At the age of 18, the twins will have the biggest and most difficult battle of their lives with their greatest enemies: their forbidden feelings for each other. Mabel, I think... Parties aren't just made to enjoy, dance and eat. I think parties need to be enjoyed by the people you like and care about. And that's what I want to do today. Do you have any idea who you want to do this with? Dipper laughed ironically at Mabel's question, soon looking into his eyes. What kind of question is that? Isn't it obvious that I want to do this to you? With me? But why me? There are so many people down there... I know, but, Mabel, I want to spend the rest of my party with someone I like and care about. There are people down there that I like, of course. But none of them are like you. What do you mean by that? None of them are the girl who's spent her whole life with me. None of them are the girl who made me feel so many sensations that I hope to have again. None of them are the girl I admire the most. So, what's the point of sitting there if the person I'm supposed to be with and who I want to be with for the rest of the night is right here in front of me? It must be a dream. He said Dipper kept his shopping and leaned on the counter. - So, mabel towel, mabel towel, mabel towel... He continued to repeat for a long time with his eyes closed, but nothing but a sense of emptiness in his chest. He looked at everything he had and started crying, he was very sad, Dipper wanted someone with him. Quietly called in decline maximum on the counter. Who's Mabel? Dipper heard your brain ask that question. - Mabel, the woman I love. Dipper responded by asking for his brain to look for answers, but nothing. Dad? He was speaking a small voice at the entrance to the kitchen.
