Realized. I use one as well. But if you could consider enabling ads on this site, I would be grateful. Free Edition ads help pay for my hosting costs. Or consider joining my Patreon, which will give you Keeper Edition, which has no ads and several other fun features. On page 2 it was really interesting to see how many people rated this tool. What started out as just a little utility for me has become a valuable valuable asset for DM everywhere. I don't think I've done quite yet, though. I have many ideas for new things, including original content and more, but I can afford to invest so much time in things like this. I'd like this to change, though. And yes, I set up Patreon, which will help you access the Keeper Edition website, which adds some new bells and whistles about this tool you already know and love. This will allow me to continue investing time (and money) in the site and my future ideas. What's wrong with you? There are some perks for Keepers: No ads (including player shop review) practically remove the 15-items-per-rarity generation limit (100 instead) Dislike prices? Ignore the base price of almost any magic item Custom URL slug for stores and locations Access saved from any browser Add additional information for stores (location, description, name of store owner, description of store owner, description, description, image) Stores never stop, but you can delete them any time you want per-shop tagging remembered among edits extended list of special features (origin, history, quirks, small features) magic items Restore saved stores using generator form custom presets form generators Save, organize and easily print teleportation circles Much more powerful travel time calculator Additional runa options spelling generator Additional options bounty / reward, Mercenary cost calculator Select from more than 12 color schemes across the site Quickly discover the magic aura of magical items Save and share your custom reincarnation table I will actually pay attention to your suggestions/ideas Partners or keepers who supported at a higher level also have their own privileges: The header says Partner, not The Keeper. (if well matched) A warm, hazy feeling that you helped more. (if not well matched) A sense of stinking advantage over those who have not helped so much. yes, there's not much yet. However, this is appreciated. What's in it for the stink? On a super practical level, I get help paying for hosting/website advertising. Plus, it gives me some money to invest in my games, which always inspires more ideas on the site. But it's all short-lived. If we hit our Patreon goals, I want to offer additional tiers with exciting new content... [ambiguous prophecy] So how do you become a keeper? It's pretty simple. You will log in to the site with Patreon. If you don't already have an account, just click the button below to create it. Page 3 5eMagic manages site that provides the SERVICE.
