Barnyard otis and abby

In: Characters, Girls, Heroes, See the source of Share 17 older siblings OfVeronica (cousin)unknown Uncle Abby is one of the main characters in Back in Barnyard. He replaced Daisy's character from the film. Early life When he was young, Abby grew up with 18 brothers, frustrated uncles, and his cousin Veronica. Throughout his childhood, he and Veronica played together and he was bullied by his older brothers. Finally, Abby moved to Barnyard and met Otis and other barn animals.. Abby's personality befriends everyone, although Freddy's unstable mental health often holds up their friendship. Abby is also very athletic, allergic to petunias, has an obsessive-compulsive addiction to organizing, and loves cats. In one episode, it was revealed that Abby had some kind of double personality, in which she acted like a very nice and innocent cow, then the second, she acted like a strong and rude cow. He seems very competitive and very pushy and revolt at times. He is known to be very rough as seen in one episode that when he explained his cousin was just like him, they were scared and imagined he was doing bad things to Otis, Pip, Freddy, Peck, and Pig. Abby's appearance is a light brown cow for some reason she has tied her blonde hair and gold ears. Trivia Nails is more shinier than most. In Cupig, it was revealed that Abby used a yellow hair dye. Walk on the back foot, human speech, Pip lactation, Pig, Peck, Freddy, Duke, Miles Dag, Snotty Boy, Nora Beady, Nathan Randall Beady III, Phlegmy Boy, Bingo Kevin James (film, video game)s Chris Hardwick (TV series) Otis is the main protagonist of barrdan He is Pip's best friend, ex-husband Early life At her youth, Otis lost her birth mother at a district exhibition when she was a calf. It is not known what happened to his father, but he may have died of illness. After that, Otis was adopted by Ben and lived a happy and normal life with him as a father and son. They also love going fishing together. The young otis bullied by young Krauser When he was young, Otis was always bullied by Krauser Krebs, who would beat him and milk out of his udders. At one point, he had a good friend named Eddie who stole his idea for the product. After that, Otis grew up and made friends with animals Barnyard. In the film, Otis loses Ben when Dag kills him outside the chicken coop. Devastated and distressed, Otis blames himself for his father's death since he wasn't there for him (which even Dag harangues him for). In the end, Otis was chosen as the new leader of Barnyard, Barnyard, Dag and coyotes, and became the father of Daisy's newborn son Lil' Ben (named after his father). Otis's personality is smart, fun, friendly, energetic, happy-go-lucky, mischievous, goofy, carefree, kindhearted, bold, determined, adventurous cows who know how to work guitar, mobile phones, and microphones. Rather than having strict, serious rules, he prefers to have fun with friends and the best mess around everything he wants and does not take responsibility. Otis is happy to face fear of rescuing himself and his best friends; However, when it comes to money, Otis is usually selfish, greedy, and stubborn and sad to keep it all to itself. Despite this, he is really a nice and loving cow with the heart of the golden bovine. She enjoys hanging out and having fun with her best friends. He also likes to pull tricks in Beadys and Farmers. In the film, Otis has a rather rebellious nature of the big man on campus who is quite rebellious, stubborn with Ben and deliberately ignores him when he tells him to grow up and be more accountable rather than goofing off because he will be the leader of Barnyard someday when Ben dies. Otis who watched Ben die After Ben was killed by Dag that night, Otis watched his father die in his nails and became very stressful and unlike going out, crushed by the incident. Later, Otis was chosen as Barnyard's new leader, although he blamed himself for Ben's death and residence on it because he strongly felt that he should have been there for him rather than partying with animals in the Night Enclosure. Otis faces Dag Towards the end of the film, Otis infidelifies his father by daring to beat Dag at the junkyard while protecting and rescuing the captured Hens and Maddy (though he got bitten in the leg by Dag at some point, just like Ben). Upon arriving home, Otis eventually became a loving husband to Daisy and a father of her newborn son Lil' Ben (whom she and Daisy had named after her father's late father). Slowly, she began to mature as a more responsible leader, husband, and father. When Daisy left Barnyard in Back in Barnyard and was replaced by Abby, it is not known if Otis refused to fall in love with Abby since she had Daisy and Lil' Ben before. Otis can sometimes be quite arrogant and excessive. He was also quite susceptible as behind on an episode of Barnyard Abby & Veronica, while playing the ball with Abby, when he falsely panicked and asked Otis if there were times when a corpse on a nearby tree while pointing at him, Otis immediately believed his words and freaks with that, lose the game by getting hit by Abby's ball. Otis's appearance is a white ox with black spots, blue eyes, light pink snow and lips, and udders (despite being male). Once, after getting milk by attaching a machine to her udder, she became very thin because her body was shesed all her milk content, the milk. Pink udder is a leading feature of her large body, it is round and quite fat and has four nipples that can be shimpited out. Human disguise Among his many disguises in Back in Barnyard are newscaster Gill O'Malley (in The Big Barnyard Broadcast and Anchor Cow), political expert Ned Bovine (in Otis for Mayor), golfer Heifer Woods (punning off Tiger Woods in Cowdyshack), property agent Dick Human (in Bling My Watch), or Bob Notacow (in Bling My Barn). Otis has a superhero alter-ego as Cowman. Once, she has also gone as far as dressing in drag as a woman to prove that girls have ease in episodes of Some Like It's Snotty. Trivia Although male biology, Otis has udder like other male oxen. In fact, only female oxen have udders, not bulls. The reason all the male oxen are designed like this in francais is because Steve Oedeckerk assumed that the towns people thought that all the oxen would look like this. Otis can make milk from its udder, which can be used for drinking and attacking purposes. Also, it is a foreign weakness. Otis sometimes forgets how to spell his name. Otis was called Oaty by Maddy. Otis and Pig have come in a pioneering episode of Planet Sheen. Wikipedia Reference Gallery lists the characters that appeared in nickelodeon's animated series Back in Barnyard and the 2006 film Barnyard. Otis Otis's main characters (voiced by Chris Hardwick (series); Kevin James (film) is an ox who is the leader of the barnyard. Although a grown man, he takes no mistake in being called an ox, unlike Peck, who is offended when someone calls him a chicken and thinks chickens will be more respectful. This discrepancy is not explained in this series. Otis is a great party animal and enjoys nothing with action or action and enjoys watching sports bloopers. Unlike real oxen, he can voluntarily milk from his udders. In the episode Cowman and Ratboy, Otis becomes a superhero named Cowman. He also appeared as Cowman in Cowman's one-hour special, Uddered Avenger. Some of the other aliases are Professor Exposition, political expert Ned Bovine, news expert Gil O'Malley, golfer Heifer Woods (punning off famous golf star Tiger Woods) along with many other human disguises, and in a special Christmas offering, we learn he went to high school with two Santa Claus' reindeer, Donner and Blitzen He also played a lot of pranks on farmer Nora Beady's neighbours. Otis makes a cameo in the pioneering episode Planet Sheen together with Pig. Pip Pip (voiced by Jeff Garcia) is a great mouse, gray, cage that speaks to mexican akmal a little and often ride on the shoulders of his good friend Otis. He had a crush on Bessy, a palatable and synth cow of Abby's best friend, but she always pushed it. Pip's superhero ego is Ratboy, Cowman's sidekick. Pips don't usually engage with Crazy Scheme as much as Freddy, Peck, Pig, etc., but still, he usually comes along for the ride. Pip's human impersonation makes people question him, for which other animals say 'He's the smallest man in the world!'. Abby Abby (voiced by Leigh Allyn Baker) is a calf cow. Abby is also very athletic, allergic to petunias, has an obsessive-compulsive addiction to organizing, and loves cats. For some reason, he replaced Daisy. Pig Pig (voiced by Tino Insana) is a dirty, fat pig and is the only character in the show to be named after its own species. He is very gluttonous and will eat anything, and he does so uncontrollably. In some episodes, Pigs has multiple segments on a show that often disrupts episodes in the most important part, with some memorable segments being Viewer Mail, Ask Dr. Pig, the makeover segment and Hollywood: Fact or Fiction?, which serves as a filler time when the episode story is a little shorter than its air time. Pigs have a strong, but rather strange, love for unicorns, and he wishes one in Christmas specials, and even animals in barnyard to dress and impersonate humans most times. He had a pet sink named Skunky, and in one episode he was shown for a ignition in an angel tenor. In another episode, after Pigs sits in pip's hands, it leaves a sign, and animals believe that he is related to Prince Fripplehoot's pet pig, telling by a crown-shaped birthmark on his back and therefore royal, but the stuck pig turns to him. His superhero name is Mr Hamtastic. Pigs make cameo in a pioneering episode of Planet Sheen along with Otis. Freddy Freddy (voiced by Cam Clarke) is a very funny ferret, but dim-witted (though he more closely resembles a waddling kangaroo) who befriends The Peck, a rooster he often tempts to eat; he used to be a carnivore, but then he became a vegetarian to assimilate to the barnyard. However, in several occasions in the series, Freddy has shown gestures or tried to eat Peck, but every time when he tries, his attempts are eliminated, either intentionally or accidentally. He is a letter, and suffers from paranoid delusions and has multiple personality disorders. It's noticeable how Freddy is the only character who is almost banned from barnyard twice for a crime he has never committed. Also, he is a character who has been struck by lightning several times throughout the series, but once, he temporarily became a genius after being attacked. Superhero name Is a Paranoid Man. Peck Peck (voiced by Rob Paulsen), is a clever, but weak chicken who is good friends with Freddy and seems to be not aware of Freddy's repeated desire to eat it. He was regarded as a very exposed misfortune. Peck seems to share a bit of competition with Root, the larger, braver rooster in the barnyard, as in Pecky Suave, where we learn that Peck is shown to crush on a beautiful henning named Hanna. Peck's superhero name is The Green Rooster. The Duke of Duke (voiced by Dom Irrera) is a sheep boundary clash responsible for a sculpture of smart sheep farmers. The Duke clearly did not match the intellect belonging to the sheep he was flocking to. Duke likes to be a leader and take care of things, although no other animal wants him to be a leader because he is too unscrupulous. This was first shown in the film after Ben, the leader of the barnyard, was murdered and Duke wanted to take his position as leader, but no other animal except his fellow dogs and cats, wanted him to take Ben's place and wanted Otis instead. In the series, Duke fanned himself as Barnyard's unofficial security inspector and turned the barnyard into a dull security film once every year. The Duke only enjoys dog activity, such as playing balls, so he doesn't hang around with Otis and his colleagues a lot, and as a result, sometimes feels lonely and dropped. Bessy Bessy (voiced by Wanda Sykes) is a sombol and coarse brown cow that has a tendency to scream and good friend Abby. He's not afraid to tell like that. He also knows how to draw a prank. Bessy found Otis a child constraint and was idiotic, so she lived by insulting her and assaulting her. Pip is in love with Bessy, but she always rejects it, even taking advantage of this sometimes. Bessy is also seen implicating other animals, such as Freddy. He also disguised himself very little and did not participate in Otis' plans. He has a son floating away with balloons at the county fair. What he needs to remember him by is cowbell, which, strangely, Otis has. In addition, he is the principal of Barnyard School and a barn court judge. Mrs Beady Noreen Nora Beady (voiced by Maria Bamford), better known as Mrs Beady, is a housewife who lives close to her barnyard. He realizes that animals can speak, and regularly try to expose their antics to the world. He is neurotic and has become infiltrate by dismantling animals, which mischief often harms him. But no one else believes in him because others think he is crazy, and every time he tries to expose the talking animal, animals always find a way to bootbooting his plans. In the pilot episode, it was revealed that Nora was Eugene's aunt, another enemy of the animal. Farmer Farmer Buyers (voiced by Fred Tatasciore) is the owner of a barnyard vegan that Otis cares deeply. However, when animals need some time only to work on private projects (the films they try to make, the theme parks they tried to build, etc.), which didn't stop them from trying to drive him with a prank phone call. In the film, every time he sees or suspects animals have mental abilities like humans, he is always kicked unconscious by Miles. Snotty Boy Eugene Snotty Boy Goldner (voiced by Oedeckerk) is a small antagonist at Barnyard and a secondary antagonist Back in Barnyard. He is the nephew of Nora and Nathan Beady and a cousin of Phlegmy Boy. Snotty Boy's uncle and babysit aunt he was when his parents dropped him, much to Nathan's disappointment. Snotty Boy is dim-witted, meaning spiteful, selfish, damaged, unpleasant, greedy, dishonest, bratty, and obnoxious. He enjoys torturing animals, his best friends, and Mr. Goldner, who are the basis of hatred by them. However, he only bullied his uncle when Mrs Goldner wasn't around. She was also rude towards her parents and often mocked them as well. Mr. Beady's recurring character Nathan Randall Beady III (voiced by Steve Oedeckerk), better known as Mr Beady, is Mrs Beady's miserable husband trying to convince his wife that the animals don't speak out. Mrs Beady often called her Mr. Lump as she always sat on a chair watching TV and rejecting everything Mrs Beady said about the barn animals talking. He was also shown miserable semi-constantly, on several occasions seeking death. She was mostly seen with Drinks in her arms that looked either Soda or Beer. Sheep Of Sheep (voiced by Chris Hardwick, Leigh-Allyn Baker, Cam Clarke, Rob Paulsen and Jeff Bennett) always mingle together in a close and smarter flock than the Duke. They often cite well-known literature and make declining comments towards dukes. They seem very intelligent and philosophical even when raised to their farms. Etta Etta (voiced by Leigh-Allyn Baker (series); Andie MacDowell (film) is Maddy's main hen and mother. He used to be Ben's best friend. The Jersey Cows The Jersey Cows are Eddy, Igg and Bud (voiced by S. Scott Bullock, Maurice LaMarche and John DiMaggio), 3 cows that enjoy human pranking and dislike having rules. Eddy is the leader of 3 cows. They were seen in the Episode of Cow Night Out and Mother Otis, and even had cameo appearances in several other episodes as well. Everett Everett (voiced by Lloyd Sherr) is the farmer's old blood. The elderly dog first appeared in the film, in which she celebrated her 13th birthday, making it 91st in the dog years. As the oldest animal in Barnyard, Everett is described as droopy and thin as his own skeleton, which can be seen easily. Everett used pedestrians to get around, except when he played the instrument, and never spoke, but in very few episodes, he spoke. In an episode, it was revealed that he used to be an explorer and he was a good fighter when he shield the corn from the clogg. Skunky Skunky by Rob Paulsen) is a pig pet skull considered a good friend, much to Otis chagrin, as seen in Amok Pigs. In Doggleganger, it was revealed he hated Duke. He appeared in Snotty's New Animal, where Pigs threw it through a window to crush Snotty. Snotty. appears in later episodes. Tony Twocheeks Tony Twocheeks (voiced by Rob Paulsen) is a gopher entrepreneur living near Barnyard. He often confuses those who buy from him. She has hair like Elvis, sunglasses, and is sometimes seen chewing teeth. He never appeared in Season 2, possibly erratic by Chubs Malone as mentioned in Otis Eleven. Vet The Vet (voiced by Audrey Wasilewski and Julia Sweeney) is a female vet called upon to give the animals a check-up. Many animals fear him, because of the pain he raises every time he does physically. However, unlike Snotty Boy, she is clear to the suffering of her patients through, and actually loves animals. She appeared in just four episodes: Dead Cow Walking, Snotty's Day Out, Doggleganger, and Dream Birthday. Animals (and sometimes people) fear its inspections. Farmer's buyers also seem to hold a secret affection for the Vet, as seen in Dream Birthday. Root Root (voiced by Nathaniel Stroman) is Peck's rival. She hosts weekly talent shows in the barn. Baxter Baxter Baxter (voiced by Kevin McDonald) is a small white dog with a pointed ear that became a Duke nemesis after he met him at an animal clinic in the Doggleganger episode. He impersonated the Duke with the help of black spray paint to give him spots and signs like the Duke. While Baxter seems to be deviant, he may have the owner to be able to afford medical care. She made two more appearances, first as The Duke's successor in Barnyard, and then tried to marry sister Duke, Stamp, only to the fact she was second in line to a relatively priceless collection of bones, then tricked by the Duke-Dress Marriage into Married Baxter to get the truth out. Buck Buck is a brown horse living in a barnyard that has terrible anger and depicts Otis. In an episode of Some Like It Snotty where Otis dressed as a girl to prove they had an easier life than boys and eventually became temporary girlfriend Snotty Boy, Buck also dressed as a girl. Bigfoot Bigfoot (voiced by Dee Bradley Baker), who started out in Otis vs Bigfoot is a myth of reporting ape creatures that are in love with Abby and want to stay in Barnyard, but choose to go. He has been seen in several episodes since as a small character, such as a judge in Barnyard Idol, a mayoral candidate in Otis for Mayor and also a singer. He also tricked people into thinking he was dying, but the animals later found it was a publicity stunt Keep the paparazzi away from him. Apparently, Bigfoot can also fly and has its own theme song similar to Gamera. In various episodes, it is shown that he is afraid of lightning photography. Goat is a brown gray goat known for giving rides to Otis (i.e. The Great Sheep Escape, The Chronicles of Barnia). Goats have also played saxophone and also advised others. Other. Twins The Pizza Twins (voiced by Rob Paulsen and Steve Oedeckerk) are twin pizza delivery boys who first appeared in original films and work for Siren Pizza and often delivered pizzas to barnyard. The duo were very unwise and every time they managed to carry out the task (either good or bad) they chanted their famous line, Doodle-doo-doo doo.. Hilly Burford Hilly Burford (voiced by John DiMaggio) is a news anchor of the series that is also a judge in Do You Get It?, serves as Santa Claus in It's a Uderful Life and hosts the Trivia Cash A-Ding-Dong game show in the episode, A Beautiful Freddy. His voice and characterisation are a tribute to Will Ferrell's notion of an old baseball announcer Harry Caray. O'Hanlon Frederick officer Fred O'Hanlon (voiced by John DiMaggio) is a local police officer who first appeared in the film. In the Chain Gang he served as a prison warden for budget cuts. She teamed up with Mrs Beady to catch Bigfoot in Otis vs Bigfoot. Jessica Allspice Jessica Allspice (voiced by Maria Bamford) is a celebrity pop diva and featured as a judge on the show Do You Get It? His catchphrase is, I want to party with you. He is spoof Jessica Simpson. Joey, Macy's and Boiling Three children were in Barnyard who went to school, where Peck was a teacher. They are Joey the cow (voiced by Rob Paulsen), Macy's sheep (voiced by Maile Flanagan) and Boiled Chicks (voiced by Chris Hardwick). Max Fripplehoot's guest character Max Fripplehoot (voiced by Maurice LaMarche) is a man rich in hot tempias, which appears in an episode of Chez Pigs, where he tries to buy pig truffle pie recipes. But animals refused in the end. In his next appearance, Pigmalion, he was a prince living in the palace with his pigs, Aubrey and Max. When they passed the remaining Pigs in the palace, he gave Otis papers that would give him the custody of pigs. When Otis will sign them, the Pig produces a large burp that knocks it out cold and the pig brings it back to the limo. Bingo Bingo (voiced by Mark DeCarlo) is a monkey test pilot who appears in the episode of The Right Cow. He crashed into a barnyard with his spacecraft, and he tried to get rid of Otis so he could become barnyard leader. In the end, he blasted into outer space aboard the spacecraft, vowing to return. Mr. Jinx A ventriloquist dummy made by Otis so Freddy could find talent, but then meant things to animals and allowed Freddy to take the blame. He was from being defeated by Freddy, and that dummy is controlled by armour that wants revenge on Otis for destroying a tree that is their home. McStinky's foolish Silly Chief McStinky (voiced by Jeff Bennet) is the name that Snotty Boy gave to his pet snake. He is seen in one episode, Snotty's New Pet, where Snotty catches Pip and plans to feed Pip to the snake. But finally the snake snake befriended him when realizing Pip was the only one who loved it. Juanita Juanita (voiced by Grey DeLisle) is a woman, a trapeze artist. He was spotted in the Big top Barnyard on tightness. In Bling My Barn, in the restaurant. Chubbs Malone Chubbs Malone (voiced by Mark DeCarlo) is head of the Gopher Underground store. At Otis Eleven it was mentioned that he took Tony Twocheeks on a fishing trip but Tony never returned, leading to speculation that he espoused Tony Twocheeks. He maliciously tried to take over the barn by cheating to win the Fizzbin game and made the night of the gophers party spot. But when Otis saved his life from a fallen anvil, Chubbs felt grateful and gave back the barn to the animals. Krouser Krebs Krouser Krebs (voiced by Thomas F. Wilson) is a duck bully from Otis's famous childhood for making Otis squirt milk on himself. He only appeared in bold Udders. He just wanted to apologise to Otis until Otis's friends were angry and made Krebs attack them mercilessly. He left barnyard to apologise to warthog across the city and in the anger of fellow Otis attacked him. Hanna Hanna is a crushing chicken Peck. Peck repeatedly tried to talk to him in the episode but he was always too embarrassed when approaching him. Wild Mike Wild Mike is an animal of an uninfermented type, usually stored in a crate. He looks like a giant troll or hairball with his arms and legs. When released from the crate, she danced and caused all the animals around her to dance with her. He first appeared in the film Barnyard, but was never introduced in a television series until the episode of Wild Mike's Dance Party, in which he was voiced by Rob Paulsen. Veronica Veronica is a wonderful femme fatale and abby cousin who appears in an episode of Abby and Veronica, who, according to Abby, was a tomboy during childhood but appears to have dropped any nature of the masculine personality but still seems to be as good a fighter as abby has described her like before her visit. In this episode, Veronica separates all the men in the barnyard to take a diamond for her from a nearby jewel mine, but Abby, knowing many perils of that particular mine, betraying herself in the hope of achieving more beautifully than Veronica, so she can convince all the male animals (especially Otis) that her brother has deceived himself in the hope of achieving more beautifully than Veronica, so he can convince all the male animals (especially Otis) that his brother has deceived himself to cancel any plans Bill Bill is a bull rival and Otis. He appears in several episodes, as a wrestling member in one, and as a crazy cow in another. In the film he used to be a throwaway elephant a male riding a mechanical man. Dr. Filly Dr. Filly (parody dr. Phil) is a horse psychiatrist. In Morning Dr. Filly, the animal hired him to cure Peck and Freddy argues, but he appeared to make things worse. It was later revealed that this was not a real Dr. Filly and vice versa, it was her former patient, ass named Chip, who likes to impersonate him. Shmoozy Shmoozy is a whale that appears in an episode of Free Shmoozy. Animals freed Shmoozy from the park but they eventually became swallowed by whales. At the end of the episode the animal found that Shmoozy was just cifesting and had no purpose to eat them. Shmoozy speaks whale language, so only Freddy understands it. Mr. Wiggleplex's Mr Wiggleplex is an invisible hedgehog that appears in an episode of Mr. Wiggleplex. He is a friend of pigs, but because he is invisible, everyone else thinks he is the imaginary partner of Pigs. In the episode, Pig believes that Otis accidentally killed Mr. Wiggleplex, but in the end, when the spill flour covered it, he became visible and exposed alive. Strange Al Yankovic Strange Al Yankovic (described as a talking horse and voiced by himself) is Bessy's famous accomplice. Yankovic is seen in the episode, Get Bessy. Canadian Crows A bunch of mischievous crows from Canada who enjoy stealing barnyard corn. They spoke to a French acronym. Stamp (voiced by Nika Futterman) is the Duke sister who appears in Love Dogs. He was seen dating Baxter, but it was revealed that Baxter didn't love him, only his precious possession. Prunella Prunella (voiced by Grey DeLisle) is an ass that appears in an episode of Hickory Dickory Donkey and uses Pip as a fake boyfriend to make her real boyfriend, Thor jealous. Plucky Plucky is the Tyrannosaurus rex that stars in Plucky and Me. His roar is equivalent to a T. rex roar from Jurassic Park. Aubrey and Max Aubrey and Max (voiced by Paul Greenberg and Rob Paulsen) are the characters in Back in Barnyard. They are relatives of different pigs who only appear in Pigmalion as the main antagonists. At one point they want pigs to act real meaning to his friends and they end up accepting Pigs to go live in the palace. Unfortunately, only Pigs are allowed but not his friends. Before Otis can sign Pig care to Fripplehoot, Pigs send large belch (which destroys California). Aubrey and Max rejected it and left Barnyard. Otis asked why he did that and Pig responded he was already living a good life with his best friends. Bernard Phlegmy Boy Beady Bernard Phlegmy Boy Beady is a character in Back in Barnyard. He was one of nora's nephews and Nathan Beady and an older Snotty Boy cousin who only appeared in Snotty and Snottier as the main antagonists. They have Snotty Boy tied Phlegmy Boy into the barn so he could beat. Otis brought Mrs Beady to the enclosure and saved Snotty Boy from the wrath of Phlegmy Boy. Phlegmy Boy sent off to his parents and was forbidden to visit ever again. Daisy Daisy's only film characters (voiced by Courteney Cox) are Otis' love interests in the film. She later gave birth to a calf and named it Lil' Ben after Otis' late father, and because daisy's husband Daisy possibly killed after a tornado blew daisy and Bessy's flock, Otis became Baby Ben's adoptive father. In this series, Daisy is replaced entirely by Abby, who is more of a tomboy. No mention of Daisy or her son Ben coming in this series. Ben Ben (voiced by Sam Elliott) is the former leader of Barnyard. In the film, he is killed by a group of evil coyotes. She was Otis's adoptive father, who brought her in when she found him in the meadow as a baby. He's more assertive than Otis, who enjoys partying. Daisy also named her baby calf after her at the end of the film. Ben is only mentioned on the show once in an episode of Big Top Barnyard, in which Otis says he once took her to sarcasm as a child. Dag Dag (voiced by David Koehnner) is a maroon coyote and the main antagonist in the original Barnyard film. He was the leader of a large pack of wild coyotes living in a local yard and a victim in a local farm. Dag and his pack catch some chickens, but under Otis's leadership, the animals can free chickens and terrifie all coyotes. Otis, after murmuring to pound Dag and ordering him never to return, then proceeds to swing Dag out of the junkyard using his golf skills. Dag and his pack were never mentioned in this series. Miles Miles (voiced by Danny Glover) is an old kulat who is Ben's best friend. When Ben dies, Miles is crucial to Otis's mentor helping him hold the leadership position and defeat the coyotes. He was never mentioned in the offering, although he can be seen in the theme song. Maddy Maddy (voiced by Madeline Loney) is a young chick who plays with Otis. She troubles her mother etta a little to look after because she often travels from her family. No mention of him is made in this series, although he can be seen in the theme song. Biggie Cheese Biggie Cheese is a rapper who appears for a few minutes. He sang the song Boombastic by Shaggy. Coyotes The Coyotes are Dag's henchmen and secondary antagonists in the original Barnyard film. In the end, they were scared by Otis's friends.
