I like knitting, but sometimes I just do not want to spend hours on a blanket or in a complicated pattern. Sometimes you just want to start and finish the project in one day. A few weeks ago I decided to come up with a model that I could use all the time without worrying about the time or difficulty, or the amount of yarn that I needed. I wanted something that was one size fits all and easy. I came with Marley Beanie! It's perfect for guys and girls, and it took me a little less than an hour and a half to make. So let's get to the right of the free beanie knitting pattern! This is a really simple beanie knitting pattern, and I love its simplicity. My friend and I came across a beanie very similar to when we were out shopping and my friend loved it. But the beanie was really overpriced in and out of a huge company that didn't have nice quality yarn. So I went home and rebuilt the beanie for my friend in the colors she liked in the store. In the picture below is the black and taupe version I gave her almost 2 years ago. But since I did not have any pictures to write this post, I made a new version of the gray gradient yarn. The best thing about Marley beanie is that it's one size fits all! Well, maybe it's not particularly big for men, but it can be with a little adjustment. This free beanie knitting pattern makes a hat that is super flexible and can return to its original size. It's easy to wear and you can get a different look just by changing the yarn! On this beanie (and black one) I made a lion brand in my native US, but I also made a pink one for Bernat Roving, which came out beautifully! Plus, it's a great model for craft fairs and markets and easy to sell online if that's your thing! The full free model is written below. For those who like to print the model and take it up on-the-go and markup as you go, you can buy a cheap printable PDF from my Etsy and Ravelry stores. Then, carefully not to twist the seam, join the work round. Mark the beginning of the round with a stitch marker. Round 2: * Knit 1, purl 1 * around. Rounds 3-33: Continue the work of K1P1 ribbing up the hat about 10 inches long and only 2-3 feet of yarn remains from the hank. You don't really need to measure this. Just continue to work and stop when you only have enough yarn in 2 or three layers. Round 34-35: K1, P3tog about 2 rounds. Then end the thread through the jumbo tapestry needle and pull it through the remaining seams. Drag to close the beanie top and fasten the yarn. Weave the tail and trim the excess yarn. Finishing touches: To finish it off, add your pompom to the top and sew it safely in place. Use a large tapestry needle and be sure to go through the ball pom, not just the fur to fasten it properly. Wif the needle around a bit to make sure you've gone through the fabric and batting inside. I used to make a ready faux fur pom that I got from Michaels. It was actually a keychain and I just removed the keychain part of it, but since then I've found some online I like. You can also create your own or skip the pom altogether! I love how this beanie turned out and I'm definitely grabbing it as my go-to beanie this winter. If you liked this, check out Saleha Slouchy Beanie! Thanks for your support blog.* I'm always looking for a perfect and easy hat model. One that I don't focus too much with, but the end looks great. It's even better if the model requires super bulky or jumbo yarn ☺ Well, because I'm press about Red Heart yarn and since they have this fantastic new yarn out collage, I figured I should kill two with one stone and design a simple hat using this jumbo weight yarn. When I chose yarn, I had to write a pattern. As you know, this is part of my work here MarlyBird.com ☺ I wanted the model to come in several sizes and I also wanted to make sure that I write the pattern in such a way that again, true beginner knitters could understand. So, the free model is not written in a standard format (like most of all my other models), but it is written in a way that I found beginners to really understand. Anyway, I wrote a pattern set a sample, and then I did a step-by-step video tutorial, because what could be more of a help for a true beginner than a video? By the way, have you already subscribed to my YouTube channel? So you have it, now you know how this model was part of the many free models offered here in MarlyBird.com. I hope you find the model easy, video useful, and the final product to your liking. Please share with me the hats you make with this model as I would love to see them. BEGINNER TIP: There are many different cast on methods of knitting. I recommend doing a long tail cast on. It is a wonderful cast for this transition beautiful garter stitch (knitting in each row), and it is stretchy. If you need more visual representation of the long tail cast on, take a look at the video I did for the hat. Row 1: Knit all the seams. BEGINNER TIP: Starting the next row, make sure you NE Pull the stitch from the row below, trying to tighten the last stitch. In doing so, it looks like you have two stitches. It's best to make sure that you see a bubble bump from the stitch you're going to work on. If you need more visual representation, which I mean, take a look at this video I did for an easy and fast Absolute Beginner Chunky scarf. Row 2: Knit all the seams. Continue repeating row 2 until the cap body measures 6.5 (7.5, 8.5, 9.5) inches [16.5 (19, 21.6, 24.1) cm] that ends after the wrong side row. All the seams are sewn, and it's time to secure them. Cut out the yarn, leaving a length of 3 times the height of the hat. Thread the tail on the bent end tapestry needle. Working on each stitch separately, insert the tapestry needle into the stitch, as if you knit it, then pull the yarn through this stitch. Let the stitch fall off the needle. Repeat steps 3 and 4 until all the seams have a thread thread through them. Pull the tail as a draw string really tight. On the first side of the hat weave the tail, again drawing all the seams in figure 8 to insure the top of the hat, will not come undone. Make sure that the tail is placed on the open seam of the hat and move to the seam part. The fabric of the suture of your made hat is called garter stitch. You will get a garter stitch, knit each row (you can also get it if you had to purl each row). To seam garter stitch with invisible seams, you just follow these instructions: Repeat steps 3 and 4 on the bottom of the hat. Turn the hat out and weave in the tail. Don't forget to also weave the starting tail of your hat inside also. As I mentioned earlier, I've found that videos help a lot when it comes to understanding what you need to do. So, I've created a quick video proving how to make this chunky hat. Hat.
