Ark tranq arrow gfi

From ARK: Survival Evolved Wiki The Tranq Arrow (or Tranquilizer Arrow) is used to knock the creatures unconscious. Does less damage than a Stone Arrow, but increases the target's Torpor. Tranq arrows can be used as ammo for the bow, crossbow, and composite arc. When hit, they instantly increase the target's torpor by an amount equal to 200% of weapon damage and give an additional amount of torpor equal to 250% of weapon damage over the next 4 seconds. (for example, a standard quality arc would cause 40 Torpor damage immediately, with a clocked release of 50 torpor for 4 seconds.) They can usually be recovered by walking to the impact area, but will be recovered as Stone Arrows, the Narcotic being spent. Notes[edit - edit font] A second arrow hitting the target will not override the torpor-over-time effect of the first arrow, multi-arrow effects will accumulate instead. That means you don't have to wait between shots to get the maximum torpor. On the other hand, the increase in torpor takes 5 seconds. So if the creature is close to unconsciousness, it is better to wait after each shot so as not to harm the creature unnecessarily. A Tranq arrow fired from a crossbow is more effective in terms of both damage and torpor compared to a normal bow or composite arc. Flying creatures take 1.5 times more damage from ranged weapons without bullets. This bonus stacks up with the 2.5x bonus of headshots. A single Tranq arrow hitting the head of an Argentavis can make a lot of torpor for 5 seconds. In Survival of the Fittest, Tranq arrows are available at level 10 (along with Bow), and can be crafted using 5 Narcoberry instead of Narcotics (to avoid the need for a foundation, mortar and plague, and spoiled meat). Tranq arrows are the preferred method to remove Giganotosaurus due to the increased reloading speed of the crossbow, the outrageous torpor drop of the Giganotosaurus, and the non-existent risk of it dying during torpor delivery. You can collect tranq arrows from killing top-level dinos.
