Pisces / Neptune in the 5th House: As a child, the native was easily influenced by other people. They may not have a clear picture in their minds of how they were also very imaginative children who probably lived in another world than in which they were really present.
This has allowed them to be a very peculiar As adults, they may have very insightful dreams or visions that awaken their creativity. They may be prone to being addicted to anything that increases their imagination. This is a strong placement that when cared for will do wonders for the natives. They have the potential to create beautiful things that will influence a generation. It seems that they are one of those people who seem to be good at anything they do, they just have to believe in themselves, which is sometimes a challenge. They are afraid to be disappointed by themselves, which is sometimes a challenge. They are afraid to be disappointed by themselves, which is sometimes a challenge.
way when they're not that good at it - they can blame others. At least one of your children might have Pisces locations on their board or many aspects of Neptune. Children will be as imaginative and idealistic as their parents. However, there may be some confusion when it comes to the dynamics between them. Children can blame the father for any mishap that will be very difficult for the native of the letter. But on the contrary, they have the power to give birth to the son of their dreams. (Art: Apollo by Briton Rivière) Gemini associated with the third house, we will see the themes of the sign that take place here. Ruler of Gemini is the planet Mercury that is associated with Hermes, the Messenger of Allaah who can move freely through the realms and inform (sometimes trick) each being divine Pollux asked Zeus to share his immortality with his brother and now we have the constellation Gemini (supposedly). This house represents the relationship between parallels, how and where you receive information, short trips around the neighborhood, the style of communication and the hood of brothers - even if you don't have siblings, someone who was constantly around you during your youth other than your father and relatively close to your age. Aries/Mars in the 3rd House: With this placement, the natives could have a competitive relationship with their siblings and this is reflected in their communication skills as well. When they're crazy about something or too passionate about something, they'll be the first to start a discussion around them. Communication is where your life force lies and they are very assertive through interaction. The heated arguments with his brothers trained them to be a fierce communicator. Specifically, a brother could have many qualities of Mars. respond. But they can also be very sensitive and take everything that is said too personal, which can only add fuel to the fire. They're also brilliant strategies and smart ones on how to overcome problems. They are not very accepting from the opinions of others, they are eager to learn new things. When it comes to the neighborhood they might feel like everyone is out to get them. They can be frequent customers of their local gym or dojo. & Taurus /Venus in the 3rd House: The person with this placement could have a very sincere relationship with their siblings and like to rest when they are together. Brothers have influenced each other when it comes to art (fashion, music, paintings, decoration, etc.) A specific brother might have venus-like characteristics and be a very artistically inclined and beautiful girl or boy, but he can also be very stubborn and lazy. This is reflected in the person's communication skills. They are very kind and gentle when they talk, they almost see it as another way to create art. They are also slow to communicate, first want to make sure they feel comfortable in the company of others and the company is comfortable too. Once they start communicating they can love people without saying much, but just saying the right things. They have a talent when it comes to knowing and saying exactly that the person they're talking to wants to listen to. However, the native can be very stubborn. They're too slow to accept what's new, especially if they're a little shocking. They like to receive their information through more access points such as art magazines or through comedy shows like SNL. The news has to be diluted for them to accept. Your neighborhood is especially on the quieter side where everyone knows each other and not much is happening. They may not leave much of their home to explore new sightings, preferring to visit what is familiar and safe. I Gemini / Mercury in the 3rd House: The person with this placement is very fortunate to have it. They are naturally very intelligent and good at communication once they get rid of the nervousness that surrounds them. Their relationships with their siblings have trained them to be very intelligent speakers, but they could also have made them feel nervous if the brothers had a ruthless relationship in which they always cheated or mocked each other. Especially a true brother is a very bright person, but also very critical. They could have caused a lot of concern in the relationship. Siblings can have mercury characteristics or have aspects of heavy air. It doesn't matter what the natives with Gemini in the 3rd are natural in communication. They also take information almost like a sponge. You just have to believe in your intelligence. They mostly get their information in or through Other. They are not nit-picky, do not adhere to a single point of view and enjoy all kinds of media. Your neighborhood is very lively. There's always something going on.
There can be a lot of gossip around and the natives also like to gossip. They tend to be always out and around, strolling around the neighborhood. S Cancer/Moon in the 3rd House: The person with this location might have had a sibling-like relationship with his mother or one of his siblings has many aspects related to the moon in his letter. When it comes to interacting with others the natives with this placement are very good at communicating their feelings. They are very deep individuals who also put others at ease and make them feel safe about opening up to them. They can almost be therapists to many of their close friends. They are very sensitive about the sibling hood, even if they don't have any themselves. With their brethren, they care deeply and may be too empowered of each other. With a sibling relationship like this, the person with Cancer on the 3rd is very sincere when he's talking. They don't play with words. They just say what they mean. But depending on the person, they can play with emotions a lot. Naturally they are very good at flirting, feeling exactly what the emotional needs the person in front of them to have. They like to receive their information from a source that is nostalgic to them, as a means of communication that the mother used to buy or something. They could also be almost reserved about what they know because they are sensitive about criticism. Your neighborhood could be close to the sea or a lake. They are not very open to new neighbors, but once they gain their trust they tend to maintain close relationships with them. They like to make trips to places that remind them of the good old days. 4 Leo / Sun in the 3rd House: The person with this placement has a playful but sometimes dramatic relationship with his brothers. Their relationship together have similar characteristics to Leo's, which makes them funny and optimistic, but also a spectacle and a kind of selfishness. They may be interested in the film business or theatrical performances. The clash of egos could be a theme among the brothers. Thanks to this dynamic the native is something they are very confident in. However, they could talk about other people because they carry the wounds of their Ego Wars with the brothers. They are very bright and learning new things gives them open-minded people. They like to receive information especially through sources that gives them a sense of fun. They don't like to take things seriously even though open to any information platform. Son Son within his neighborhood. Strolling around the neighborhood is something they love to do since they were kids. Leo, it's also the sign of children and childhood. This could mean that when natives have children they will receive much of their information from them. That way they can always keep up with what's new and hip. It's also the sign of children and childhood. This could mean that when natives have children they will receive much of their information from them. placement might not have the most relaxed brothers. A brother might have qualities similar to Virgo's, making them a workahoose and a fussy person. The dynamics of relationship with the brothers might have the feeling of not being enough for each other. They are their worst critics and even though they do this to make them improve themselves, it takes away the fun element. This could make the native with this location a nervous conversationaver. Although they are very intelligent, they choose not to reflect the world much because they calculate every word inside their heads. They love to criticize too! They tend to be a little judicious about the opinions of others and the way they live their lives. They like to be informed about new things, but it must come from a source that they are so sure it is %100 accurate. Their neighborhood, there's always a sense of nervousness about it.
They try to do their best to be calm so no one talks about them. You may like to visit the local grocery store more. Pound/Venus in the 3rd House: The person with this location might have a pleasant relationship with their siblings, but in order to keep the peace, they may prefer not to delve into the deep things that are going on in their lives. Especially a brother might have characteristics similar to Libra's or have the exact opposite sign of the native. There is a feeling of completing each other. There is a heavy theme of justifying oneself surrounding the brothers' hood that is reflected in their communication skills. Debating is something in which the native is really gifted without causing friction. They almost have a way of convincing others that they are right or even when they are not at least triggered a new idea for them. They might also prefer people who look like them as partners. They like the idea of an affair that's like Partners In Crime. Naturally flirtatious, they have a reputation for being gentle talkers. They prefer to receive their information through art such as magazines and movies, etc. They like to keep up with new trends. They are much loved within their neighborhood and tend to be the peacemaker Them. They prefer a neighborhood that is quiet and quiet. Strolling through them a peace of mind as well. M, scorpio / Pluto in the 3rd House: The person with his brothers. Love is strong, but so is hate. Relations with their brothers have gone through many transitions in which both sides had to lose something to win over each other. There may be jealousy problems between them. They can be jealousy problems between them of each other or each other or each other. Especially a brother could have Scorpio as characteristics. Thanks to this intense dynamic among the brothers the native with this placement is a very good researcher. Nothing can hide from them. Anything hidden will be revealed to the native even if they weren't looking for him. It is a blessing and a curse as the native is constantly exposed to information perhaps they were not yet ready to receive. They are also very good at strategy and planning - it's almost a passion for them to the point that it can be an obsession. They are very focused on the plans they have in their minds that even a slight delay can cause great irritation in their parts. The native is usually reserved from the source of information they like the most. They can be endowed with tarot and divination, but they don't like to talk about it and keep their gifts hidden. They might rather stay hidden in their homes than leave inside their neighborhoods. Something that changed their lives and is significant about their neighbors could have happened when they were young. A Sagittarius / Jupiter in the 3rd House: The person with this location has a very fun relationship with his brothers. However, they tend not to be taken seriously and can try to outdo each other. A specific brother might have many sagittarius qualities that could be teachers or live in another country. There may be some distance between them, but never less enjoy each other's company most of the time. The natives learned many things from their brothers and became interested in philosophy, languages or even astrology through them. The native tends to talk a lot and tends to prefer to have a light-hearted conversation. They are especially good at learning foreign languages and eager to travel and experience different cultures. His philosophy of life is to be a student of life forever. They like to receive information from all kinds of sources, but prefer to choose humor over a serious tone, even when it comes to media. They are very optimistic thinkers and ignore any pessimistic opinions. They are well known within their wards perhaps through their father to be more specific. Your neighborhood has a sense of coming from a different culture compared to the country that is Maybe a neighborhood. Travelling gives them a sense of joy in general. Chances are their schools were close to home. \( \frac{1}{2} \) Capricorn / Saturn in the 3rd House: The person with this placement could have a difficult relationship with his brothers. The brother could always have downplayed his accomplishments. Maybe they had a brother might especially have Capricorn characteristics.
Maybe they were someone who caused a lot of sadness for the native. Hence the reason why the native prefers to remain silent. They feel uncomfortable communicating and collecting their thoughts. They tend to question their intelligence even though they are actually very intelligent. Over time they improve in expressing themselves and could become master times. The native with this location prefers to receive their information through a source that proved to be reliable. Your neighborhood may not even know about the person's existence as it prevents interaction. They find it unnecessary to waste time with people who just want to talk. They don't like to walk just for her sake. They prefer to stay away from the environment which has even a slight touch of darkness. A brother could especially have many aquarian characteristics being very rebellious, out of the ordinary and distant. With his presence in his life, the native is a very open-minded person who likes to question things a lot. They love anything that's new and exciting, but has a tendency to become extremists. They could talk about weird things for the sake of shocking people. They are really good at using the Internet and even if they are not active speakers in real life they are definitely online. They love to receive new information and are constantly searching for it as well. With their group of friends, they have a dynamic similar to that of a brother. They attract groups of people to them through their unique form of self-expression. They have a very active neighborhood and like to befriend neighbors. Whenever they are around the neighborhood expect the unexpected from them. They also like the idea of joining for a common cause, but what they love most is being their leader (which can lead to slight narcissism). X Pisces / Neptune in the 3rd House: The person with this placement has an almost spiritual bond with his brothers. Their relationship with each other may be non-existent on the downside, but at best, they are on a very deep level. A specific spec worst case scenario is that the brother could be an addict. Being with them has thought that the natives considered the feelings of others before speaking. Intuitively they know how to help others by simply communicating with them. They may encounter a little passive when it comes to interacting, but in fact, they are only great observers.
They are aware of the ideal way to communicate with people and attract them to tailor their opinions to their own. Your neighborhood could be close to the sea or just have a magical atmosphere around it. The native is good at walking without other people nodding to them and is also good at convincing them to do favors for them. (Art: Castor and Pollux by Giovanni Battista Cipriani) This placement is where Mother Moon feels at home, so it is the domain of Cancer. Being the home for emotions and the past, it has a powerful psychological and emotional influence on humans. In Roman mythology Diana was the goddess of the Moon, children, animals and women - her Greek name was Artemis (although they differ in certain parts.) The Goddess in both interpretations was depicted as a kind of guardian of innocence - light in the dark. Therefore, there are these issues of guard and security that we come across with this house. This is the house that tells us about our mothers, family life, our home, our inner voice and our ancestry to some extent, but it is debatable. Y Aries/Mars in the 4th House: The mother could have strong influences of fire signals on her card. She's a leader and she's very assertive. She might be on the more aggressive side, but as easily as she gets angry she's also quick to become a more bubbly mood. She is confident, but to the point of insisting that she is the only one who has valid points in this world. The house in which the native grew up involved many arguments among parents who seemed to unseat me out of nowhere. The most extreme case would be domestic violence being present at home. The family might have had problems with their homes. Something always seems to break down inside the house. The individual may have some resentment towards the family. Looking back in your childhood can bring some anger to the surface. With a family life that lacks peace, the person's inner voice can be on the more aggressive side. The person has no patience to understand himself, therefore emotions are everywhere. Patience with yourself and family is key here. & Taurus / Venus in the 4th House: The mother could have strong Venusian influences your letter. She's beautiful and elegant, but she can be a little lazy. She had a great influence on the home environment, seemed to be the source of comfort for the Family life was nice overall, but it could have been boring. The family has a close mindset compared to the new. The family may find it difficult to accept the peculiar side of the person, but they are comforting in certain ways. The house in which the native grew up was very beautiful and did not move much. The food prepared in the house is of incredible flavor. Maybe the native has spent most of their lives in the same family home. An extreme case might be that certain family members (could be especially the mother) were too self-indulgent and preferred material things about emotional comfort. However, the individual thinks fondly about his past inside the family home perhaps because they choose to remember only the good things about it. The person might look for material things to fuel their emotional needs like the mother, which can lead them to be addicted to shopping or binge eating. They prefer to be realistic about their emotions and are patient with their ups and downs. I Gemini / Mercury in the 4th House: The mother could have strong influences of air signs on her letter. She is very smart, but also a problem maker when she does not have a way out to show her intelligence. Family life was a little turbulent and restless, something was always happening, but nevertheless it was also a lot of fun. The natives learned a lot from the mother exposed the child to the reality of life when the child was not yet ready. The roles of the parents of the family could be reversed. The family was constantly on the move, never wanted to settle in a house. In another scenario, the house was always full of people (perhaps with questionable intentions) This amount of exposure to adult conversation from an early age leads the natives to have a very anxious inner voice inside their heads. They may always need to communicate even when not needed. However, they are very intelligent when it comes to addressing certain issues and are very understanding of their emotional needs and others. They're not afraid to talk about deeper things. So Cancer/Moon in the 4th House: The moon has a strong influence on the mother's card. She's very emotional and affectionate. She was definitely destined to be a mother way, it was very safe or there were certain worrying things that lead the mother to be more protective about the The family may have had some secrets that the native doesn't yet know. The house in which the native grew up could have been close sea or a lake of some kind. With a mother that grows stronger as you both age. The native is a very nostalgic person who always tends to reflect again on the past. The past always has a strong influence on the person who can make it difficult to unseat them. Although they are very emotional, they prefer to keep it only for them and their mother. 4 Leo/Sun in the 4th House: The sun has a strong influence on the mother's letter. She is a person who is in the foreground - a very optimistic and funny personality. The native looks at the mother and is very important to them or take care of the mother when it's supposed to be the other way around. It doesn't matter what the mother is very creative and so is the family. The native's family has a strong influence on them when it comes to their own identity. Growing up, home life was very important to the family, so they were constantly looking for the best house for them and when it was finally found to be magical. With a very creative and dramatic family life, the native is the same when it comes to his emotions. They are very childish and innocent and give the space to make mistakes. Depression is not very common for these natives to have, as they always find ways to light up. Nostalgia is a medicine for them. My Virgo or Earth in her letter. She could be a workaholy addict who was very strict about having certain rules around the house. If that were not the case, the mother caused great anxiety, as she was not very emotionally open to her children. She could have been a very critical person who was hard to please. The family environment was very focused on being perfect and this caused a lot of stress for its members. There could have been a certain chronic illness suffered by a family member. All of this leads the native of this placement to feel a certain dictation towards the past. But the family past is not an issue on which they avoid thinking even if it wasn't the biggest. They like to analyze their past and their mother's actions. They always try to be logical when it comes to their emotions, always trying to understand what they're feeling. When they can't understand it causes them great anxiety, a Pound/Venus in the 4th House: The mother could have strong influences from Venus or Air on her card. She is a beautiful lady who is very concerned about the way she a perfectionist when it comes to his family. He probably had a lot to say when it comes to the rules of the house and its decorations. She was a very fair and kind person, but she kept her emotional side behind closed doors even of her children and perhaps her husband. Only good vibrations were allowed to be expressed. This has caused the native of this letter to worry about other people's emotional needs and neglect their own, as they always wanted to know why their mothers were passing by or since they were taught to keep their emotions on a leash. They're too good to keep their emotions intact. They love to learn about what other people are going through and helping them. They are especially very nutritious and affectionate towards their partners. Taking care of the couple leads them to forget about themselves. They love nostalgia and tend to pick up retro things. M. scorpio/Pluto in the 4th House: The mother could have strong Pluto influences on her card. She is a mysterious and intense woman who tends to be very controlling about family and house. She was passionate about her associations or work and was probably not shy about talking about intense issues with the family, but always maintaining her mysterious exterior. The house in which the native grew up had a certain dark environment that was difficult to fix, it is advised that the nother, perhaps a sense of vengeance or an intense desire to prove themselves to them. The native has a love/hate relationship with his past and downs with respect to their emotional needs. They are very passionate about the past and love to dig deeply down the throat of their childhood. A Sagittarius/Jupiter in the 4th House: The mother could have strong Jupiter influences on her card. She is a bubbly character who was more or less the Zeus of the house. Perhaps he was born in another country or other culture than where the native of the letter was born. She could have influenced the family with her different background (religion/culture/philosophy). The house in which the native grew up was very large or full of different types of people who never got to know each other personally. In addition, this may indicate that in its later years the board owner may move to a foreign country. Family life was full of random adventures and family trips that the native goes back to from time to time. They great nostalgia, always wanting to keep their memories close to their hearts. The mother was a very emotionally open person who allowed the natives to allow themselves to understand their own emotional needs and those of others. This has also made them a very intuitive person. Every time listen to his they make the right choices, but if they betray their intuition, big problems arise. 5 Capricorn/Saturn on her chart. The mother could have taken on the role of the father or father was more maternal than the mother he he or she he or she he or she he or she was. The theme of having a family business is heavy with this placement where female figures are lucky to succeed. But on the downside, this has to lead the mother to be out of touch with life at home. The mother was too busy with her career, so the time they spent with the child was very limited. In another scenario, the mother was not emotionally nurturing the child. This has made the native of this letter afraid of their emotions and consult the logic that can cause depression in their parts. Remembering things from the past causes them melancholy. Adjuarium / Uranus in the 4th House: The mother could have strong uranium influences on her letter. She's a stranger who's at peace with that, but this could have made the native always expects the unexpected from her, but of course, this has also made them feel especially emotionally insecure. Family life and places the family is very open-minded and there is a sense of freedom to talk about anything, but there is a tendency to try to make logical sense of emotions. The foolish account of family life has made the natives also emotionally unstable. They could cry or laugh in the wrong places. But the number of surprising emotions will teach natives to be open about them as well. They are very intelligent when it comes to addressing deep and non-judgmental issues about what other people are feeling. X Pisces /Neptune in the 4th House: The mother might have a sign of heavy water or Neptunian influences on her chart. She was a selfless woman, you can call her mother Teresa if you want, or she was a totally confused person to the native of this letter. She was an idealist and dreamer who had greatly influenced the owner of the letter when it comes to her own dreams and ideals. In an extreme scenario, she was a person with a horrible addiction and influenced the native. They can idolize or victimize her, sometimes they feel both to her. The family could have lived near the ocean or the sea. The native always dreams of having the ideal family and the not being satisfied with the one they had as a child. the the native feels that he tends to confuse and frighten him therefore always looking for alcohol or something tangible for comfort. This could be a big secret they have. They tend to keep their emotions hidden, even from themselves just to encounter these feelings in random places and times. (Art: Diana and Endymion by Francesco Trevisani) The house of the other is adequately mastery of the sign of harmony - Libra. Libra is ruled by the planet Venus. The Greek deity of Venus is famous for Aphrodite, the goddess of union and beauty. Aphrodite is born off the coast of Cythera from the foam produced by the Ancient God, the genitals of Uranus. So there was no sex to make his existence a little shallower. She was so beautiful that Zeus feared it would cause conflict between the gods (what she did anyway) so she married her to the ugliest but un problematic Hephaestus God. We can see that the subject of opposites came into play from the beginning. Despite this, she was unfaithful to him and had many lovers. The most famous of his affairs is with the God of War Ares (Mars/Aries), his exact opposite. Another famous story is the Venus and Adonis in which Aphrodite is attracted to a young hunter who has no interest in love. Aphrodite, being used to be the one who is persecuted is taking on the role of the other and becomes this aggressive seducer. She loses her own identity in the act of chasing someone she sees as her equal. At one point, she even tries to dress up as An artemis so that Adonis would think she's a hunter like him... So, this is the home of what you think of other people you initially find. The part of you want to avoid so that you see it instead in other people. You are required to find what you refuse to identify with. More than intimacy, this is a union of minds that the ruler of the Libra house is an air signal.
Interacting with other people gives us more clues about who we are than who they are. There may be immediate attraction or repulsion, depending on the type of relationship the person has with THEMSELVES. Y Aries / Seas in the 7th House: There is a tendency to take other people's actions too personally. You may feel like the whole world is out looking for you, but that's not the case. One-on-one relationships build the identity of the person. They're looking for a burning companion and a go-getter. Having a partner makes them feel confident about who they are. They can expect their partners to act or decide for them. People who look like this put harmony and balance into a relationship first. They expect honesty in relationships and they are very direct people. He also gets into relationships too quickly and ends them abruptly. Even when you put on the first there is a sense of selfishness from time to time. They can wait a long time in a relationship of what they give. They could see themselves as impeccable and be quick to blame the other side. Relationships for these people are always heated, but also somehow descalent. & Taurus / Venus (Chart of the Day) in the 7th House: There is a tendency to value other people more than they deserve. At first, they take time to trust people, but once they earn their trust they dedicate their whole lives to each other. One-on-one relationships have to be forever in the minds of these people. They're looking for a partner they're comfortable with. Someone who is trustworthy and stable and, of course, a dead man. These people are not looking for a partner they're comfortable with. Someone who is trustworthy and stable and, of course, a dead man. These people are not looking for a partner they're comfortable with.
this position to believe that money can buy them, love. Codependency patterns should be attentive. They can get too attached to people and when they love as their property almost. In one relationship, they regard themselves as the whole world of the other party.
Relationships for these people have to be based on true love and have to be stable. I Gemini / Mercury in the 7th House: There is a tendency to be in multiple relationships at once, as they really think they may be in love with more than one person at the same time. One-on-one relationships can make them feel nervous because they have a lot to say and share, so even if they're looking for a partner who's smart (but no more than them) and someone to keep them on their fingers of fingers at all times. They like the idea of teaching their partner something about life, so in all relationships, they find themselves as bossy or know-how. The attraction to them up. Relationships for these people have to make sense. There is a tendency for these people to listen to their minds that their hearts when it comes to love. They always feel they have to choose between options and it's common for them to change their minds often. So Cancer/Moon in the 7th House: There is a tendency to allow other people to affect themselves on a very emotional level. These people shy away from one-on-one interactions because when they do, they tend to fall in love with people too easily. Even the smallest act of care can win over these people who think of themselves to generally have a cold exterior. They could look for a partner who reminds them of Mothers. A partner who's nurturing and maybe older than them. They expect to be cared for by their partners and loved unconditionally. Unconditionally. Couple in their lives has a big impact on their moods and overall sense of security. Codependency patterns should be attentive. These people can be easily unsafe when they don't feel that the person in front of them doesn't really care for them. The theme of unconditional love is highlighted here because if you don't feel that way, you might think other people despise you. Two extreme cases... Relationships for these people have to be soft and sincere. & Leo/Sol in the 7th House: There is a tendency to have a more naive attitude towards other people. These people usually look for people who draw attention to themselves, someone who is confident enough to let their inner child shine. They might also be more interested in people as being social awakens their creative fires. They can act childishly around people they especially like. Leo tends to want to dominate. In this case, the person with this placement may want to take control of the other's personal choices or vice versa. Being in a relationship will boost the ego of these individuals and simply take a more positive view in general. They really like the idea of people helping each other figure out who they are in a light-hearted way. Relationships for these people are like outside a movie. Very romantic in the heart, but often naive when it comes to love. My Virgo / Ceres on the 7th House: There is a tendency to be overly analytical of other people's actions. These people can be very judicious to their partners, especially when they do not meet their expectations, which are quite high. It's important that these people remember to do their parts in one-on-one relationships, not just waiting for their partners to do all the work. These people are attracted to people who seem to be together. Interactions with others emphasize these people because they are constantly in their minds about how they are, especially when they feel like someone. In any association that can form a Virgo, it cannot be emphasized too much that there should not be a superficial association. These people want to dig deep and know every little thing about other people they find. Being in a relationship helps them get their lives in order. For these people, relationships are based on people getting out of their way to help each other. Pound/Venus (Night Chart) in the 7th House: There is a tendency to see other people as a threat to one's identity. There is an innate desire to harmonize with others, but this desire can turn against them and lead them to do the exact opposite of this.
For Libra is in her natural home here. However, these people can often forget that they have a role in the relationship that is not to receive. They can the relationship total freedom to leave and do their thing. Even a slight imbalance in the association can cause these people to renounce the relationship and enter into another. These people are attracted to beautiful, peaceful people. Interactions with others often have a flirtatious atmosphere. They tend to think that people fall in love with them easily when they are also easily attracted to people. Being in a relationship allows them to be in a calmer and more comfortable mood. M, scorpio / Pluto in the 7th House: There is a tendency to be too intimate with other people from the leaving. Relationships are destined to be deep, intense, powerful, and deeply intimate. They're all-in when they're in love with someone, sometimes to the point of obsession. With every couple who enter their lives, they go through a profound transformation. Ending a relationship may seem like the end of the world until they build another point of getting lost in the agony of jealousy. In their interactions with others, they like to mention the most hidden parts about themselves just to prove what they would think about it. They are very attracted to people who are more on the mysterious side and who scream sexual energy. They like to dig deeper into things they don't understand. A complicated personality is your ideal partner that can become toxic very quickly. They often confuse lust with love and form deep connections with people they should avoid. A Sagittarius / Jupiter in the 7th House: There is a tendency to try to outdo other people from the beginning. They are usually attracted to people who give off the feeling that they don't care in the world. Although they are very easy to form relationships, they are mostly attracted to those who are out of their league or who play hard to get. They see relationships as a way to prove themselves. They learn a lot through partnerships, as mind-expanding conversations are a way to flirt. Being in a relationship puts them in a good mood, but they prefer to keep the emotional aspect of things light. They love to experience this journey. Interacting with other people gives them very high doses of energy. They enjoy studying other people's motives and giving them advice about their lives, even if it's none of their business. \( \frac{1}{2} \) Capricorn / Saturn in the 7th House: There is a tendency to feel undeserved of the person of your attention. Interacting with others causes great anxiety that makes these people uncomfortable. But when they work on themselves and push themselves out of their comfort zones they are masters at bonding with people. When they learn their lessons from Saturn they are great at dealing with people and usually have a lot of influence on them. These people tend to be attracted to those who remind them of their father or a dominant father figure. They find ambition very attractive. They are also very careful who they choose as a couple. If they enter into a relationship too quickly it can cause great distress. Taking your time in associations is important to these people. A relationship must be built on solid ground - a tower moment is somewhat difficult to overcome. When they are in a relationship they feel that they have a purpose (which should not be necessary). They take relationships very seriously. A quarium / Uranus in the 7th House: There is a tendency to try to play cool and look without suffocation when encountering people. These people tend to fall in love with people who are distant and interesting. There is also this theme of falling in love with friends or people who zone friends once they learn that they like it again. Yes. They usually love the game more than the player - meaning that the thrill of persecution is what makes them go on romance. When interacting with other people they find themselves very friendly and also see everyone as their friend, so when they are hurt by someone who is just an acquaintance it feels like a betrayal of a close friendship and once they are in love with someone that person becomes their whole world, and they expect the same in return. When they are in a relationship, they embrace their strange sides and dare to express themselves to someone who has accepted them as who is on their side. He pisces / Neptune in the 7th House: There is a tendency to get lost in the ideals of others. The boundaries are very blurry between the individual and others. They are huge people who are pleased and want to meet other people's expectations. The good side is that they are very capable of overcoming obstacles - the downside is that they only do so when someone else asks for it. They are attracted to people who move them in a spiritual way. They like the idea of having a soul mate. There is magic in this position and the greatest potential for a fairytale ending lurks here, if there is only enough faith and devotion to reach this destination coming from both sides. These people dedicate their lives to others and lose themselves. Being in a relationship makes them feel like they are living in a dream, they have to be careful with warning signs, although since sleep can become a nightmare and only would notice after they wake up from it -- if they Canning. (Art: Venus and Adonis by Charles-Joseph Natoire) The sixth house is where we associate the sign of Virgo (ruled by the planet Mercury) but the goddess of Harvest and Fertility, Ceres or Demeter is assigned with the constellation. Demeter had a daughter named Persephone (Goddess of Spring) and Zeus thought of Persephone as the ideal wife for Hades, who was the God of the Underworld and was not happy with his position. The myth is famously called The Kidnapping of Persefone. In the end, it is decided that Persefone only has to spend part of the year with Hades in the underworld and this is when seasonal cycles come to play. Demeter had to let his daughter go and with that acceptance, we now have four seasons that give the circle of life the balance it needs. So what does this famous myth have to do with this house? Well, I see this house as the loss of childhood (which comes after the 5th house), increasing pains, the responsibilities that one finds face to face, taking care of his own health... Living is no longer about fun and games no longer about fun and games no longer about fun and games no longer. The house represents the necessary actions or discipline that one has to adapt to their living-hoods flourish. Aries / Mars in the 6th House: These people want to have it their way when it comes to daily plans. They have a certain routine where they'd rather not change for other people. They are not good at recognizing exactly what these actions should be. They are naive in their approach to taking care of themselves even though they would regard themselves as the best at it. At least they should consider what other people might have to say about what might be good for them. Aries rules the head, therefore the native could be prone to migraines, head injuries and sinus pressure. Anxiety can also reach them when they feel they're not good at something their head is about. When working for other people, the person's ego is very fragile. They don't like the idea of pleasing others. They are also quite competitive in the work environment. The transition to adulthood was painful, but it was faster than expected. The native was a rebellious young-adult who was angry at the unjustness of the world. Y Taurus / Venus in the 6th House: People with this placement tend to be very stubborn about what they're doing for anyone's sake. And when it comes to it, his daily routine is quite lazy and focuses on pleasure One. They want everything to work out and under their control. They take care of themselves, but it's a more self-indulgent way than anything. They like to make plans to enjoy it. They are likely to accept others to customize their daily lives to their own. They are not very disciplined people when it comes to taking the right steps for an order to take place in their lives. Taurus rules the throat, including the neck, thyroid gland and vocal tract. The native may be prone to inflammation of the tonsils, sore throat, and thyroid imbalance. They're sensitive to catching a cold more than most people. Anxiety can reach them when they see that things are not going their way and when their peace is interrupted by circumstances. Proof of their optimism is something they fear but inevitable. When they work for other people, they make sure they feel comfortable. They have a way of making their superiors like them, but it's a forced relationship. Even if they tend to be lazy in the working environment they are able to keep things under control. The native was surprisingly a patient and peaceful young adult. I Gemini /Mercury in the 6th House: The daily lives of these people with this location tend to be very busy and agitated. Fortunately, they are very capable of taking on a lot of things at once. They are very adaptable to sudden changes in their routines and have no problems with the organization. They seem to be very talented when it comes to recognizing the actions they need to take to get their lives in order. They may have a tendency to always be on a diet as they have an immense curiosity about the field of health. These people are very analytical and seem afraid to be sick. It is likely to be one of those people who constantly googles symptoms. Gemini governs the nervous system that includes the shoulders, lungs, arms, hands and fingers. They may be prone to carpal tunnel syndrome, anxiety, nervous or restless problems, smoking-related illnesses, and breathing problems. When working for other people, they are very good at doing the right thing and following orders. In the working environment even though they look fresh and able on the outside, within a lot of nervousness you may be bothering them because of your desire to be perfect in what you are doing. The transition to adulthood was very uncomfortable for them and caused a lot of anxiety on their part, but they adapted quite quickly. The native was a young adult who was always the race trying to achieve your goals as soon as possible, So Cancer/Moon at 6th Home: When it comes to your daily plans people base them on their emotional needs that are changing, so the reason they find it difficult to have a stable structure is not that they complain. They like the fact that their lives are unpredictable and ever-changing. Stick to your instinct when it comes to self-discipline or on the contrary, it was so devoid that they had to become their own mothers and teach themselves about food through trial and error. They are not comfortable with restrictions and discipline. The idea of a routine can lead them to depression. Flexibility is important for your mental health. Cancer rules the breast, including the breasts and stomach. Natives may face issues related to these areas. The mother could also pass on a disease to the head owner. In the work environment, they are very dear. The people they work for or work for seem to feel close to these individuals, even if the native is not actually doing anything intentionally. Their intuition is working well when they're doing their job. The transition to adulthood could have been very difficult for them. His biggest emotional problems probably occurred during his growing pain. When I was a young adult, they were quite emotional and well known for their vulnerability. & Leo/Sol in the 6th House: It would be a difficult task to try to get these people to do what they don't want to do. They can be guite selfish when it comes to their plans and comfort zones. They go for their days with confidence, thinking that the universe only works for them, but this is not the case. When they come face to face with this harsh truth, they self-sabotage and make the most childish decisions. They are creative individuals forever who never want to grow up. They can be introverted as they only feel confident in themselves when they are in control and other people will only bring discomfort to their daily lives. Even though they are very smart and creative they don't like collaborating with people for similar reasons. Leo governs the heart, spine, and upper back. If these people don't follow a passion and know joy, there can be heart disease. It is crucial for them to live their daily lives as they wish. It's not always possible. This is why his depression constantly.
Once they release the control problems they will get rid of the depression forever, as the energy of the sun has immense healing powers as much as bringing too much focus where Shining. In the work environment, they are very efficient IF they are working on their own. There's a great opportunity for them to eclipse that will surround them, leading to jealousy problems. The transition to adulthood is almost non-existent as they refuse to grow. When they were young adults, they were well known for their creativity and talents. Were very obsessed with perfection when it comes to their work, daily life and self-updating. They have one of the most analytical brains that can give sudden anxiety. They always feel the need to make sure everything is in the right order, but what's right and what's wrong depends on the circumstances. Not having the answers to the problems makes the native nervous. They are always constantly looking for what is right. Since the answer to this is vaque, the person with this placement always feels incomplete. You have to be careful for trying to fill this hole with addictions. Virgo governs the digestive system, which includes the intestines, and spleen. People with this placement may experience digestive problems as well as addiction and anxiety problems. Your hyperconscience needs to be tamed. Meditation and mindfulness are highly recommended for these individuals. They are also very useful individuals. The concerns of others also become their concerns. In the workplace, they are workers. They tend to tire to the point of exhaustion and tend to overlook their health when their work is at stake. The transition to adulthood occurred naturally as they were eager to work and take care of themselves. But once they are completely grown up, they miss their youth very much. As a young adult, they were known to be workaho-addicts and perfectionists who were nervous from time to time. Pound/Venus in the 6th House: With Libra's energy being here the balance comes peace and beauty, but to understand and value the true meanings of these things apart from what is on the surface these people have to have a taste of chaos and imbalance in their lives. Only chaos gives rise to such beauty. Balance in their daily lives is essential for these people as circumstances are very harsh for them. The ruthless side of Venus shows her face here. The Libra sign governs the kidneys, skin, lumbar region, endocrine system, and buttocks. People with this placement may come face-to-face with health problems related to these areas. It's a big sign of how they have to do their act together right now. They have a tendency to wait for another significant one to help them on their self-updating journey that seems to be Fall. Relationships seem to greatly affect your health. Being dependent on others will make your personalities personali
They had to go through a lot of relationship-related tests. When I was a young adult, they could have been heartbreakers and a lot of people were in love with them. M. that friction is already dominating. These people are teachers in things planning. They are master protesters, but dissatisfaction with their daily lives seems to be a curse they have to deal with. It's almost as if they have a great sense of what other people are going through and how they can fix it for them (or make it worse) but when it comes to their lives they are not only clueless, but always feel out of place. Keeping their powers of manifestation on a leash can actually do wonders for them. They need to be more careful of their thoughts, especially others. They need to stay away from any kind of obsessive behavior. The Scorpio sign governs the reproductive system, sex organs, intestines, and excretory systems. They may have health problems in their lives with respect to these areas when their lives are out of order. Once they put their lives in order and are careful not to adapt manipulative behavior, there is nothing that can stop them... They have the potential to become wizards almost. They can work especially their magic in the work environment. If you're looking for somewhere else to stay, you'll find it's a great place to stay. They have a powerful influence on people. The transition to adulthood was almost transformative. Something inside had died and now they are the phoenix that rose from his ashes. As young adults, they have done things they regret, but thanks to these mistakes they are capable of great things in life now. A Sagittarius/ Jupiter in the 6th House: The sign and the planet of expansion will still do their job in a house that is about discipline. Sagittarius also has to do with superior knowledge, therefore, the reason why the native of this placement will have an undeniable desire to know about his health and what is right for self-realization. The more it is ignored, the larger the related to these areas. The board owner has to be aware of the problems surrounding their bodies and lifestyle - blind luck and optimism will not be on their side when it comes to these if they are not take into account. But once you notice and take care of the native it will be very auspicious. Sagittarius governs the thighs, hips, liver, pituitary gland, and sciatic nerve. If faced with health problems especially around these areas, the native should take immediate action and take his soul journey into his body seriously. After all, we are spirits who are having a human experience and all that is of the earth needs to be respected. especially our bodies. In the work environment, they are extravagant. It's hard not to notice them and the work they do. Naturally, they are good at doing what they put in their hearts, but if they are extravagant. It's hard not to notice them and the work they gained confidence as they matured. As young adults, they were always out and around and having fun. They have learned the most important lessons in their late adolescence and early twenties. 5 Capricorn / Saturn in the 6th House: Capricorn can be extra hard in the native of this letter within this house with which it shares a family theme. Living life seems like a test they weren't prepared to take and always ask for extra time to complete. It should be seriously taken into account because once the health of the native is neglected serious consequences will be paid. The great magic of Capricorn (also Saturn) is that once you learn the lesson, that's all. Now you've mastered the problem. Confidence and high self-esteem come masterfully. Capricorn governs the knees, joints, skeletal system and teeth. The natives of this placement may need to take additional care of these parts of the body. Another concern could be the anxiety that the 6th house (Virgo) is already a natural in and along with Capricorn doubles. Counseling can help a lot. The health problems the father had suffered could make a comeback to the child (the board owner) so be very careful with that as well. Working life could also be something the person isn't so into. Although progression is slow for them success is quaranteed, as well as great recognition for the work they do. They might even surprise themselves when they find out how good they are. The transition to adulthood was quite slow for the individual, as he didn't really want to grow at all, but life continues and with age, they get better like fine wine. As young adults, they have struggled with many fears. When they finally face those fears the monsters disappear and all that's left is endless opportunities. Aduarium / Uranus in the 6th House: These people are very talented in creating creative ways to put lives in order. They are also very useful and put your friends' minds at peace as well when it comes to balancing things. Out of control could stress them like nothing else, however. They don't like the idea of surprises and the change of fear. What you're afraid of is what you get. They have learned to master their paths around sudden changes so that they are not as affected as they used to. They could have suffered unexpected illnesses no matter what caution they had taken. Aquarius rules the ankles, calves, pimples and circulatory system, so these areas of their bodies may have suffered or tend to be easily injured when their life is out of control. It's a way for our bodies to tell us to get together. It's essential that they know exactly where their future is going. They can be very intuitive. They might have flashes of insight into the future. These people must do important work for the progression of humanity in one way or another. You have to feel that the work you're doing is useful to someone, out there. Their work environment is a place where they are advised to expect the unexpected. If you are truly satisfied with the fact that what you strive to do in your work is what you were meant to do, then there should be no concern. They have a tendency to be very good friends with the people they work with. The transition to adulthood was nothing as expected to be. It was pretty shocking and changed life. As young adults, they might have felt alienated from their surroundings because they were on a quest to find out what their mission was here on Earth. They were in constant search of his purpose of the soul and once they found him there was no turning back. X Pisces / Neptune in the 6th House: In this place the 6th house feels distorted. This is the effect of Neptune on everything he touches, but since Virgo is the opposite of Pisces, this touch is bigger here. People with this placement tend to give in easily when it comes to what other people want from them. They tend to overestimate their own needs and put other people when they are not taking care of themselves. Pisces governs the feet, toes, lymphatic system and body fat, when they are not following the right path, these areas of their bodies are greatly affected by their wrongdoings. Pisces also governs psychology to some extent. Hidden depression is a major concern these people might face. They need to regonize their bodily needs. It is essential that they begin to notice how their bodies demand respect from them. They need to learn to set boundaries between themselves and others and that's when things will start to for them. In their working environment, they are very idealistic. They have high explosions of themselves that can on the way to actually do the job in the best way they They need to take things in less serious thirst and let go of their ideals and only then can they manifest those ideals. Maybe they really have no idea what they're doing or what they want to do. They need to afford to take their dreams firmly and pursue their dreams, not what other people say their ideal job should be. The transition to adulthood was easy for them, or so they thought. They hid their problems during this transition, to the subconscious and have to deal with them in recent years. As young adults, they were known to be carefree, but really? (Art: Demeter Mourning for Persephone by Evelyn De Morgan) Pluto was mainly in Sagittarius After a generation that lived every moment intensely, here comes a generation who is here to have a good time and experience life to the fullest. Those born with Pluto in Sagittarius have a need for exploration. They believe that by gaining as many different experiences as possible, they have the power to recognize and use any opportunity that arises to their advantage. They have the confidence in themselves to challenge existing moral codes. They use their beliefs as an extension of themselves. They are interested in other cultures than in which they were born. Together they will create a new culture and spiritual beliefs. They're here to push the boundaries and not think about the consequences. When Pluto's work occurs in bright, open Sagittarius, these changes no longer occur in shadows. The glare of Sagittarius' truthfulness shows every action of Transforming Pluto to our conscious minds. Here, we are able to see the truths in our situation—why things are falling apart where they are, but where they are falling apart, too. Natal Pluto in Sagittarius has one leg up in many other locations in Pluto. With this planet deep in such an expansive and conscious sign, access to your subconscious is unusually available to you. Your natural openness to what you find in your shadowy realms makes you a highly integrated and awake individual. Sagittarius Pluto is adventurous, interested in philosophy and world affairs and is very free to think. They can't tolerate boredom. Risk adds more fun to an adventure is an area they tend to look at. They are optimistic and try to find answers rather than problems. They try to focus on the positive rather than the negative. They can jump before they look, or rush head-on on an adventure without proper preparation. They'll have a very good sense of humor and the only problem with this is that they just can't take anything seriously. However, be careful to stay with the experiences of others. With so much natural clarity, it's easy for you to slip into feelings of superiority or with others for not being in what you feel is your level. Remember, we are all on our own journey and we all have our own lessons to learn and teach. Stay compassionate, stay kind, and stay humble. Everything in your life will benefit. Hades is the ruler of the native's charter. Scorpio penetrates darkness in search of the emotional power and mysteries of life and death. The sign of reincarnation is where one's own identity is determined. The Scorpio Ascendants will go through many changes in their lives. Another Phoenix is born from its ashes at least five times in the person's life. Scorpio in the first house gives the person a mysterious atmosphere about them. The way they move in this world is very intriguing to the world. In addition, being the sign of desire and obsessions under his belt. Our ascender has a hand to determine the way we look, hence the reasoning of intensity behind the Scorpio's eyes. It's almost them to see through our souls and we have nowhere to run. This can be intimidating or charming. As a sign of transformation, the native can make any look, and be a completely different person as desired. But unlike most other signs, even when they change physically, they remain true to their purpose of the soul. They are always constantly searching for their true form and do not settle until they find it. With them, in our lives, we welcome the terrifying mysteries of life with them. Example of natives: Natalie Portman, Lana Del Rey, Nicole Kidman, Clint Eastwood, Chris Evans, Tom CruiseThe shadow escapes the body like an animal we had been protecting. Deleuze (Scorpion Ascendant), Francis Bacon: The Logic of Sensation The last sign of the zodiac blurring the lines of reality and fantasy. Reminding us that there is no end, only eternity. So how does it work in the 1st house of itself and initiation? It's hard to say... It is known to be the rarest upstream signal you have simply to get up for less than 100 minutes, while others rise beyond 130 minutes. They're in this world, but they're not his, and now they don't know what to do here on Earth. Those who have this as their ascendant are safe here for a divine reason, but it is a difficult sign to have for a human being regardless of the Its ruler is Neptune, the planet of Ideals, Visions and Deception - this makes it difficult for the person to act on anything unless their souls are truly inspired. Every moment of wakefulness feels like a dream or a for them and there is no intermission. Our ascender also determines our appearance to some extent and people with Pisces rising are the hardest to define, but there is one thing for sure, they have the most moving eyes. No matter the color of his eyes he has an effect as if he were looking at the horizon of the ocean. Their smiles are also meaningful, making them look more childish than they really could be. Especially, their voices tend to be very relaxing. Those around them will be attracted to them in a way that is confusing to them, like the siren of a mermaid. However, Pisces blurs everything he touches. If the native does not know or has the will to swim in the beautiful chaos of the oceans of his soul, he could drown and bring others with them and play with the victim at the end. Pisces is also the sign of the victims' hood, this can lead the Ascendant Pisces to be too comfortable in the role of the sick to gain sympathy. The uprising of Pisces must be aware of its power to join the two worlds: the divine and the human. They usually find their place in the art world. Art is the language of emotions and it is their mother tongue, unlike their real mother tongue that they may have difficulty speaking. Neptune also rules camera lenses. The native comes to life through the screen.
