The single reached number one on the Billboard Hot 100 in February 1967, and was ultimately the only one for the band. Creation Story In early 1967, the strenuous and unpopous tour of the success charts motivated drummer Don Murray, and later bassist Chuck Fortez, to leave the band. They were replaced by Joel Larson, and later by John Barbata on drums, while Chip Douglas took the bassist's place. This happened while the band, in their live performances, performed some songs that were quite popular with fans, but had not yet been recorded in the studio. The first major single of his career, by Gary Bonner and Alan Gordon, Happy Together, was rejected by different groups with the song itself looking like a travesty. The song's arrangements were organized by Chip Douglas himself.
