Logavano to earn 400 points and get a perfect score (26 points). This equates to earning 62,000 (not counting the Tithing Farm experience) or 166,000 (experienced in the Tenth Farm using Logavano) experience per hour. As such, players who aspire to 99 Agriculture should consider whether this rate is lower than one could win by doing other more efficient tasks, such as tree racing. For a typical player, getting the farmer's suit would waste more time than he saves if he goes for 99 Farming. However, since agriculture is a skill in which experience is typically gained in short bursts with longer waiting periods, a player can work on obtaining this set during farm racing downtime. This approach will primarily benefit someone who focuses on maximizing the agricultural experience gained, rather than balancing the gain of experience across multiple skills simultaneously. For ironman accounts, where supplies are limited, or players ranging from 200 million experience in agriculture, the farmer's team would certainly be a valuable unlock.
