These are extremely good things to know, because you may find yourself wanting to switch modes quickly or just want to complete a tedious task. These commands will work on the Xbox One, Switch, and Mobile versions of Minecraft! How-to Use Console Commands in Minecraft First, when creating your world make sure to check the Allow/Activate Cheats option How-to Use Console Commands in Minecraft First, when creating your world be sure to check the Allow/Activate Cheats option. The button to press now depends on the platform you are playing the game. Here's a list of what you need to tap to access the console command menu: Xbox One: Tap right on the D-Pad. Nintendo Switch: Press the right direction button on your Joy-Con or right on the D-Pad of your Pro Controller. PC/Mac (Windows 10 or Java): You can press T, or you can press the slash key (/). Unfortunately, if you're on a PS4 you can't actually enter commands. You can only change a few options if you have server privileges. Flying Command in Minecraft There is no direct command in Minecraft that will make you fly. You can change the game's mode using command/creative gamemode, and this will allow you to hit the jump twice and will get you into the air! If you want to fly even faster (on your PC), you can switch to Spectator mode. This requires you to hit F3+N at the same time, and gives you the ability to fly around freely and go through walls. You can scroll the mouse wheel up or down to increase or decrease speed. This is the fastest way to get around other than using shift commands! Minecraft Console Commands & Cheats List Below is a list of a variety of commands that you will find useful in the game. It can be tried a new Minecraft Seed before testing these commands on your main world! NEW: Locate Biome Now you can locate a type prodigy with this new command. If you want to do something creative in a particular field then this is a great one to use. Type simple in command and move through different creatures until you locate the one you want to find. You can then select it, and you will be given coordinates for the nearest suitable creature trousers. Use the /tp command to make your way to the location! /locatebiome [biome name] Help If you want some additional information on a given command, you can use this: Player Targeting Commands This can be added instead of the variable [Player] that you will see in many of the following commands. @s - Target yourself or the person who made the order. @p - Closest Player You. @r - Random players in your game. @a - All players in your game. @e - All the in-game bodies. These include animals and monsters. Enchanted You can enchant the current item you are holding with specific spells if you wish with this command. You can only use this on items that can be enchanted, and the level must be a Check out our guide to Minecraft Enchantments to learn more. /enchant [Player] [Enchantment Type] [Level] Example: /enchant @s minecraft:fortune 3 You can use this example to give a Fortune 3 pickaxe using this command! Experience This is quite useful if you want to fascinate some things, but do not want to bother grinding out monsters! /experience add [Player] [Amount] Game Difficulty If you're getting tired of monsters spawning, or you want your health to regenerate quicker then this is the command to use! You've made choices: easy, difficult, normal, and peaceful. Game mode This is extremely useful if you are creating some content or just return the mode back and back. You have four different options: adventure, creativity, audience and survival. Offer if you want to give a certain amount of items to a particular player or yourself, then you will use the command for: /give [Player] [Item] [Amount] Example: /give @s minecraft:book 5 In this example, we are giving ourselves 5 books. Each item starts with minecraft: that's why it appears there. The game should have a list of items that will automatically complete when you enter them. For wood items, you will need to start the name out with the specific wood that you want the item to be. Kill If you want to revive yourself or terror your friends, you can use this command. The List shows you an existing list of players on your server. Locate Give you coordinates of the nearest structure of that type! This can be buried treasures, pyramids, fortresses, etc. This seed command will export out your current seed number. Summoning this is similar to giving, but you can summon an object such as a monster or animal instead. It will summon whatever you choose right where you are, or you can add a location. Move This is a fairly useful command that will move you or someone else to a specific coordinate. Coordinates Y will determine the block height you end up in. If you just want to move to your current height, you can use - that spot instead of a specific number. This can also be used in position X or Z if you want to maintain the current coordinates of either option. The time I found this command quite useful for when I was bouncing between games and something else. You can set a specific time or you can do a generic just to change your lighting situation. Here are the setup options: day, midnight, night or noon. You can also do it by number, where 0 is dawn and start the day new. /time set [Type or #] /time add [#] Weather This will change the current weather. You can use clear, rainy, or thundery as your different types. That's it for commands! If you want to do more customization for your game, be sure Check out our look at Minecraft Mods. Type command We will include examples of how to use commands/tp to move to a relative set of coordinates, to a specific set of coordinates, and to other players in the game. Move to a relative coordinate set Let's start by showing you the shift to a relative set of coordinates. For example, you can move a player named DigMinecraft to relative coordinates by using the 4~ erotic character for the values x y z: / tp DigMinecraft ~ 53 ~ 6 ~ 17 Enter commands in the chat window. When you're typing, you'll see the command appear in the lower-left corner of the game window. Press the Enter key to run the command. This command /tp moves the player called DigMinecraft to a position of 53 Eastern blocks, 6 blocks down and 17 blocks south of the current position. You'll see teleported DigMinecraft to x, y, z notifications appear in the lower left corner of the game window to show that the tp command is complete. Move to a specific set of coordinates now, showing you to move to a specific set of coordinates in the game. For example, you can move a player named DigMinecraft to a specific set of coordinates with command: /tp DigMinecraft 85 72 -200 Type commands in the chat window and press the Enter key to run the command. This command /tp will move the player called DigMinecraft to coordinates 85,72,-200. You'll see teleported DigMinecraft to x, y, z notifications appear in the lower left corner of the game window to show that the tp command is complete. Move to another player Finally, show it to you to move to another player in the game. For example, you can move a player named DigMinecraft to a player named Steve: /tp DigMinecraft Steve Type commands in the chat window and press the Enter key to run the command. This command /tp will move the player called DigMinecraft to wherever the player named Steve is in the completed game.has. Congratulations, you learned how to use commands/tp in Minecraft.
