Barrow county courthouse divorce

Superior Court clerks have been elected county constitutional officers since 1798, when the framers of the Georgian constitution created the office and provided for the election of an employee in each county of the state to serve 4-year terms. The Employee is only liable to the people who elect him. He is not an employee or appointee of any county or state commission or any judicial agent or agency. As an impartial county official, the Chancellor provides some of the most important check-and-balance needed in both local county government and the state justice system. The Chancellor's duties therefore include the management of the business branch of the local judicial system; accounting for all funds deriving from fines, fees, legal fees and fees required by law; management and management of the county process and grand juries, including the summoning of jurors for service; provide administrative and oversight support to the County Council for tax equalisation; and the development, protection and permanent maintenance of the citizens' court, the land and other important vital documents. The Registrar of the Office of the Superior Court also maintains the records of the Superior Court and juvenile court, transmits all appeals to the Georgia Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Georgia and records real estate transactions such as acts of guarantee, leaving acts of request, security acts, assignments, acts of law of manner, servitude, property plats and documents of the prosecutor's office. In addition, this office is also responsible for the registration of fifa, military resignations, trade names, OICs (Uniform Commercial Code) and various types of liens including mechanical liens, real estate tax liens and hospital/medical liens. In addition, this office collects probation fines, child support payments, property transfer fees, and intangible taxes. This department is also responsible for filing criminal cases, maintaining criminal warrants, and transmitting documents to GCIC, DDS, and DOR. This elected office also files civil lawsuits such as divorces/cancellations, adoptions, child support, name changes, habeas corpus cases, causes for damages, gaskets, and repossessions. This office also issues notary public commissions, performs jury management, keeps ballot papers for the legal term of two years, and assists the public in obtaining copies of various court records and any other vital records. .
