It is part of the Northfield township High School area, which also includes Glenbrook North High School. Glenbrook South should not be confused with Glenbard South High School, another suburban Chicago high school located in Glen Ellyn, Illinois which is also known as GBS. Feeder schools that attend GBS are Attea, Springman, Field (Glenview servings), and Maple (Glenview servings). According to state standardized test scores, 29% of students are at least proficient in math and 40% in reading, as tested by the Illinois State Board of Education. These figures show that schools' performance is above the state high school median of 24% in math and reading. History In 1962, due to overcrowding at Glenbrook North, Glenbrook South High School was established. It underwent a dramatic expansion in 2002 adding dozens of classrooms, renewing music and performing arts facilities, and reconfiguring parking lots and athletics fields. In the summer of 2007, Glenbrook South updated six science classrooms from the 1960s and reconfigured two others to create full-size science classrooms. The Dean's Office, and The Student Activities Office were also renovated. A new Food Court was constructed along with a Student Activities Center that was created by reconfiguring the faculty lounge. Construction at GBS was completed with the addition of a practice gym, which increased PE capacity and a new pool with disabled access, eight lane capacity and a diving depth fourteen feet. A new fitness center opened in May 2008 and the former weight room was converted into two health classrooms, a driver training classroom and a Health/Driver Education office. Today, Glenbrook South High School, along with Glenbrook North, is known for its outstanding curriculum and of education, has been repeatedly named to a variety of best-in-the-nation lists. For example, as part of the First in the World Consortium, GBS and GBN students first received international math and science tests in the world. [7] Graduates In 2008, Glenbrook South had an average composite ACT score of 24.3, and graduated 99.6% of its senior class. [8] Glenbrook South did not make adequate annual progress on the Prairie State Achievement Examination, a state testing part of the No Child Left Behind Act. [8] According to 2019 statistics, Glenbrook South ranked 12th in the best high schools in the state of Illinois. [9] Of the approximately 3,000 students attending GBS, about 42% are from minority groups. Students represent these categories: 2.4% African American, 11.3% Hispanic, 0.1% American Indian, 18.1% Asian, 65.2% white, 22.1% economically disadvantaged students. Students have a state test performance index of 97.9 and a performance index for poverty adjustment of 1.55. The disadvantaged students' state test proficiency is 38.3 with a disadvantaged students Performance Gap of 11.0, while the non-disadvantaged students' state test proficiency is 71.6 and the Current State Test Achievement Gap is 33.3. In College-Ready Student Performance, the College Readiness Index is 43.5, participation is 46.8%, Quality adjusted participation is 42.4%, Student Passing rate is 90.6%, and Graduation Passes are 92.0%. Advanced placement student performance is reflected in an AP Participation rate of 46.8%, a quality adjusted participation rate of 42.4%, a participant passing interest rate of 90.6%, and Exam Passes of 92.0%. [10] The federal no child left behind act enforced in Illinois requires 100% of students to meet standards at the Prairie State Achievement Exam of 2013. Glenbrook South High School continues to focus curriculum efforts on academic growth for each student. [11] These efforts focus on the meaningful implementation of [College Readiness Standards] from the ACT. StudentLiv Athletics Glenbrook South is a member of the Central Suburban League. GBS is also a member of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA), the organization that sponsors most sports and activities in Illinois. GBS sponsors interscholastic teams for young men and women in basketball, cross country, golf, gymnastics, football, swimming, fencing, diving, tennis, athletics, volleyball and water polo. Men can compete in baseball, football and wrestling. Women can compete in badminton, softball, poms and cheerleading. Although not sponsored by the IHSA, the school also sponsors teams for men and women in lacrosse, in addition to a women's field hockey team. [12] The following teams have won their respective IHSA-sponsored state championships:[13] Basketball (girls): 1993–94 Golf (boys): 1967–68 Volleyball (boys): 2002–03 (boys): 1999–2000[14] Activities GBS sponsors a number of activities for students ranging from cultural and artistic to academic and social welfare. The list changes from year to year depending on the interest of the students, but the current list can be found here. Among the more nationally recognizable clubs are Debatt, Juggling Club and LiNK (Liberty in North Korea). There is also a chapter in Amnesty International. [15] The following activities won their respective IHSA sponsored state tournament or competition:[13] Debate: 1973, 1989, 2000, 2005, 2006, 2008; National Champions 1981, 1998, 2005, 2006, 2008, National Runners-up 2013, National Champions 2014 Individual Events: 2003, 2006 Glenbrook South was also named 2008 National GRAMMY Signature School for its music program. Glenbrook South was also awarded the 2009-2010 David P. Baker Cup by the National Debate Coaches Association for having #1 ranked debate team in the nation during the competitive season. The debate team won the national title in 2014, finished second in 2013 and finished third at the national championships in 2012. Glenbrook Southern has a nationally ranked and award-winning yearbook that consistently wins awards from major publishing organizations such as the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA), [16] columbia scholastic press association (CSPA),[17] and the Illinois Journalism Education Association (IJEa). [18] Glenbrook Academy of International Studies The Glenbrook Academy of International Studies is a four-year program of students from Glenbrook North and Glenbrook South High Schools. Some 30 freshmen choose to participate in academy lessons. Founded in 1981 to give students a more unorthodox learning perspective, it includes English, civics and a foreign language. Each class learns a different foreign language from a rotation of four: Spanish, French, German, and Mandarin Chinese.
