Wizard of oz pdf book

Picture: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer When The Wizard of Oz arrived in cinemas in 1939, he received a lukewarm response. Sure, it garnered $3 million, which wasn't anything at the time, but was considered an underperforming box office number. And by today's standards, it would have been a big box-office bomb. If you're a real blue oophile (this is someone especially fond of The Wizard of Oz), although you can make a small screen to thank for the popularity of what has become a beloved classic. It was first broadcast on television in 1956, starting with what has become an annual tradition for many: the annual TV screening of The Wizard of Oz. In fact, for a couple of decades, the annual broadcast was the only place that fans of Dorothy Gale and Emerald City could, well, travel to Yellow Brick Road and see the Faves in action. Of course, we now have DVDs and Blu-Ray and on-demand, giving us virtually unlimited access to Munchkinland at any time. So let's test your Oz skills. We're guessing you've seen it a few times (we may not have seen a couple hundred of ourselves). Mi? Don't judge us. Come with us as we deliver you over the Rainbow to answer these questions from The Wizard of Oz. Flying monkeys are not included! Copyright © 2021 InfoSpace Holdings, LLC, the System1 Company in UFO Reality (1983) British ufologist Jenny Randles noted that some UFO witnesses experience feeling isolated or transported from the real world to a different environmental framework. I call it the Oz Factor, after oz's fairytale land. In one case, on a late summer evening in 1978, a Manchester, England, couple watched the UFO as it hovered over a well-traveled street almost inexplicably devoid of the usual brisk road and pedestrian traffic. On the afternoon of April 15, 1989, a father and son looked at a metallic, gold, dumbbell-shaped object, accompanied by four small discs, maneuvering low in the sky near their home in Novato, California. As puzzling that witnesses like UFOs themselves lacked other people at a time of day when people were usually out. Randles believes such reports suggest that in some way the consciousness of the witness [is] at the heart of the UFO encounter. With November trudging along and December definitely in our sights, Christmas is on everyone's mind now. Admit it, you've been thinking about the right time to see the tree, writing up your wish list and assessing the gifting options for your loved ones. And if you're looking for something completely magical and still affordable for beauty enthusiasts in your life (even if it's you), there's a new range to introduce. No 7's Wizard of Oz collection just won Christmas in my opinion, thanks to decadent packaging, festive colors, and nice wallet-friendly prices. The line has hit stores and features everything from an advent calendar for £32, to countless makeup kits, and even a Christmas candle to rival the likes of Diptyque. We have highlighted palettes, eyeshadow kits, brushes, nail polishes, and makeup bags, all with the right themed names and packaging. Also out this week is a festive scent of Beauty Pie, some luxurious eyeshadow from Westman Atelier, a new addition to the Byredo makeup range (which I've been a staunch fan of) and the most boujee car diffuser I've ever set my eyes on. Keep scrolling to read all seven of the best new beauty launches out this week. Get the best moments of pop culture & entertainment delivered to your inbox. 1/40 1938: Adaptation of L. Frank Baum's 1900 children's book The Wonderful Wizard of Oz in the 1930s. And the rest, like them, is history. 2 to 40 1938: Making the movie Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM) won the film rights to the popular book, and soon after to create the magical fantasy world of Oz. Photographed here are some high-level executives in the studio, including Mervyn LeRoy (center). 3/40 1938: The coveted roles of the line extends to the block MGM casting office during an open casting call. 4/40 1938: Finding Dorothy Although MGM producers first approached Shirley Temple and Deanna Durbin to play Dorothy Gale, the studio eventually chose 16-year-old Judy Garland. 5/1938: Creating a technicolor world with director Victor Fleming and MGM producer Mervyn Leroy strategize about sets of the film's set designers. The studio spent a lot on creating the fantasy world, with production and promotional budgets estimated at $4 million in 1939 (now about $72 million). 6/40 1938: In another project Judy The film's young star was busy working on the film, the actress opened her first flower shop in 1938, Judy Garland Flowers Inc. Saw a bouquet of MGM director George Sidney pin to his lapel in his shop. 7/40 1939: Becoming Dorothy The studio originally saw Dorothy's blonde hair and tried to outfit Garland with a wig. But she ended up sticking to her natural brunette hair color in the role - and we can't imagine it's any different! 8/1939: Bert Lahr as the cowardly lion after casting Dorothy, the next step was filling parts of badly friends, such as The Cowardly Lion - MGM chose actor Bert Lahr. 9 to 40 1939: With Ray Bolger as the Scarecrow in his makeup and costume, you barely know Ray Bolger as the scarecrow. 10/40 1939: Jack Haley as the tin man, the tin man who has no heart, and Terry, a female Cairn Terrier who appeared in several films throughout his life. 12 of 40 1939: The cast sing along to The Film, which won best original score and best original song at the 1940 Academy Awards, has produced some of the most classic songs to date, including Somewhere Over the Rainbow. Here, in 1939, the cast can be seen singing various tunes from the film on NBC radio. 13 of 40 1939: The cast, along with the actors who played the film's protagonists, Dorothy, Scarecrow, Tin Man, the Wizard, and the cowardly lion, all pose together in costume for a promotional shoot for the film. 14 to 40 1939: Judy takes a break while filming in Los Angeles, with the young actress seen polishing her new car. 15 of 40 1939: The gingham dress In the 1939 film Dorothy wore the now iconic gingham dress, which was chosen to try to look younger. 16 of 40 1939: The Wizard of Oz Premieres The film premiered in 1939 and was the most expensive production in the studio at the time - largely due to production and promotional costs. The 40 1939: The premiere of renowned American director Orson Welles and actress Linda Winters attends the opening night premiere of The Wizard of Oz in 1939. 18 of 40 1939: Lines around the block Although the film made no profit following its original release, crowds extended down the block as people flocked to see the anticipated film. The film became profitable after its reissue in 1946 and is still considered one of the most watched films to date. 19/1939 40: We're no longer in Kansas, there's no better place than home, and if you're from Kansas, you've probably heard it many times. In the film, Dorothy, who becomes swept into the magical world by a tornado, travels to Emerald City so she can return to the farm in Kansas - shown here. 20 of 40 1939: Toto, filming alongside Clara Blandick and Margaret Hamilton, shoots one of the early scenes from the film when Dorothy's aunt tries to sell Toto. 21 40 1939: A technicolor masterpiece Although it was not the first film to be in color, the studio traded in a technicolor triumph in which the details of the intricate set design came to life. 22/40 1939: The poppy field The poppy field of poppy flowers in which Dorothy sleeps has become a symbol of pop culture as it is seen as a direct reference to opium use. 23 to 40 1939: Welcome to Munchkin Land Dorothy arrives at Munchkin Land, she is greeted by the residents of a now famous song. Here is a photo of the actors filming that scene on set. 24 to 40 1939: The Lollipop Guild Judy adopts a huge lollipop of actors depicting the inhabitants of Munchkin Land in a scene where she is welcomed into town. 25 to 40 1939: Glenda the Good Witch actress Billie Burke played the role of Glinda the Good Witch of the North, who arrives after the witch of the East is killed to help Dorothy on her journey. 26 to 40 1939: Dorothy Ruby Slipper Glinda transforms Dorothy's shoes into her famous ruby slippers. The shoes have since become iconic and are the film's most valuable keepsakes. Designed by MGM costume designer, Gilbert Adrian, is not sure how many pairs exist. Producer Mervyn LeRoy claimed that 10 pairs were made, but only four were tracked down. 27 of 40 1939: The Wicked Witch of the West The villain of the film, The Witch of the Wicked West, was played by Margaret Hamilton. The actress also plays Ms. Gulch, the woman coming to Toto away, at the beginning of the film. 28 to 40 1939: The Flying Monkeys Something Everyone Remembers in The Wizard of Oz is the evil witch flying monkeys. The main character was played by Patrick Walsh, who specializes in the impersonation of animals. 29 to 40 1939: Life as the exuberant man of the exuberant gets some oil from Dorothy as she tenses up on their way. 30/40 1939: Straw is the brain of American actor, Ray Bolger, was known for his dance skills and He appeared on Broadway in the '30s, which is evident in this deleted scene from the movie.
