You can learn your guitar chords here. I started out as a folk guitarist, then fell in love with classical guitar in my 20s. Despite a lot of training and schooling, I still couldn't make my music flow well. I struggled with excess excitement. My music sounded forced. And my hands and body were often sore. I was frustrated and couldn't see the way forward. Then, over the next decade, I studied with two outstanding teachers - one focused on the technical, and one on the musical (he was a concert pianist). Over time, I came to discover a new set of formulas and gestures. These brought new life and vitality to my practice. Now I help guitarists find more comfort and flow in their music so they play more beautiful. Click here for a sample formula. I think the program levels are a great way to learn the guitar. I've had several teachers in recent years, and no one came close to organization that you have put together. Peter Marior Great advice here. I find I take more time with the pieces than I would have in the past as I focus on the technique you've taught me. It slows down at first, but has fewer frustrations, is lighter and sounds better in the end. Karen Richardson joins and play more, beautiful! Because I am a software developer I have to stay 8 hours to write on a computer keyboard, so I use my hands a lot during the day. At night, when I have some time to practice my guitar hands and arms are usually in pain because they have worked a lot during the day, but I have found that to do exercises in The Woodshed free me from this pain, and I am then able to practice after doing them. You build a very interesting and working guitar course, because for what I've seen so far, it really works! -Ulysses Alexandre Alves I really enjoy the growth and challenge that woodshed material provides. I look forward to working hard and learning a lot in the years to come. Thank you for all the effort and care that you have taken in providing these lessons and resources!
