Bought last year and the weeds appeared again a few weeks later. I thought the kids weren't applied properly. This year, the director - Results. I have never seen a weed that avenges. It will take a few days to make the purchase of another brand of weed killer to attract them and get rid of them. I wouldn't have wished for a weed-free flower garden without using anything. RenitaWS Bowie, MD 2015-08-22 False is ready to replace all the mulch I can say. After applying the recommended amount of Preen weeds and grass preventants to the soil that removed all weeds. I've found a lot of weed growing all season. I found the treatment to test one area and left another spot away from the untreated test spot where the results were the same. There were even numbers of weeds in both areas. I took a seat without mulch. The same result. I also have weeds that I have never seen before. Good news for weeds; They thrive and are healthy again this year! I also found that they are growing faster and health better than weed crops in the past year. Buy this product if you are trying to raise healthy happy weeds and lose most of your mulch in the process. Otherwise, I would advise you to use fairy dust or pull weeds by hand. In 2015-04-26, Justdandi East Berlin, Pennsylvania, wanted an organic weed preventer for my brick passage because pulling weeds between all bricks is a back and hand killer. Last year I found organic Preen and it worked greatly except that there was a terrible smell and an influx of flies for weeks. I thought the animal should be dying and rotting under the deck. This year, I used Preen again and when the smell and flying herd was floating above Freen, I smelled of Freen scooping up the dirt. Uh! Terrible! And there seems to be no way to get rid of the smell without scraping all the Preen and throwing it away in the forest. What a waste! lupinelady5 UNITED STATES 2014-07-19 False dangers-----, humans and pets. You really want to use this house or nearby. Protective equipment can be worn, but the soil is ??? to be. My friend used it in the yard and found the dead rabbit 3 days later?? I do not buy any kind of Preen. Inside and outside (if you buy it) there are some better reads, look at the precautionary measures wow! What are my erroneous observations about Preen in the U.S. 2013-05-28, including the spill? For years I have grown tomatoes with bananas and bell peppers in a small backyard garden in the Dayton, Ohio area. You should use an 8-foot tomato steak because the plant grows more than 7 feet high. My only problem was the subsequent fight with weeds. Then I saw an ad for Preen and saw that not only is it safe for flowering, but it can vegetarianize the garden. So, I started using Preen in my vetagble garden and flowerbed. I would apply one treatment in the spring and put it on plants, depending on the cultivation of the soil. I didn't guarantee any Preen granules stuck to the plant foliage. Freen did a great job. It perturbs about 90% of weeds throughout the summer. For the next four years, I used freen every spring, but from around July 1 every year, the leaves of tomato plants gradually turn yellow, dry and fall. By the end of August, the bottom two-thirds of plants will be free of foliage. It was a strange sight to see only tomatoes hanging from plants. In additives, the plant luckily hit a 5-foot high. I consulted with numerous experts and agreed that I attacked the plants and blocked them from water delivery and had soil-based mold disease. However, these fungal mist diseases are assumed to attack pepper plants and my plants were still doing well; This is unexplained. (There is no cure other than not planting in the infected area for 6-8 years and hoping that the fungus will die.) One day I mentioned this to a friend and out of the blue he asked if I was using Preen in my vetagble garden. I replied yes. He told me to stop! His parents had the same problem before. He said it would take about two years for the Preen chemical to break down and disappear from the soil. Now it is mid-August 2012 and it is the second year I have not applied Preen to my pigeon garden. I am now back with my seven-foot plus leafless tomato plant. Now I find carefully that once a week I treat weeds in my garden with the brand name Grass and Main Killer and this one seems to work well. My garden is weed-only. I also realized yesterday that Preen could be the reason why all flower bed hostas start to shrink around the first of July. Only the horsta in the area that did not apply Preen in the spring continues to look healthy. I won't be applying any Preen next year and next year I'll tell you what the results are. DB-1 Dayton, OH 2012-08-17 In fact I have been using Preen for years and am the only weed killer for me. It is easy to use and completely cleans those nasty weeds! It is recommended to use along the place of the driveway between sidewalks. Pulling weeds with this product does not ----, so you can be sure that the nasty crab weed will not come back as soon as you do not use Preen. It absorbs moisture into the soil and prevents weeds from returning too quickly. I had the best luck with this product, and I tried many of them and gave Freenna the best results. Sharzois Phoenix, AZ 2011-11-10 In fact I bought the largest size of preen weed preventer and plant food. The ad sounds good but unfortunately it doesn't work! I meticulously weeded out all the flower beds, saying that the instructions in the container did not kill the existing weeds. The bed was then treated to a freen and watered as directed. Then mulch the flower bed, and after a week, Weeds pop out! It is a completely useless product and I will never waste my money again. Shastep Warren, OH 2011-05-07 False Freen is the best product on the market to stop weeds. It doesn't stop everything but there is a good reduction in what I used to see. It definitely reduces the time spent on the hands and knees pulling each and every nasty little weed. It's also safer and better than a weed killer where you should be able to spray and see dead weeds on your flower squad. The container is light enough to carry and the infusion provides a good easy distribution pattern that seems to spread the right amount of product between the bush and the plant. Yes it is expensive but the amount of labor involved and the extra money to reduce wear and tear on the waist or knees is worth it. Then it's worth it. bltbrodert Monroe Township, NJ 2011-04-16 In fact I am not only a gardener but also a landscape designer. I use this product twice a year in my own garden and twice a year in my parents' garden. When I estimate landscape work I always recommend this product to anyone who uses mulch when I draw, it is the only way to go to my book. I work in a place that sells these products as well as other products that do the same thing but I won't waver at Preen. It is great to know that I work and the price is also great. A shaker container can last for a while. It has yet to fail me in my own gardening venture so I continue to use and recommend this product to as many people as I can. I think it's totally worth it and I think anyone else who has tried this product will agree with me. In 2011-03-11 in Hebron, Sniky00 I first tried Preen in my garden about 3 years ago. I have a very large vegetable garden and do a lot of canning. The garden with 4 children, 6 years and under is very difficult to maintain. I was looking for something to help, and boy did I find it! Preen really advertises as it does! It has a whole host of thistles, chicks, and other common weeds. I finally had the garden I've always wanted, and literally NO weeds everywhere! It is very expensive, in my opinion, so I hesitate to try it. The following year I tried another (cheap) brand that claimed to be the same thing as Preen, but did nothing at all. I am now working on ordering my seed catalog and Preen is definitely on my list! My daughters, ages 4 and 6, are growing up enough to help in the garden right now, but they're still too out of work to catch up without help. Thanks, Freen, for the great product!
