What is my chance to attract the main units highlighted with 300 Dragon Stones? Is it worth calling this banner, or should I save for the next one? If these questions sound familiar, then perhaps this calculator might help you. All you need to do is add some information about the banner you are interested in, and then the calculator will immediately tell you what opportunities to draw what you are looking for. By choosing a Normal Banner, Mono Type Banner or Two-rate banner, rates will be automatically added. Examples of Common Banners: Mono Type Banners: Double rate banners: Some things Remember: On a guaranteed SSR banner (which will be a big part of them nowadays), unscrupulous SSRs will have a higher suit rate than usual, as their chances of appearing in the last slot of Multi-Summon always: 100% - Features Featured SSR banners, featured SSRs will have a 100% chance of appearing in the last Multi-Suits slot. The higher the number of Suits, the higher the chance. If you're not sure where to get details for a particular banner, you've got three options: a banner Wiki Page (click here for a full list of banners), which typically includes the amount of SSRs (and LR's, if any). Live banners will also be displayed on the homepage. List suits at dbz.space, another great source for all players. And last but not least, the game itself, by tapping the Character Summons Rate button. If you find this calculator useful, feel free to let us know in the comments! Note: Multiple Summonses are always considered to consist of 10 cards, please switch to a Single Summons if the banner you are interested in is an exception.
