Fiscal, Demographics, and Performance Data in California K-12 Schools For the First Time Here? sherwood-school@salinascity.k12.ca.us The California School Directory and related public and district data files (collectively referred to as Directories), contain information about California schools, districts, and school/district administrators that are voluntarily self-reported by local educational institutions (LEIs) to the California Department of Education (CDE) as public convenience. Because such information is voluntarily self-reported, the Directory does not contain information for any LEA and the information contained in the Directory may be outdated or have errors, omissions, typos and other inaccuracies. Therefore, the information, or the absence of information, in the Directory should not be relied upon for any purpose and should be used only to contact the LEA. CDE makes no statements or warranties, implied or implied, with respect to Directory information. For information on LEA accreditation, please visit the U.S. Department of Education's Accreditation and Quality Assurance webpage. Students here make about average year-over-year academic improvement... More of these schools have below-average results in how well it serves disadvantaged students, and students perform below average on state tests. Students at this school make average academic progress from one class to the next compared to students at other schools in the state. Average progress with low test scores means students start at a low point but progress at about the same rate as their counterparts at other schools in the state. Parents' tip test scores at the school fell well below the state average. This indicates that students at this school are less likely to perform at the grade level. Parental tips Notice something missing or confusing? Under-20s in this school may fall far behind other students in the state, and this school may have a large achievement gap.
