Persona 5 max confidant guide gamefaqs

After all these years, Persona 5 is finally here. It is a game with an incredibly deep fighting and entertaining system, and an intriguing plot, but one aspect that makes up most of the campaign is the Confidant system (formerly known as Social Links). This allows players to interact with different characters around Tokyo and learn from their stories, all while at the same time gaining benefits, would be able to switch party members to the middle of the battle, or reverse a dire situation into a beneficial one. Given that there are so many confidants with such different personalities, I wanted to share a guide to which the answers are best received by each individual. This ensures that you will not be wasting unnecessary time spending days and evenings with Confidants, and leveling them quickly. Please note all the values are when you have a Persona with the appropriate tarot card in your arsenal. This guide is only for confidants who require dialog choices to progress, so those that are automatically leveled through the story (such as Magician) or those that require other means of progress, would be Power, will not be listed here. UPDATE: With the release of Persona 5 Royal, we have added the new Followup dialog options for each Confidant. Click here if you are looking for the full persona 5 Royal Confidant Guide because there are a number of changes. Maxing your confidantes into a single playthrough of Persona 5 is a difficult task. Social statistics carry many confidants, making them harder to get into the first parts of the game. Since social statistics report on New Game Plus, maxing Confidants on a second playthrough is much easier. In a first playthrough, you have to spend every possible moment either maxing your stats or working on a relationship. Upping social statistics (Goodness, Knowledge, Courage, Competence and Charm) will happen over time naturally, but you should also work on them individually. Getting the most out of each session with a confidant takes dedication. You have to be sure to visit velvet room and grab a Persona that has an arcana matching with your confidant. For example, bring Pixie (a very early Persona game) with you when you hang out with Ann because both are aligned with Arcana Lovers. This will make your relationship with Ann grow faster than normal. Details about each Confidant and a larger explanation of the Arcana match are available in our Confidant guide. Spend the first parts of Persona 5 (when you only have a few Confidants at your disposal) leveling social statistics. As the game continues, easy to be overwhelmed by choices about who to spend time with. Max your confidantes early as soon as possible, so you can focus your late game on characters like Haru or Iwai. We already have a daily overview of the events in Persona 5, but if you want a detailed presentation on how to best spend every day for maximum benefit, check out this great and detailed breakdown on GameFAQs. Related Persona 5 guide and walkthrough For those who are just getting started with Persona 5, we have a quick heads-up for anyone who needs a Persona 5 Confidant or walkthrough guide. Confidentials are required if you want to max everything in the game and win the Platinum Trophy. This is due to the great Phantom Thieves Convone Gold trophy, which requires you to maximize all your confidants and you can't get Platinum until you've taken this long step. The good news though is that there are several online guides that will make this process very easy for you. The first comes from YouTube ShackD for those who want a visual guide, but also via GameFaq's in one of the best Persona 5 Confidant Guides available online. The good thing about the GameFaq Guide is that it is spoiler-free, so if you prefer to use it, you can read through all the details here that will help you max out all the confidants in Persona 5. For the YouTube guide, I added a preview below, but the full range of videos are available here. We are starting with April, but if you are looking for other months, here are: A few things to note going into this presentation guide: This presentation guide is a modified version of this guide, optimized for further efficiency and combat efficiency. All rank confidant e-ups are dependent on you bringing a persona of a matching arcana when you spend time with them. With the exception of Rank 1 and Rank 10, if you forget to do so even once you will set your schedule back, sometimes catastrophic, depending on your confidant. Make sure you keep track of your characters. Reminders will be when the only opportunity to prepare a persona for an event is the night before. However, the sun and moon's confidants don't need matching personae. This walk-through guide is based on the normal difficulty- you might find having a hard time keeps up on the ways of greater difficulty. Since it is not possible to 100% Achievements Of Den Thieves on your first run, we will be guiding you by popping as many of them as possible, but there will be a main focus like PS4 trophies. This guide will be running on the assumption that you are choosing a platonic route with all the romance characters to suit everyone, if you find yourself progressing faster with the romanced confidante than the guide plans for, use the extra day as a free slot. However, we recommend that you express at least one teammate to purchase the PS4 trophy, even if you decide to reload and continue with the platonic route. The trust ranks stuck in the stories will not be included in the monthly output statistics. Is everything ready? Let's get started.
