PSA is best known for its annual conference and academic journal Sociological Perspectives. [1] The History of the Pacific Sociological Association was founded in October 1929, when Emory S. Bogardus of the University of Southern California invited together a group of sociologists for the purpose of organizing society. [2] The organization was originally called the Pacific Southwest Sociological Society. In 1930, a new name was adopted, the Pacific Sociological Association. The aim of the charter members was to get out of the isolation in which they were in their institutions in order, in the union, to promote sociological research and teaching. The first annual meeting was held in January 1930 [ 3] Regions Pacific Sociological Association currently encompasses much of the Pacific region of North America. PSA is divided into three regions:[4] Northern Region: Alaska, Alberta, British Columbia, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming Central Region: California (Fresno and North), Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada (excluding Las Vegas) and Southern Utah Region: Arizona, Baja California, California (south of Fresno), Nevada (Las Vegas only), New Mexico, Chihuahua and Sonora Leadership The current CEO of PSA is Lora Bristow. [5] The organisation's presidency changes annually at its annual conference. Recent presidents include: 2014-15 Dr. Patricia A. Gwartney of the University of Oregon, 2015-16 Dr. Robert Nash Parker of UC Riverside, 2016-17 Dr. Karen Pyke of UC Riverside, 2017-18 Dr. Amy Orr of Linfield College and 2018-19 Dr. Elaine Bell Kaplan of the University of Southern California. Periodicals Sociological Perspectives is an academic journal published in two months by PSA. [6] The Pacific Sociologist is a bulletin issued by PSA in January, May and September. [7] Awarded by the Pacific Sociological Association The board awards 8 annual awards. Nominations for these awards must come from PSA members. [8] Distinguished Award for Scholarship Dean S.
