How to speed up the wifi connection on the laptop is nothing worse than the internet slow internet because you finally get fed up with the connection with the slow internet. In an age when the internet is the main source for entertainment and business, fast and uninterrupted internet is required. And here's how you can get the internet faster: Steps to speed up WiFi 1) Chose the right place that you may have never given so much consideration but the router location greatly affects internet speed. And another interesting note is that wifi speed also depends on the objects surrounding the internet. And therefore the router location should be in the center of your home, café, office, etc. So that every the device gets the maximum yet corresponding WiFi signal. Also, make sure that the router is surrounded by any electronic element or any device that brings or skips signals. WiFi can block your signals. 2) Place your antenna in the correct orientation The stand, such as the poles of your two (usually) routers, plays an important role in providing Wifi to devices. And he claimed that in order to get maximum speed, the two antennas had to be mutually upright to each other, and he proved experimentally. This means that you need to hold an antenna vertically and the next one must be horizontal and L-shaped. Also, make sure the antennas are on the same plane. 3) Use a booster for efficient and fast connectivity, leaching, bandwidth limits, etc. should be trying the way out to reduce however if you want to see noticeable changes, you need a booster. Boosters, also known as extenders, repeaters, etc., amplify signal strength and coverage. Apart from these original methods, you can also try these: 4) Regular update 5) reduce your router change 6) switch to different channels 7) Protect without washing 8) set the bandwidth limit. 9) Use powerful antennas If you only have one antenna, then you should choose a strong one. Avoid a large number of connectors. How to avoid the security risks of public wifi is worth consuming any service with a free tag, and when it's on the internet, everyone wants to try it. But free Wifi has its cons, and we'll discuss some of them, and how can we avoid such dangers. Mcdonalds used by a large part of Public Wifi systems such as free wifi login, your personal information may be at risk. 1) Your information is not confidential Your passwords are not secure when you log on to social media and any hacker can easily use them, the same applies to your credit card numbers, mobile phone numbers, etc. The best option to prevent such threats is not to use a receiving site of your data. Remember, even the hidden mode won't forgive you. When you connect to any public WiFi, use a virtual private network (VPN) to secure identities from other users of the network. 2) Ensuring that SSL connection VPN is not an option, sSL and SSL are nothing but http-enabled of all websites you browse. To do this, you need to turn on your browser's settings and check http-enabled options. This way, you can secure your internet activity from hackers or other users of the network. 3) Despite the various measures of choice when using Malware Tcan Public Wifi, you may still be facing cyber attacks. All hackers can track activity in some way and install an Application that will be available directly to those who do Gets. And to avoid such risks, you need to do regular malware scans to remove such Apps or files. 4) Turn off Wifi when not needed Your phone automatically connects to an open Wifi if you have wifi On. And you may not know it, but with this link, all hidden items are easily accessible to hackers. So it is better to turn off Wifi when it is not necessary.
