StoryIn the game, players will have the chance to join thousands of players online in a single real-time multiple battle between microscopic cells. You'll create your own cells with unique writing and graphics to stand out from the others. Once finished, you can then participate in the exciting gameplay of small large fish where you have to consume all the foods and players that are smaller than you to get bigger and bigger until you literally become the big bully on the map who can face anyone they like. However, it's not the whole gameplay since you're also ready for lots of exciting features and game modes. Start with the ability to shoot a certain amount of cells from the main body so you can stay alive in certain situations. You can also play a fantastic game by dodging attacks and eating your opponents to completely change the tide of battle. Or, if you prefer, you can also choose the exciting game modes other than the standard mode in which you will find yourself for many fun gameplay that are completely out of this world. Here you will find all the exciting features that the game has to offer. To begin with, Android players will have the chance to experience the unique and satisfying gameplay in Agario where you will compete with thousands of players online in exciting battles of small fishfish. Start as a small cell and make your way into the ranks of evolution and become more powerful as you go. In addition, smooth and satisfying controls will also allow you to quickly get used to the game. It also looks more natural than the PC version. In addition, the game also features many different game modes that Android players can try to enjoy. Start with classic mode where you'll start in an existing game where all other players already here. Make your way quietly on the road to evolution as you grow bigger and stronger every day. Collect great buffs as you go so you can defeat your enemies and topple the big guys. However, if you want to enjoy fairer gameplay, so Battle Royale mode should definitely satisfy you. Start with a whole new map where you'll have to compete with other players in an epic battle where only one of you can survive. With the deadly ring continuing to close as you go, you have to do your best to stay alive before meeting the other big bosses when the ring finally reaches its smaller size. And for those looking to enjoy a quick and exciting battle Agario, then Rush mode should be the perfect choice. There will only be a few minutes to complete a game and you will find it just as fun as the others. For those who want to enjoy the game with their friends, Agario also presents the cooperative challenge where you can join your friends in an epic match against other players. Help each other as you both get older and bigger. Make use of unique and interesting tactics using cell division mechanics or food generation to feed each other from a dangerous situation. Also, if you're interested in more competitive gameplay and compete with better players, then exciting Agario are the way to go. Here, you can take part in epic multiplayer Agario where you can't get back to each time you're killed and only the best can survive. Enjoy the game as you take down your opponents one by one to become the best players who can name themselves in the leaderboards. And to make your cell different from others, players in Agario are also introduced to the pleasant skin customization option. Here, you can choose to create all kinds of graphics and colors to insert within your avatars. Feel free to design your own skin as you present you to this epic world of microscopic cells and their fantastic battles. Along with the fantastic rewards you get by completing missions and challenges in Agario, players can also collect their daily rewards without having to do anything. That said, you just have to go back to the game to unlock your loot. These will give you great visual effects and customizations when you play, which will make your avatar a lot cooler. The game is currently free for all Android players on their mobile devices. That said, you just need to download and install the game from the Google Play Store and you'll be fine. And if you find the game a little difficult, especially when they get bigger and bigger, it will soon be before the entire cell blocks the display on your phone.
