Pilot logbook excel spreadsheet template

02-14-2012, 07:19 PM #1 am interested in getting a good Excel spreadsheet model to keep my logbook hour. I have the good ole paper book, of course, just want to have a backup on my computer. I have an iPad and iPod, but I'm not interested in paying the price for some of the logbook applications. I just want something super, super simple. I would believe I could try to work up my own format in Excel, but if there is a floating download template around a place that can be shared, let me know. What are you guys using? 02-17-2012, 06:08 AM #2 Not an Excel spreadsheet, but there is a shareware program, called LogQuik, that's very clean. It's available for the NavCalc.com download (though I just tried to go there, and the site seems to be down to that moment. So I don't know what's up right now.) You could also do a web search for it. I found it at this site: but a foreign language site. So I'm not sure if the program itself is a foreign language version or not. By the Way... NavCalc is a nice clean, and easy to use, flight planning program. I've been using it for more than 10 years. Airport database, on the download version, is a bit out of date. But it is customizable user. So updated it is not a problem. And you can even add new way-points to the database, if you want. Start from scratch or import flight hours you hear what they have to say – Excel Pilot Logbook Reviews ↗ thanks again for all the help. As I get deep into my training 25+ years of flying through the spreadsheet, I'm sure I'll have more questions. I'm really impressed by your quick response time and great customer service, I'll make sure I call that on for others to see. ★★★★★ Captain I changed this from some of the most expensive logbooks based on electronics that require subscription and never look back. It's brilliant! ★★★★★ your First Officer Logbook A320 is exactly what I was looking for. I wanted to stay clear of LogTen Pro and planned on doing something myself in Excel. I'm reasonable proficient in it but when Googling for ideas on how to format it all I found your options, which made my life easier and seems worth the $$$. ★★★★★ PC-12 Pilot Loves This Product! I was looking for a simple, but well thought out electronic logbook and this is it! I like the Excel format and data entry is very easy. In my opinion, it doesn't get better. Private pilotS I have flight time in both NZ and Australia so I am using your CASA logbook to record ICUS assets. I find the logbook easy to use and properly introduced. Great product all in all! Cheers ★★★★★ Floteplane pilot Simple and easy to use log books. It makes all the add-ups in a simple spreadsheet to provide immediate shutdown. Great as a back up for the 'official' log book. ★★★★★ Plane Owners I switched from LogtenPro (didn't like how expensive the yearly subscription was) of this and like it. Westjet Jet Pilot, B-737 Canada. ★★★★★ B737 First Officer so far, it is the best spreadsheet I've ever seen. I made a few changes to the spreadsheet, so it feels like a real logbook. I freezer the top header and the first column so that it is easier to view and manipulate the spreadsheet (as per your tip). I think it was a well spent $50.00.
