Photo: NetflixTwo Words in May, Netflixsters: Mister. Mom, I'm only half joking. Yes, the 1983 Michael Keaton/Teri Garr classic, in which the high jinks stems from the unlikely scenario of a woman going to work when her husband stays at home and cares for the kids (what you even talk about, everyone knows women don't have jobs, men can't vacuum, etc.) don't come to Netflix on May 3. But Mr. Mom's arrival is perhaps emblematic of the moment we hit Peak Netflix Original™ when Netflix told us: You know what you want? You want the third season of the weird anthology series Easy (May 10), You Still Want A LAUGH-IN: Stars To Celebrate, a star-studded tribute to the revolutionary comedy sketch show of the 1960s and 70s. And we answered: New phone, who dis? Licensed movies coming to Flix in May include Angels and Demons, Austin Powers 1 & 2, Dumb and Dumber, Harold & Kumar Escape from Guantanamo Bay, Hoosiers and the movie you actually want to watch, Moonlight. We're going to lose all the jaw movies, Eternal Sunshine, Sixteen Candles, Sliding Doors and a bunch of James Bond movies. On Monday every week, we rifle through NOs (which I call Netflix Originals future, for obvious reasons) and say what seem to be worth your time. My Money is Wine Country (May 10), starring Amy Poehler, Ana Gasteyer and Maya Rudolph, directed by Poehler. Tell us about the comments on what you expect this month, and what you can be steering clear. The arrival of MayHere's complete list of new shows, movies and comedy specials. The Jailbirds (Friday) look like what would happen if the geniuses of that bright idea were the creators of the Jersey Shore, which means it looks like an exploit that exposes people to their worst in their entertainment. Except instead of setting a summer vacation, the inmates are laid in Sacramento Country Jail. Even me, with my true crime fetish and reality show-slant, will leave it out. The first season of Pose arrives on Friday as well, but I'll be kicking back in Wine Country, which looks like Sideways meets Bridesmaids. Is there any middle-time movie that's happening in a California wine country that's set in comparison to sideways? Is there any ensemble comedy featuring former SNL stars set compared to Bridesmaids? Who cares? We've got Maya Rudolph, Amy Poehler, Rachel Dratch and Ana Gasteyer in this NO (Netflix Original), which means it's either going to be terrible or better if it's any right to be. What do you think? Isn't that right? Netflix's membership plan offers instant access to thousands of movies and TV shows that can be streamed through the Netflix app on any internet-connected device. Compatible devices include smart TVs, game consoles, streaming players, mobile phones, tablets and computers. But if you don't know exactly what netflix is, this list should help. Many movies and shows on Netflix are produced by other studios. After the movie's theatrical release, it makes its way through a period of rental availability of physical DVDs and Blu-ray discs, or through streaming services. Finally, it finds a home on Netflix, Hulu and Amazon Prime Video, where subscribers can watch it without an additional rental fee. In some cases, movies and TV shows are released directly from Netflix and other streaming services or released for streaming immediately after the theatrical debut. Netflix announces new and future content on its website. The task of keeping up with the content currently available on a streaming service like Netflix is also into websites like JustWatch.com and Whats-on-Netflix.com, and even mobile apps. Each month, these websites and apps list current new content, as well as what comes next month or in the near future. If you want to find a movie, search these websites and apps for Netflix content. While Netflix announces most of what's coming soon on the site, the announcements aren't comprehensive, and there are often surprise releases. Sites and apps also help keep up with them. Most also have a list of content that is leaving Netflix soon. Movies and TV shows often disappear from Netflix after the license expires to stream them. Some websites keep up with what content is disappearing from Netflix every month, as whats-on-netflix.com. Netflix has established itself far more than a simple streaming service for third-party content with its fast-growing library of originally produced movies and TV shows. Netflix has its own studios and creates a wide range of its own branded content, many of which are highly valued by both critics and audiences. Here are some original programs Netflix has produced: Drama Series: Frontier, Ozark, Ironfist, Tiger King, Locke & Key, Virgin River, Lost Girl, Space Force, Stranger Things, Northern Rescue, Travelers, and others. Documentaries: Jeffrey Epstein: Filthy Rich, Pandemic, Forensic Files, Trial of Bagriel Fernandez, Making a Murderer, 100Humans, Cooked, Chef's Table, Inside Mind of a Serial Killer, and others. Anime: Hugely popular in the West, anime came to Netflix in 2016. Anime series include Aggretsuko, Glitter Force, Fundamental Alchemist: Brotherhood, One-Punch Man, Death Note, Seven Deadly Sins, Magi: The Adventures of Sinbad, Devilman Crybaby, Knights of Sidonia, Kurumukuro.Comedy Series: While Netflix offers many comedy shows, it also produces its own. Netflix original comedy shows include Fuller House, Grace and Frankie, The Ranch, Atypical, The Good Cop, On My Block, Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt and others. Kids Series: Netflix is dedicated to the children's area, where there is a lot of original programming. The service has collaborated with Dreamworks to develop even more original children's series. Current titles are Trolls, Care Bears and Cousins, Boss Baby, Dinotrux, H2O: Mermaid Adventures, Inspector Gadget, Alexa & Katie, Free Rein, Popples, Project Mc2, Richie Rich, and others. Movies: In 2015, Netflix began producing original films and international streaming rights for films. The availability of studio movies may change, but Netflix Original movies are plentiful and always available, such as Da 5 Bloods, Mining, 6 Underground, Lost Girls, Highwaymen, Irish, What/When They See Us and High Seas.Stand-Up Comedy: Netflix produces a lot of stand-up comedies. Some programs include George Lopez. We're doing this party, John Leguizamo's Latin History morons, Ron White: When you stop listening, I shut up, Adam Sandler: 100% Fresh, Jeff Dunham: Relative Disaster, Joe Rogan: Strange Time, Kevin Hart: Irresponsible, and Others. Getting Netflix isn't hard, but it requires high-speed internet access. The minimum required connection speed is 0.5 megabits per second, according to Netflix, but you can connect faster to better video quality, especially in high-definition (HD) streaming and ultra-high definition (UHD) content. You also need something to look at it, like a computer or mobile device such as a smartphone or tablet. There are also streaming media devices as well, which include Apple TV, Roku, Amazon Fire TV, smart TVs and DVDs and Blu-ray players with built-in Internet capabilities. Even game consoles like Xbox One and PlayStation 4 offer Netflix apps. Finally, you need a Netflix subscription. The service offers three plans: Basic, Standard, and Premium. All three allow you to stream unlimited movies and TV on your laptop, TV, and other devices. With your Netflix account, you can stream to a limited number of screens at a time. With the master plan, you can view content only on one screen at a time, but the standard plan allows two screens, and the Premium Plan allows four screens at a time. HD is only available on Standard and Premium contracts. Ultra HD is only available with premium package. Plan.
