[130] [133] The controversy in history in 2013[132][133] and in 2015[136] the Content Distribution Complaints Board required the broadcaster to place on-screen notifications because of scenes of torture and excessive violence against women that had been broadcast on the broadcast. In October 2013, rumors circulated that Karan Singh Grover was leaving the show, but Grover to leave the show, citing alleged unprofessional behavior and a lack of commitment to the show. [139] Grover stated that the show. [146] [147] Karanvir said he wasn't convinced by the show, making the leap in Season 3. [148] The actor is of the opinion that the story is about Achilles and Sanam, but the first character does not fit into the third season. [150] [150] Since the role was not exciting enough and the low TRPs, Karanvir decided to cut it. [152] [153]

Fans also began to refer to the internet and bring it back to Change.org[154] its co-star Surby Giotti also wanted to step aside. [154] There are rumors that he is uncertain about the duration of his role and the male co-stars. [155] However, he later decided to return to the show his fans required after making some changes to the script.
[156] He confirmed with The Times of India that he had a meeting with the production house and persuaded him to stay on his back day. hottest staffers and popular actors in television - is making his return to television after almost two years in a soap. And this is no sinister feat for the broadcaster as they would like to give the best possible time SLOT for his show, Qubool Hai. In January 2013, the Times of India reported that Qubool Hai of television had come down comfortably for 8th place thanks to karan Singh Grover's charisma and also played with honest killings - both seem to have found a connection with the audience. [210] [210] The Times of India gave Karan Singh Grover high television ratings for the show. In October 2014, Kavita Awaasthi interviewed Jyoti for the Hindustan Times and introduced her, stating that Surby made a mark on her effervescent character of Zo Farookui in Kubool Hai. The story of the show may be interesting, but much of its success is because of its chemistry with co-star Karan Singh Grover left the show, Schradda Bandi, writing for CNN-IBN in December 2013, stated that Qubool Hai was typical of All Series began insulting brilliantly with tremendous promise and in the middle got lost in the TRPs maze, cheap advertising and doing what he sold. Bandiri appreciated that when the series began, Zoe Farooki was jeans-wearing, very fashionable women raised in the United States, but very close to her culture and roots.
The story continues with her clashes with the orthodox, Aad Ahmed Khan, and how she changes her conservative thinking and begins her love story. people, coarse language and events that in real life are unachievable. After Karan Singh Grover was replaced by Ragesh Vashisth as Asad Ahmed Khan, the show received a critical response to the extent that Rachesh received letters of criticism made Yourist nervous and lowered his morality. [217] [218] Gruruhr's exit caused a big drop in the show's viewership figures. [145] In January 2014, the show moved to fourth position on the channel. [219] The Dean Chronicle reported that fans had predicted the fate of Kubol Hai after Karan Singh Grover's original vocals, but the show rose again after Bora's entry. In December 2014, Shruti Jambekar wrote for The Times of India that Karanvir Bora and Surbi Gioti as Achilles and Salam in qubool Hai's post-jump version managed to save their show from getting the axe earlier in 2014. The pair have an impressive fan following on social media sites. In October 2014, the show ranked 9th on the list of top 10 shows on Indian television. In December 2014, The Times of India reported a hit with viewers. [223] In May 2015, Gayathri Colonkar audience. In May 2015, Zehra Kazmi, writing for the Hindustan Times, said the show should end as there was nothing new to offer, as evidenced by the decline of TRPS.
